The finest palace in India, a country famed for its palaces, is Government House, the home of the British viceroy in New Delhi, says Collier's. Costing $13,000,000 and requiring 15 years to build, this two-storied residence contains 340 rooms, 14 elevators, 227 columns, 35 loggias and 37 fountains.

First Movies an Accident

About 60 years ago, Governor Leland Stanford, of California, bet $25,000 that a horse at full speed took all four feet off the ground at once. To prove his theory, he employed Edward Muybridge, a photographer, to record on film a series of pictures of The Engineer, one of Stanford's thoroughbreds, galloping. It took Muybridge six months to co-ordinate horse and cameras.

He put the series of pictures in a stack, and later, while thumbing through them, saw to his amazement The Engineer running as the pictures flipped.

Muybridge's discovery started experiments by Thomas Edison and others on the best method of recording motion on film.

SPAGHETTI?
What's Happened To Yours, Mussolini?

GONE to feed Nazi soldiers? Something's wrong with that picture, Mussolini. Maybe you did start out with ideals, but you got into bad company.

We have spaghetti in America—plenty of it. We send some abroad to the United Nations. We also send great quantities of tomato juice, fruits, vegetables, meats . . . and still have enough left for the home front.

Yes, it's a job. We've never tried to feed half the world before and some equipment is lacking. Our food-canning industry is taxed to the limit. But we have the finest women in the world, Mussolini; they're fighting this war with kettles and spoons, pressure cookers and home-canning jars . . . preserving food at home, each for her own family. You see, it not only means a low food cost and a balanced diet—it means that commercially-canned foods can be loaded on hundreds of "food ships" for our fighting sons and brothers.

That's typical of America, Mussolini—this nation of weaklings. Come over and learn a lesson.

Concerts—No Audiences

In Naubat Hall in Bidar, India, a group of hereditary musicians still play five concerts daily, following a 400-year-old custom of their ancestors, despite the fact that they have no audience and that the fortress has been deserted and in ruins for a number of years.

Are You Needlessly Suffering Constipation?

Many people think that constipation is "one of those things" you must put up with. That the only thing you can do is take a purge or cathartic—and hope it doesn't come soon again. How foolish that is if you, like millions of others, have the ordinary kind of constipation that's due to lack of "bulk" in the diet.

Kellogg's All-Bran is probably just what you need! This crisp, delicious cereal has the "bulk"-forming properties your intestines need to function "regularly"! It gets at the cause of your trouble and corrects it — helps you get back to normal, easy elimination. Eat All-Bran regularly, drink plenty of water, and help free yourself from constipation. All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, it's wise to see a doctor.

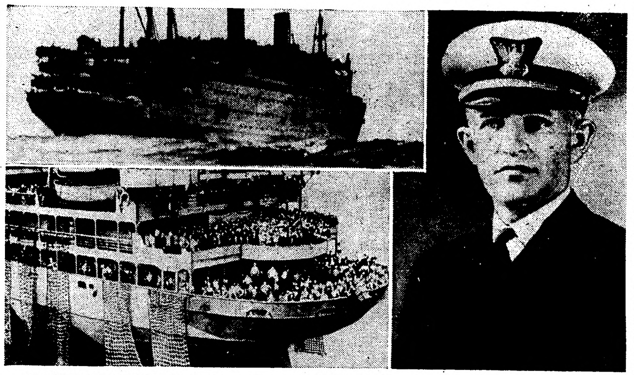
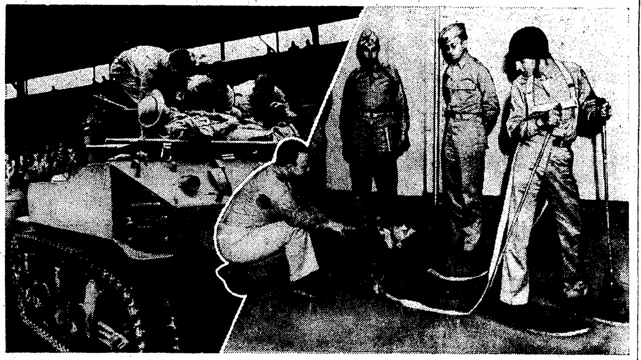
U. S. Transport 'Wakefield' Burns at Sea



The former luxury liner, Manhattan, now a naval transport ship and renamed the Wakefield, caught fire and was severely damaged at sea. More than 1,600 passengers and crew members were removed without loss of life by U. S. warships in the convoy. In the upper left the Wakefield is shown at sea, and at right is its commander, H. G. Bradbury. In lower left, passengers and crewmen are shown jammed on rear decks awaiting rescue. Notice the rope nets which were used to climb to the deck of rescue vessel. (Navy photos.)

Unsung Heroes of Medical Corps Play Important Role



One of the most ticklish jobs which men of the U. S. army medical corps are called upon to undertake is the removal of wounded men from the inside of tanks. The method of this removal may mean life or death to the casualty. At the left you see trainees from the medical corps field service school at Carlisle, Pa., engaged in the task. The man has been successfully removed through the tank turret and is being placed on a stretcher atop the tank. At right you see a demonstration of a method of transforming a pair of skis into a smooth-running litter for transporting a wounded man over the snow.

Commando Tactics at Harding Field, La.

Soldiers are undergoing a special training course in Commando tactics at Harding Field, La. Here we see a soldier about to leave the jumping tower and dive into a blazing pool of water. The soldiers are taught to swim with a modified breast stroke, splashing water in front of them to protect them from the flames. The tower from which they leap is 20 feet high, the approximate distance of a transport's deck from the water. In case of a torpedoing, the soldiers would have to dive into the flaming water with their full packs and swim for shore.

Jewish Years

The Jewish calendar has years of six different types, owing to the harmonious arrangement of festivals, etc., says Collier's. Thus a defective year has 353 days, a regular year 354 days and a perfect year 355 days; and a month is added to each when it is a leap year. Hence this new year, which is 5703 and began on September 12, 1942, will contain 383 days because it is a defective leap year.

THEY ASKED FOR IT...

LET'S LET 'EM HAVE IT!

Here's a scrap we stay-at-homes can all get into. Uncle Sam's calling for action on the home front. That's what we've been waiting for, isn't it?

If you're an average sort of town family you're supposed to have 100 pounds of scrap metal lying around your premises—scrap that will do a real job in a torpedo.

If you're a typical sort of farm family you've got something like 1,000 pounds of idle scrap—enough to make a considerable mess in Herr Hitler's back yard.

Talk about "second fronts"! From fields, attics, parks, cellars, backyards, garages, alleys, shops, kitchens, closets, will come... screws, bolts, nuts, keys, iron fences, ancient cannon, hair pins, coat hangers, town water towers, abandoned bridges, machinery, tools, pipe, auto parts—anything and everything made of iron and steel.

Give 'em the works—and don't make the mistake of thinking you can't do it! You will be surprised how much you can dig up when you swing into action. There's that old hot water tank you thought you might use some day. Right now you've got the most important job for it you'll ever find!

Our boys at Manila, Wake and Midway didn't say "Can't." The Russians hung on grimly to Sevastopol until after 50,000 tons—more than thirteen 100-car train loads of metal and explosives—were hurled at them!

No mistaking, it will take a lot of cold steel—and hot steel—to tame that gang of international brigands we're tangling with. And that iron and steel is needed NOW—every pound of it we can dig up.

The all-out battle for metal begins October 1. Sure you'll volunteer, and be one of the first to turn in your quota!

And remind your neighbor, too.

They asked for it... Let's let 'em have it.

WHY SCRAP IS SO IMPORTANT

First—Scrap iron and steel is needed in the process of making new steel from iron ore.

Second—A pound of scrap metal melted together with a pound of pig iron (made from iron ore) produces nearly two pounds of new steel.

Railroads are breaking all records in getting tremendous quantities of iron ore from the mines in northern Minnesota to the boats on Lake Superior. The Great Northern Railway alone is moving nearly one-third of all of the iron ore that is being consumed by the roaring steel furnaces of the Nation.

But iron ore is not enough!

Scrap metal is the urgent need!

The production of tanks, guns, shells, ships, etc., for our fighting forces is slowing up because of lack of scrap metal.

Our Commander-in-Chief has appealed to every American to search out and turn in the last ounce of scrap metal from his home, business and farm.

★ You'll find full information about how to dispose of your scrap metal in your newspaper. Every county, city and town will have scrap collections. Whether you sell your scrap to a junk dealer or donate it to some organization that has enlisted in the scrap round-up, your scrap will get into the fight! From out-grown safety pins to worn-out-tractors, let's shoot the works!

Selective Service Director Hershey said the size of the Army this year has been increased from the 4,500,000 total announced as the 1942 objective by Chief of Staff Marshall in June. Gen. Hershey said he expected married men with children would be called "the last quarter of 1943 at the very earliest, but I would like to hedge to the extent that the Army's requirements may go up;" 18 and 19-year-olds must be drafted next year, or "1,000,000 or 1,500,000 family men" will be taken; and it is expected unmarried men with dependents will be called this year.

Misses Winnifred Larson, Kathleen Gordon, Margurite Lee Marian Backlund, Sylvia Sandberg, Marilyn Movick and Rev. Hanson attended the Choral Union rehearsal at Trinity Church at Thief River Falls on Thursday evening of last week. The Choral Union will sing in St. Hilaire on Sunday afternoon.

"...A SHARP ENEMY ATTACK WAS REPULSED DURING THE NIGHT..."

TODAY'S war communiques have a familiar ring to the men of your Electric Company. For years, they've been fighting cyclones, sleet, snow, lightning and other natural enemies... 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

When real war came, your Electric Company was ready. Ready for day and night duty, ready to keep lines hot with plenty of electricity to power war industries... as well as all the electricity you need in your home.

The plentiful supply of electricity in this community isn't a coincidence... it is a result of careful planning by men who know their job. They know their job because they have learned it the hard way—the American Way—from the ground up.

Proved practical business management has given you the best possible electric service. It is the reason why in this community you now have all the electricity you desire. It is the reason the average home here enjoys all the comforts of modern electric living... for less than ten cents a day.

Kidneys Must Work Well-
For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

Erratic Currents

Sometimes natural electric currents are so erratic over one area that they will disrupt telegraphic service, while they are so intense and steady over another that they may be used to send messages without the aid of other power, says Collier's.

An outstanding exhibit of this phenomenon occurred on September 2, 1859, when these currents alone were used to transmit telegrams for two hours over the 100-mile line between Boston and Portland, Maine.

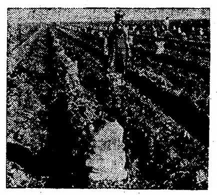
U. S. '42 Farm Output Planned to Fill Needs

AAA Authorities Say Two Records Broken This Year



Harvest like this of potatoes on the C. A. Brown farm of Dallam county, Texas, have been planned in advance in order to insure the right amounts of the right products to fill anticipated needs of the U. S. and United Nations.

Farmers from Maine to California will chalk up two history-making achievements when their 1942 harvests are in, according to the United States department of agriculture.

American farms this year will produce more than any nation in all time and, for the first time, the nation's total farm output will be planned to fill needs determined in advance.

This double-barreled record will be the American farmer's ringing answer to the challenge of war.

The great harvest will consist of the right amounts of the right products to fill anticipated needs of the United States and the United Nations.

These goals have been broken down into goals for states, counties and individual farms for farmers to shoot at.

Goals have been used for years by AAA for basic crops. But this year ALL crops have goals to insure abundant Food for Freedom. The food will make America strong, feed her Allies' soldiers and civilians and create reserves of such easily stored concentrated products as cheese, evaporated milk, dried eggs and canned fruits and vegetables.

Export commodities will be an important part of the output. Lend-lease pork purchases, excluding lard, have already exceeded the equivalent of 11 million hogs. Egg-drying capacity has been expanded from 50 million to 300 million pounds annually.

Exports alone for the current fiscal year are expected to require more than twice as much acreage as in 1941.

A. C. A. A. Photo.

Another view of the same Brown farm showing still more potatoes which will soon be on the way to hungry Yanks, hard working armament workers, and Allies throughout the world.

When Pearl Harbor suddenly cut off all imports from the Far East, the 1942 production goals established as the original Food for Freedom goals were jacked up. Revised goals call for one-fifth more production than the average of the 1930s and 5½ per cent more than in the record year of 1941.

Last fall, after war needs had been canvassed, more than 135,000 AAA farmer committeemen, under the direction of USDA war boards, began calling on farmers to see what they could do to meet heavy war demands.

Virtually every farmer in the United States was given an opportunity to pledge all-out war effort on his farm by controlling production of products not urgently needed for war and intensifying production of those in great demand.

Losses in the United States from livestock diseases and parasites are reported to be $267,500,000 a year.

The domestic wheat supply for 1942-43 marketing year is indicated at 1,524,000,000 bushels, or around 190,000,000 bushels above the record 1,331,000,000 bushels in 1941-42.

PREPAREDNESS by ✚ the AMERICAN RED CROSS

ASSISTANCE to members of the nation's fighting forces and their dependents is the primary duty of the Red Cross.

This obligation is set forth in the charter granted the American Red Cross by congress in 1905, and in the army and navy regulations. It is also stated in the present selective service regulations, which require all draft boards to refer questions concerning the welfare of selectees and their dependents after induction to the Red Cross.

Red Cross help to service men and their dependents takes two forms: In every army camp and with every American fighting unit anywhere a Red Cross field director is on the job. His duty is to help the service man with his problems and relieve him of worry over them.

In nearly every county in the United States is a local Red Cross chapter, with a home service worker. Its job is to help the service man's dependents, and relieve them, too, of worry and need.

Assistance to members of the armed forces may take the form of advising them or their dependents on government life insurance, allotments or pensions, and of helping them in filling out the necessary application forms.

The Red Cross may even help members of the service man's family in getting employment, emergency medical treatment, or it may grant them money to tide the family over until an allotment is actually received from the government.

The Red Cross is also the "Mr. Fixit" for the service man wherever he may be, whether on duty or on leave. It assists in getting extension of furloughs when necessary, and in making loans or other arrangements for visits home in cases of serious illness or death in the family.

REMOVE MAGAZINE HOLDER OR ARM REST
BROWN SATEEN, GREEN FRINGE AND BUTTONS-TUFT BY SEWING THROUGH ARMS, BACK AND CUSHION

DON'T throw away that frayed wicker chair for with a little expense in time and money it may be made to serve for the duration.

The sagging arm rest, magazine holder and frayed-out wicker around the legs should be removed. Cotton batting is then basted to muslin and sewn to the chair. The sateen cover for chair and cushion is made next. The tufting is done by sewing through cover, padding and openings in the wicker work with carpet thread and a long darning needle; adding a button at each stitch.

Unreliable Fingerprints

Despite the fact that fingerprints, unlike handwriting, do not indicate that their owner was conscious, sane, sober or even alive when they were made, the practice of accepting them in lieu of signatures on wills, deeds and other documents continues to grow steadily in this country.

Uncle Phil Says:

An Unnatural Liking

Success is attained not by doing the things we like, but by liking the things we have to do.

Perhaps the reason romance lasted longer in the old days was because the bride looked the same after washing her face.

When one will not, two cannot quarrel.

Pleasant Wishing

It is more consoling to wish that one were as young as those who value the ephemeral enjoyments of youth than to look contemptuously on youth that overestimates them.

If you wait too long for something to turn up, it may be your toes.

AROUND THE HOUSE

To make a gelatin dessert in layers divide jelly in three portions and put one portion in bottom of mold. When firm decorate, if desired, with candied cherries and cover with a second portion, beaten until light. When that is firm cover with a layer of plain jelly. Mold, chill, cut in slices and serve. The different layers may be colored pink and green.

It is a mistaken idea that cucumbers must be soaked in cold water for some time before serving to remove the poison in them. They are not poisonous. Slice them and cover with ice until ready to serve, then remove ice.

Dust is easily removed from reed furniture when a hose is used. Set furniture on the lawn when the sun is shining and play the hose on it.

To remove old wallpaper stir a quart of flour paste into a pail of hot water and apply the mixture to the walls. Being thick it will not dry quickly but will saturate the paper which may be easily scraped or peeled off.

To keep apples, bananas, fresh peaches or other salad fruits from darkening, cover the cut fruit with french dressing and store in the refrigerator. At serving time, mix them quickly with the other ingredients.

JUST JESTING

Ah, Why?

The minister was trying to teach the significance of "white" to a Bible school class. "Why," he said, "does a bride invariably desire to be clothed in white for her marriage?"

As no one answered, he explained: "White stands for joy, and the wedding day is the most joyful occasion of a woman's life."

A small boy queried: "Why do the men wear black?"

They say the biggest fool is the old fool. Well, he's had more time to practice.

Slight Error

Join The Scrap Salvage Drive

A most urgent appeal for all Marshall county residents to salvage scrap iron and other metals for the War Production effort was made today by Arvid Carlson, Middle River, Marshall county salvage chairman, who urges every resident to renew their efforts in rounding up their scrap this month.

Marshall county is in a statewide contest sponsored by the Minnesota Editorial Association in this October scrap campaign and will have an opportunity to receive a large silk ornamental U. S. Flag for bringing in the greatest volume of scrap metal per capita.

Marshall county can easily win this honor and have this beautiful flag on display in the Court House if every one of us takes the time to dig out this scrap now. Let's do it now and maintain the remarkable record we were able to achieve during the spring drive when we led the nation, said Mr. Carlson.

October is Salvage Month—we'll shower the Axis with the Scrap, Scrap and More Scrap from Marshall County.

Careful adjustment of oil burners (in homes where changeover to coal can't be made) can save up to 40 per cent of fuel bill, government experts say .... WPB cuts down on fats and oils for shortening, mayonnaise salad dressing, soap .... Limitation being 90 per cent of previous uses .... School children launch own scrap campaign in northwest October 5, forming junior salvage army .... Because of growers' increased costs, ceiling prices on dried apricots, pears, peaches, prunes, figs will raisie a little .... Still too many of us traveling on week ends, says ODT, urging travel planning to make use of mid-week facilities .... Those forgotten men in gray -convicts in state prisons - - are doing bit for war, too: government statistics show they're turning out bomb parts, engines, wood products, textiles, canned goods and agricultural machines in 100 prisons .... Government campaign to get out typewriters for use of military and official agencies gets under way directly - - expect to hear some magnanmimous offers by patriotic businessmen .... U. Buckler Endorses Hagen

"For eight years, Harold C. Hagen, as congressional secretary, has served me - and you - faithfully and well.

"In eight years of personal contact a person gets to know a companion and aide well. After eight years with Harold Hagen, I enthusiastically commend him to all voters of this district.

"Mr. Hagen has a remarkable grasp of affairs at the national capital. During his time with me he has made exhaustive use of his opportunity to become familiar with district and national affairs. He comes to you ready-made. His insight into Washington and the way of the legislative branches is equal to that of many congressmen who have served three and four terms.

"In addition, Mr. Hagen has been very popular in the national capital and has made valuable contacts in administrative, legislative and civil fields. These contacts will stand him well and will pay dividends to this district.

"Mr. Hagen stands where I stand on the farm question. His attitude and sympathy for the farmer and the "little fellow" are the same as mine. He knows the deal the farmer and the little fellow have been getting. He knows the Ninth district is a district of farmers and "little fellows." And he has the courage, and intelligence to fight their battles in the lower house.

"I believe the farmere' interests will be best served by the election of Harold C. Hagen to Csngress.

"Harold C. Hagen knows the "ropes". His heart and mind are right. Therefore, I urge you not only to vote for him but to actively support him.

Signed, R. T. Buckler,
Ninth District Representative in Congress.

FIGHTING FRENCH:
A Nod From Moscow

Soviet Russia became the first of the United Nations to recognize the "Fighting French" movement as "the only body entitled to organize participation of French citizens in the war," when it was announced from Moscow that Gen. Charles de Gaulle had been accepted as the sole representative of this group.

Thus the Vichy government of Pierre Laval and Marshal Henri Petain received its first official diplomatic slap in the face. It had been almost a year to the week before De Gaulle received the recognition he had been seeking from the United Nations. For late in September last year he organized the Fighting French as a political administration as well as a fighting force and through frequent appeals has sought to replace the Vichy government as the official agent of the French people.

This recognition by the Soviet came just two days after a Fighting French air unit arrived in Russia to fight on the eastern front against the Germans. Known as the Normandy squadron, this unit is being made a part of the Soviet air force.

WAR PRODUCTION:
Progress Report

"Right now," according to WPB Chairman Donald Nelson, "approximately 40 per cent of our entire production is going for war. By the middle of next year that proportion has got to be around 60 per cent." WPB Vice Chairman Knowlson issued a statement about the same time, in which he indicated that present war production is 3½ times that of ten months ago.

Said he: "We're beginning to recognize the truth of the situation, to know we've been behind the eight-ball."

An estimate from the commerce department revealed that the total output of machine tools during the calendar year 1942 would be about 350,000 units, or almost double last year's production. These would have a value of $1,400,000,000.

Another report, this one by the Maritime commission, showed that in the past 12-month period 488 ships, aggregating about 5,450,000 deadweight tons, had been completed and delivered. Of this total, 327 were Liberty ships.

This report, made to the President by Chairman Land of the commission, declared that: "Scheduled deliveries for the remaining months of 1942 should bring us to the 8,000,000-ton goal of your directive."

AIR OFFENSIVE:
Renewed in China

After a lull of almost a month, the American air force in China renewed activity against the Japanese with an attack on troop columns in southwest Yunnan province and a foray against Hanoi in French Indo-China.

A communique from Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced that 10 Jap troop trucks and a staff car were destroyed in the strafing attack along the highway between Lungling and Chefang by fighting planes. The raid at Hanoi was on the Gai Lam airport.

Brig. Gen. Claire Chennault, commander of American air forces in China, stated that French and natives of Indo-China were becoming less co-operative with the Japs as a result of American air successes. "Intelligence reports show that the French are disillusioned, though the Japanese are now all-powerful in Indo-China," Chennault said.

A new Japanese two-motored, two-seater fighting plane was encountered by Americans on the Hanoi raid. The plane, an I-45, was reported to be heavily armed with a 20-millimeter cannon and two 13-millimeter guns forward.

Still at It

The customer couldn't see eye-to-eye with the taxicab driver on the matter of fare. Finally he said in exasperation: "See here—I haven't been riding in cabs for ten years for nothing."

"No, but I'll bet you've been trying to," retorted the driver.

Nature has arranged that the brain shall be mapped out into definite departments, and overlapping is discouraged. One part of your brain deals with the sense of smell, another with the sense of sight, and so on. Roughly speaking, the right side of your brain governs the left side of your body, and vice versa.

By heredity and training you are right-handed? That means that the left side of your brain looks after your writing with your right hand. If the right side of your brain encouraged your left hand to write as well there would be waste of effort.

People who naturally can write equally well with right or left hand are seldom successful in life.

Laughing at Misfortune

We laugh heartily when our fellowman slips on a banana peel and awkwardly falls. That laughter shows, basically, our resentment at any demonstration of the unusual, coupled with a comfortable realization that we ourselves are outside the disaster. There is unconscious brutality, therefore, in laughing at the sight of a fat man chasing his hat in a high wind. Higher up the scale of humor there is brutality in wit, which almost always holds an element of cruelty.

PREPAREDNESS by the AMERICAN RED CROSS

AMERICAN service men fighting the nation's battles overseas are making American Red Cross clubs their favorite meeting place during leave periods.

The Red Cross clubs, established in nearly all the major overseas war theaters, are open to the enlisted men of the United Nations in addition to Americans, but the atmosphere of the clubs is typically American.

Such home country stand-bys as hotdogs, soft drinks, hamburgers, and ice cream made the American way, are regulars on the clubs' bills of fare. They may be obtained for a penny at the snack bars which are open throughout the day.

The clubs are staffed by trained Red Cross workers with the accent upon competent American girls specially selected for conducting an active recreational program in the clubs. The girls are attractive, too.

Typical of the clubs in the larger cities is the Red Cross Washington club located in the Mayfair section of London. Here service men may use luxurious lounge rooms, a dance room, and recreation rooms where ping pong and billiards are the popular games.

A large restaurant, capable of serving 600 men at one sitting, is maintained in the club, and dormitories large enough to house 1,200 men are contained in the club and adjacent dormitories. For bed and breakfast the Yank on leave in London pays 50 cents. He can get a piping hot lunch and supper for 20 cents each.

Prices charged by the Red Cross are below cost, the deficit being met through Red Cross funds. Officials of the American Red Cross were reluctant to make any charge for food or meals and did so only after Secretary of War Stimson requested that a nominal fee for such services be made since other United Nations clubs also charge.

The Red Cross club program is a new wartime service of the Red Cross which was requested by the war department. Red Cross clubs are the only ones operated for Americans on foreign soil.

All of the clubs in the larger cities maintain a Central Leave Information bureau where service men on leave may make inquiries as to what to see and do. Many of the club workers report that the service men most of all want to talk to American girls. They find the Red Cross club worker a mighty attractive confidante.

About 40 years ago, Emperor Menelik II of Ethiopia ordered three electric chairs from America when he learned that electrocution was the modern way to execute criminals, says Collier's. So for years, he used one as a royal throne.

ALL-BRAN FUDGE SQUARES—BEST YOU EVER TASTED!

Every mother in the land will want to bake these scrumptious cookies. Children will demolish a plate of them in a wink. Grown-ups rave about their "different" taste and new crunchy texture. They're made, of course, with the famous cereal, Kellogg's All-Bran.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN FUDGE SQUARES

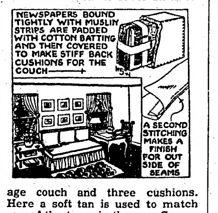
3 squares unsweetened chocolate	1 cup sugar
	¾ cup flour
	½ cup All-Bran
⅓ cup butter	½ cup nutmeats
2 eggs	1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Melt chocolate over hot water and add butter. Beat eggs well, add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Add melted chocolate and butter. Stir in flour, All-Bran, chopped nutmeats and flavoring. Pour into greased pan, making a layer about one-third inch thick. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) about 20 minutes. Yield: Sixteen 2-inch squares (8 x 8 inch pan).

ON THE HOME FRONT with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HERE is a way to give an old couch a new lease on life with style and comfort.

Start with 9½ yards of 36-inch-wide cotton twill to cover an average couch and three cushions. Here a soft tan is used to match one of the tones in the rug. Seams are accented with a second stitching, as shown. And there is no untidy slipping and sliding for this cover. The seam allowance around the top is sewn to the couch pad with long stitches of carpet thread. The cushions are made to stand erect by using an inside core of newspapers tightly bound together with muslin bands, and then padded with cotton batting.



NEWSPAPERS BOUND TIGHTLY WITH MUSLIN STRIPS ARE PADDED WITH COTTON BATTING AND THEN COVERED TO MAKE STIFF BACK CUSHIONS FOR THE COUCH

Tommy Had Followed The Cat Rather Closely

The teacher was attempting to explain the meaning of certain words to her class. She came to the word "sufficient."

"Now," she said brightly, "let us suppose there was a cat here and I gave it a saucerful of milk, which it drank. Then I gave it another saucerful, and it drank it all. But when I gave it a third saucerful it would only drink one-half of it. We can then say that the cat had had sufficient. Now, Tommy, what is the meaning of sufficient?"

"Please, teacher," replied Tommy, who had been eagerly attentive, "it means a catful of milk."

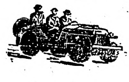
There's a... JEEP ...in your JUNK!



Yes, jeeps and subs and tanks and shells . . . the very things Uncle Sam needs desperately to win the war.

Every piece of unused steel or iron in your attic, cellar, garage or tool shed belongs in this nationwide scrap pile. The average city home has about 100 pounds of it, and the average farm has 1,000 pounds. No matter how small your contribution, no matter what condition it's in . . . IT CAN HELP WIN THE WAR!

Here's why scrap is so important:

Scrap iron and steel is needed in making new steel from iron ore.

A pound of scrap metal, plus a pound of pig iron (the product of iron ore) makes nearly TWO POUNDS OF NEW STEEL.

So you see, the iron scrap from your backyard is just as important as the iron ore from the nation's mines. BOTH are needed . . . URGENTLY needed . . NOW!

Start your search for scrap metal today . . . and don't overlook a single pound. When you have it all together, consult your local newspaper or contact your local salvage committee for details on the scrap collections in your community.

Get in the scrap . . . NOW! Remember, there may be a JEEP in your JUNK!

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of Minnesota

To be submitted at 1942 General Election

STATE OF MINNESOTA
LEGAL DEPARTMENT

J. A. A. BURNQUIST
Attorney General

St. Paul, Minnesota, January 20, 1942

Honorable Mike Holm
Secretary of State
State Capitol
St. Paul, Minnesota

Dear Sir:

In compliance with the provisions of the 1941 Supplement to Mason's Minnesota Statutes of 1927, Section 46, I make this statement of the purpose and effect of the amendments proposed to the constitution of Minnesota to be voted on at the November 3, 1942 general election in accordance with Laws 1941, Chapters 171 and 555.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER 1

By the enactment of Laws 1941, Chapter 171, the legislature has proposed an amendment to Article 8, Section 6, of the constitution.

This section now reads as follows:

"The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, and in first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands of this state. But no such investment or loan shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed 15 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall any farm loan or investment be made when such investment or loan would exceed 30 per cent of the actual cash value of the farm land mortgage to secure said investment, nor shall such investments or loans be made at a lower rate of interest than 3 per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five years, nor for a longer period than thirty years, and no change of the town, school district, city, village or of county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of issuing of such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

If amended as proposed by the legislature, this section will read as follows:

"The permanent school, permanent university and swamp land funds of this state may be loaned to or invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town, or village of this state and in first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands of this state, but no such investment or loan shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed 15 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the county, school district, city, town, or village issuing such bonds; nor shall any such farm loan or investment be made when such investment or loan would exceed 30 per cent of the actual cash value of the farm land mortgaged to secure said investment; nor shall such investments or loans be made at a lower rate of interest than two per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than one year nor for a longer period than 30 years and no change of the town, school district, city, village, or county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of issuing such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to reduce the rate of interest at which certain of the state's permanent trust funds may be loaned to, or invested in the bonds of any county, city, village, town, or school district in the state from three per cent per annum to two per cent per annum; also to reduce the minimum term for which such loans and investments may be made from five years to one year, and also to include the swamp land fund among the state's trust funds which may be so loaned and invested.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER 2

By the enactment of Laws 1941, Chapter 555, the legislature proposed an amendment to Section 36 of Article IV of the constitution and required its proposal to be stated on the ballot thus:

"Shall Article IV, Section 36, of the constitution be amended so as to simplify and reduce the expense of publishing amendments to home rule charters of cities and villages?"

The part of the section in which a change is proposed now reads as follows:

"• • • Such charter so deposited may be amended by proposal therefor made by a board of fifteen commissioners aforesaid, published for at least thirty days in three newspapers of general circulation in such city or village, and accepted by three-fifths of the qualified voters of such city or village voting at the next election and not otherwise; but such charter shall always be in harmony with and subject to the constitution and laws of the state of Minnesota • • •"

If amended as proposed by the legislature, the same part of this section will read:

"• • • Such charter so deposited may be amended by proposal therefor made by a board of fifteen commissioners aforesaid, published for at least once each week for four successive weeks in a legal newspaper of general circulation in such city or village, and accepted by three-fifths of the qualified voters of such city or village voting at the next election and not otherwise; but such charter shall always be in harmony with and subject to the constitution and laws of the state of Minnesota. • • •"

PURPOSE AND EFFECT

The purpose and effect of the proposed amendment is to require publication of amendments to home rule charters once each week for four (4) successive weeks in a legal newspaper of general circulation in such city or village instead of publication in three (3) newspapers of general circulation in such city or village for at least thirty (30) days as now required.

There are many cities and villages which do not have three local newspapers. In such cases, under the present provision, publication must be made in newspapers printed elsewhere and circulating locally. If the proposed amendment is adopted, publication will be required in only one (1) qualified newspaper four (4) times, thereby reducing the difficulty and expense of amending home rule charters.

Very truly yours,
J. A. A. BURNQUIST,
Attorney General.

Save Tin Cans For Salvage

The War Production Board has asked that we obtain tin cans from all sources including homes in localities where there are no tin salvage programs functioning. Consequently, the grocery stores will be designated as depositories or collection points for cans from the housewives and every means must be used to urge housewives to see that cans are properly prepared.

How to prepare tin cans for collection:

1. Wash cans thoroughly after emptying contents. Remove paper labels.

2. Open cans, bottoms and tops. You may bend in tops and, bottoms, or if you have completely removed ends, just insert them

3. Flatten cans by stepping on them. Leave enough space between flattened sides to see through them. Do not hammer them.

4. Keep your "prepared cans" in a suitable container, separate from thrash, until collection day or bring to your grocery store. Basket, box or barrel are suitable containers.

Important facts to help you:

All paint, oil varnish, floor polish, or cone-shaped cans are not wanted for salvage. Evaporated or condensed milk cans are notworth saving. Put these with your trash.

Coffee cans and others with painted on can labels are wanted.

It is not necessary to wash off the small amount of glue which holds on the labels.

Be Patriotic:

Keep these instructions in your kitchen for handy reference.

Here's how you can make a real contribution to winning the war. Collect all your scrap rubber, paper, manilla rope, burlap bags - - all the discarded metal gathering rust and dust around your honse and farm. There's urgent need for every bit of your old junk. So round it up, then do one of these things - - give it to charity, sell it to a junk man - - take it to your farm implement dealer - - or take it to any place where you see the official red, white and blue Salvage Depot sign. Throw your scrap into the fight.

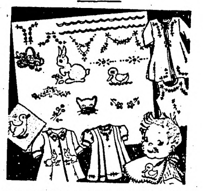
Cunning Designs for The Baby's Layette



MOTIFS for baby dominate this transfer—in fact, the entire transfer is devoted to baby. There are sprays of dainty embroidery just right for wee dresses, slips or gertrudes and the scallop patterns might come in handy here also. Ronald, the duck, rides a ric rac wave as bib decoration, or perhaps he'd make a playsuit pocket along with Whiskers, the cat. A cute bunny rabbit is also for appliqueing, and last but not least is Paddlefoot, the duck, whose mission in life is decorating crib quilt blocks.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Stalin to Allies: 'Fulfill Obligations'; Records Prove U. S. War Planes Superior; Wages, Food, Rent, Profits Stabilized As Anti-Inflation Program Takes Effect

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

America, too, is developing its force of Commando units as the above photograph from the Panama Canal Zone would indicate. Here, during training maneuvers, these "Bushmasters" are about to push their way through barbed wire entanglements as part of a simulated attack on an "enemy force." Highly trained and tough, troops like these are the spearheads of attacking forces.

INFLATION CURB:
Roosevelt to Byrnes

Within 18 hours after he had been granted broad powers to halt the spiral of inflation, President Roosevelt named Associate Justice James F. Byrnes as the director of economic stabilization and moved to stabilize wages, salaries, profits and farm prices.

Byrnes resigned from the Supreme court shortly after he was named head of the new Office of Economic Stabilization.

Under the new legislation farm price ceilings cannot be set below parity or below the highest market level between January 1 and September 15, 1942, whichever is higher. If such ceilings are too low to reflect increases in farm labor and other costs since January 1, 1941, the President is directed to raise them. The legislation calls for a 90 per cent parity "floor" under cotton, corn, wheat, rice, tobacco and peanuts, the floor to be established by means of loans. The President may hold the loans down to 85 per cent, however, on corn and wheat used for feeding livestock and poultry.

Acting immediately, Leon Henderson, head of the Office of Price Administration, ordered that all rents be frozen at the level of March 1, 1942. Henderson issued his first stabilization order within 24 hours after the OES was created. He said the OPA soon would establish machinery to enforce national rent regulation and urged that, in the meantime, landlords who may have raised rents since March 1 reduce them to the previous level.

He asserted that evictions resulting from sale of rental property will be prevented.

In setting forth a wage and salary stabilization policy, President Roosevelt provided that there be no decreases for any particular work below the highest wages paid between January 1 and September 15 unless to correct inequalities.

BUSH SOLDIERS:
In Surprise Advance

Rugged Australian bush soldiers turned the tables on the Japs in New Guinea and, through infiltration methods, recaptured Nauro in the Owen Stanley mountain range, high point of the Japanese advance, and then continued their forward march to the north.

Strong enemy opposition was expected, but failed to materialize. The march took the Aussies to Nauro, then to Menari, "without establishing contact with the enemy." Official communiques said nothing about what had happened to Japanese forces which at one time drove to within 32 miles of Port Moresby. However, Allied air strafing and bombing of pack trails is thought to have accounted largely for the Jap retreat.

Meanwhile, heavy bombers raided Japanese shipping at Rabaul, New Britain and Buin on Bougainville, in the northern Solomons, setting fire to two enemy transports and scoring possible hits on two cruisers and an unidentified ship.

The marines continued to consolidate their positions in the Solomons and to strengthen the defense of the important Guadalcanal air base.

ALCOHOL:
'Total War'

Whiskey and wine have really gone to war.

Under terms of a directive issued by the War Production board the entire output of U. S. distilleries is now being diverted into industrial alcohol for wartime purposes.

There remains in the country, however, about 3½ years' supply of beverage whiskey even though half of the nation's distilleries had gone into war production earlier this year.

RUSSIA:
And Second Front

Even as Josef Stalin reiterated his demand for a second front to bring relief to sorely tried Russia, an official communique acknowledged relentless Nazi pressure everywhere on the Volga front. The communique neither claimed Soviet advances nor acknowledged withdrawals, but spoke of "incessant attacks" by the enemy.

In one sector within Stalingrad Soviet forces were reported to have demolished several blockhouses held by the Germans, killing about three companies of Nazi infantry. In a special bulletin the Moscow radio said that Soviet troops had driven the Nazis from an important point on the front west of Moscow, later beating off five counterattacks. In one of these attacks the Germans were reported to have lost 700 men —killed.

Dispatches from the front said that in northwest Stalingrad the Red army attacked in force in an industrial district, hammering through several streets and improving the Soviets' general position.

Despite local Russian successes, Premier Stalin pointed out the increased necessity for a second front and increased aid. He asked that the Allies "fulfill their obligations fully and on time."

Broadcasts from Vichy, France, and from Turkey said that Stalin had turned over to Marshal Shaposhnikov the post of defense commissar, which Stalin himself had held.

YANK AIRMEN:
In Biggest Raid

In the biggest daylight operation the U. S. army air forces have yet undertaken from England, American Flying Fortresses blasted a Nazi aircraft factory at Meaulte and an airfield at St. Omer in northern France and shot down 13 of Germany's crack fighter planes.

At the same time U. S. Boston bombers attacked docks at Le Havre, and escorting American and Allied fighters totalling 400 destroyed another five Nazi Focke-Wulf 190 planes.

Although officials did not reveal the number of Flying Fortresses participating in the raid, all the fortress planes returned safely. Six Allied fighter planes were lost.

Even as the speedy fighters and the mammoth fortresses and American medium bombers were roaring over France, engaging enemy fighters and bombing targets, Britain's secret Mosquito planes, fresh from their assault on Nazi-occupied Oslo, were pounding objectives in Belgium.

'BOX SCORE':
Of U. S. War Planes

The "box score" of American fighter planes and bombers in combat over world battlefronts proves their superiority over Axis aircraft, according to a special house subcommittee report.

The ratio of enemy planes destroyed to U. S. losses in combat during the period from August 14 through September 14 was 7.5 to 1. During this period, P-39s destroyed 20 enemy planes in combat with a loss of five, and P-40s destroyed 14 enemy planes with a loss of only one.

From February 1 through September 20, enemy planes destroyed by army aircraft of all types on all fronts totaled 279. United States losses on all fronts totaled 114. For the month of August only, 75 enemy planes were destroyed as against U. S. losses of 15.

The report indicated that the Japanese Zero has a faster climb, higher ceiling and greater maneuverability, but that the American P-40 has a number of better fighting characteristics. Our pilots prefer the P-40 to the Zero, the report pointed out.

FULL DINNER PAIL:
'Definite Assurance'

There was a coffee shortage looming and plans were under way for meat rationing but a "considered statement" by Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, carried definite assurance that "there will be enough food to eat" for the duration.

This statement was made to the house agriculture committee. The committee has been studying the farm labor shortage and has warned that this situation might cause an acute food shortage. While Mr. Nelson appeared to recognize the labor problem as an important one, he felt that "we are going to be smart enough . . . to meet the problem."

Meanwhile a vast loan program to farmers was being considered to aid them in producing full capacity crops. This prospective step calls for such loans to small-income farmers, with the funds to be used for obtaining tools, machinery, livestock and other items to aid increased production despite less available labor.

HOARDING GAS?:
It's Plenty Dangerous

Hoarding of gasoline to beat rationing plans is not only unpatriotic, says the National Safety council, but extremely dangerous.

"The motorist who tries to beat rationing by laying in a supply of gas literally is storing up danger and trouble for himself," says this safety bureau, and further warns that:

"No matter how careful the average person may be in storing gasoline, there is a definite danger that vapor will escape. This vapor is highly explosive, and a chance spark or flame may set off an explosion that can wreck a house and cause death or injury."

Concludes this warning:

"You may get an extra ride hoarding gas, but the chances are it will be to the hospital. There is only one safe rule for hoarding gasoline—Don't do it!"

YOUR USED TIRES:
Can't Be Sold

As a further rubber conservation step, Price Administrator Leon Henderson acted to "freeze" all used tires and tubes in the hands of present owners until a normal rationing program can be worked out.

The OPA order prohibited the transfer of any used tires and tubes by dealers and consumers. It did not, however, prevent the sale to a consumer of an automobile equipped with used tires. Automobile dealers also are allowed to shift their used tires that are mounted on cars in stock to other cars also in stock.

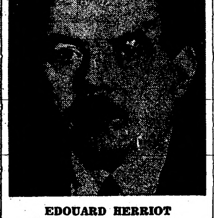
The order permits car owners to have their used casings and tubes repaired and to have tires recapped if they qualify for the latter service.

MORE TROUBLE:
For Vichy France

Edouard Herriot, former president of the now defunct French chamber of deputies, has been arrested for challenging the Vichy government's policy of increased collaboration with the Axis.

The 70-year-old elder statesman of the Third Republic was reported held in his chateau outside Lyons, according to German and Italian radio announcements.

Recently Herriot and Jules Jeanneney, former leader of the French senate, warned the Vichy government against trying to draw France back into the war against "our" Allies. Herriot also announced his resignation from the French Legion of Honor because the award had been given two Frenchmen fighting for the Germans on the Russian front. He has steadfastly refused to have anything to do with the collaborationist regime.



EDOUARD HERRIOT
Fights Collaborationist Régime.

It was presumed that Pierre Laval ordered his arrest because he feared that he would go abroad and lend his invaluable prestige to the Fighting French.

MISCELLANY:

PRELIMINARY: U. S. citizens learned long ago that meat rationing to about 2½ pounds per person per week was on the way but now the first step in the actual has been announced. This came in the form of a government order reducing civilian meat supplies by about 20 per cent by specifying to meat packers the amounts they should distribute to non-military distributors.

Hundred Percent War Work
By Robert St. John

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

One day several months ago, in London, I got a letter from Chicago. A member of my family was missing in action in the Philippines. The same day, word came by grape vine from eastern Europe that a close friend of mine in Rumania had been executed by order of the Gestapo, and that a girl journalist I knew in the Balkans had been sent up to Poland, for the pleasure of Nazi soldiers on leave.

That night I wanted to volunteer in somebody's army or air force. That night I suddenly got disgusted with the soft life which some of us continue to lead in this, the most critical year of the most important war in all history.

When I say "us" I mean people in America as well as Britain. But a twinge in my right leg made me realize that the Nazis had limited my field of activity. The Messerschmitt which shot up a troop train I was on in Greece last year took care of that.

So the next morning I went around to the ministry of labor and begged for a job, without compensation, in a munitions factory. I explained that I do all my broadcasting to America in the early hours of the morning and that I could gather my news and do the rest of my regular work after I came home from a factory in the evening.

At Work on a War Job.

Within a week I was at work in a vast shop full of machines that were grinding out vital instruments of war. I was given a job inspecting the minute parts of a gadget designed to save the lives of British, American, Russian and Chinese pilots when they go off on flights against the enemy.

Some of the parts are as delicate as the wheels inside a Swiss wrist watch. They have to be true to a fraction of a thousandth of an inch—an interesting job, and it seemed to me to be an important one.

So I joined up with that army of men and women who work eleven or twelve hours a day, sometimes seven days a week, and never get their pictures in the papers or any medals pinned on their chest—that army of unsung heroes who man the factories of Britain.

The first week at the factory left me tired of muscle and mighty weary when the day's work was done, but I soon got hardened to the new life.

In addition to this factory work I spend a full eight hours out of every twenty-four gathering news, attending press conferences, pounding a typewriter and talking into a microphone.

On Sundays I travel into the country to lecture to British troops in their camps and to wounded airmen in their hospitals, or I go into the tenement districts of London to talk to clubs of Cockney youngsters.

I mention these activities to show that I was as busy as the average man with a job before I took on the additional factory work.

What Is 100 Per Cent Production?

Much is written about how Britain and America are now up to 60 or 70 or 80 per cent war production. I've often wondered what that means. What is the 100 per cent basis for the calculations?

In England as well as America there are millions of men who could do at least a part-time shift a few nights a week in war factories.

Only when all the people are working as many hours a week as they are physically able, can either Britain or America talk about approaching 100 per cent production.

There are still many people in our democracies who prefer to knit socks and sell government bonds, and let others do the dirty work of war. The conflict still hasn't come close enough to home, even here in Britain with its bombed buildings, to jar some people into making it a total war from their point of view.

Yet before these words get into print, the time may have arrived when the survival of our entire way of life will depend on whether enough people have been willing to forego the pleasant paths of normal existence and sacrifice every ounce of their energies to defeat enemies who long ago abandoned business-as-usual.

Excuse the preaching. But after you've felt Nazi bullets and seen Nazi savagery, it's difficult to remain "just a reporter."

My weeks in a munitions factory, close to the workers and their everyday problems, has given me a profound respect for the Little People of Britain.

Some of them haven't had a very good deal in the past. Between the two wars, their wages and working conditions were far from what they ought to have been. Most of the working class just took it during that quarter of a century.

At the moment they're working, without complaint, long hours at tough jobs, supplying both the British and the Russians with the machines of war.

But they are determined that this war shall not have been fought in vain. These Little People I've been working with are going to be heard from, when the lights come on again, and peace returns.

And it's right that they should be, because in many ways they are the cream of Britain.

Average pay of a man in my factory runs about $18 or $19 a week.

Cause of Earthquakes

Although the surface of the earth is cool, its center is enormously hot, and sometimes this boiling core—which is never at rest—increases its activity. Then the volcanoes, which are something like safety-valves, erupt and in extreme periods of internal disturbance the ordinary land surfaces are affected, too.

Earthquakes of the severer kind are more common in the countries which have many volcanoes, but no part of the world is absolutely safe from the danger of such volcanic disturbance.

Sentinels of Health
Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good heath is to endure.
When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.
Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.
The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

ON THE HOME FRONT
with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

ANY dining room may be made fresh and smart with built-in cupboards, a little paint and inexpensive curtains. But what may be done to bring a set of outmoded chairs up-to-date? The one sketched at the upper right is typical of many that are substantial and sturdy though scarred by long use. All they need is an up-to-date frock to make them perfectly at home in a modern dining room.

If your chairs do not have the supports shown at the sides of the seat they will be easier to slip-cover. This cover is of medium blue cotton rep with darker blue for the bias binding and the cotton fringe around the bottom. Large button moulds are covered with the slip cover material for the button-up-the-back opening. If you are not expert at making bound buttonholes, snaps may be used under the buttons. The narrow ties sewn to the corners of the inside of the seat cover hold it neatly in place.

Nazis Cross River in Embattled Russia

This picture and caption are from a German source and were copied from a German publication which was received in the United States through a neutral country. Grim and unhappy German soldiers are shown stepping from a rubber boat, wearing raincoats and carrying shovels and guns, about to establish a Russian bridgehead. Meanwhile, the Russian defenders of Stalingrad in one of the greatest battles of history had fought valiantly in the rubble-filled streets of the Volga city to stave off the German offensive.

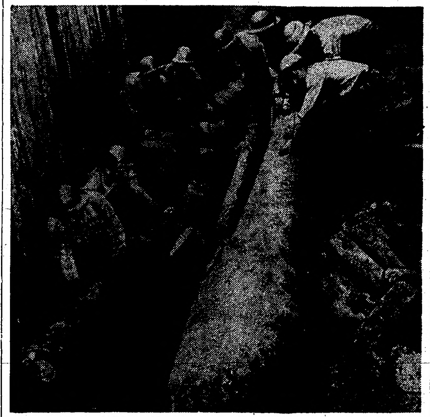
130 Years Old, but Joins Scrap



Rejuvenation is in store for these cannon, which last saw service in 1812. The antiquated cannon, part of a ship's ballast, have already been turned into the scrap drive, and they may see action once again as barrels of new machine or anti-aircraft guns. The ancient guns were found in the hold of a vessel in Brooklyn.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of Minnesota

To be submitted at 1942 General Election

STATE OF MINNESOTA
LEGAL DEPARTMENT

J. A. A. BURNQUIST
Attorney General

St. Paul, Minnesota, January 20, 1942

Honorable Mike Holm
Secretary of State
State Capitol
St. Paul, Minnesota

Dear Sir:

In compliance with the provisions of the 1941 Supplement to Mason's Minnesota Statutes of 1927, Section 46, I make this statement of the purpose and effect of the amendments proposed to the constitution of Minnesota to be voted on at the November 3, 1942 general election in accordance with Laws 1941, Chapters 171 and 555.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER 1

By the enactment of Laws 1941, Chapter 171, the legislature has proposed an amendment to Article 8, Section 6, of the constitution.

This section now reads as follows:

"The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, and in first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands of this state. But no such investment or loan shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed 15 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall any farm loan or investment be made when such investment or loan would exceed 30 per cent of the actual cash value of the farm land mortgage to secure said investment, nor shall such investments or loans be made at a lower rate of interest than 3 per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five years, nor for a longer period than thirty years, and no change of the town, school district, city, village or of county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of issuing of such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

If amended as proposed by the legislature, this section will read as follows:

"The permanent school, permanent university and swamp land funds of this state may be loaned to or invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town, or village of this state and in first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands of this state, but no such investment or loan shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed 15 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the county, school district, city, town, or village issuing such bonds; nor shall any such farm loan or investment be made when such investment or loan would exceed 30 per cent of the actual cash value of the farm land mortgaged to secure said investment; nor shall such investments or loans be made at a lower rate of interest than two per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than one year nor for a longer period than 30 years and no change of the town, school district, city, village, or county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of issuing such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to reduce the rate of interest at which certain of the state's permanent trust funds may be loaned to, or invested in the bonds of any county, city, village, town, or school district in the state from three per cent per annum to two per cent per annum; also to reduce the minimum term for which such loans and investments may be made from five years to one year, and also to include the swamp land fund among the state's trust funds which may be so loaned and invested.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER 2

By the enactment of Laws 1941, Chapter 555, the legislature proposed an amendment to Section 36 of Article IV of the constitution and required its proposal to be stated on the ballot thus:

"Shall Article IV, Section 36, of the constitution be amended so as to simplify and reduce the expense of publishing amendments to home rule charters of cities and villages?"

The part of the section in which a change is proposed now reads as follows:

"* * * Such charter so deposited may be amended by proposal therefor made by a board of fifteen commissioners aforesaid, published for at least thirty days in three newspapers of general circulation in such city or village, and accepted by three-fifths of the qualified voters of such city or village voting at the next election and not otherwise; but such charter shall always be in harmony with and subject to the constitution and laws of the state of Minnesota * * *"

If amended as proposed by the legislature, the same part of this section will read:

"* * * Such charter so deposited may be amended by proposal therefor made by a board of fifteen commissioners aforesaid, published for at least once each week for four successive weeks in a legal newspaper of general circulation in such city or village, and accepted by three-fifths of the qualified voters of such city or village voting at the next election and not otherwise; but such charter shall always be in harmony with and subject to the constitution and laws of the state of Minnesota. * * *"

PURPOSE AND EFFECT

The purpose and effect of the proposed amendment is to require publication of amendments to home rule charters once each week for four (4) successive weeks in a legal newspaper of general circulation in such city or village instead of publication in three (3) newspapers of general circulation in such city or village for at least thirty (30) days as now required.

There are many cities and villages which do not have three local newspapers. In such cases, under the present provision, publication must be made in newspapers printed elsewhere and circulating locally. If the proposed amendment is adopted, publication will be required in only one (1) qualified newspaper four (4) times, thereby reducing the difficulty and expense of amending home rule charters.

Very truly yours,
J. A. A. BURNQUIST,
Attorney General.

Your Vote and Support will be Greatly Appreciated

I would like to meet with all of you, but due to the size of the county and war-time restrictions, most of the campaign is being carried on by Volunteer workers in each community.

During the two terms that I spent in the Legislature, I voted for and supported measures that would be to the best interest of Marshall County.

The campaign is being carried out by your friends and neigbors who are carrying the campaign to you on the basis of my record of service.

Communications to me at my farm, RFD, Oslo, will be promptly answered. I would appreciate hearing from you regarding your sentiments on legislative problems. THANKS

Scrap Drive Is ~~Big~~ Success

The scrap drive held here on Friday was a huge success from every angle. Over 20 tons of scrap iron was brought in on that day to help swell the pile to 40 tons that had been brought in here since the big drive was started in October. A nice program was held here in the afternoon with Arvid Carlson, Middle River, Chairman of the County Salvage Committee, presiding. Sletten Olson, attorney of Warren was the main speaker and gave a fine talk on why we should do our best to salvage now as the materials need to be all in before they get covered with snow.

Several rural schools took part in the drive and were here for the big parade held in the afternoon. The school southwest of Holt known as the Hall school won first prize for the most iron brought in by schools.

Elmer Severson brought in the largest load of scrap when he sold a tractor and got a 6000 pound credit on which his little daughter won first prize.

O. T. Ness, local captain of the scrap salvage drive, has been very busy making arrangements for all this activity and also marketing the scrap iron and metals which has come in here in every form.

Mrs. A. W. Carlson, Mrs. O. Fosholm, Mrs. L. Miller and daughters visited on Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Glenn Peterson.

Sunday visitors at the Joe Nelson home wers Mrs. Carrie Norby and Anna and Andrew Norby and Mrs. Bakken of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Hj. Peterson and Art and Mrs. H. Engen and baby.

Vernon Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nelson, was badly injured last Friday when he fell into the basement in their home hitting his head on the cement floor. He was taken to a doctor at Thief River Falls and several X-Ray pictures were taken. He is at this writing progressing nicely.

'Movement' to 'Position'

Military experts were describing the fighting on the Russian battlefront as "that in-between period" during which Adolf Hitler's forces were struggling against time and weather that will soon turn this fighting from a war of "movement" to a war of "position."

Stalingrad had been a heap of rubble for days before the Nazis declared that frontal attacks on it had ended. There was still heavy street fighting, however, and the outskirts of the vital Volga river port were witnessing some of the severest losses ever afforded Nazi military might.

As they stood before Moscow a year ago and waited for the coming of the harsh Russian winter, so Joseph Stalin's army had made its stand within the city that bears his name. There were reports that because of this stand the main weight of the Nazi power in Russia was being shifted to the Caucasus.

Though this shift appeared to be temporary, official Moscow sources were reporting local successes in crushing stubborn Axis resistance southeast of Novorossisk, an important locality. With the Grozny oil fields as their current objective, the Nazis continued to drive forward in that area.

In the Baltic sea, Russian warships sank five Nazi transports and Moscow sources claimed that the Soviet "marines" on the ships of the Volga had aided materially in the defense of Stalingrad.

CEILINGS:
Up a Bit

From the Office of Price Administration came details of a new formula to raise somewhat the prices in 11 major groups of foods. Such action was declared to be necessary because of the difference between prices charged by various dealers at the time the original price ceilings were applied. Some inequalities between wholesale and retail prices were found to be working hardships on dealers.

However the expected increases were not expected to be very large. One or two cents per item was estimated as the possible increase.

Affected were prices on canned vegetables, canned fish, sugar, coffee, dried fruits, breakfast cereals, cooking and salad oils, rice, lard, hydrogenated shortening and other shortening. Use of the new ceiling is optional on all items except lard and dried fruits; on these it is compulsory.

PROTEST:
From Chile

Chilean Ambassador to the United States, Rodolfo Michels, was not long in filing a formal protest to a statement by Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, which said that Axis agents were operating in Chile and Argentina.

Michels and Welles later met with President Roosevelt. Following this, Michels emphasized that this conference was most cordial. If so, this was deemed highly favorable to continued good relations between the countries inasmuch as Chile's president, Juan Rios, was expected soon to arrive in Washington on a state visit.

PASS BIGGEST TAX:
In Record Time

After only five days of debate—a modern speed record for revenue legislation—the senate approved by a vote of 77 to 0 a 26 billion dollar tax bill, the largest in American history.

The treasury department estimated the house bill, which applies to 1942 incomes, would add $6,291,000,000 to present annual revenues of $17,000,000,000. Other sources said the bill would increase present taxes by $9,000,000,000.

Following are major provisions of the bill as approved by the senate:

A 5 per cent "Victory levy" on the earnings of individuals above $624 yearly, with 25 per cent of the tax up to $500 rebatable to single persons and 40 per cent, plus 2 per cent for each dependent, up to $1,000, to married persons.

Normal income tax rate increased from 4 to 6 per cent.

Surtaxes at present ranging from 6 to 77 per cent boosted to from 13 to 82 per cent.

TIRES FOR ALL:
Is OPA Program

A national stock pile of "all the idle passenger car tires in the country" must be created if the government's plan to provide tires for all essential mileage is successful, Price Administrator Leon Henderson has announced.

The stock pile is necessary to carry out the following five steps in the government plan:

1. Rationing of used tires and recaps, and new tires now in stock.
2. Actual control of each car's mileage through the rationing of gasoline.
3. Compulsory periodic inspection of all tires to guard against abuse.
4. Denial of gasoline and tire replacements to drivers who persistently violate the national 35-mile-an-hour speed limit.
5. Capacity use, through car sharing, of every car on every trip so far as possible.

Sources close to the price administrator stated that the stock pile will be built up through an appeal for voluntary sale of all tires in excess of five for each car.

Replacement tires will be the "minimum grade" necessary.

CHINA:
End of a System

On the eve of embattled China's national anniversary celebration, citizens of that country had something to cheer about besides the valiant efforts of their armies against the invading Japs. This was the announcement by Great Britain and the United States that these countries were taking prompt steps to abolish the system of extra-territorial rights enjoyed in China for almost a century.

In the United States, this information was communicated to Chinese Ambassador Wei Tao-Ming by the state department. Under the extra-territorial rights system, U. S. and British citizens enjoyed certain privileges, among them the right of their court for offenses committed in Chinese territory.

Usually crimes and misdemeanors of foreigners in another country are tried under the courts and laws of the nation in which they occur.

TOUGH: Roane Waring, newly elected commander of the American Legion, declared in a speech before the AFL convention in Toronto, Canada, that any person, employer or employee who slows up war production is a "criminal, a saboteur, a traitor" and ought to be shot by a firing squad. Considerable excited comment resulted from his statement at the meeting.

EXPELLED: Three leading members of San Francisco's Italian community and two other Italians were ordered by the army to leave the Pacific coast military zone.

ON THE HOME FRONT
with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

IT IS not necessary to make our economies so dull and dreary that they depress every one. Let's make them so gay and attractive that they give us a lift and a bit of a challenge too. This old rocker is an example.

A saw and a wood chisel were used for removing projections and rockers. An old quilt was found for padding and the feathers from an old bolster were packed into a thick seat cushion to raise the seat which has been lowered by removing the rockers. This required a yard and a quarter of ticking. Four and one-half yards of inexpensive chintz in a bold, modern pattern did the rest.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Before rubber allocation programs, one large rubber manufacturing company made close to 35,000 separate rubber items. The weights of these items ran from fractions of an ounce to hundreds of pounds.

Supported by old inner tubes that have been blessed, natives of Benares, India, stay in the waters of the Holy Ganges River for weeks at a stretch.

Rubber shortage was no worry when the first roads were constructed in the Empire of Assyria and Babylon in 1900 B.C. or when the Romans built their military roads in 302-298 B.C.

In 1941 89% of the rubber consumed in the U. S. came from lands that are now in the hands of the enemy or cut off from U. S. ships.

Two-thirds of all the natural rubber in the U. S. is in the tires and tubes on American cars.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of Minnesota

To be submitted at 1942 General Election

STATE OF MINNESOTA
LEGAL DEPARTMENT

J. A. A. BURNQUIST
Attorney General

St. Paul, Minnesota, January 20, 1942

Honorable Mike Holm
Secretary of State
State Capitol
St. Paul, Minnesota

Dear Sir:

In compliance with the provisions of the 1941 Supplement to Mason's Minnesota Statutes of 1927, Section 46, I make this statement of the purpose and effect of the amendments proposed to the constitution of Minnesota to be voted on at the November 3, 1942 general election in accordance with Laws 1941, Chapters 171 and 555.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER 1

By the enactment of Laws 1941, Chapter 171, the legislature has proposed an amendment to Article 8, Section 6, of the constitution.

This section now reads as follows:

"The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, and in first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands of this state. But no such investment or loan shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed 15 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall any farm loan or investment be made when such investment or loan would exceed 30 per cent of the actual cash value of the farm land mortgage to secure said investment, nor shall such investments or loans be made at a lower rate of interest than 3 per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five years, nor for a longer period than thirty years, and no change of the town, school district, city, village or of county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of issuing of such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

If amended as proposed by the legislature, this section will read as follows:

"The permanent school, permanent university and swamp land funds of this state may be loaned to or invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town, or village of this state and in first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands of this state, but no such investment or loan shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed 15 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the county, school district, city, town, or village issuing such bonds; nor shall any such farm loan or investment be made when such investment or loan would exceed 30 per cent of the actual cash value of the farm land mortgaged to secure said investment; nor shall such investments or loans be made at a lower rate of interest than two per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than one year nor for a longer period than 30 years and no change of the town, school district, city, village, or county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of issuing such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to reduce the rate of interest at which certain of the state's permanent trust funds may be loaned to, or invested in the bonds of any county, city, village, town, or school district in the state from three per cent per annum to two per cent per annum; also to reduce the minimum term for which such loans and investments may be made from five years to one year, and also to include the swamp land fund among the state's trust funds which may be so loaned and invested.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER 2

By the enactment of Laws 1941, Chapter 555, the legislature proposed an amendment to Section 36 of Article IV of the constitution and required its proposal to be stated on the ballot thus:

"Shall Article IV, Section 36, of the constitution be amended so as to simplify and reduce the expense of publishing amendments to home rule charters of cities and villages?"

The part of the section in which a change is proposed now reads as follows:

"* * * Such charter so deposited may be amended by proposal therefor made by a board of fifteen commissioners aforesaid, published for at least thirty days in three newspapers of general circulation in such city or village, and accepted by three-fifths of the qualified voters of such city or village voting at the next election and not otherwise; but such charter shall always be in harmony with and subject to the constitution and laws of the state of Minnesota * * *"

If amended as proposed by the legislature, the same part of this section will read:

"* * * Such charter so deposited may be amended by proposal therefor made by a board of fifteen commissioners aforesaid, published for at least once each week for four successive weeks in a legal newspaper of general circulation in such city or village, and accepted by three-fifths of the qualified voters of such city or village voting at the next election and not otherwise; but such charter shall always be in harmony with and subject to the constitution and laws of the state of Minnesota. * * *"

PURPOSE AND EFFECT

The purpose and effect of the proposed amendment is to require publication of amendments to home rule charters once each week for four (4) successive weeks in a legal newspaper of general circulation in such city or village instead of publication in three (3) newspapers of general circulation in such city or village for at least thirty (30) days as now required.

There are many cities and villages which do not have three local newspapers. In such cases, under the present provision, publication must be made in newspapers printed elsewhere and circulating locally. If the proposed amendment is adopted, publication will be required in only one (1) qualified newspaper four (4) times, thereby reducing the difficulty and expense of amending home rule charters.

Very truly yours,
J. A. A. BURNQUIST,

Your Vote and Support will be Greatly Appreciated

I would like to meet with all of you, but due to the size of the county and war-time restrictions, most of the campaign is being carried on by Volunteer workers in each community.

During the two terms that I spent in the Legislature, I voted for and supported measures that would be to the best interest of Marshall County.

The campaign is being carried out by your friends and neigbors who are carrying the campaign to you on the basis of my record of service.

Communications to me at my farm, RFD, Oslo, will be promptly answered. I would appreciate hearing from you regarding your sentiments on legislative problems. THANKS

Dean of County Officers

Mr. A. C. Swandby, Clerk of District Court, Warren, Minnesota was a caller here on Thursday of last week in the interest of his candidacy for re-election to that office. Mr. Swandby is the Dean of the Court house at Warren, having served in his present office for 36 years this coming January 1st.

He is also one of the oldest District Court Clerks in the state of Minnesota in the service. In fact there are only two others who have held office as long as Mr. Swandby. According to the District Judges who know the the qualifications of Mr. Swandby, this is not the time to make any change in that office. Mr. Swandby has had a very busy time lately with checking up and making out birth certificates for many who had to have them in connection with their jobs at war plants.

Mr. Swandby is in high spirits and fine health and should merit the support and vote of the entire county at the coming election.

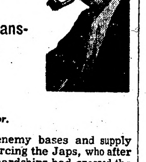
Axis Nations Face to Face With Strong U. S. Air Power



America's Theoretical Aerial Strength Translated Into Actuality; Japanese Revise Three Major Campaigns.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N-W, Washington, D. C.

As this is written Washington is discussing a pitched battle in the Solomons and the beginning of a sharp rise in American air activity over Europe. Exciting stories are coming in from all quarters of the globe about the achievements of our pilots and our planes but few civilians realize the significance of these separate exploits. The enemy does. And in the opinion of air force officials in Washington the Axis partners have at last been brought face to face with the fact that America is in the war, that the theoretical striking power of the United States has been translated into a practical impact of American strength which is now being felt on every front.

Since the smashing victory of Midway, the Japanese have been forced to change their whole campaigns in three different sectors: in the Aleutians, in New Guinea, in the Solomons.

And, as Rommel girds for another attack in Egypt, it is conceded that what might have been a victory in the drive on Alexandria was turned to defeat in a not unimportant measure by American bombers and fighters.

And lastly, with the great raid on Lille early this month, the Germans found themselves faced with the prospect of terrific destruction of their cities or the revision of their whole program of air defense.

From the beginning, the Germans knew that America had the men, the money, the resources to build the most powerful war machine in the world. But they never thought the parts of that machine could be assembled in time. Now as we approach the anniversary of Pearl Harbor, we are still unable to furnish our Allies with the men and material required to make any single front, of the many we are feeding, strong enough for an offensive in which there is combined action, air, land and sea. But in one arm we have developed the beginning of superiority and for the first time we are emerging on many fronts as the growing giant of the air.

This is now possible because we have been able to do three things: provide a terrific engine of precision destruction in our mammoth bombers; provide those bombers with such fire-power that it makes up for their lack of maneuverability and thus offers in a single unit the ability to carry out precision bombing of individual targets and at the same time the ability to fight off the enemy defense in the air, a combination perfected for the first time in this war.

A Comparison

To reduce this achievement to lay terms: Heretofore the big bomber which could drop tons of destruction on the earth below, was so cumbersome in the air that it was a prey to fast moving acrobatic fighter planes. Like the buffalo which could be pulled down by a herd of agile wolves. Now, because of the terrific effectiveness of the guns our bombers carry, those fighters cannot get near enough to them to damage them. The wolf pack is cut to pieces before its fangs can seize the monster.

In addition to giving our heavy ships their own protection we have built pursuit planes — the agile wolves — which are sinewed with some of the might of their bigger brothers.

Our pursuit planes are able to carry bombs, too, and perform some of the functions of the dive bomber with the added advantage of maneuverability.

With this equipment we have been able to make the Japanese hold on the Aleutians untenable. We have already dislodged two footholds (Attu and Agattu islands) and will probably force the Japs out of the third, Kiska, before the winter sets in. That is one radical change of plan which the Japanese did not anticipate we could bring about.

In the southwest Pacific there has been wrought another change of plan. In conjunction with Australian fliers, American forces have completely broken one offensive, the one directed at Port Moresby, by smashing enemy bases and supply lines and forcing the Japs, who after incredible hardships had crossed the towering Owen Stanley ridge, to take to their heels and flee.

And in Europe we have definitely affected the tide of battle on three fronts. In Russia, vicariously it is true, because we have sent no pilots there. But American planes played a vital part in harassing the Nazi advance.

In Egypt, the British, according to dispatches, credit American fliers with a large part of the achievement of breaking down General Rommel's advance into Egypt.

Attack on Rommel

There our heavy bombers helped to render Rommel's supply ports of Tobruk and Benghazi virtually useless. Against Nazi ground forces our planes, notably the Airacobra, acting as a shallow dive bomber and also as a strafer, played a vital part in smashing the Axis supply lines.

But it was—and is and will be—American bomber wings over Germany itself that cast the most alarming shadow across the Reich. The Lille raid brought home the fact that Germany must now face American might.

In that raid 112 American bombers, besides carrying out their mission of precision daytime bombing, were able to bring down 115 of the 120 Nazi fighter planes that were destroyed.

Germany must rebuild her planes to match ours, or suffer an incredible handicap.

And so we see the faith in air power and American invention justified. This, however, does not mean victory. It means merely the preparation. Smoking ruins are a triumph but possession is nine points of victory. No land is conquered until a human being stands upon it, his feet firmly planted, his position secure. And that means, in the last analysis, man power, not air power. That is the next step.

Aircraft Carrier—Fleet Spearhead

The aircraft carrier, says Rear Admiral Carl Sherman, naval hero of World War I, and commander of the Lexington, is "the spearhead of the fleet, the backbone of the navy, the slugger in offensive and defensive warfare."

The admiral may be a bit prejudiced, of course, but after you have read "Queen of the Flat Tops," which is the story of the Lexington's epic adventures, you may agree with him. Lest I be carried away with my own enthusiasm, I asked a lover of the sea what he thought about it. He pored over my copy and refused to return it. So I am going to quote his words.

"This is a fine book," he told me after he had read it. "The author, Stanley Johnston, sums up my opinion. He says that the 'flat-top' Lexington ushered in a new era in naval warfare which will rank with the battle of the Monitor and the Merrimac in the Civil war. And he makes you believe it."

Johnston was in the highly enviable position of being the only reporter on board, and now has given the world a first-hand picture of the terrifically important last cruise of this converted battle cruiser, right up to the time she was sent to the bottom by American torpedoes after withstanding Jap "tin fish" and direct bomb hits.

Johnston saw it all from the "Lex," as she was affectionately known.

All of our new group of naval air heroes appear as modest young run-of-mine men, in Johnston's record. He was struck by the complete lack of heroics, as he was struck during every action and particularly during the last terrible hours aboard the carrier, with the complete lack of confusion and the outstanding bravery of all aboard, even when the gallant ship was a blazing inferno. This is all the more remarkable when it is known that a great many of the ship's complement were making their first trip to sea. No naval or military man is going to miss reading and studying this volume, and no civilian ought to who has any interest in the methods of modern sea battling.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

Almost 10,000 rural fire-fighting companies have been organized this year to protect America's farms against destructive fires, with 100,000 men enrolled.

Marketing, processing, and distribution facilities are operating at capacity this fall, preparing the record 1942 farm production for military, lease-lend, and civilian use.

Prices are responding to rising demand, and latest estimates of the U. S. department of agriculture are that the total cash farm income this year will exceed 15 billion dollars.

The huge production of soybeans, peanuts, cottonseed, and flaxseed this year on American farms has greatly relieved the fats and oils situation.

OLD DESK BEFORE IT WAS MADE OVER
FRAMED EMBROIDERY IN POPPY, CORNFLOWER AND WHEAT DESIGN PAINTED WHEAT COLOR
POPPY RED
BLUE

HERE is a sketch of a corner in a smart living room. Over the desk hangs a piece of applique work that any woman who can sew a seam can make with a piece of natural colored linen, a few scraps of gingham and odds and ends of embroidery thread. The design is of poppies, cornflowers and wheat, with graceful green leaves. The poppy petals and leaves are of gingham applied on the linen. The bright blue cornflowers, the yellow wheat and stems are embroidered in simple stitches.

This quickly made piece of hand work was framed by stretching it over cardboard, and it set the color scheme for the entire room. No one would ever guess that the desk is a transformation of the fancy oak one shown at the left. The top was sawed off and a plain board added. The bookcases were then added at the sides and the plywood door was hinged to them. The sketch shows how the coloring of the applique picture was repeated in the desk, blotter and stool.

NOTE: A hot iron transfer has been made of this applique design with extra patterns of cornflowers and poppies for a luncheon set or guest towels. You will love working with these fascinating colors and the quick results are just the thing for Christmas gifts. Send your order to:

The Guillotine

The machine the French use for beheading murderers, called the guillotine, was not invented by Dr. Guillotine, nor was he himself executed by it, as tradition states.

As long ago as the Middle Ages there were mechanical devices for beheading criminals. During the French Revolution, when opponents of the new regime were executed in large numbers, Dr. Guillotine, in 1789, suggested that something of the kind should be adopted, for humanitarian reasons.

The Real Check Back

SINCE the final day of the last World Series you could hear them asking what had happened to the Yankees—and to Joe McCarthy. Here is proof again how short man's memory is in the whirl of busy events.

They had overlooked the fact that Joe McCarthy and his Yankees had the greatest World Series record of all time — above John McGraw and his Giants, above Frank Chance and his Cubs, above Connie Mack and his famous Athletics.

Grantland Rice

All Joe McCarthy and his Yankees had done was to make it six out of seven in the World Series count — 25 victories against eight defeats. How much more can they ask of a manager and a team?

What other manager or what other team has turned in such a job? They forget the check back.

About Connie Mack

It was something more than a pleasure to have a visit with 80-year-old Connie Mack during this last series. We turned the clock back 40 years and I found Connie as keen and alert as ever, looking forward to whatever next year might bring.

During the last series game I turned the clock back even further. I ran into Arlie Latham, now working at the Yankee Stadium. Arlie was one of the star ball players of an era that goes back some 55 or 60 years. He was the crack third baseman of Chris Von der Ahe's old St. Louis Browns.

"I remember Connie Mack around 1885," Arlie said. "He was then catching for Pittsburgh as I remember it. What kind of a catcher was Connie? He was something on the Bill Dickey type. He knew how to handle pitchers. He saw everything that was going on. He was never in a hurry. Connie couldn't hit with Dickey, but as I remember it he was a great bat tipper. He knew how to bother you at the plate. He was smart even then. Things were different in those days. Anything you could get by with was legal and okay. But what a great fellow that Connie Mack has been for 60 years. You've got to have something extra to be better than good for 60 years."

Another 80-Year Old

This brought to mind another active sporting star who goes back 60 years. His name is Amos Alonzo Stagg, now coaching the College of the Pacific.

Lonnie Stagg was a member of Walter Camp's first All-America team, picked in 1889. Lonnie was no kid then. After all, that was only 53 years ago.

"You ought to see this kid Stagg," a friend writes me from California. "He is up early in the morning for a set of tennis. And don't think he coaches this team from the bench. He leads the squad in the field at a gallop. He works as hard as any man on the squad. He is out there showing them how to block and tackle. He is all over the place. Not so bad for a young fellow of 80."

Stagg is the only coach I've heard about who has been active on the field of play for 53 years. He went to Chicago university around 1891, and was coach and player.

The Iron Horse

Much has been said and written about Whirlaway's famous long tail, his speed and his stout heart. But his most remarkable assets are iron legs and an iron constitution.

Where most thoroughbreds are about as brittle as a pretzel, here is a horse which has been ready to run fast, far and often for the greater part of three years. And in all that time he always has been ready to run his race.

He gets beaten, but in spite of all the racing he handles, he never runs a bad race and inevitably he is in there driving at the finish.

"He's never seen the day when he wasn't ready to run," Trainer Ben Jones says. "They say I overwork him. I don't. He likes to run. He has never shown any sign of staleness, which is the main answer. And I don't care how hard the race is, he is always fresh on his way back to the barn."

"Once the rider lets him start running he is hard to hold back. I suppose that's one reason they don't want to turn him loose too soon."

Horse Ages

Tony, the 40-year-old Tom Mix horse, was scheduled for execution recently.

Several readers want to know the oldest horse on record. Tony must have been close. I asked a few veteran trainers and found none who knew of any other horse that had passed 38.

The two greatest, Man O' War and Exterminator, are still shy of 30. Exterminator is as frisky as a colt these nippy autumn days.

Few horses, however, pass 25.

PREPAREDNESS

by ✚ the AMERICAN RED CROSS

SO THAT America will be well prepared on the home front, the American Red Cross has set a goal of one person in every home to be trained in home nursing.

Red Cross home nursing courses teach simple methods of keeping the family well, and how to care for its members in sickness. The students—mostly women, many men and large numbers of young people—are also taught to recognize symptoms in the early stages. This is expected to help prevent the usual wartime epidemics.

So far in this war, more than 90 per cent of the civilian casualties have not been hospitalized. Instead they have been given first aid and whatever emergency treatment was necessary and then sent home.

A large portion of such civilian war casualties have required home nursing care which, due to shortage of nurses, had to be provided by members of the family.

To enable every family to provide home care for the sick, whether due to enemy action or natural causes, immediately after the attack on Pearl Harbor, the Red Cross started a plan to teach home nursing to every family.

Any group of 20 or more can form a home nursing class by agreeing on a time and place of meeting. After being notified, the county Red Cross chapter will then appoint a graduate nurse instructor.

Surely Neighbor Would Be Happy to Contribute

Answering a determined tap at the door, Mrs. Jones opened it to face her neighbor, who was obviously very wrought up about something.

"It's that boy of yours," she snorted. "He's just thrown this brick through my window. It came within an inch of hitting me."

A pleased look came into Mrs. Jones' face.

"Really! How interesting!" she exclaimed. "I wonder if you will let me have the brick? We're trying to keep all the little mementoes of his youthful pranks; they'll be so interesting when he grows up."

The Kalends

In classical days the Romans called the first day of the month the Kalends. On those days interest on debts became due, and proclamations were made. The Greeks had no such term, so a promise to pay at the "Greek Kalends" meant "never."

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER
Rubber is not the sap of a tree, but is the latex found in tubes that run lengthwise throughout the inner part of the bark.
Individual car owners can conserve rubber. Never drive over 35 miles an hour, check inflation pressure once a week, check wheel alignment every six months, rotate tires (including spares) to different wheels every 3,000 miles. It is not a difficult habit to acquire and it will keep you rolling longer.
Why balk at 35 miles an hour restrictions! In Jerusalem 8 miles an hour is the limit for automobiles, with the speed warnings printed in Arabic, Hebrew and English.
The Army is supplied by hundreds of thousands of rubber-tired trucks, just one of which for a 2½ ton vehicle, takes more than 7 times as much rubber as your passenger car.
Pontoon bridges are built on rubber floats that take more than a ton and a half of rubber.

Grass and Hay

Grass and hay produce such beef and brawn as horses and bullocks possess and yet are unsuitable for humans because the digestive apparatus of the herbivorous animals has become specially adjusted to deal with the coarse fibers of grass, and specially enlarged to cope with the great bulk that must be taken daily in order to secure adequate nourishment. Humans can eat young, tender shoots of some kinds of grass without ill effects, but the hard stalks that cause no inconvenience to a horse would be as damaging to us as the grit a chicken swallows.

Many grass-eating animals like cows and camels have multiple stomachs to help them.

EMIL MORBERG

Candidate for Re-Election

Representative for Marshall County

Your Vote and Support will be Greatly Appreciated

I would like to meet with all of you, but due to the size of the county and war-time restrictions, most of the campaign is being carried on by Volunteer workers in each community.

During the two terms that I spent in the Legislature, I voted for and supported measures that would be to the best interest of Marshall County.

The campaign is being carried out by your friends and neighbors who are carrying the campaign to you on the basis of my record of service.

Communications to me at my farm, RFD, Oslo, will be promptly answered. I would appreciate hearing from you regarding your sentiments on legislative problems. THANKS

Help Grease The Axis

One pound of animal fat yields 1.3 pounds of explosive. The hypothesis is the basis of the fat salvage campaign boomed by the Minnesota Department of Conservation. Fat salvage from the wild animal harvest in Minnesota this fall may run to 250 tons.

Paul R. Highby, game biologist and authority on fur-bearers of Minnesota, contends that the under-skin fat on a good-sized skunk yields 1½ to 2 pounds. From 2 to 5 pounds of fat can be salvaged from a single raccoon.

Trapping season on skunks opened October 20 and runs to March 1. Raccoon may be trapped from November 1 to Dec. 1; Mink from Nov. 1 to Jan. 31.

Not much more than a quarter pound of fat is available from a deer, Dr. Highby says, but he estimates that if every housewife saves the drippings from cooking venison, 7 tons of fat may be salvaged in Minnesota after the current deer season which runs from November 15 to November 25 inclusive.

Bear season coincides with the deer season with no bag limits on bear. Bear yield from 10 to 25 pounds of fat. Dr. Highby reaches his total estimate of a possible 250 tons of fat salvage for the manufacture of explosives by including all fur-bearers which may be harvested this season.

Badger, otter, fisher and marten are protected. No seasons have yet been announced for beaver and muskrat.

All hunters and trappers are urged to turn this grease over to the butchers in their localities. It is a valuable contribution to war. "Help grease the Axis" is the slogan of the fat salvage campaign.

Russel Sanoden, who is attending Concordia College at Moorhead, has been selected as a member of tne Chapel Choir. This Choir is selected on a competitive basis out of the entire student body of 508. Prof. C. M. Running is director of the Choir.

Unicorns

Perhaps there was such a thing as a unicorn. Describe it as an animal chiefly like a horse, but with one horn in the center of its forehead and you have the unicorn of heraldry, the unicorn in the British royal arms.

Both China and Japan have traditions of unicorns, but from India comes the clearest description: Ctesias wrote that in India were wild asses bearing a single horn in their foreheads. Perhaps there were, but no relics of these beasts have yet been found.

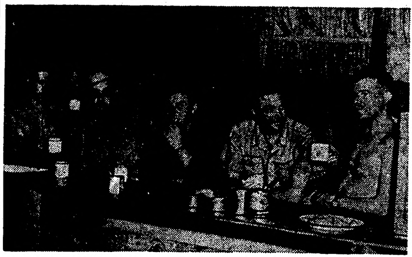
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Heavy Fighting in Guadalcanal Battle Changes Entire Jap Pacific Strategy; British Offensive Is Aimed at Libya; Coffee Rationing Begins November 28

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.



After a raid on Japanese positions, the first thing U. S. air fighters do in New Guinea is to amble over to the grass hut (called "Sloppy Joe's") near the Port Moresby airfield for a cup of hot tea and a snack. The temperature, obviously, was way up when this picture was taken.

GUADALCANAL:

Full Scale Fight

News of full scale fighting on Guadalcanal island came to an apprehensive America as U. S. soldiers and marines bore the brunt of continued Japanese attacks. The enemy bolstered its push with fresh reinforcements, landing them on the northwestern end of the island.

The Japs opened their big attack by laying down a heavy artillery barrage and then using tanks and troops against the Americans' defense lines. In the first two days of fighting, United States forces repulsed five tank attacks with artillery. The navy communique did not mention American tanks.

Prior to sending their ground forces into action, the foe smashed at Henderson field—with costly results for themselves. The Japs sent over 16 bombers escorted by 20 Zero fighters. Grumman Wildcats, piloted by marines, shot down all of the fighters, one of the bombers and damaged three additional bombers.

Japanese shipping in the Solomons area was the target of American pilots. The fliers chalked up two Jap cruisers and one destroyer damaged, another cruiser probably damaged and one heavy cruiser or battleship possibly damaged.

Three attacks were made by Douglas dive bombers on a force of cruisers and destroyers north of Florida island—13 miles north of Guadalcanal. The navy communique said one enemy cruiser was damaged by bombs and the force withdrew.

Cooperation

Meanwhile, from General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia came word of continuing Allied bombing raids on Jap bases north of the Solomons. Approximately 100,000 tons of shipping were destroyed or damaged in three nights of bombing at Rabaul, New Britain.

Other Allied bombers attacked Kavieng, New Ireland, scoring direct hits on Jap fuel dumps and installations. Fires were visible for 90 miles.

Medium bombers were in action over Dutch Timor, north of Australia, where they bombed grounded aircraft on the airdrome at Koepang, starting numerous fires.

RUSSIA:

Relief Army

At points the battle line in Stalingrad had been driven to within 600 yards of the Volga as the struggle for that vital city reached its climax. While the Soviet reports told of beating off constant Nazi attacks, these same communiques admitted that the Germans gained important streets and buildings in other sections of the stricken city.

To the northwest, the Soviet "relief army" battled forward. After one advance this force found 3,000 German troops dead and dying in trenches and dugouts. In one inhabited locality 600 Rumanians were killed and many captured.

Germany's final, all-out drive for the city of Stalingrad itself was just part of the news from Russia, however, for in the Mozdok area of the Caucasus the Nazi advance had been slowed to a standstill; on the Black sea Russian marines were throwing back a strong Nazi drive southeast of Novorossisk; and on the Voronezh sector of the upper Don two German platoons were slaughtered trying to cross a water barrier. (Believed to be the Don river.)

COFFEE:

One Cup a Day

Coffee will be rationed throughout the nation beginning November 28 on the basis of one pound each five weeks for all persons over 15 years of age, under an order issued by the Office of Price Administration.

On the basis of 35 to 40 cups per pound, the ration means slightly more than a cup a day a person. So that merchants can stock their shelves, retail sales of coffee will be frozen at midnight, November 21.

First of all the rationed coffee will be purchased on the last stamp in the sugar ration book, stamp No. 28. Following rationed coffee will be issued by working backward through the sugar stamp book, using stamps No. 28 to 19, in sequence.

Eligibility will be determined by the age shown on the sugar book.

RAF BOMBERS:

Over Italy

Long-range RAF bombers struck 750 miles across France and Switzerland to ravage sections of northern Italy and to smash the port of Genoa in the heaviest raids of the war on Hitler's henchmen.

Targets included the great Genoa-Milan-Turin industrial triangle, site of Italy's principal aircraft and shipbuilding works. The day before, RAF planes left Genoa flaming under two-ton "block buster" bombs.

The British air ministry announced that many large fires were set at Genoa, and the raid drew the almost unheard of admission from Rome radio that the bombers caused heavy damage. While the bombers also attacked other points, they concentrated their incendiaries and heavy explosives on Genoa, Italy's chief port.

The reason for the heaviest attack on Genoa was obvious. That port city is a vital supply terminal for Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in Africa. It is also the site of aircraft parts and munition works.

NORTH AFRICA:

Libya Bound

When the British launched the "biggest battle" of Egypt, military experts knew that the objective was to crush the Africa Corps of Nazi General Rommel and drive the Axis forces deep into Libya, there to crush and destroy it. While it was easy to arrive at this fact it was a more difficult task to determine whether or not this represented the much sought "Second Front."

While the first reports of this new offensive by the British and other United Nations forces revealed that the Germans were being shoved back by the quick thrusts of air and land power nobody was underestimating the tremendous task ahead.

To nullify the German Africa Corps and to open more the Mediterranean sea lanes is a big job. But it appeared that the British attack had been well prepared and long planned. It had been made possible only because huge quantities of supplies had been poured into Egypt from America. These came through by way of the big U. S. base in Eritrea, on the Red sea.

U. S. planes were co-operating with the British but no large numbers of American ground troops were reported in this action. And it was in the air that the United Nations first showed their strongest power. For once Rommel did not rule the skies.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

TANK, PLANE GOAL:

Emphasis Shifted

Disclosing that the year's numerical production for planes and tanks would not be met, President Roosevelt attributed the situation to a shift in emphasis to heavier, harder-hitting models dictated by battle experience.

In his message to congress last January, the President said he had ordered steps taken to "increase our production rate of airplanes so rapidly that in this year, 1942, we shall produce 60,000 planes."

This, he explained, contemplated not the production of 60,000 planes but the attainment of a 60,000-planes-a-year production rate.

He told his press conference that the changeover from the M-3 to the M-4 tank meant that the numerical goal (of 45,000 tanks) would not be reached but that the full amount of steel and materials called for in the initial program would still be used in the manufacture of fighting machines through enlarged units.

THICKER SOX:

And Faster Mail

"Hello, Eleanor."

This was the greeting the President's wife was given as she hustled about the British isles on her visits to American troops stationed there. She had left Buckingham palace and the royalty in it behind and started her tour of inspection at the Washington club, main gathering place for U. S. servicemen on leave in London.

Here she told the soldiers and sailors that she had already learned they would like to have thicker socks. She promised to see what she could do about it. Then the men told her that they would like some kind of a speed-up in the delivery of mail from home. This too, would get her attention, said the First Lady.

Said she: "I came here to learn just such things and I hope you will tell me more." That was her idea, to learn as much about conditions among the AEF as she could. Most people who know Mrs. Roosevelt sensed that she was coming home with a good store of information on this subject.

HONG KONG:

Docks Bombed

Hong Kong's comparatively peaceful days came to a sudden end as United States bombers blasted the Japanese-occupied city in the first Allied raid on the British crown colony since the Japs occupied it last Christmas day.

The U. S. planes unloaded tons of explosives on the great Kowloon dock area, shooting down 10 enemy fighters and probably destroying five others. One American bomber failed to return to its base and one fighter was reported to have made a forced landing in Chinese territory.

Shortly before the Hong Kong raid, Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's China air task force smashed a vast Japanese operated coal mining area around Linsi, in northeast China.

Not a single plane was lost in this, one of the longest bombing raids of the war. The bombers destroyed the huge power plant, which was the main target, and put the Linsi mine and five others in the Kailan area out of commission.

WORLD WAR ACE:

Down in Pacific

The ominous word "overdue" brought news to the world that Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and the crew of a heavy military plane were missing in a Pacific flight between Oahu and another unspecified island.

CAPT. EDDIE RICKENBACKER
End of a secret mission.

Rickenbacker, ace of the first World war with 21 enemy planes and four balloons to his credit, was in the Pacific on an aerial inspection tour for Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, army air force commander. His visit was a military secret until the war department announced he was missing.

Searchers continued to hope that Rickenbacker and the seven army officers and enlisted men accompanying him would be found floating on life rafts that the plane carried. Aviators in the Pacific war have been picked up from similar rafts weeks after their planes have gone down.

Captain Rickenbacker recently returned from England, where he made a special study for the secretary of war of army air force personnel and equipment operating in the active European theater of operation.

Can You Win Freedom From Constipation?
Too many folks go on suffering from constipation when there's no need in the world for them to do so! Why? Simply because one of the commonest causes of constipation is lack of "bulk food" in the diet. In such cases, cathartics and purges can give only temporary relief!
If this is your trouble, you can expect lasting relief from constipation — simply by eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily. This crisp, delicious cereal supplies the "bulk" you may need—gets at the cause of your trouble and corrects it. Start eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN today and drink plenty of water. See what a wonderful difference it makes when you correct the cause instead of trying to "remedy" the result! ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, it's wise to see a doctor.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER
For years the U. S. has consumed over half the world's supply of rubber. Close to 70% of the rubber imported by the U. S. was used in the manufacture of tires and tubes and tire accessories.
Last year a 6.00 by 16 4-ply black sidewall tire weighed 21.84 pounds, of which 11.2 pounds was crude rubber. The balance of the weight was in rubber, fabric, wire and chemicals.
Several years ago a man from Seattle traded a small house for one of the earliest types of automobile tires, of which he was a collector.
The most welcome gift for a Ugandie bride of Africa is an old automobile tire, which she wears as a necklace on special occasions.
The tires on the "Spirit of St. Louis" in the Smithsonian Institution are fifteen years old and still good.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS
● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.
● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.
● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. Thus advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

THE illustration shows what became of a mirror and piano stool. To the mirror and stool were added two wooden boxes from the grocery. These were placed on end about 18 inches apart and a shelf of half-inch plywood was screwed to the top. A frame was then screwed to the back of the boxes as shown. A curtain rod was placed [illegible] top and the mirror hung lengthwise under it. An arm was then hinged to the front of each box. Paint was next. White, because white furniture is smart and because it matched the woodwork. The flowered chintz in tones of rose and blue-green with narrow frills of the plain blue-green tone matched the window curtains.

Salvage The Tin Cans Now

The lowly tin can is important to the war effort. It contains tin that is now impossible to replace. That tin is needed to plate the cannisters of gas masks .... to make bushings for machine gun mounts .... to make solder for electrical connections in bombing planes .... and for dozens of other uses.

Tin cans also contain steel .... not much in each one, but enough in cans your family uses in a year to produce a bigger piece of steel than you could lift. And today steel plants are running at less than capacity for lack of steel scrap.

If your tin can is thrown out with the rubbish, it's gone forever .... nobody can salvage it from the dump. It's up to you. Here's what you do to save valuable metal.

Take the bottom off the can as well as the top .... clean the can thoroughly .... step on round sides to flatten them .... remove the paper label which comes off easily when the can is flattened. Then save the flattened cans until the regular, monthly tin can collection date.

Since May, Marshall County has collected in 6,556,122 pounds of scrap iron. Our per capita total now is 357.6 pounds.

Let us work hard so that we can collect in a total of 400 pounds for each person living in Marshall County by December 31st.

Save Precious Metal For War Production. Don't Throw Away Empty Food Cans.

Arvid Carlson, Chairman,
Marshall County Salvage Comm.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Meyer and sons moved on Wednesday from the Engebretson house to the Sorum house, recently vacated by L. M. Millers.

To the Voters:

I wish to take this opportunity to thank sincererly, all my friends and supporters who worked so hard to forward my candidacy in the recent campaign.

Especially do I wish to congratulate my gallant opponent on his victory and to wish him well in future activities.

Sincerely yours,
HENRY C. HESS.

Meat Scarce In 1850

The present wartime meat shortage is a reminder that on the Minnesota frontier of the 1850's a scarcity of beef, pork, and lamb caused many a pioneer housewife to worry about supplies for her table. Furthermore, work cattle, an essential element in frontier farming, were as hard to obtain as beef cattle.

"Cattle, both for work and for work purposes, are coming in rapidly," wrote the editor of a St. Paul newspaper, the "Minnesota Democrat," on October 25, 1854, but he added that "the demand is greater than the supply." What was considered an extremely high figure, "8 cents net, for good cattle onlthe hoof," was quoted as the "ruling price in the market."

Although every steamboat that arrived at the St. Paul levee carried work cattle and they were being driven in "by land in big droves, "such animals were "scarce and very high" in the Minnesota of 1854. All that could be obtained, announced the editor, were "aiding our sturdy farmers to till the generous soil".

Cows, which had been almost unknown in the new territory a few years earlier, had been brought in by the thousands. The St. Paul editor remarked that "the enjoyment which their good milk affords so abundantly now, is heightened by the thought that as it were but yesterday, it could scarcely be obtained at all." The "Democrat" reveals that experiments were under way in the raising of hogs sheep, and poultry.

The Weather

This community had a light rain on Sunday evening which later turned to snow. Later that day it froze and we had icy roads for a couple of days.

The following were entertained at the H. Moberg home last Wednesday evening for chicken dinner: Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Sannes and daughter Sandra, and Rendal Sannes of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. H. Petersen Thanks Voters

The election is past, the winners have been declared and congratulations and best wishes are extended.

It is, however, to be regretted that a substantial percentage of the voters did not exercise their precious privilege of franchise that we are fighting to maintain.

It is well that we have minorities as well as mojorities. With only one political party we would have the same condition as in the dictator nations.

There are disappointments in temporary losses but there need be no regrets when the campaigns are in behalf of good government. I fought the best fight I could for the offce of governor with the support of hundreds of volunteer workers to whom I am deeply grateful.

Well founded criticism is ever in order and it is up to the majority to heed the urgings of the minority on sound proposals.

I have offered my best for the public welfare in the elective positions held and in the political campaigns waged. I hope that my work has compensated for the vote I have received on various occasions and for which I am very thankful.

Hjalmar Peterson.

Take Care of the Pullets

Pullets out on range at the present time are wastihg their energies and robbing Uncle Sam of some badly-needed eggs for victory, says County Agent R. A. Reierson. The sooner mature pullets are put in the laying house and given proper care for full production, the sooner the poultry business goes on a wartime basis and yields a profit to the owner.

Cora Cooke, extension poultry specialist at University Farm, says that if there is not enough poultry house space to each bird three or four feet of room, it is a good idea to cull the pullets carefully at once. One of the best rules to follow is that a slow grower is a slow layer. Any bird that is backward, pale and sickly might as well be disposed of in order to give room to productive birds.

If old hens are to be kept over for another year, remember that the late molters are the best workers. One-fourth to one-third of the hens are not worth feeding a second year. For that reason, the flock should be culled severely to make sure that no loafers are being kept over. Keeping hens and pullets in separate pens is one way of getting the most eggs from each group.

The Dorcas will have their auction Sale on Friday evening, Nov. 20th. They have for sale 10 pair of hand embroidered pillow cases all of the best quality some lovely dresser scarves, table cloths, and other pieces of fancy work. A good place to shop for Christmas gifts.

More Deer Territory Open

Additional deer hunting territorry will be open November 15 to 25, inclusive by an amendment of the order of the Commissioner of Conservation which will permit hunting with bow and arrow or with shotgun with single slug shell only in areas included in Otter Tail, Douglas and Grant Counties.

Investigation by the game and fish department showed that this area has many deer this fall.

Gas rationing has been postponed by the Government from November 22 to December 1, due to "unavoidable delays" in distribution of coupon books and forms throughout the west and midwest. No change is made in the time for registration.

Trucks Now Rolling Over Alaskan Highway

U. S. troops and supplies are now rolling into Alaska over the Alaska Highway (Alcan), which was finished months ahead of schedule. The 1,600-mile road ends at Fairbanks. Captured in Battle With British Corvette

In a midnight Atlantic ocean battle the corvette Dianthus rammed and sank a U-boat which had been imperiling United Nations supply lines. After the U-boat was blown to the surface with depth charges the Dianthus rammed it four times. A number of German prisoners were picked up by the Dianthus, which rejoined her convoy in time to rescue survivors from a torpedoed merchant ship. Here are some of the U-boat prisoners disembarking from HMS Dianthus at a British port.

Seasickness

Seasickness is rather a mysterious complaint, for the general health of a passenger on board ship does not seem to have much effect upon his resistance to seasickness. Science believes, however, that seasickness is concerned with the upsetting of an individual's physiological balance, which is controlled by what are called the semi-circular canals of the ear. Once that balance is disturbed, the digestive system is the first to be affected, and so vomiting and headaches and mental depression convince the sufferer that he is dangerously ill.

In point of fact, seasickness is more uncomfortable than dangerous. Sedative drugs cure some people, stimulants are effective in other cases.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Japan now controls about 89% of the rubber plantations of the world.

Regardless of whether synthetic rubber is made from petroleum, grain, shrubs or chemicals it will be some time before car owners will be able to purchase synthetic rubber tires. War purposes have first call.

A tombstone marks the spot near Sussex, England, where a tire that had served its owner 15 years was ceremoniously buried.

300 rubber parts, not including tires and tubes, are used in the modern automobile. Without rubber the car would truly be a "jolt" wagon.

There is talk these days of recapping 25,000,000 tires a year! Quite a jump from the 3,600,000 recapped - retreaded mark of 1937.

Automobiles were on over 58% of all U. S. farms in 1940; 15.5% of the farms had motor trucks and 23 1% motor tractors.

Could Be

A diplomat once told a story about a Chinese committing suicide by eating a gold leaf.

"But," exclaimed one of his listeners, "I can't understand how that could have killed him."

"Probably," the diplomat answered, "he died from the consciousness of inward gilt."

In His Line

"Any man can find work if he'll only use his brains," said the efficiency expert, "providing, of course, he is ready to adapt himself to circumstances, like a piano-tuner I once met on the Canadian prairie."

"But even if he was adaptable," protested one listener, "he couldn't make piano-tuning pay with pianos so few and far between."

"Admitted," replied the expert, "but he made quite a decent living tightening up barbed-wire fences."

Knotty Problem

At a local first-aid class, the question of fainting came up. The instructor explained to the class that the cause of fainting was primarily a fault of circulation and that it could be prevented by getting the head lower than the heart.

"For instance," he said, "if you feel faint, and don't want to call attention to it, just lean down and tie your shoe-lace over again."

A woman in the front raised her hand.

"What sort of knot is used?" she asked.

Dancing High-Jumpers

Tallest tribe of men in the world is the Watussi, of Belgian Congo; average height, 6 feet 6 inches. The tribal dances are strenuous, and give them springy thigh muscles, which enable them to leap prodigious heights.

Some of their best performers can fly over a bar eight feet from the ground, and on one ceremonial occasion a whole platoon of them jumped seven feet, two inches higher than the present world's high-jump record!

"But you may never see me again," quickly replied the young lady.

"Well, what's the odds?" he said, meaning to be gallant. "It won't break my heart if I don't."

THE POWER OF THE PRESS

● Manufacturers and merchants sense the power of the press. Early they began using it to carry their advertising facts and ideas into homes. And they found it a most profitable way in which to tell their story to buyers. And the buyers in turn found it profitable to deal with those who were willing to state in print the values and services they offered.

Rail oddities

1918 1942

During World War 1, only one in every five railroad crossties had been chemically treated to give longer service. In 1942, of the billion crossties in use, only one in every six has not been so treated.

Railroad refrigerator car service originated in 1857 when an ordinary box car was fitted with bins of ice to transport dressed beef from Chicago to the East.

Last fall, the railroads estimated they could handle 200,000 barrels of oil a day to the Eastern seaboard—less than nine months later they were actually handling a daily average of more than 700,000 barrels.

The attractive red, white and blue window sticker, pictured above, is the new yardstick of patriotism in the War Bond drive throughout the nation. With the slogan, "Everybody every pay day, ten percent," sweeping the country, patriotic Americans on the home front are rallying to their Government's appeal for funds with which to help finance the war. The home which displays the "ten percent" sticker is doing its share toward Victory for America and the United Nations. The stickers are being distributed through local War Savings Chairmen.

"Keeping Fit" BECOMES RAILROADS' No. 1 PROBLEM

Production and transportation go hand in hand. Every increase in production requires more transportation.

But the materials needed to provide more transportation—or even to keep present transportation services at peak efficiency—are in almost every instance vital war materials.

Steel particularly is sorely needed to build cars and engines, to repair and replace old equipment, and to replace and maintain tracks.

How much longer the railroads will be able to carry the continually swelling volume of war traffic without serious interference with civilian requirements depends largely on whether they can get enough steel and other materials for their most pressing needs.

The rubber shortage has turned freight and passengers from highways to railways. Freight which formerly moved between the east and west coasts by water has of necessity shifted to the rail lines.

Every railroad car today is carrying a heavier load and traveling more miles per day than ever before. Shippers, government and railroads are pulling together to get every ounce of efficiency out of the nation's railroads. Reserve capacity, nevertheless, is running low, while wear and tear is taking its inevitable toll.

This gigantic transportation job—unparalleled in all history—is being performed so smoothly that there is an alarming danger of its being taken for granted—of needed materials being withheld until the railroad machine begins to skip and falter—until it is too late to make replacements before serious failures in railway service have occurred.

The Great Northern railway, for its part, has not and will not ask for a single pound of steel or other critical war materials that it does not need in order to continue to perform its part in the war program and to safeguard the war effort.

Mail Early For Christmas

The Post Office Department now is starting the most gigantic task in its history - - the movement of a deluge of Christmas parcels, cards and letters while maintaining the regular flow of millions of pieces of mail daily to and from our armed forces all over the world.

Indications are that the volume of Christmas mail will be the largest on record.

If thousands of our soldiers, sailors, marines, and civilian friends are not to be dissappointed at Christmas time, the public must cooperate by mailing earlier than ever before and by addressing letters and parcels properly. The best efforts of the Post Office Department alone cannot be enough, in view of wartime difficulties faced by the postal system. The public must assist.

About 25,000 experienced postal workers already have been taken by the war services. Arrangements are under way to add thousands of temporary personnel to postal staffs, but this man power is hard to find and is inexperienced. Facilities of railroads and air lines are heavily taxed by movements of huge quantities of war materials and personnel. Extra trucks are almost impossible to obtain. Winter weather hampering transportation, is beginning.

The free-mailing privilege granted to members of the armed forces has raised their mailings some 30 percent, it is estimated. Expansion of those forces also is adding rapidly to the postal burden.

The deadline is already past for mailing to Army and Navy personell overseas with the assurance that the parcels will arrive by Christmas.

The Post Office Department is making strenous efforts to avoid such a terrific jam as it faced in 1918 under similar conditions, during the First World War. It can succeed in those efforts - - and avoid many heartaches for its patrons - - if the public will cooperate by mailing early.

Careful Inspection of Tires

Careful inspection of passenger tires will be an integral part of the mileage rationing program both from the standpoint of protecting tires and preventing fraudulent use of gasoline, OPA officials have warned the public.

The first inspection of tires on all passenger cars must be completed by January 31, 1943. More than 100,000 approved inspectors will be checking tires every four months for persons who drive with basic "A" ration books. Serial numbers of tires furnished by motorists in registering for their basic "A" books, will provide inspectors with the key to mileage and gas consumption by the cars on which the tires are mounted. At the same time, motorists will get the benefit of continuing expert service to determine when their tires should be recapped or retreaded, what needs to be done with wheels if out of line or rims are bent.

A fee of not to exceed 25 cents will be charged for the inspection except when it is necessary to remove tires or wheels. Complete reports will be kept by the inspectors who will be authorized to notify motorists when tires should be repaired and require action on recommendations.

Miss Frances Aamot of Thief River Falls spent the week end with Rev. and Mrs. Hanson.

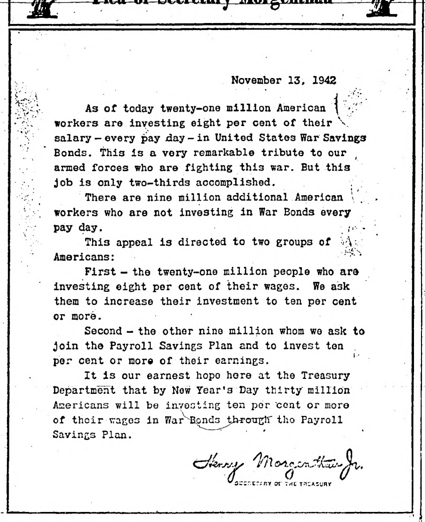
Over the Top by New Year's Is the Plea of Secretary Morgenthau



November 13, 1942

As of today twenty-one million American workers are investing eight per cent of their salary - every pay day - in United States War Savings Bonds. This is a very remarkable tribute to our armed forces who are fighting this war. But this job is only two-thirds accomplished.

There are nine million additional American workers who are not investing in War Bonds every pay day.

This appeal is directed to two groups of Americans:

First - the twenty-one million people who are investing eight per cent of their wages. We ask them to increase their investment to ten per cent or more.

Second - the other nine million whom we ask to join the Payroll Savings Plan and to invest ten per cent or more of their earnings.

It is our earnest hope here at the Treasury Department that by New Year's Day thirty million Americans will be investing ten per cent or more of their wages in War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Hippety-Hop Over the Globe

By Beverly Smith

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with American Magazine)

I landed this afternoon at an airport in Maryland. Where do you think I was last night? In Iceland. And yesterday morning I was in London.

That's the way the U. S. Army Air Transport command plays hippety-hop with global geography.

Primary jobs of the Air Transport command are: first, to take planes as they roll off factory assembly lines and fly them to army airfields in the U. S. A. or to the fighting fronts anywhere in the world; second, to pick up vital loads of men and materials, which cannot wait for surface ships, and fly them to the point where they are wanted, anywhere in the world. Simply a world-wide air delivery service, combined with a world-wide flying freight and passenger service. Sounds simple, doesn't it? But it isn't.

After spending weeks talking with its mechanics and high officers, its pilots, navigators, and weathermen, I still find trouble describing the Air Transport command. It grows literally faster than you can write. Already it is larger than all the prewar air lines of the world combined. Already Brig. Gen. Harold L. George, in command, looks forward to the day when it will be ten times its present size.

But it isn't the size; it's the importance to our war effort. Not long ago, in an inaccessible part of Alaska, an important military hospital was burned to the ground. An SOS was sent to the command. Material and equipment were flown in. Within 36 hours a 24-bed emergency hospital was set up and operating. This freighting operation would have taken weeks with surface transportation.

Planes Versus Ships.

"But how," I wondered, "do transport charges, with even the latest model air transport plane, carrying only 20 tons, compare with those of a ship carrying 6,000 tons?"

Here, the Air Transport command, with its world-wide operations, is proving out a new tonnage-mile arithmetic. For example, take 80 cargo planes 5 tons each. That makes 400 tons. In one month those cargo planes can make 15 trips each, while the merchant ship is making one trip. Fifteen times 400 equals 6,000. Thus, 80 such modern cargo planes can do the work of one big merchant ship. And the planes don't have to worry about submarines.

Of course, the ton-mileage cost of plane freight is still far above that of ship freight, but it is creeping down. Mass production of the big sky-trucks is just getting well under way: costs will go steadily down; efficiencies and pay-loads are going steadily up. The point where valuable express freight may find cargo planes cheaper than railroads, trucks, or ships is coming into sight. And then?

It's a Small World.

Yes, the world is making one of its swift changes under our very eyes as it did when Fulton's first steamboat chugged up the Hudson, or when the golden spike was driven into the first transcontinental railroad, or when auto pioneers began tinkering with mass-production assembly lines.

Little over a year ago, this terrestrial child prodigy was set up under the name of the Ferrying Command by a presidential order directing the army to help speed up delivery of lease-lend planes to Britain. It started with two officers and a clerk. On June 9, 1941, an army pilot took off from a factory with a new plane and delivered it to the British in Montreal.

The events of December 7 boosted the infant command to world dimensions. American production of armaments and planes reached record levels. American production, we agreed, would win the war.

Recently I passed some time at a great Air Transport command field in the eastern part of the United States. A year ago this land was a potato patch. Now it is criss-crossed with runways each over a mile long.

Barracks have been built, hotels brought into service, to house the fliers and maintenance men. Dispersed about the field, as far as the eye can reach, are heavy bombers, light bombers, big transport planes. Some have just come in, others are about to take off. Tank trucks rumble about feeding fuel into the planes, while mechanics give the final check-over before the planes leave for Persia or Chungking, or Russia, England or Alaska.

This is something new under the sun—a Grand Central Station of the Air, with Destinations Unlimited.

A railroad train stops when it comes to the end of the line. A ship cannot go upon the continents. But these flying ships have no limits, because they travel in an ocean of the air which extends over all seas and all lands.

Another way to comprehend this system is to enter that secret control room in Washington. There, spread along the walls, is the big map of the continents. Scattered over this map there are markers showing each of thousands of planes under the jurisdiction of the command.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER
The government's goal is to produce synthetic rubber at a rate of more than 800,000 tons per year by the end of 1943.
Even without a war program requiring tremendous quantities of rubber, the U. S. used 648,000 tons of rubber in 1940.
Any tire made in the last two or three years is good for eight to ten years if not worn out in service.
In 1933, 900 farm tractors were sold with rubber tires and 3,000 steel wheeled tractors were changed over to rubber. Six years later 161,500 rubber tired tractors were bought by American farmers and in addition 45,300 were converted to rubber wheels.
Following a steadily advancing position, tire life in the U. S. has roughly doubled in each of the past decades.

If you dispose of sawdust by burning it in the furnace, be careful not to put too much in the firebox at one time. Packed sawdust smothers live flame and creates an explosive gas that will build up in volume until an explosion—small or large—occurs. This often happens when the fireman opens the door to see about his fire. Painful burns have resulted from this cause.

Treat Constipation This Gentler Way!
Many folks say that almost as bad as constipation are harsh cathartics and purges. That's because many medicinal laxatives work this way: they either prod the intestines into action or draw moisture into them from other parts of the body.
Now comes news of a gentler and pleasanter way of treating constipation, for the millions of people with normal intestines whose trouble is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. This way is by eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, a crisp, delicious cereal, and drinking plenty of water. ALL-BRAN, unlike many medicinal laxatives, acts principally on the contents of the colon and helps you to have easy, normal elimination. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, better see your doctor.

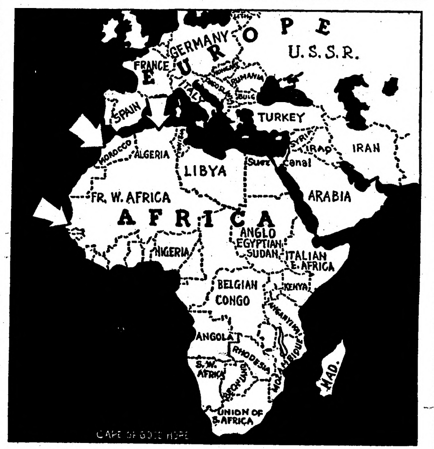
U. S. French North African Campaign Aimed at Aiding British Egyptian Drive In Annihilating All of Rommel's Army; AEF Operations Proceeding on Schedule

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.



Arrows near top of map show general locations of American troop landings in opening the long-heralded second front. U. S. troops struck at Algiers and other key cities, carrying out operations at a speed even greater than anticipated.

FIRST BLOWS:
Gain Objectives

Even as the city of Algiers fell to attacking United States troops, official communiques from Allied North African headquarters announced new successes in the second front drive to forestall an Axis invasion of French territory.

The Algerian port of Oran was reported in American hands, as was near-by Arzew. The capitulation of Algiers, first announced by Vichy and later confirmed by Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in North Africa, provided for American occupation of the city.

Before the city had surrendered, American combat teams and Rangers had captured two air fields in that area and a third near Oran. Possession of the airdromes will enable Allied forces to beat off Axis air attacks from Sicily and Sardinia and gives Mediterranean convoys much-needed aerial protection.

From Allied headquarters in Africa came word of heavy fighting from several French naval units and shore batteries at Algiers and Oran ports, but this was dealt with by British and American naval forces. Coastal defenses at Algiers, manned by Admiral Darlan's navy, sank two light Allied vessels in the harbor. Big guns from some of the greatest warships afloat put an end to the opposition.

VICHY:
Breaks Relations

Meanwhile, the government of Marshal Petain, chief of state in Vichy, France, broke relations with the United States. Pierre Laval, as chief of government, summoned S. Pinkney Tuck, U. S. charge d'affaires at Vichy, and informed him that relations between France and the United States were broken off.

Thus was ended a strong bond of friendship which had persevered for many decades and which lasted through almost a year of war.

At a Washington press conference Secretary of State Cordell Hull disclosed that the United States' relations with Vichy had served their purpose and that the United States no longer cares what attitude the Vichy government takes. He pointed out that the major reason for maintaining relations was to prepare for the drive into Africa. Past relations with Vichy aided the groundwork for that operation.

Petain took his action after talking to his highest advisers, including Laval and Gen. Maxime Weygand, former pro-consul for French North Africa. Early fragments of information reaching Vichy gave isolated reports of at least 10 American landings, air and sea bombardments and De Gaullist (Fighting French) uprisings. American forces were reported ashore in an area extending over about 650 miles of France's North African coast on the Atlantic and the Mediterranean.

OPERATIONS:
'Proceeding Rapidly'

While Vichy evidenced its reluctance to believe battlefront reports, authoritative dispatches from American correspondents said that everywhere operations were proceeding rapidly.

Americans were quick to seize airfields in the region of Algiers and Oran. Veteran fighter pilots set their planes down on the fields immediately after ground forces overran the airports. The split-second timing was revealed when, in one case, American fighter planes coming in to land aided in the capture of the field at the last minute with a ground strafing attack which removed the last vestige of resistance.

The feat of one eager American combat force was reported in early communications. One of the few submarines which reached the convoy disabled a transport, packed with the combat force. Instead of waiting to be towed back to port by the destroyers, the army commander ordered his men to take to their assault boats, tiny, flat-bottomed craft designed only for short forays to landing beaches. With destroyers as an escort the strange armada sailed 120 miles through rough water to land at one of the many beachheads. The seasick soldiers stuck to their posts throughout the dangerous journey and achieved what was termed a feat without parallel in such an operation.

ROMMEL:
Distance Runner

The battered remnants of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's African army had new worries. Pursued relentlessly by the British Eighth army, the arrival of American troops in Algeria launched a powerfully equipped spearhead of power at Rommel's back. The pincers appeared to be closing.

Official British announcements told how the Germans abandoned their Italian allies to capture or annihilation. A Cairo dispatch said that six entire Italian divisions have been captured complete with all their equipment. "It seems clear," said a British war bulletin, "that the Germans withdrew without attempting to extricate any of the Italian infantry formations."

The fleeing Axis armies already had left Mersa Matruh far behind. Halfaya (Hellfire) pass, a narrow defile leading into Libya's arid regions, loomed ahead. Even though the Nazis get through Halfaya pass, they are confronted with new obstacles. They have lost the bulk of their armored forces and most of their Italian support. They are a long way from home and face the possibility of being cut off. Should the battle be fought out in the Libyan desert, it will be possible for the British to flank the remainder of Rommel's men.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

HOROSHO—That was the word the Russians shouted through the streets of their towns and villages as they greeted the news of the American campaign opening up in Africa. "Horosho" in Russian is the equivalent of "swell."

KILLED—In Egypt, Peter Wood, son of Lord Halifax, British Ambassador to the U. S., was killed in action.

REVERSAL—Capt. Fred Eldridge, editor of The Roundup, newspaper for American forces in China, Burma and India, urged sarcastically that "all you guys sweating it out up in Assam and China start writing letters to the States and sending little packages of goodies to buck up home morale." He pointed to the "terrible" hardships of gas rationing and the $25,000 limit on salaries.

HOOK BURLAP SQUARES
HEM AND THEN SEW TOGETHER

HERE is a hooked hearth rug that may some day grow up to room size. So far every female member of the family has hooked at least one square, and the males are all represented by materials from cast-off suits, socks and sweaters. The turquoise flowers and red cherries in the alternate squares are from dyed pieces of the old cream colored wool blankets. When the squares are hemmed and sewn together with strong carpet thread, they form a fascinating pattern of circles, flowers and fruit.

Twelve-inch squares of burlap overcast around the edge made the foundation pieces. Patterns for the repeat design were cut from paper and the burlap was marked by drawing around these with wax crayon. Loops of fabric strips were drawn through with a steel rug hook. Red was used for the curved lines shown at the upper left. Tones of brown for the flower and gray for the cherry background. Mixed colors for the rest of the design.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears has prepared a special pattern for the rug in today's sketch with detailed directions for beginners. So, even if you have never made a hooked rug, you can start now making squares for a rug of any size you wish. Achieving small successes are always occasions for celebrating in every American home. An evening-long but triumphant tussle with the family budget calls for a midnight snack and a glass of beer. A promotion calls for dinner out and "the best steak you've got".

"Morale" is a solemn word for the warm feeling of pleasure and satisfaction that comes to men and women on these occasions. It is a state of mind, a blend of contentment and friendship, ambition and achievement, hope and confidence.

Mail Early For Christmas

The bulk of Christmas mail must be in the post offices by December 1 this year if deliveries are to be assured, according the postal debartment.

Unprecedented wartime demands on the postal and transportation systems, plus a prospective record volume of Christmas mailings, are cited as necessitating earlier mailings than ever before.

"Keeping Fit" BECOMES RAILROADS' No. 1 PROBLEM

Production and transportation go hand in hand. Every increase in production requires more transportation.

But the materials needed to provide more transportation—or even to keep present transportation services at peak efficiency—are in almost every instance vital war materials.

Steel particularly is sorely needed to build cars and engines, to repair and replace old equipment, and to replace and maintain tracks.

How much longer the railroads will be able to carry the continually swelling volume of war traffic without serious interference with civilian requirements depends largely on whether they can get enough steel and other materials for their most pressing needs.

The rubber shortage has turned freight and passengers from highways to railways. Freight which formerly moved between the east and west coasts by water has of necessity shifted to the rail lines.

Every railroad car today is carrying a heavier load and traveling more miles per day than ever before. Shippers, government and railroads are pulling together to get every ounce of efficiency out of the nation's railroads. Reserve capacity, nevertheless, is running low, while wear and tear is taking its inevitable toll.

This gigantic transportation job—unparalleled in all history—is being performed so smoothly that there is an alarming danger of its being taken for granted—of needed materials being withheld until the railroad machine begins to skip and falter—until it is too late to make replacements before serious failures in railway service have occurred.

The Great Northern railway, for its part, has not and will not ask for a single pound of steel or other critical war materials that it does not need in order to continue to perform its part in the war program and to safeguard the war effort.

U. S. Coffee Rations Easy

The Northwest coffee-lover may think the rationing deal he gets beginning Sunday is pretty rugged, but it's an easy deal compared with what is passing for coffee in other countries.

The rationing plan of one pound per adult for each five weeks works out to about 3.2 ounces per adult per week. The northwest coffee drinker is getting the finest product from Latin America in thoss 3.2 ounces.

Almost no coffee is to be had in Germany. Scanty stocks on hand command fancy prices on the black market. German people are drinking "eratz" a substitute that is limited, too.

In Belgium, neither coffee, tea nor cocoa are to be had at any price in the legitimate market, but the coffee drinker may get himself a couple of cups of chicory a month. Danes may get up to seven cups of coffee a month, while in France, there were about three cups of coffee a month to those who knew where to find it, or seven to eight cups of an unpalatable coffee mixture. In Unoccupied France, the choice was between three cups of real coffee or ten cups of national coffee, a substitute material.

In the Netherlands, those who can afford it and can find it, might drink as many as 20 cups of coffee, tea, cocoa or substitutes a month. In neutral Sweden, the monthly quota has been six cups. Greece. Poland and Jugoslavia literally have no coffee, tea or cocoa.

Protect Your Trees Now

Winter is the time young fruit trees must be protected from rodent injury, Rabbits and mice are the worst pests.

Good protection can be secured from wire screen or hardware cloth guards extending from the ground level or slightly below to the first branches.

E. M. Hunt, extension horticulturist at University Farm, gives the formula for a repellent paint which may be used instead of guards. This is a resin alcohol mixture which can be prepared by dissolving one pound of resin in one pint of denatured alcohol. If the resin is finely powdered, dissolve it by mixing with the alcohol and shaking vigorously. If the resin is coarse, heat it barely to the melting point and stir carefully into alcohol which has been warmed by placing the uncorkeu bottle in a container of warm water. Do not heat the alcohol directly or near an open flame.

Apply the paint with a brush to the trunk and lower branches when they are dry. One treatment is usually sufficient.

As an added protection against mice, clean away grass or weeds from the base of the tree and mound up the soil eight inches high against the trunk In the spring the mounds should be leveled.

Mora Heavy Scrap Needed

The Government is calling for more and heavier scrap. They had better appoint us on the scrap finding committee and give us authority to have the heavy scrap brought in and sent to the smelters. There are tons in many places of the county that will never be salvaged unless there are provisions made for such work. And this scrap ranges from small items to complete steel bridges.

To the Editor:

Now that the official state canvassing board report shows that the people electec me to Congress from the 9th Congressional District by a majority of 604 votes, I want to take this means of spreading the following message to the citizens of Northwestern Minnesota.

As your new Congressman I always will make every effort to serve all of the people of the 9th District and of the state and nation, irrespective of party politics. In other words, my office staff and myself are ready, willing, and anxious to serve the official demands and wishes of the people of the 9th District. These days are not the time for partisan politics or the building of party political machines. I want to assure you my full time and efforts will be extended for the welfare and best wishes of the people of our district.

I seek the guidance and counsel of all citizens, the business people, the workers, and the farmers and especially the latter because we realize that farming is the main business and main industry of our district. Therefore I ask the readers of your excellent newspaper to take time to write me and express their views on the important problems and issues confronting the people, our district, our nation, and the world today.

I appreciate the very honest serious opposition to me in the recent campaign. It was on a very high plane and no ill feeling developed and no false reports were spread against me. For this I feel very gratified. I always refrained from mentioning my opponent in any way whatever and even those opposed to me complimented me and my supporters on the friendly and clean campaign we conducted.

My sincere and humble appreciation is given to the thousands of loyal citizens in the 9th District. I am especially appreciative of the unselfish effort extended in my behalf by so many friends and supporters, Farmer-Laborites, Democrats, and Republicans alike.

Now of course we all must see this war through to its victorious close and then begin the work of developing a happy, prosperous Christian community and nation.

I am happy of the opportunity to serve the 9th District in Congress and Washington, D. C., and to join with the citizens of our district in building a greater and finer place to live.

With all good wishes, I am
Very cordially yours,
Harold C. Hagen

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

In the modern automobile there are 32.5 pounds of rubber in addition to that used in tires and tubes.

Last summer's national scrap rubber drive brought out 6.87 pounds per capita. Even this gratifying amount represented only a scraping of the surface of the scrap littering the backyards, cellars and attics of the country.

There are some 3,065,000 miles of roads in the United States of which 40% are of the surfaced highway type. More improved roads than any other country in the world.

There are more than 10 motor vehicles for each mile of highway in the United States. Pre-gas rationing Sundays made this ratio seem like 10 cars to each 100 feet of road.

In 1940 it was estimated that the market value of passenger cars in the U.S. was $7,209,000,000; trucks had a value of $1,165,000,000.

PREPAREDNESS by the AMERICAN RED CROSS

THE making of large numbers of surgical dressings for the armed forces in wartime is one of the principal duties of the American Red Cross.

Immediately after the outbreak of the world war in Europe in September, 1939, more than 500 Red Cross chapters throughout the nation began making large quantities of surgical dressings for our army and navy. In addition, a large number of dressings were made to be used by Red Cross relief organizations caring for the suffering civilian population in the war-torn countries of Europe.

As the war progressed and spread to more and more nations of the world, this program of surgical dressings was gradually enlarged and extended to Red Cross chapters in practically every county in the United States. Today more than 3,000 Red Cross chapters are busily engaged in making surgical dressings for our army and specifications and methods navy according to standard furnished by them.

More than two million women throughout the nation are now making surgical dressings for our armed forces under this program. By the end of October, 1942, they had made more than a hundred million dressings of all kinds and were embarking on a very large program for the coming year. The making of surgical dressings is a very important work in which nearly every woman can participate, no matter where she is located or how little time she can spare. Many thousands of volunteers are needed for this work and every one of the 3,350 Red Cross chapters participating in this program in nearly every county in the United States needs help.

The old chipped white enamel was rubbed with coarse and then fine sandpaper until smooth. The new seat came next; then flat paint which was allowed to dry 24 hours before applying enamel.

Next, the cover was made with a straight two-inch fringe trimmed band and ties around the uprights of the back.

Giddy Men's Styles

Freakish new men's styles were a hobby with Francis Bacon. He put his giddy ideas on paper, had tailors transform them into cloth. When no relative or friend would wear his weird creations, he hired men to put them on and stroll about the streets of London.

Disraeli always sported a "morning" and an "evening" cane. At the stroke of noon—no matter where he was—he changed sticks!

AROUND THE HOUSE

Salt should never be added to stews, soups and boiled meats until after they are cooked. If put in at first it toughens the fiber of the meat and takes out the juices.

Whey will not form if milk is warmed before adding eggs to it when making custards.

Geraniums should be kept in a very sunny window if you wish them to live through the winter.

Don't forget that matching curtains and slip covers will make a room sprightly in spite of its age.

In buying iodine for the medicine closet never buy any solution stronger than 2 per cent. A 2 per cent solution is specified by the Red Cross First Aid Manuals as strong enough for those other than doctors to use.

* * *

Some meat loaves call for bacon strips on the top. To prevent the bacon from becoming too brown before the loaf is done, arrange it during the last 20 minutes of baking.

* * *

A teaspoon of celery salt added to cracker crumbs in which oysters are rolled before frying improves their flavor.

* * *

Artificial fruit may be cleaned easily if dipped in and out of white soapsuds several times, then rinse in clear water to which a few drops of ammonia have been added.

* * *

To broil steak, grease the rack of the broiler. Place the meat on rack close to the heat. Sear it quickly on one side, season with salt and pepper, turn and sear on other side. Lower the rack or the heat to allow steak to finish cooking. Season and add a piece of butter before serving. Rare steak is juicy and flavorful and is often preferred to well-done steak. Do not pierce center of steak when turning.

When storing parsley to keep it fresh, wash well and while "dripping" place in a jar. Cover and store in a cold place.

Brown stains can be removed from the kitchen range with a cloth dipped in turpentine. A little pressure will help here.

Second Contestant Was Runner-Up to the Worst

Both were very proud of their vocal abilities: for months they had squabbled over the question as to which possessed the better voice. At last, to settle bets they had made with each other, they arranged to give a recital before an eminent professor and abide by his judgment.

When they had concluded, the professor turned to the first, shaking his head sorrowfully.

"You're the worst singer I've ever heard," he said.

"Hurrah!" shouted the other. "Come on! Pay me that fiver!"

"One moment, please," said the professor, quietly. "You—er—well, you can't sing at all!"

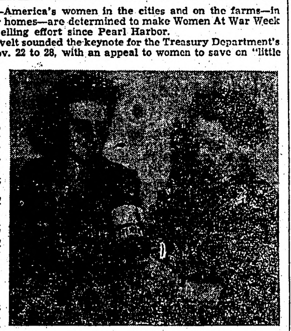
Record War Bond Sales Is Goal Of Women At War Week Nov. 22

WASHINGTON, D. C.—America's women in the cities and on the farms—in war factories and in their homes—are determined to make Women At War Week the greatest War Bond selling effort since Pearl Harbor.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt sounded the keynote for the Treasury Department's Women At War Week, Nov. 22 to 28, with an appeal to women to save on "little things" to provide money for War Bonds.



During Women At War Week volunteer War Bond saleswomen will wear an armband similar to the one being attached to the sleeve of Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., by Miss Harriet Elliott.

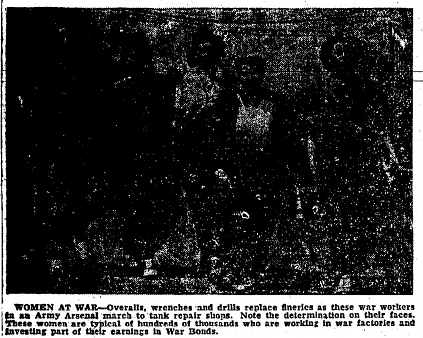
"We women want to work hard, we want to be a part of this strenuous period because unless we are, we will not be able to face the men when they return and claim our share of the future responsibility for building a peaceful world," the First Lady declared.

The overall direction of Women At War Week rests with the Women's Section of the War Savings Staff under the leadership of Miss Harriet Elliott, Associate Field Director, and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Chief of the Special Activities Unit.

From coast to coast women in every community have made plans for torchlight parades, fashion shows, teas, rallies, store window displays, Stamp and Bond booths, pageants, civic sings, balls and mardi gras. In each locality administration of the one week drive rests with the local War Savings Committee which has worked out activities adapted to their areas.

Mrs. Morgenthau, in a special message for Women At War Week, declared that the spirit of America's pioneer women lives today more strongly than ever.

"The average American woman began to rise to new heights on Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941," Mrs. Morgenthau said. "This winter the average American woman will be spending less in order to save more to invest in War Bonds and Stamps. She will not, please God, ever have to fire a gun or fly a bomber. But she will, please God, always do everything she can to help buy anything—and the best of everything—that fires or flies or floats in this terrible war."



WOMEN AT WAR—Overalls, wrenches and drills replace fineries as these war workers in an Army Arsenal march to tank repair shops. Note the determination on their faces. These women are typical of hundreds of thousands who are working in war factories and investing part of their earnings in War Bonds.

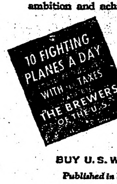
"THIS HITS THE SPOT!"
.... (THAT'S MORALE)

Achieving small successes are always occasions for celebrating in every American home. An evening-long but triumphant tussle with the family budget calls for a midnight snack and a glass of beer. A promotion calls for dinner out and "the best steak you've got".

"Morale" is a solemn word for the warm feeling of pleasure and satisfaction that comes to men and women on these occasions. It is a state of mind, a blend of contentment and friendship, ambition and achievement, hope and confidence.



Today more people are rediscovering the joys of their own homes and firesides as the result of gas rationing. They are also rediscovering the wholesome, hospitable custom of serving mildly stimulating, delightfully refreshing beer in their homes to promote needed relaxation, good neighborliness and true sobriety. America, faced with the hardest job in her history, can count on beer to help sustain and encourage the faith of her people.

"Keeping Fit" BECOMES RAILROADS' No. 1 PROBLEM

Production and transportation go hand in hand. Every increase in production requires more transportation.

But the materials needed to provide more transportation—or even to keep present transportation services at peak efficiency—are in almost every instance vital war materials.

Steel particularly is sorely needed to build cars and engines, to repair and replace old equipment, and to replace and maintain tracks.

How much longer the railroads will be able to carry the continually swelling volume of war traffic without serious interference with civilian requirements depends largely on whether they can get enough steel and other materials for their most pressing needs.

The rubber shortage has turned freight and passengers from highways to railways. Freight which formerly moved between the east and west coasts by water has of necessity shifted to the rail lines.

Every railroad car today is carrying a heavier load and traveling more miles per day than ever before. Shippers, government and railroads are pulling together to get every ounce of efficiency out of the nation's railroads. Reserve capacity, nevertheless, is running low, while wear and tear is taking its inevitable toll.

This gigantic transportation job—unparalleled in all history—is being performed so smoothly that there is an alarming danger of its being taken for granted—of needed materials being withheld until the railroad machine begins to skip and falter—until it is too late to make replacements before serious failures in railway service have occurred.

The Great Northern railway, for its part, has not and will not ask for a single pound of steel or other critical war materials that it does not need in order to continue to perform its part in the war program and to safeguard the war effort.

Give To The Russian Relief

The Marshall County Russian War Relief Seed Committte, appeals to the farmers of Marshall County to donate from their abundance of grain or money to help our fellow farmers in Russia to get seed grain to plant their scorched and war ravaged fields next spring. Russia is turning back one of the Worlds strongest military powers and no other power or nation could have done that and, by this they are saving the lives of our boys and our property and farms.

We cannot stress to strongly the motivating object of this work right now, and we are hoping that everyone will cooperate. All farmers living in the east end of the county are asked to leave their donations with their creamery operators, and all from this county that deliver their cream to some creamery outside of the county, please leave your donations where you deliver your cream and the men in charge there will be asked to collect your donations and send them in to G. A. Sustad, Viking, Minn., who is the treasurer of the Marshall County Committee.

Lets all help the Rurssian farmers to get seed to plant their 1943 crop, and lets hope they will raise a bumper crop so they can feed Russias hungry millions, otherwise we will have to feed them next year.

Very truly yours,
Marshall County Russian War Relief Seed Committee.

Unless they can produce the approval of the head of their agency." Mr. Roosevelt said that after his order November 17 for cancellation of all deferments already made on the basis of federal service, there was a rush of government employees to get into uniform. He said his new order should apply not only to the regular civilian employees of the government "but also to employees in Army arsenals and in Navy yards and Navy shore establishments owned or operated by the United States."

Synthetic Rubber Industry Achieved Within One Year

Speedy Adoption of Rubber Manufacturing Program Shaves 24 Years From Time Required to Launch New Industry.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

By the time this is written or shortly thereafter, announcement will be made of the creation of what may become one of the world's greatest industries—synthetic rubber manufacturing. By that time probably ten plants will be assured of operation—the three biggest will make synthetic rubber out of alcohol, which means a market for the farmer's grain.

If the program marches according to schedule, the United States will have achieved within one year what usually takes a quarter of a century to accomplish—the building of a new industry.

This is the message that William Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railway, now rubber administrator in Washington, gave me.

Mr. Jeffers presides at a desk in one of the offices of the War Production board and appears to be one man taken out of the American business world who believes that you can get things done even within the government.

He looks like what he is. A railroad man who came up from the bottom, still carries a union card and usually mentions it. He is stocky—bull-necked, slow spoken, a prophet of the practical, skeptical of the theoretical, who talks about his "two-fisted" organization of successful "business men" who "know their stuff."

I asked him first if he found much difference between working for the government and running a railroad.

"Yes," he answered. Then he smiled and took his time before he went on.

"This is a democracy—I suppose the delays are necessary. But I haven't had much trouble." He looked up. "I make my own decisions. I got that Ford plant overnight." (He engineered the negotiations for the Ford tire manufacturing plant in Detroit for shipment to Russia.)

Using What We Have

"I have a top-notch organization of two-fisted businessmen who know their stuff. We are going to do what we are supposed to do on schedule. On our own schedule. We have the information we want and in a few weeks we'll know just how many plants we are going to have, what their capacity will be and the order in which they will start producing.

"My first job," Jeffers went on as he lifted his 220 pounds and walked around the desk, "is keeping the country on rubber with what we've got. That means reclamation and conservation. Then it's to produce the synthetic rubber we need to keep going for the duration. Meanwhile I watch that stock pile of pure rubber we have, like a hawk.

"Here are the ABC's," he said, motioning me to a chair beside a table on which was standing what looked like an open sample case. It contained a number of bottles and a few other objects properly labeled. He pointed to the first bottle. "This is full of shreds," he said. "It is part of a whole tire, casing and all, cut up." He pointed to the next bottle. "This," he said, "is the same stuff after it has been soaked in oil and acid and the pieces of casing floated out. You can see the pieces of metal in it still." He showed me a screen with pieces of metal on it. "Here is the filter which strains out the metal—a lot of metal gets into a tire." There were a lot of pieces sticking to the bottom of the filter.

"These next bottles," he went on, "show the way the stuff looks after each successive process of refining. And here is the reclaimed rubber," he said as he picked up a black strip. Then he pointed to a new tire leaning against the wall. "This tire is made of reclaimed rubber." I felt it. It seemed normal. I said so. "It isn't as good as the tires you get today," he said, "but it is as good as the ones you got ten years ago."

Rubber Production

Then we came to part two—part two of his job, which is the production of synthetic rubber.

He showed me a yellowish object which felt like rubber. "This is neophrene—synthetic rubber made of carbide. It is better than rubber, but it is very expensive."

There were two bottles, the contents of which looked just alike to me—a milky substance. One was the pure latex from the rubber tree. The other was a synthetic product made from alcohol of petroleum.

"I am not a chemist," Jeffers said, "and I don't intend to be one. Those are just the ABC's."

He went back to the immediate problem before him, which is to keep America rolling until the synthetic factories start to work.

"Are you going to be able to do that?" I asked.

"It is not impossible if everybody plays the game," he said. "I know you can't regiment the American people and I am not in favor of trying to do it, but when the people understand what we are trying to do for them, I think they will cooperate. I have gotten splendid cooperation already from big business, little business and individuals. It is reassuring to learn how people react when they know what we are doing. I get all kinds of letters—and I answer all of them.

"When the people realize how important it is to help us help them save rubber, they will co-operate. In the last war we had a lot of flags and parades, went down to the train to see the fellows off with a band. There doesn't seem to be any of that in this war. It might be a good thing. But when the people realize that the most vital thing in our war effort is saving rubber, we are going to see something tangible."

At that point Mr. Jeffers dropped an aside, one of the little human remarks that are typical of him, tinged though it is with a touch of irony—"Maybe if the people didn't run around so much they could visit their neighbors and they might make friends and get better friends that way."

Rubber and Economics

"Rubber affects the social life of the people, no doubt—the whole American economy, rightly or wrongly, is built on rubber and we can't change it. Look at the farmer. We have to have food. The farmer can't go back to the horse and wagon. If he could get the horses, we couldn't build the wagons now. He has to get the crops to market—it all comes back to transportation.

"We'll keep them on rubber. Gas rationing is rough justice. It works hardships on some. Some take advantage of it—it's the man who has three gallons more than he needs and uses them to ride around the country that is the waster. But I think we'll get co-operation."

I went back to problem two: the building of the synthetic industry.

"The government will own the plants," I said, "won't that make post-war problems?" He said to me, "Yes, the government will own the plants and the product will be manufactured on what amounts to a 'management fee' basis. A lot of other things," he said, "will be made under the same conditions."

"But I'm not interested in post-war problems," Jeffers went on, "my job is to help win the war. Unless bugs develop that we can't take care of, we'll do it. And if we do, we'll accomplish in a year and a half what it usually takes 25 years to do."

Co-operation will do that—and keep the country on rubber meanwhile—and co-operation means big business, little business and the folks "who eat in the kitchen" as Mr. Jeffers puts it. "They have the balance of power," he says.

About Wasted Coal

According to the United States Office of the Bituminous Coal Consumers' Counsel bituminous or "soft" coal is the backbone of America. It supplies industry with more than one-half of the power and energy required to produce the weapons of war. Creates nearly 55 per cent of the electricity used in our nation. Heats more than 50 per cent of the homes of America. Four out of five of all the railroad locomotives of the country get their power from bituminous coal.

Twenty-five million tons of "soft" coal will be wasted by the domestic consumer this year unless more than usual care is exercised in the operation of home heating furnaces.

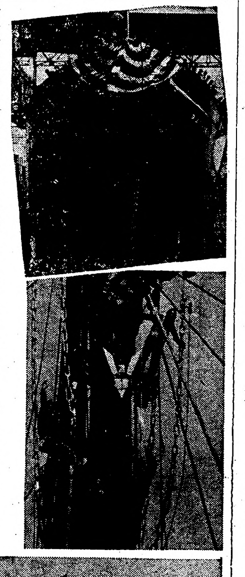
U. S. Shipbuilders Break All Records to Break Axis

The United States is now nearing the peak of production in the greatest ship-building program in world history. Not only have all previous production records in this or any other nation's shipyards been broken, but a shipbuilding capacity far greater than that of all the rest of the world combined has been created.

It now appears quite certain that the 8,000,000 deadweight-ton goal set by President Roosevelt for 1942 in the directive he issued at the time of his "State of the Nation" address in January of this year will be reached.

One of the outstanding accomplishments by American shipbuilders in the past year has been the reduction of building time they have made, particularly in the emergency cargo vessels of the Liberty ship type. These pictures give you close-ups of our Liberty fleet in-the-making.



Shown at right are (top) the Patrick Henry, first of the Maritime commission's Liberty ships. (Below) Hands upraised in a victory salute, shipyard workers at Bethlehem-Fairfield, Baltimore, hold the Maritime Eagle aloft in the main mast of a Liberty ship.

Dead Letters from Germany

By Maurice Hindus

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with American Magazine)

These letters, an armful of them, fell in my lap with a rustle like windblown leaves. "Fresh from the front," said my host, a widely known Russian writer. I am in Moscow, hunting for news.

These letters had been gathered from German dead on Don battlefields. The paper was ragged, but the decorative envelopes were of various colors, white, blue, and pink. All were written in Gothic script, many in pencil.

On top of the heap lay a postal card, shiny with two large drops of blood. It was from mother to son. The writing was scarcely legible, but from the few words I could make out, the soldier and his mother loved each other deeply. The blood indicated that the soldier had carried it close to his body.

There was something spectral about this postal card, about all the letters. They seemed like voices from the dead. But they weren't. They were voices from the living—inside Germany.

Russians Collect Letters From Dead

The Russians have collected hundreds of thousands of such letters, and also diaries, from the German dead. These have been read, digested, put away. In the absence of direct relations between the United Nations and Germany, they are the only authentic source of information about Germany and the German people that we now have.

The letters are intimate and personal—from parents to son, from brides to grooms, sisters to brothers, wives to husbands. They are as good a mirror as we have today of Germany, of the conditions of life and state of mind of civilians and soldiers.

85 Per Cent of Letters Ignore Politics

The outstanding feature of this correspondence is that 85 per cent of all the letters completely ignore politics, rarely mentioning the fuehrer or other Nazi chiefs, or referring to Nazi doctrines or practice.

Perhaps this is why military censorship is so lenient. Seldom are there any deletions, even when the writers speak frankly of hardship and sorrow, or of such delicate subjects as the deterioration of the morals of German women.

An Italian named Giovanni Volpi, working in Kufstein, Germany, writes to an Italian soldier at the Russian front: "I'll tell you frankly, German women have lost all control of themselves. They have gone out of their minds."

German Women 'Loose.'

So while Germans by the thousands die daily for the supremacy of their race and the purity of their blood, their women at home, despite Nazi ideology and Gestapo vigilance, indulge in no small amount of race defilement. That's one reason, no doubt, why German mothers and fathers show increasing anxiety and bewilderment at the "foreignization" of Germany through the presence of millions of alien laborers and war prisoners.

"You ask me," writes a father to his son, "how Berlin looks these days. Dear Fritz, Berlin has become an international city—you can hear every language in this street."

Vienna is no better. Bettie Schummer writes her husband: "Life is hard in Vienna. The city is crowded with foreigners . . . In the trolleys you hear only Italians, Spaniards, Hungarians, Czechs, Slovaks, Greeks, Bulgarians. Viennese are hardly seen."

Religious Folk Air Complaints.

Most of the letters are filled with complaints. Religious people feel hurt because the church bells have been melted into cannons. Now and then there's a letter about the treatment of elderly people which tells most by what it leaves unsaid. There are endless complaints of hardships.

The information in letters found on the German dead, intimate and personal as it is, leads to some striking deductions. The people inside Germany hate the war and want it to end. They are tired of hardships, sick of sacrifice. They lament the moral disintegration of their young women; they shudder at air raids; they weep over their dead.

But nowhere do they betray the least suggestion of German guilt or regret for horrors which the German armies perpetrate.

Hard as is their life, they know neither starvation nor desperation. Nor do they expect Germany to lose the war. To expect them at this time to revolt against Hitler is as futile and puerile as to expect the fuehrer to live up to his promises or the treaties he signs.

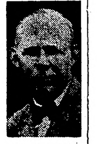
The Allies airman has made himself very unpopular in Germany. He is to Germans the "supreme villain" of today. They hate him.

It is interesting to observe that some of the gloomiest letters come from the Sudetenland, which the Munich agreement cut from Czechoslovakia and turned over to Hitler. I was in the Sudetenland during those explosive days, and witnessed the clamorous joy with which German youth greeted Hitler's triumph. Here is a typical letter: "Every day there's a funeral. Carl Garron, a splendid young carpenter, has been buried. So have Dr. Pochman, and Frau Pomesin. Yesterday we attended the saddest of all funerals—mother's."

Sportlight by GRANTLAND RICE

THE OLD GUARD REPORTS

IT IS reported to be a "long way to Tipperary." Also, it is a long way from Walter Camp's first All-America football team. That selection was made in 1889, which is a matter of 53 years back in football history or any history. In sport this is something you can call faraway and long ago.



Grantland Rice

Naturally one gets a thrill when he runs across one of the few left from that old-time outfit, such as Pudge Heffelfinger of Yale, still my top football player. I mean a star in 1889 at the age of 20, and still a star (ask Bo McMillin) in 1922, 33 years later. And I mean a 60-minute star.

So there was something of a thrill in meeting Channing of Princeton, and in looking back into the past. Channing of Princeton was also on Mr. Camp's first team—a running mate of Snake Ames, one of the star college athletes of all time, a slender back who had to take the physical beating of mass play for 60 minutes every game.

Then and Now

"There isn't any question at all," Mr. Channing told me, "that modern football is far superior to the game we played. It is faster, smarter, more interesting. It has greater action.

"In those days we never had to bother with forward passes, reverses, spinners, mousetrapping, changing defenses, wing backs, T-formations and a dozen things I might mention that the modern player has to face.

"We had only three factors to consider then—power, speed and durability. We never had to figure in advance all the complex things that might happen to an offense or a defense. Actually, we never had to think much. It was largely a matter of overpowering the other team by power and speed. The modern game is a far better game for everybody—players and spectators.

'We Were Tougher'

"We had just one advantage over this present bunch," 1889 All-America Channing said. "Undoubtedly we were tougher. We could take more. In those days we had no automobiles, no night clubs, no motion pictures, no radios, no distractions. We had only football.

"I'll give you several examples. Pudge Heffelfinger was on that 1889 All-America. Thirty-three years later he played 60 minutes in a professional game with Bo McMillin in Ohio, and he was still the roughest, toughest man in that game. He played against the best pros of 1921 and 1922 and he turned them into tenpins.

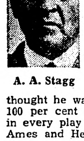
"Talk about running guards. Pudge was a great running guard in 1889. And he was 53 and McMillin was 22 when they played together, yet Pudge kept saying to Bo, 'More speed, kid. Don't get in my way.' And McMillin was one of the best and one of the toughest, in a football way, this game ever has known.

"Pudge dislocated his right shoulder in the first play of that game, but still starred through the whole distance.

More Evidence

"I'll give you more evidence that we could take it," Mr. Channing said. "Shep Homans was Snake Ames' substitute at fullback for Princeton, but Shep never got to play a second while Snake was around. After Snake had been graduated, Homans was All-America for two years at fullback, and in 18 games his substitute never got into a game—not even for a play.

"We were 60-minute players then. I mean all of us. Heffelfinger, Hare, Ames, Stagg—don't forget Stagg. At 80 he is still just as active, just as alert, just as keen as he was over 50 years ago.



A. A. Stagg

"I'd like to tell you more about such great people as Brinck Thorne and Frank Hinkey. Hinkey weighed a hundred and fifty pounds, and they thought he was too rough. He put 100 per cent of everything he had in every play he made, and so did Ames and Heffelfinger and Thorne and many others.

"At that time the softening influences of modern civilization hadn't come along to help kill off our legs and our stamina. Certainly, the kids today are just as game as we ever were. And they are football smarter.

"Can you pick from this crop today a Stagg who still will be leading his men at the age of 80—or a Heffelfinger who might be playing in a game at 66, as he did for charity in Minneapolis?

"Yes, they are faster, smarter and more interesting than we ever were. But we were tougher."

Up to This Time Judge Had Not Been Suspected

A man was being tried in the local court for misappropriating a pig, and a conscientious witness, to whom the accused was said to have confided, was on the stand, being examined.

"Now then, can you repeat the exact words in which the prisoner confessed to you to taking the pig?" asked the counsel.

"He said, sir, that he took the pig," replied the witness.

The judge tried to simplify the question: "Did the prisoner say, 'He took the pig,' or did he say, 'I took the pig'?"

"Oh, no, your honor, he said that he took it. Your honor's name wasn't even mentioned."

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Until restrictions were placed on gasoline consumption, tires were wearing out eight times faster than they were being replaced.

We've all heard of wooden tires, but tires made of concrete have been, at least in one instance, substituted for the conventional rubber. A Parker Dam engineer had cast reinforced concrete tires on the rims of a portable welding machine. They worked.

As the temperature inside a tire increases, the pressure goes up, but it is poor rubber economy to "bleed" or let the air out of the tire when it is hot. To do so means under-inflation—and rubber waste—when the casing cools.

In 1911 a tire for the then popular make of car cost the motorist $25.30 and gave about 2500 miles. A comparable tire for the present day popular makes of cars can be had (with ration certificate) for about $15. Properly handled it will return close to 25,000 miles of service.

Oscar Fosholm Elected Mayor

Practically every man and several women in this village were given votes for various offices of the village at the election held here on Tuesday. The race was close in many offices. Oscar Fosholm was elected Mayor over a field of ten other candidates who had their names written in for that job.

There were forty votes cast at the election and Geo. Fricker, present Village Recorder, was reelected by 39 of the votes cast. He had filed.

O. T. Ness, who had filed for the office as councilman for three years, was reelected. Hartley Peterson won out by a small margin for the Councilman job for two years.

Marvin Sandberg, who was not a candidate, had his name written on 20 ballots for Assessor for the term of two years.

A. P. Thompson was elected Justice for two years.—In the other offices four men tied for Justice for one year, two men tied for Constable for two years and four men tied for constable for one year. No one had filed for these offices so it was all write in of names contest.

John Hagberg and Otto Johnson were Judges and A. O. Aspelin Clerk of the election. This election will go down in history as giving votes to more people than any other time we have record of so far.

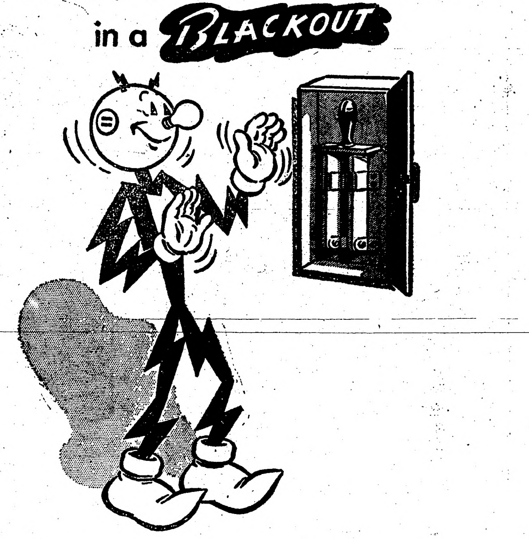
Don't pull your main house switch in a BLACKOUT



There will be a trial blackout in this area Monday, December 14, from 10:00 to 10:20 p.m. The power company will not cut off your lights during the blackout, as it is highly important your electric service be not interrupted. In a successful blackout, there may not be any light showing, yet the less disruption of normal routine in your home during the blackout, the better.

DON'T PULL THE MAIN HOUSE SWITCH! —even if you intend to turn all your lights off! There are other electric servants that can and should continue to function.

There's your radio—leave it tuned in for important information and reports during the blackout. There's your automatic furnace controls—electric service is needed to keep your furnace in operation and your house comfortable and warm. There's your electric refrigerator and electric clocks—you wouldn't want to have these turned off during the blackout.

If possible, you should have one or more rooms that are light-sealed with blackout curtains or drapes, so that you can enjoy normal lighting during the blackout.

So don't pull the main switch in your home! Be calm! Act normally. Your job in a blackout is merely to keep from giving information to the enemy by visible lighting.

At the time of the writing of this article we are told that the Nazi enemy is having air superiority in Tunisia. Such things we don't like to hear. Neither shall it continue. We need to intensify the scrap drive and its up to you, each and every one. America needs your scray iron and that without delay.

A special inducement is being offered personally by Mr. Arvid Carlson, chairman of the Marshall County Salvage Drive to the American Legion Post of the county that bring in the greatest amount of scrap iron by the 31st of December. This offer is hereby publicized through this article without other notice and each Legion Post is asked to act accordinly.

There is much scrap iron left in Marshall County. Some may think that it has been pretty well cleaned up, but that isn't the case. Just the other day the Schenkey Construction company loaded a full carload of scrap from the automobile 'graveyard' at Middle River. In ten below zery weather their large "pavement roller" was driven over the scrap metal to flatten and pack it for shipment in the railroad car. The scrap is by no means all picked up. Many tons still are to be found in out of the way places.

It is further requested that if any of the farmers or others know where such scrap is to be found that it should be reported immediately to the scrap iron captain in the territory, or to send a postal card immediately to Mr. Carlson so that someone may be designated to haul it in.

A new note has been sounded in regard to scrap hauling. It has been promised by the county chairman that he will contact Linus E. Vorpahl, state salvage executive secretary, to obtain extra gasoline for scrap hauling in the event of necessity.

Schools please take note of this. An award will be given, a merit certificate, to the school that reaches the highest per capitaamount of scrap in the county. So far School Dist. No. 20 are in the lead with 1,004 lbs. per pupil. If any school can top this, inform the chairman, Mr. Carlson, without delay.

By way of honorable mention should be the name of Ardella Severson of School District No. 137, who has brought in 7,860 pounds. Ardelle Larson of Dist. No. 20 comes a close second with 6,950 lbs. to her credit. Thanks to these particularly, and if you can give us even a better report the salvage committee wants to know of it.

It is hereby also announced that Mrs. Geo. Fricker of Holt has been named the Women's Division chairman in charge of the gathering of fats, silk hose and tin cans in the county.

Get your scrap in now.

Arvid Carlson, chairman
Marshall Co. Salvage Committee.

The test blackout held here on Monday evening was very successful. All citizens cooperated with those appointed to take charge of the test and we had a total blackout here for 20 minutes. A statewide blackout will be held Monday Dec. 14.

The Weather

So far the weather has not been bad. We had a few days of ten below zero weather last week but this week it has been warmer. We have only a light snowfall so far.

Roaring Sun

The sun is a great roaring furnace. We see it but cannot hear it because noise is conveyed only by waves in matter, such as air or liquids or solids. Light is conveyed through a non-material "something" called the Ether, which seems to be everywhere. Between us and the sun is no material substance, so sound cannot pass to us, only light.

Incidentally, we may remark that if sound could come to us, as light does, from the sun, we should all be permanently deafened.

Loftiest Continent

The average height of land above sea for the whole world is no less than 2,100 feet. The loftiest continent is Asia, which stands at an average height of 3,000 feet. Africa and South America come second, each a thousand feet lower than Asia, and then North America, with 1,900 feet. The height of Europe is only 940 feet. The vast plains of Poland and Russia keep the average down.

Of all the continents, Australia is the lowest, yet still its height is 800 feet above sea. The reason is that it is the oldest continent and has been above water longer than any other land. So most of its mountains have crumbled down and more than one-third of the area has not a hill left.

It may be that Antarctica is higher than Asia, but no accurate measurements have yet been obtained.

Venerate Stone

Virtually every Hindu family owns and venerates a salagrama, a little stone that is held as a representative of their god Vishnu. Only homes possessing one are considered to be pure, and sins are believed to be washed away by the drinking of water that has been sanctified by its touch.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

In 749 war production plants, 75 per cent of 434,600 workers arrive by private automobiles. That's why war workers must have tires.

When it is understood that 54,000 communities in this country depend entirely upon highway transportation, the importance of the rubber situation will be appreciated.

There were 10.75 pounds of crude rubber in the average passenger car tire made in 1940. In 1941 the rubber content was increased to 10.85 pounds.

The overall weight of the average passenger car tire in 1940 was 21.55 pounds, while in 1941 it was 21.69 pounds.

There is a farmer in Osborne, Iowa, who still carries as a serviceable spare, a tire that came on his car as original equipment in 1917. He jacks up the wheels when the car is not in use.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

'Get the Message Through' Is Job of Signal Corps

In this war, instructions and reports, not only from plane to base but from ship to shore and field commander to officers, are sent by wireless. These pictures show some of the phases of signal corps training. At left, Moon Young, Chinese student, tries to perfect his diction so he can become a member of the signal corps and get out to the Southwest Pacific. He has a score to settle with the Japs. Center: Type of equipment used by planes to keep in touch with home bases and other planes during "dog fights." Right: Skilled fingers beat out messages on semi-automatic telegraph keys.

Captor and Captives in British 8th Army Push

Aids of Saboteur Get Death Sentence

"This looks like payday," said Hans Max Haupt (front right) shortly after he heard the death sentence pronounced on him and two other German-Americans who had given aid to his executed saboteur son, in Chicago. Behind Haupt is Walter Froehling, and behind Froehling is Otto Wergin, both condemned to death. The wives of the three convicted men were sentenced to 25 years in prison, and fined $10,000 each.

Paved Way in Africa

Tall man in center is one whom the writers of the history of the U. S. coup in North Africa will particularly mention. He is Robert Murphy, head of our consular force in France and its African colonies. Murphy prepared the groundwork for our occupation of North Africa. He is shown during a visit to Dakar being welcomed by M. Chapoulie, the colonial governor (in whites).

Fathers and Sons Inducted Into Army

'Priority' Dolls

With our second wartime Christmas approaching, American toy manufacturers are faced with priorities. Instead of dolls being made of rubber they are now made of wood pulp. Here an aide to Santa paints faces on the new kind of doll.

What's in a Letter?

The committee of the village women's institute were discussing their program. One member suggested that a glove-making class would be interesting.

"Do you think that's really necessary—at our age, I mean?" asked one elderly woman, looking rather alarmed.

"What, glove-making?" she was asked.

"Oh," she said, looking greatly relieved. "I thought you said love-making!"

IT IS high time to think of a gift or two for Aunt Emily and Sister Sue. Why not give aprons this year? Your piece bag is sure to have many odds and ends of rick rack braid and bias binding and bright scraps of material which will do for trimmings with a ¾-yard remnant of plain gingham or unbleached muslin.

The diagram gives you cutting dimensions for the skirt and shows how to shape the waistline. It is easy to add a straight bib if you like. Use wider belts, about 2½ inches finished, for the bibless type and cut the ties about four inches wide. These three aprons will give you ideas for any number of trimmings. Be lavish with bright color for this is the season for gay gifts to bring good cheer.

The best is none too good for our men in the service. That's why it's worthwhile consulting them for their gift preferences this Christmas. According to surveys made in camps and barracks, cigarettes and smoking tobacco head the list as the gifts preferred by our boys in O. D. and blue. Camel is their favorite cigarette (based on sales records in Post Exchanges and Canteens). If he's a pipe-smoker, a big favorite is Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco, the largest-selling tobacco in the world. You have your choice of the Camel Christmas Carton, or the Camel "Holiday House" package containing four "flat fifties." Prince Albert is packaged in the pound canister. All are handsomely gift packaged with space for your Christmas message. Your dealer is featuring them now.—Adv.

Second Draftee Was All For Taking No Chances

The draftee on his way to camp asked a stranger, Draftee Number Two: "Do you have a match?"

"Sure," was Number Two's reply, "but I'm not giving you any."

"Why not?" asked the first.

"Well," explained Two, "we'll get to chinning. And if we get to chinning we'll wind up buddies. If we are in the same squad, then we'll both volunteer together for special missions. Maybe we'll even get a dangerous night job, then we'll have to use flashlights. And if the flashlights should go out some night in enemy territory, I sure don't want to be stranded with someone who doesn't even carry matches."

Uses of Licorice

Licorice, one ingredient of which is 50 times sweeter than sugar, has a wide variety of uses, such as a flavoring for bitter medicines and a foaming agent in beer and fire-extinguishing fluids. Incidentally, licorice is really brown, not black. Because so many people expect licorice candy to be black, a harmless carbon is added to conform to this impression.

Most of the pleasure in giving is knowing that your gift is appreciated. For those smokers on your Christmas list, there are gifts sure to please. Send Camel cigarettes either in the Camel Christmas Carton or the Camel "Holiday House" package of four "flat fifties." Either way you give 200 mild, flavorful Camels—the service man's favorite. If he smokes a pipe, send him the big pound canister of Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco—the National Joy Smoke. And if he's in the service, these gifts are even more appropriate, for cigarettes and tobacco are the service man's favorite gifts. Both Camels and Prince Albert are specially Christmas wrapped. Your dealer is featuring them as gifts sure to please.—Adv.

Many War Bonds Purchased

For the first time in several months, Marshall couty residents beat their quotas in the purchase of U. S. War Bonds during the month of November with actual sales for the month totaling $82,189, O. M. Mattson, chairman of the Marshall County War Savings committee, announced today.

The quota for November had been placed at $56,000, the actual sales being $25,189 more than the quota set for the month. The surplus in sales will be distributed among the months during the fiscal year when the county may fail to meet its established quota.

War Bond sales are continuing at a rapid clip this month with practically every issuing agency in the county reporting brisk business, said members of the county committee. Early purchases during the month indicate that sales will easily surprass the $42,350 quota set for the month, as many county residents are planning purchases this month for Christmas gifts.

Additional pledges in the Farm Pledge campaign have brought the total pledged to $114,614.60 with reported former sales totaling $129,863.75 among 1932 farmers, a tabulation completed on Monday reveals. The new pledges are from Whiteford, Lincoln Marsh Grove and Holt townships. Totals for these townships, the first showing number of pledges, second the amount of pledges and the third the amount of bonds previously purchased follow:

Whiteford	83	$ 1,368.75	$ 468.75
Lincoln	49	1,089.50	857.30
Marsh Grove	65	2,719.25	2,707.65
Holt Twp.	21	464.00	1,234.30

Cheap Turkeys 90 Years Ago

Turkeys at a dollar and a half and two dollars and chickens at fifty cents a pair were available to Minnesota housewives for their holiday dinners ninety years ago this Christmas. The prices at which poultry, meat, and other products were selling in 1852, as listed in a contemporary St. Paul newspaper, contrast sharply with the wartime prices of 1942.

Beef roast brought ten cents a pound in the winter of 1852-53, and "ordinary cuts" sold for eight cents. Fresh pork was marked at from nine to thirteen cents, and hams were worth fifteen cents a pound. Plenty of venison was available at prices ranging from eight to twelve and a half cents per pound. An almost modern touch appears, however, in the price of eggs, which were fifty cents a dozen.

That holiday menus were temptingly varied in frontier Minnesota is indicated in letters, diaries, newspapers, and other records of the 1850's preserved by the the Minnesota Historical society. Oysters were served in most of the larger settlements, to which they were shipped in cans. Many local products, such as cranberies, which grew wild in most parts of the territory, also were served.

At the annual meeting of Circle 2 Mrs. Bertil Ness was elected President, Mrs. Julian Rodahl Vice President and Mrs. A. C. Conklin Sec'y-Treas. Circle 4 elected Mrs. L. Lubitz President, Mrs. F. Voth, Vice Pres. and Mrs. W. Stienhauer Sec'y-Treas. Circle 6 elected Mrs. L. Wegge, President. Mrs. C. L. Sandberg, Vice-Pres. and Mrs. C. A. Davis Sec'y-Treas.

Rev. H. A. Larson of St. Hilaire called at the parsonage on Sunday afternoon.

Egg Production Nearing Goal

Farmers of Marshall County are well on their way toward achieving their "Food for Freedom" goal of 1,297,000 dozen eggs this year, production statistics issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicates.

The figures show that despite a shortage of labor which has taxed the ingenuity and also lengthened the work day of most operators, the goal already is in sight.

The rise in production has been accompanied by an increase of more than 27 per cent in returns to producers, both in the county and in the state. Records of the A. & P. Tea Co., one of the larger purchasers of Minnesota eggs, show that during the 26 week period ending Aug. 29, the company returned $2,181,675 to Minnesota producers for 6,652,000 dozen eggs.

The Chicago Mercantile Exchange, futures trading center for eggs, reports that prices paid for future deliveries have been running sharply higher than in 1941 and that transactions on the spot boards have shown advances of several cents consistently over prices paid for identical grades a year ago.

The USDA asked that Minnesota increase its egg production by 10 per cent this year, raising its output to 195,000,000 dozen.

The Luther League Social has been postponed from Friday evening until Saturday evening due to the many Christmas programs being held on Friday evening. The young people will meet at the Church Parlors at at 8:00 P. M. Each one will bring a little gift for exchange. The evening will be spent in playing games and singing Christmas Carols. Jimmy Is Still Wishing for the 'lectric Train That Wasn't There

Some things are hard to understand when you're a boy six years old. Daddy has been trying to explain why there can't be a new electric train this Christmas. But Jimmy keeps on wishing . . . hoping . . . maybe . . . somehow . . . Santa Claus will bring one.

Jimmy's a good soldier. He'll get along with his old wind-up train that jumps the track. And Daddy will tell him again that there is plenty of electricity to run the train, but the wonderful electric locomotive and all the shining cars are going into gun and plane parts now.

And maybe Daddy will add that the same electricity which drives tiny trains is also driving the big machines that produce ammunition and supplies for our fighting forces. We hope Daddy does mention it—we are proud of electric power's part in war production.

There is plenty of electric power in this area for war production and home needs, too, —so use all the electricity you desire.

Electric power is production—and production points to victory. Then real Christmas will come again—and Jimmy will get his electric train!

Point Rationing System

Point rationing, the plan whereby commodities of the same general type are grouped together and rationed on the basis of their scarcity, was explained to the northwest in an outline issued Thursday, by the Office of Price Aministration.

The plan, OPA officials said, is not difficult to understand. It works easily despite its seeming complicated. Basic facts on the plan were set forth as follows:

Point rationing will be introduced to Americans early in 1943 when war rationing book two is distributed.

The purpose of point rationing is to guarantee everyone a fair share of scarce but essential goods while at the same time giving everyone a variety of items to choose from.

There are three chief differences between point rationing and the coupon rationing which is now in effect for sugar and coffee.

The first important difference is this — under straight coupon rationing, one single coupon entitles the consumer to buy a specific amount of a single commodity — such as, one sugar coupon entitles you to buy three pounds of sugar.

But in point rationing one set of coupons covers a whole group of commodities. For instance, your week's meat ration coupon would enable you to choose your ration freely between beef, pork, lamb or mutton.

The second important difference is this — the coupons in point rationing are of different denominations. Those to be spent in one week, for example, will include one-point coupon, a five-point coupon and an eight-point coupon.

The third important difference is this — the various rationed items within one group will have different point values. For example, tenderloin steak, being relatively scarcer, might have a high point value and require a larger number of coupons, while hamburger, being available in greater quantities, would have a lower point value. Thus, in exchange for a ration coupon worth eight points, the housewife might be able to obtain one pound of tenderloinsteak or four pounds of hamburger. (Point values have not been set yet, values used here are for illustration only.)

The government will set the point value of each item within the group of rationed products and issue an official list. Point values will be based on available supplies and will vary as supplies of particular items increase or decrease.

War ration book two will have four pages of blue stamps and four pages of red stamps. The blue stamps will be used for the first group of goods to be rationed by points. The red stamps will be used for the second group of point-rationed goods.

The number on each stamp tells how many points the stamp is worth. The letter on each stamp tells what period it is good in. The government will announce these periods in advance.

BIAS TRIM
18"
LONG SLIP-STITCH IN PROTECTOR EDGE-SHORT STITCHES IN BLANKET
FASTEN WITH SLIP-STITCH BASTING

BLANKETS are worth their weight in uniforms, so let's protect them from unnecessary wear and from extra cleanings by covering the upper edges. A strip of muslin would do but why not use a pretty material?

Try to find a flower print with pastel tones and then bind the protector in bias tape that will repeat one of the flower tones. For blankets 72 inches wide, two yards of 36-inch material will make two protectors or one, plus trimming bands for a pair of pillow cases and a sheet. Five yards of bias tape will be needed to bind the edges of each protector. The sketch shows how material is basted in place with slip-stitching through the bindings. In this way they are easily removed for washing.

Playing 'Scrap-the-Jap'

When Johnny comes marching home he plays a new kind of game these days. It's called "Scrap the Jap." Imagine 30,000,000 little boys and girls feeding iron and steel scrap to hungry blast furnaces!

Some time ago Uncle Sam called for a Junior army—and got it. The usefulness of this Junior army is a matter of record. Take Roanoke, Va., for example. Two hundred thousand pounds of scrap collected—in less than two weeks! Pictures show the Roanoke "Commandos" in action.

Left: Johnny has a man-size job for the duration. He realizes that his role in the war is a vital one.

Victory Parade

Right: Nobody played hooky the day teacher Doris Jordan explained how every pupil can help win the war. These Roanoke youngsters were quickly mobilized, along with some other 30,000,000 young Americans.

Saturday's a holiday for most of the nation's small fry. But, for the kids shown in the picture above, it's fat collection day. As part of their job they collect all fats and greases from local housewives. From here the fats are sent to a rendering plant, where precious glycerin is derived from it.

"The navy appreciates your backing," Ensign Andrew Blair, USNR, tells the Junior Commandos at the rally which opened their scrap campaign. These youngsters are truly helping their big brothers in the armed forces by scouring Roanake and the surrounding country for much needed salvage materials.

The children pay a visit to the scrap yard and watch the hydraulic press crush jalopies into bales for shipment to steel mills.

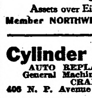
SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER



ber is used on planes for lining gas tanks and fuel lines, for de-icing instruments, for insulating cabins with weatherstripping, for lining flying suits to make them moisture-proof and for dozens of other purposes.
Proper inflation means maximum miles. A tire under-inflated 20 per cent (24 instead of 30 pounds) will reduce its life by 15 per cent and 25 per cent of the mileage will be lost in a tire that is 30 per cent under-inflated.
The Baruch Committee anticipated that 53,000 long tons of rubber would be imported by the U. S. in the last 18 months starting July 1st last.
No more auto chases in movies for the duration. No more turns at high speed on squealing tires and no more new cars. Possible audience reaction to the waste of rubber — and speeding — brought the taboo.

Sentinels of Health
Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.
When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.
Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.
The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

TWO-FISTED JEFFERS

Rubber Czar Bill Jeffers lived up to his two-fisted reputation when testifying at a closed meeting of the house interstate commerce subcommittee which was probing the need of nation-wide gas rationing.

Jeffers bluntly told the subcommittee, headed by Representative Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, that congressional efforts to block the rationing program would get nowhere.

"I understand the position of you gentlemen, but I want you also to understand mine," said the rubber administrator. "My job is to carry out the recommendations of the Baruch report and I intend to do it."

Jeffers said he hoped to keep the nation "on rubber," so we will have sufficient transportation for workers in war industries. Nation-wide gas rationing is an essential step in this direction, he added, "and I'm all for it."

The rubber boss was questioned closely on whether Leon Henderson was co-operating with him. He replied that it was difficult to be the price administrator and also handle rationing, since the two things are contradictory. As price chief, Henderson was supposed to protect the public, while as rationing director he is depriving the public of something, Jeffers explained.

Several members of the subcommittee continued to fire leading questions about Henderson, hoping Jeffers would take a poke at the OPA boss. They pointed out that it was Henderson who had initiated the nation-wide gas rationing program and that the rubber administration and the Office of Defense Transportation were forced to go along, whether they approved of the program or not.

"I guess you were the victim of a cigar that was too big to be chewed," commented Representative Hatton Sumners of Texas.

"What do you mean?" shot back Jeffers. "I can chew a pretty big one."

"You misunderstood Mr. Sumners," broke in L. D. Tompkins, Jeffers' assistant. "By cigar he meant Leon Henderson." The rubber boss laughed but made no comment.

ADMIRAL DARLAN

Co-operation with Admiral Darlan continues to cause controversy inside the cabinet and among the war chiefs.

Admiral Darlan's support saved priceless time and even more priceless lives. But it had its difficulties. Many members of the European underground which had been working with us against the Nazis in the occupied countries threw up their hands and got extremely skeptical about playing ball with us in the future.

However, there is definite evidence that Darlan, though an opportunist, several months ago was ready to co-operate with the United States if there was any promise that we would really set up a second front.

Now that we have used Darlan, some people want to throw him overboard immediately. But the weakness of Hitler is that he breaks agreements overnight. Our strength is that we don't break agreements. However, we are now in the dilemma of breaking a tacit agreement with the anti-Vichy group made earlier, or breaking with Darlan now

TIN CAN CO-OPERATION

The Washington Merry-Go-Round salutes Milltown, N. J., for its tin can exchange plan.

Officials in Washington have been pulling and hauling over the tin can collection problem. There were wrangles over de-tinning facilities, and other wrangles over the best methods of collection. In New York city, cans came in so fast, the dirty mixed with the clean, that detinning plants couldn't handle them, and Mayor LaGuardia was forced to revise the campaign.

Meantime, the borough of Milltown, population 3,500, has instituted a plan of its own which makes Washington sit up and take notice. It is called the "can-for-can exchange plan." If a housewife wants to buy a can of soup, she must bring along a prepared empty can, to be surrendered in exchange. If she has no empty, she must pay two cents extra for the new can.

A prepared can is one which has been cleaned and flattened, with both ends and the label removed. In this form, cans can be shipped economically and de-tinned efficiently.

Note: Milltown, near New Brunswick, in the center of the state, is not to be confused with Leon Henderson's home town of Millville, in south Jersey.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

¶ Admiral Halsey, tough commander in the South Pacific, got to know the Axis as naval attache in Berlin.

¶ Texas' Lyndon Johnson, proposing to FDR that Maury Maverick be appointed head of a Mexican-American defense commission, said: "Would you mind calling up Sumner Welles at the state department and asking him to see Maverick?" "Oh," said the President, throwing up his hands, "Sumner just wouldn't understand a man like Maury."

The way some secretaries type the boss' letters is a triumph of mind over mutter.

Caught Him

In Duplicate

Barber—Well, my little man, how do you wish to have your hair cut?

Little Man—I'd like it cut just like my daddy's, and please don't forget to leave that little round hole on the top where his head comes through.

Asking for Trouble

The door of the ladies' hairdressing shop opened and in came a meek-looking little man.

One of the assistants approached him.

"What can I have the pleasure——" she cooed.

"Er—could you spare me a blonde hair for my shoulder?" he stammered. "I want to make my wife jealous."

Fell for Her

"Fortune knocks at least once at every man's door."

"That may be. But it was her daughter, Miss Fortune, who called on me."

Orson Welles Introduces Many of Him to a Few

Orson Welles, of "Citizen Kane" fame, once gave a small town lecture. There were but few listeners and no chairman present. So he up and introduced himself in the following fashion:

"I am a director of plays," he said. "I am a producer of plays. I am an actor on the legitimate stage. I am a writer of motion pictures. I am a producer of motion pictures. I am a motion-picture actor. I write, direct, and act for the radio. I am a magician. I also paint and sketch. I am a publisher. I am a violinist and a pianist. Isn't it a shame that there are so many of me and so few of you?"

In addition, there are more than 60,000 connecting rural lines owned by groups of farmers.

NOW CAR OWNERS CAN BUY
THE NEW Firestone
WAR TIRE

YES—It's true! If your present tires cannot be recapped, you are eligible to apply for a certificate to buy the new Firestone War Tire no matter whether you hold an "A", "B" or "C" gasoline ration book.

The new Firestone War Tire is now on sale at Firestone Dealers and Firestone Stores. Its construction has been tested and proved by more than two years of service. Naturally, you'd expect Firestone to build the best War Tire that can be built, because Firestone has always been a pioneer in developing new processes and creating new products made from rubber. And with its unequalled background of experience in building tires that successfully withstand the most gruelling tests of durability and safety, it is not surprising that Firestone is building a War Tire with such exclusive features as:

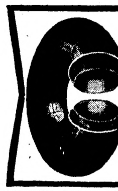
Safti-Lock, Gum-Dipped Cord Body — same construction that has made Firestone Tires so strong, so safe, so durable on the road as well as on the Speedway. The body of the new Firestone War Tire is built to outwear several treads and can be recapped for thousands of miles of extra service.

Firestone Non-Skid Tread — famous for performance and protection against skidding.

Vitamic Rubber — made by adding a new wear-resisting rubber vitamin, called "Vitalin."

If your present tires can be recapped — be sure to have them recapped by the Firestone Factory Controlled Method. Firestone has the largest system of recapping shops in America, strategically located to give you better service. This nation-wide system is strictly supervised and uniform in workmanship. For longer mileage, bring your tires to us for recapping.

COME IN AND SEE IT! The new Firestone War Tire is now ready for the car owners of America. Your nearby Firestone Dealer or Firestone Store will be glad to help you make out an application for a tire rationing certificate.



PROTECT YOUR TIRE MILEAGE with Firestone LIFE PROTECTORS
For longer mileage and greater safety, equip every tire with a Firestone Life Protector. This amazing double-chambered tube keeps your tire inflated in event of a puncture or a blowout, so that you can stop safely without cutting or slashing the precious tire. Any certificate for a new tube entitles you to buy a Life Protector.

For use on heavy transcontinental freight trains the Great Northern has ordered thirteen Diesel-electric engines like the one shown in the picture—only twice as powerful—5,400 horsepower. The first was ordered nearly two years ago. None has been delivered. All will be desperately needed during the months ahead. Meanwhile the Great Northern's Iron Horses, straining to the limit of their endurance, have turned in a splendid account of themselves.

We Passed the Ammunition

The whole Great Northern family is grateful that we were able to pass the ammunition all through this momentous year—

- that we were able to pass an abundance of raw materials from the fields, forests and mines of the Northwest to busy factories;
- that we were able to pass 29 million tons of rich iron ore from northern Minnesota to the hard pressed boats on the Great Lakes—about one-third of all of the iron ore fed to the roaring blast furnaces of the steel industry;
- that, like a huge assembly line, we were able to pass finished materials and parts from one plant and factory to another for final assembly;
- that we were able to pass along for our fighting forces a continuous flow of the finest implements of modern warfare the world has ever seen—ammunition, guns, airplanes, tanks, ships; and food and clothing.

For the opportunity to render these services—to pass the ammunition in unprecedented volume, without once faltering, and to move troops and their field equipment quickly from training centers to ports of embarkation—all without serious inconvenience to those whom we normally serve—for all of this the men and women who own and man the Great Northern Railway are sincerely grateful.

And as this eventful year draws to a close, we join with all in hoping that 1943 will see yet swifter strides toward ridding the World of its present afflictions—that the light of Right and Reason may again begin to glow—and that the Christmas of 1943 may herald once again Peace on Earth, Good Will toward Men.

'NIGHT OUT' 1943 Style

On four gallons of gas a week, millions of Americans will now do their "stepping out" . . . . into the parlor. What's more they'll love it, if the evening's entertainment includes a cold bottle of beer or two.

Your home is no longer just a place to rest up after an evening out. The trend, is toward the good old-fashioned custom of "home entertaining". Playing bridge, listening to music, or just pleasant, leisurely conversing, is becoming the popular way the spend an evening in your home or your neighbor's.

Two Places Quit Businass

We are sorry to announce commencing January 1, 1943 the Tangreen Lumber Company, who have been in business here for the past many years, will suspend their business activities here in Holt until after the war is over.

Another business institution closed its doors here this week when Mrs. R. M. Nyhus, proprietor of Ma's Eat Shop sold out her furniture and goods and discontinued the fine little restaurant. Mr. and Mrs. Nyhus have built a fine new home in Tnief River Falls and moved there.

Royal Clinton Knutson, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Knutson, was baptised at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Benitt, on Sunday afternoon. He was born on December 2, 1942 and his sponsons were his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Benitt and Mr. Mrs. Thomas Knutson of Grygla. Following the ceremony, Mrs. Benitt served a delicious lunch. Others in attendance besides the near relatives were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Paskewitz, great-grand-parents of the baby.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

WHAT two words on human tongue are more heart-warming than those! They not only represent a friendly greeting, but in them are summed up the whole spirit of the Yuletide—brightness and laughter, joy of living and joy of giving, health and happiness, peace on earth and good will to all men.

It is a greeting which we will hear often in this community of ours during these happy days of the Christmas season. We will hear it on our streets, in our stores, along our country roads and in our homes. For ours is a friendly community and nowhere is that friendly greeting more sincere. It is not possible, however, for each of us to say "Merry Christmas!" to everyone and thus complete the happy circle of Yuletide good cheer.

But there is one who has that rare privilege, one who has been a welcome visitor at the firesides of the homes in this community throughout the year and who now claims the right to be the first to wish you joy at this joyous time. That one is your Home Paper.

So your Home Paper carries from you to all the community and from all the community to you this friendly greeting:

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

1943 AAA Farm Program

The 1943 AAA farm program, which will be presented to Minnesota farmers in January, places emphasis on the production of war crops and conservation of soil resources, Charles Stickney state AAA committee chairman, said Saturday.

Farmer-elected AAA committeemen will assist farmers in filling out the 1942 Farm Plan. The plan lists wartime crop adjustment a farmar must make to help him meet his war production goals and the conservation practices he will undertake to help get itcreased yields in 1943.

Farmers having basic crop allotments may earn production adjustment payments and all farmers are eligible to earn production conservation payments.

"AAA crop payments in 1943 will be conditional on the degree to which each cooperating farm family carries out its individual farm plan which will represent each farm's share in the national war production goals," Stickney said.

Allotments for corn, wheat, and tobacco have been established in this state in accordance with predicted needs and growers will be asked to plant closely to such allotments. Failure to plant at least 90 per cent of these crop allotments will result in payment deductions at a rate 5 times the compliance rate. This means a farmer's crop payment would be wiped out entirely should he plant only 70 percent of hrs allotment. Under certain conditions, farmers will be able to substitute special war crops or designated feed crops for their allotment crops and still remain in compliance.

A farewell party was held at the Ole Lunke home on Sunday for Harley Lunke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer Lunke of Thief River Falls. Harley will enter the Navy in a short time.

Several of the men of the village and the community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nyhus on Monday evening and gave them a farewell party. The evening was spent playing whist after which they all had lunch.

Russel Sanoden of Concordia College, Moorhead arrived home last week for the Holidays.

At the annual meeting of the Circle one of N. L. L. Aid, held at the Moberg home, Mrs. H. Moberg, Mrs. Tony Peterson and Bertha Moberg were reelected officers of the circle for the coming year. Mrs. George Johnson was re-elected to serve on the Sunshine Commiteee.

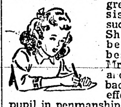
Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hagen and Jerome, Ronald, and Manning Sorum of Grand Forks visited at the Hagberg home over the week end.

WOMEN AT WAR

Janey

Janey closed the bedroom door and locked it. Alone at last! She threw back her head and heaved a deep sigh. Then she peeked out of the corner of her eye at the mirror to see whether she really did look like Hedy LaMarr. Quite a lot, she decided.

And now to business. She drew forth from the bottom of her top bureau drawer the sheet of pink writing-paper and the envelope that she had been saving for this day. She sat down at the table by the window and dipped the pen into the bottle of green ink that her sister Rose was such a pig about. She wrote, with beautiful arabesques, "Dear Mr. Morgenthau," and held her head back to admire this effort of the best pupil in penmanship class.



"Here are my stamps for a bond. $18.75. I started last Christmas when I got $3.00. Not counting 50 cents, I have earned all the rest, working one or more days a week at a local grocery store, and I'm quite proud to say I worked hard to get it."

Janey stared out of the window at Peterson's house and beyond at the big yard where the kids were playing football. She held her pen elegantly in air.

"Sitting here looking out the window, I see a peaceful little town, and I wonder how the world can be in such a turmoil and the people of this world can have such hate for their fellow men. So I'm proud to send these stamps because I know I'm helping to make the whole world peaceful again like our little town."

She signed her name with an important flourish, not forgetting a conspicuous "Miss" in front of the "Janey." After she had sealed the letter she went on staring out of the window. It really was awfully peaceful. Overhead she heard a plane go humming by through the sunny afternoon air.

Then the voice of her best friend, Betty, called from outside—"Janey!" In an instant Janey was on her feet and tearing downstairs and out. She was not Hedy LaMarr nor a deep philosopher any more, but exactly twelve years old.

Merry Christmas

"Christmas comes but once a year, with all its Brightness and Good Cheer."

It seems tho if people would live right, that the good cheer of Christmas time would last throughout the whole year.

If people and nations would heed the teachings of Him, whose birthday we celebrate, we then would indeed have "Peace on earth and Good Will toward men."

Until these things come to pass we will still have wars, internal strifes, trouble and strikes.

A great amount of the trouble is caused by the craze for both money and pleasure.

"What shall it profit a man if he gains the whole world and looses his own soul."

"What shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

Hard-Fought Battle for Air Supremacy Holds Key to Control of North Africa; Italians Fret Over British Air Raids; Gains in New Guinea Mark Pacific War

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

United States soldiers cross a stream in the Gona-Buna area of New Guinea. The occupation of Gona by Allied forces, directed by General MacArthur, left the Japanese pinned down in a narrow strip of coast in the Buna area, 12 miles south.

NORTH AFRICA:
Air Battle Grows

Cheering word of ever-increasing Allied air strength in North Africa came from London and the Morocco radio as swarms of American and British planes in Tunisia provided cover for land operations.

Press reports tell of ground commanders telephoning for air coverage "as casually as calling for a taxi."

Chief battleground for the opposing forces had been Tebourba, a strategic junction 20 miles west of Tunisia and 35 miles south of Bizerte. Here a series of rapid action tank battles took place, with the key town changing hands as battle fortunes shifted.

Continuing efforts were made to extend and equip new airfields from which Allied planes could operate. Reports reaching the United States stressed the importance of the many American Commando transport planes now available. They are described as 50 per cent faster than the JU-52s and are capable of moving jeeps, small field guns and up to 98 soldiers.

On the opposite side of Africa, the British Eighth army was reported allowing Marshal Rommel's army no rest in the El Agheila area. The official communique spoke of patrol and artillery action. British military sources in London had warned that the "real" offensive was not yet under way and that when the Eighth army strikes, the blows will leave no doubt as to its strength.

RUSSIA:
Central Front

Although Nazi forces have been hard pressed in Russia, military observers were quick to warn against undue optimism. Despite a grave strain on their communications, German forces were said to be showing no signs of faltering in defensible positions.

Generally speaking, news was good. The Red army drove seven miles deeper into enemy lines on the central front near Velikie Luki, recapturing 13 settlements, while the Germans failed in their drive to regain the initiative on the Stalingrad front.

On the central front the Russians attacked with ski troopers supported by tanks painted white. This front extends northwest of Moscow, roughly from Rzhev to Velikie Luki.

Russian reports said the Nazis were trying not only to smash the Soviet offensive but also to start one of their own, evidently in the belief that the Red army is exhausted after their continuous attack.

JAP DEFEAT:
In South Pacific

When Allied forces, directed by General MacArthur, occupied the Gona area of New Guinea, the Japs lost the northern anchor of their ever-diminishing beachhead in Papua, which already has been badly sliced by veteran American and Australian jungle fighters.

This new defeat left the Japs hemmed in a narrow coastal strip centering on the Buna area, 12 miles to the south.

First announcement of the Gona victory was made by Prime Minister John Curtin, who gave the news as he was conducting a review of the war before the house of representatives in Canberra, Australia. His announcement was made 16 days after an Allied headquarters communique had announced the original Australian entry into Gona.

The Japs had landed at Gona on July 22 and from that area launched their invasion drive which took them across the Owen Stanley mountain range to within 32 miles of the Allied base at Port Moresby.

COMPLAINTS:
From Italy

"Why do the British bomb our towns now instead of German towns? After all it was the Germans who bombed London."

That was one of the many complaints reported originating in Italy during the past 30 days. Well-informed diplomatic quarters have reported ever-growing discontent in Italy over the war. Mussolini's people are weary. They do not like the arrogance of their German Allies. Already they are dazed by repeated British bombing attacks. And every Italian knows the immediate future is black.

But the same sources also report that Italy has little chance of breaking away from German domination and seeking a separate peace. A steady stream of German air, anti-aircraft and land forces, all under Gestapo supervision, is pouring into Italy. Most of the land forces are said to have been drawn from the few reserves in Germany. Russia's new offensive makes withdrawals from the Eastern front practically impossible.

The almost incessant bombing of Turin, northern Italian industrial center, continued unabated. The smoke and fire of one raid was not dissipated before another wave of British bombers returned to spread new destruction. It was evident that the RAF did not intend to give city authorities even time to restore public utilities.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

WASHINGTON: Newspaper men covering this wartime capital now need about 40 press passes to get them into the various buildings and offices around the city. Up until stricter measures were taken—to guard against spies, saboteurs or traitors—one pass, that admitting the bearer to the White House, would get newsmen almost anywhere they wanted to go.

NEW ORLEANS: Andrew J. Higgins, shipbuilder extraordinary, is definitely going to build 1,200 cargo planes for the U. S. army. Contract for this number of aircraft was signed some time ago and the planes are to be built largely of non-critical metals.

ALGIERS: U. S. doughboys in Africa are now getting a weekly edition of their own newspaper, the Stars and Stripes. This North African edition is the product of combined efforts of the London staff of the Stars and Stripes in Britain and the staff of Yank, army magazine.

CHICAGO: Three Nazi sympathizers, under sentence to die January 22, were granted a stay of execution while the U. S. circuit court of appeals studies the findings of their recent trial. They are Hans Max Haupt, father of Herbert Haupt, executed Nazi saboteur; Otto R. Wergin and Walter O. Froehling, friends of the Haupt family.

LONDON: Continuance of the German reign of terror in Bohemia and Moravia was charged by the exiled Czech government, a spokesman for which said that 35 more Czechs had been executed by the Nazis. Twenty-nine men were shot on one day for allegedly possessing arms and explosives and participating in anti-Nazi activities, the Czech spokesman said. Six Czechs accused of being ringleaders in a sabotage and terror gang were executed in Prague. In Jugoslavia one official report said that guerrilla warriors had retaken almost half of that country.

Rest in Desert After 60 Hours of Fighting

An American-made tank, serving with a New Zealand division in Libya, halts while its crew, exhausted by 60 hours of continuous fighting, rests. This picture, received by the New Zealand legation in Washington, was taken during the Egypt-Libyan offensive which has driven General Rommel and his men to El Agheila, Libya.

Paratroops in Training

By Quentin Reynolds

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

It is lamentably true that neither Britain nor America paid much attention to the training of parachutists until successive German victories were scored by her men who jumped from the sky.

German parachutists have contributed largely to every important British defeat. After taking Holland and Belgium with parachutists in major roles, the Germans used them at Dunkirk and in Crete and Greece, and they helped at Tobruk.

Now, belatedly, both America and Britain are doing what the resourceful Russians did so many years ago. They are finally thinking of parachutists as an attacking force.

The training of a parachutist is an interesting affair—to the spectator. At the British airdrome I visited, a hangar had been converted into what looked like a huge gymnasium. About 300 men were swinging back and forth on trapezes, doing tumbling acts on heavy mats, dropping through an opening to the floor, ten feet below, sliding down chutes. Instructors kept barking at them.

First Lesson for Paratroopers.

"Relax when you fall," an instructor shouted, just as football coaches have shouted for years. That is the first lesson a paratrooper learns—how to fall without getting his brains knocked out. Then on the swings he learns to turn his body while in the air.

One slight man in the uniform of the RAF, with the stripes of a flight lieutenant on his sleeve, was all over the place, snapping out orders.

"He seems to know his business," I said to the commanding officer who stood with me.

"He should," the C. O. said dryly "He's made more jumps than any other man alive. That's Harry Ward, whom they call the Birdman Made more than 1,500 jumps."

We talked about the qualities that go to make a good paratrooper. A few days of land training and two jumps from a balloon and they're ready for real business — that is, dropping from an airplane. The American and British methods differ widely at present. Our American troops usually jump from well over a thousand feet. In training, the British troops jump from 800 feet. The chute itself opens after a man has fallen 70 feet. He then comes down at the rate of 19 feet per second. In actual operations, the drops are made from 500 feet or lower.

It takes a man about 23 seconds to make that downhill trip.

The use of the ripcord has been abolished in Britain's parachute circles. A belt is fastened to the fuselage of the plane, and its other end is hooked onto the parachute cover. As he drops, the belt jerks the cover off and the parachute opens.

I watched men drop from the skies one whole afternoon and part of one night, and of the 500 or so jumps made, there was only one casualty, and that only a bump on the head.

An instructor stands in the middle of the plain where the men are to land. In his hand is a microphone, and a large loudspeaker is beside him. He talks to the men as they float down. The men drop in "sticks" of two, five or ten. They drop (if they obey orders) straight and stiffly, although the slip stream from the aircraft sometimes grabs them and whirls them about. Then the parachute jerks open and they hear the voice of the instructor.

"Number one — you're coming down nicely," he'll say, and his voice is clear in the earphones of the man 800 feet above.

"Number two—reach up and grab the straps!" "Number three—bend your knees a little!"

As the men land, they invariably fall, but they fall as a football player does, with elbows well in, feet together, and the whole body relaxed.

After a man has made seven jumps he tries it at night. There is no actual difference in the technique. The commanding officer put on a night show for me.

Four big Whitleys came over, dark black against a moonlight sky. Then, almost simultaneously, ten men dropped from each aircraft.

This as closely as possible approximated the conditions they'll face when they are dropped in France or Norway or Belgium or Germany one of these days.

Night parachuting is the most effective of all, because the element of surprise is to some extent, with you. Even on such a moon-bathed night as this, it would be difficult for enemy marksmen to kill men floating down, unless they expected them at the right moment. When the men landed, they ran to the colored parachutes which carry guns, ammunition and food.

In an incredibly short time they had opened the containers.

The British paratroops are a gay, laughing lot who come from every part of the Empire. All are volunteers and when they receive the parachute insignia to put on their arms they are very proud. It tells the world that they've made twenty jumps and lived.

Living in their mess with them, hearing their boisterous horseplay as they learn their craft, it is easy to forget that they are preparing for a very grim business, in which there is only one rule—kill or be killed.

"Please, miss—twins."

Or Manned

"So you were at Louise and the Lieutenant's wedding? How did the bride look?"

"Remarkably well groomed."

Proof

"They say that paper can be used to keep a person warm."

"Yes, I had a mortgage that kept me sweating for 20 years."

Beyond Capacity

Murphy was paying ten dollars a week for room and board. One day his landlady said to him: "Pat, I'm afraid I'll have to charge you two dollars more. You're such a big eater."

"Oh, no, don't do that!" replied Murphy. "I'm killing myself already tryin' to eat ten dollars' worth."

That's Moving Up

"I see they're using alcohol to make tires now instead of whisky."

"I see. The effect has changed from reeling to rolling."

Earned It

Last night I met a chap with a black eye, so I said: "That's a beauty! Who gave it to you?"

"Nobody gave it to me," he said. "I had to fight for it."

Other Pursuits

For the fiftieth time the two rather careful boxers had fallen into a clinch.

"Turn out the lights!" shouted a voice from the gallery. "Them two lovin' 'earts want to be alone!"

"Leave the lights alone!" shouted another voice. "I want to read!"

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

A single bicycle tire and tube gives rubber enough for the insulation of six Army radio sets.

Just because the synthetic rubber program has been upped to 1,100,000 tons production capacity by the end of 1943, the chances of car owners getting synthetic tires before 1944 have not been increased. War needs will take the bulk of the synthetic.

In normal times, say 1940, the average car owner expended only $15 a year for tire and tube replacements. He spent $117 for gasoline and $10 for oil out of his annual $159 expenditure for car maintenance, exclusive of heavy repairs.

Picture 16,000 automobile tires and you have an idea of the amount of rubber used in the construction of a battleship—75 tons.

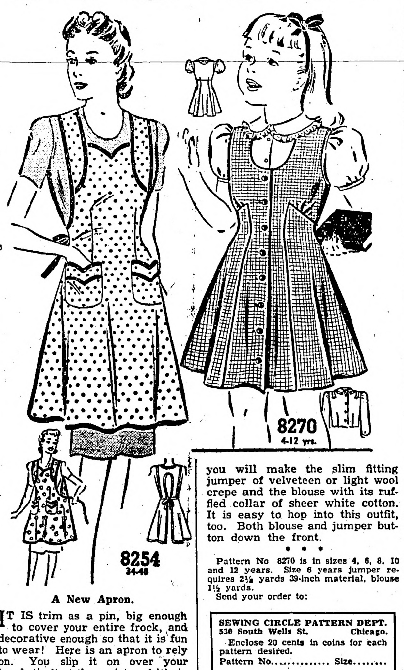
PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE



A New Apron.

IT IS trim as a pin, big enough to cover your entire frock, and decorative enough so that it is fun to wear! Here is an apron to rely on. You slip it on over your head, tie it at the waist and it's in place to stay. Two patch pockets make it extra useful.

* * *

Pattern No. 8254 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 2⅛ yards 35-inch material, 7 yards braid trim.

Jumper Costume.

YOU'RE reminded of little Lord Fauntleroy by this picturesque jumper outfit . . . especially if you will make the slim fitting jumper of velveteen or light wool crepe and the blouse with its ruffled collar of sheer white cotton. It is easy to hop into this outfit, too. Both blouse and jumper button down the front.

Pattern No 8270 is in sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 6 years jumper requires 2⅛ yards 39-inch material, blouse 1½ yards.

Raisin and Apple Sandwiches.—Cover slices of brown bread, first with butter, then with raisins which have been seeded and minced finely. Put two slices together with wafer-like pieces of juicy apple between.

* * *

When washed woolen sweaters should be put in a pillowcase, and the case hung up, open, on the line. This allows the wind to blow through and avoids any chance of the garment shrinking or stretching.

* * *

If a tablecloth is badly tea-stained, rub the stains with ordinary washing blue some time before the cloth is to be washed. Then boil as usual and both blue and stains will disappear.

* * *

Beware of bubbles when varnishing. Have the varnish and the work at a temperature of at least 70 degrees and keep the work out of the dust.

* * *

An oven meal is often a fuel saver if foods are selected which require the same temperature in cooking. Although such a meal necessitates a longer cooking period, not only may the whole meal be cooked at the same time but a number of foods may also be prepared for meals to follow. It is a good idea to list such menus in a notebook and refer to it from time to time.

PREPAREDNESS by ✚ the AMERICAN RED CROSS

THE Junior Red Cross is the American Red Cross in the schools of the nation. It is also the world's largest youth organization, with more than 14,000,000 members in the United States.

The principal duty of the Junior Red Cross in war time is the making of comfort and recreational articles for our service men everywhere. During the past year, Junior Red Cross members made more than 3,000,000 such articles, such as games, recreation room furniture and writing kits.

The Junior Red Cross has also taken a very active part in the making of many essential articles for Civilian Defense organizations throughout the nation. These items included splints, stretchers, and first aid cabinets.

"Earn, buy, make, give," are the four steps all Junior Red Cross members take in raising and using the money they get in their national enrollment drive. They must earn the money to buy the materials to make the articles to give to the hospital, army camp or Civilian Defense organization.

Junior Red Cross members have also been very active in salvage campaigns of all kinds throughout the nation, contributing more than half of the salvage gathered by children of school age throughout the country.

In addition to furnishing opportunity to learn by making these articles for service men and others, the Junior Red Cross affords children of school age basic training in civilian preparedness so that they may take their places later on in the volunteer activities of the Red Cross or the Office of Civilian Defense.

Approximately half the pupil population of all elementary and secondary schools in the nation were enrolled as members in the Junior Red Cross campaign just completed.

Golf vs. Bowling

The odds against making a hole-in-one in golf are about 30,000 to one, while the odds against making a perfect score of 300 in bowling on new alleys with new pins is about 290,000 to one. In other words, it is far easier to shoot a hole-in-one than it is to make 12 consecutive strikes.

Wedding of Kimonos

Marriages between both animals and inanimate objects sometimes take place in the Orient with elaborate religious ceremonies, says Collier's. India has had weddings of trees, monkeys and statues, and Japan of rocks, flagons and kimonos.

For instance, a famed kimono wedding took place in Kyoto in 1934 with full Shinto rites, the bride being a celebrated, hand-painted silk garment while the groom was a renowned, hand-embroidered cotton robe.

Larson-Augustine Wedding

A pretty candle-light wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Larson on Christmas Day at 5 o'clock when their daughter Doris became the bride of Marlan J. Augustine, son of Mr. J. P. Augustine.

The vows were spoken beneath an improvised arch of brown and gold streamers trimmed with silver bells and white and silver hollies.

Rev. T. C. L. Hanson prompted the vows. Just before the ceremony Mrs. Hanson sang "O Perfect Love."

The bride wore a two piece cocoa brown wool jersey dress with brown accessories. Her only jewelry was a gold cross, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Ethel Larson, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a gold color wool jersey dress with brown accessories. The bride and bridesmaid wore white gardenias.

Reuben Benitt, cousin of the bridegroom, was bestman. The bridegroom and best man wore boutonnieres of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a two course luncheon was served by the brides parents to the bridal party and 20 relatives of the bride and groom.

The bridal table was centered with a pretty wedding cake trimmed in white and pink roses.

The bride has been employed at Thief River Falls for the past four years, the last year as a checker at the Red Owl store.

The bridegroom is a graduate from the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston. In September he enlisted in the Reserve Corps of the Signal Corps and is now stationed at Minneapolis attending training in radio repair.

The newlyweds left the same evening for Minneapolis where they will make their home for an indefinite time.

Read This One For A Laugh

Forest Lake — A well known township official addicted to the old fashioned longhandled underwear, the kind with a square trap door device in the rear, was clad in underwear only recently when he heard a loud noise like chicken-thieves. Without much ado he grabbed his double-barreled shotgun, dashed for the chicken shed to nab the prowler. Nothing in sight he hunkered down Indian style to watch with gun poised and finger on the trigger. No sooner in position than the trap door sprung and along came the family pup silently to touch its cold nose to the bare spot. The effect was electric. Both barrels of the shotgun let go almost of their own volition. Result: six dead hens and a big hole in the chicken house; no chicken thief but one pup in the dog house.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Movick and family and Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Pederson and family were supper guests at the Hjalmer Johnson home on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Ranum and baby, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Wilson and Boyd were dinner guests at the C. Sagstuen home on Christmas Day.

SPRINGS in need of repair should be removed and new webbing stretched across the bottom of the chair seat. The springs are then replaced and the bottoms sewn to the webbing.

Next comes the tying. Cut a generous length of cord and tack it to the back of the seat frame. Using the knot sketched, tie to the back and then the front of the first spring. Continue across the row, finishing in the front, as shown. In the best furniture, springs are tied in this manner from back to front; side to side and diagonally across rows. About four ounces of the sewing twine and eight of tying twine will do an average chair.

Christening Ships

In ancient times when a new ship was launched the libation (or pouring of wine) was practiced, consecrating the ship to the god whose image she bore. The action of blessing ships is alluded to by the monks of St. Denys, and records of ship christenings are found as far back as 1418, when the bishop of Bangor was sent to Southampton, England, to bless the king's ships for successful voyages.

October 20, 1797, the Constitution, first United States navy ship launched, was christened by an officer who broke a bottle of wine over her prow.

Champagne is used because it is a rare and expensive wine and suitable, therefore, for such an important occasion.

Kidneys Must Work Well—
For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

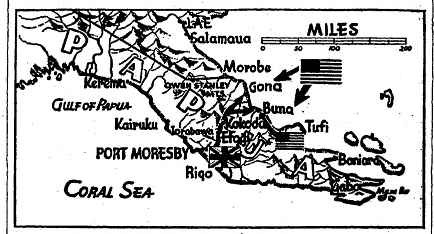
Break-Up of Rommel's Desert Forces Affects U. S.-British Drive in Tunisia; French Fleet Will Join Allies: Darlan; President Proclaims National Farm Day

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.



Allied forces proceeded swiftly toward ousting the Japs completely from the Papua territory of New Guinea following the capture of the village of Buna. U. S. and Australian jungle fighters took the Jap base. Occupation of Buna followed closely the seizure of Gona. A communique from Allied headquarters in Australia told of slowly increasing pressure on the enemy. A captured Japanese artilleryman told intelligence officers of Emperor Hirohito's mandate that Jap forces hold the New Guinea beachhead to the last man. The communique did not mention the Mambare area, on the northeast coast, where Allied planes lashed out at Jap warships attempting to land more men.

AFRICA:
Darlan Speaks

"I have announced that my sole purpose is to free France and then retire to private life."

With those words Adm. Jean Darlan, high commissioner of French Africa, hoped to still the loud voice of criticism which had been leveled at him by the Fighting French, the British and certain American sources.

He did not wholly succeed. The Fighting French wanted more than words from Admiral Darlan to assure them. The British and a comparatively few Americans remained skeptical.

Darlan, in a statement of clarification, called for maximum military effort for the defeat of Germany and Italy and added that "this will be accomplished by the unity of all citizens, regardless of their political or religious opinions, in an orderly and cohesive fashion."

Darlan also declared flatly that strong French fleet units at Dakar, Alexandria and North African ports would join the British and U. S. fleets. Those units included: three battleships, more than seven cruisers, approximately a score of submarines and several destroyers.

Hit Tunis, Bizerte

Concentrating on docks and airfields in Bizerte and Tunis, American and British bombers continued to carry out their day and night raids with thunderous accuracy.

Tropical rains had brought land action to a minimum, with action limited largely to patrol sorties. It was evident that the Allies were willing to sacrifice forward positions to reduce losses pending an all-out offensive.

Allied attacks on Axis airfields are damaging the efforts of the Luftwaffe ground staffs to maintain operations. It is reported that less than two-thirds of the total force are able to take to the air at any time.

PRICE CONTROL:
No Surprise

Washington dopesters had announced it weeks before so there was little surprise throughout the nation when Leon Henderson resigned as director of the Office of Price Administration. Announcement of the resignation came from President Roosevelt who, in accepting it, praised Henderson and declared that "You have not spared yourself . . . and I appreciate your patriotic service."

Henderson said that he was quitting because of a recurrent physical difficulty and a "rather bad" impairment of eyesight. The President asked him to keep the White House advised on his physical condition so that when he had recovered he could be recalled to government service in some other capacity.

Because of his firmness in handling rationing affairs and because of his treatment of congress (without concern of political favor) Henderson has been under fire for months. Early in December many Washington sources predicted he was resigning and had suggested that Sen. Prentiss M. Brown, Michigan Democrat, succeed him. Brown, defeated for his senate post in the last election, had previously piloted the price stabilization bill through congress.

FARM DAY:
Vital Goals

Tuesday, January 12, has been proclaimed by President Roosevelt as Farm Mobilization day. On this day meetings are to be held throughout the nation to determine ways and means "of ensuring for the year 1943 the maximum production of vital foods."

Farmers are being asked on that day to gather with department of agriculture officials, extension service agents, vocational teachers, farm organizations and others concerned to discuss plans for meeting the high food production goals for the 1943 crop year.

President Roosevelt praised the farmers for their production of record maximum harvests in the past three years and declared that every pound of food finds use in wartime.

"Food," he said, "is no less a weapon than tanks, guns and planes. As the power of our enemies decreases, the importance of the food resources of the United Nations increases. With this thought in mind, we must further mobilize our resources for the production of food."

LIBYA:
Africa Corps Split

Long pounded by the British eighth army, Field Marshal Rommel's Africa corps took new and heavy body blows when his fleeing Axis forces were neatly divided by Sir Bernard Montgomery's pursuing troops.

In a sudden flanking movement advanced forces of the British army reached Wadi Matratin, 55 miles west of El Agheila on the Gulf of Sirte. From there, units of the Montgomery army sliced off to the south, cutting Rommel's army in two, one force continuing its westward flight, the other caught between the British main army and the British advanced units.

Included in the enemy troops cut off were armored forces which, in desperate maneuvers to escape, suffered heavy casualties and "continued to be severely mauled," the Middle Eastern command communique stated. The main eighth army was shoving ahead, forcing its way through mine fields laid by the retreating Germans, eager to get at the trapped troops.

MEAT QUOTA:
Cut to 35 Ounces

Upon orders from government food authorities, the per capita supply of meat for civilians has been reduced from the present limit of 40 ounces to 35 ounces a week during the first three months of 1943.

The orders were issued by Price Administrator Leon Henderson on the recommendation of Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard, the new food chief.

Civilian supplies of pork, veal, lamb and mutton were ordered cut approximately 13 per cent. Beef supplies will continue to be restricted at the present level. Restrictions are voluntary at present and consumers are being asked to limit themselves to 40 ounces a week until the first of the year, when the voluntary ration will be reduced by five ounces.

Slaughterers who kill more than 500,000 pounds a quarter have been limited to 70 per cent of the 1941 level for beef, pork and veal, and to 75 per cent for lamb and mutton.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

BESTIAL: With the governments of the other United Nations, the United States joined in a condemnation of Germany's "bestial policy of cold - blooded extermination" of Jews. This action came after reports from Europe indicated that the Nazis were definitely proceeding with Hitler's oft-repeated intention to exterminate every Jew on that continent.

PREDICTION: Robert Taft, senator from Ohio, has issued a prediction that a move to "break up" the Reconstruction Finance corporation is on the way with the opening (January 4) of the new session of congress.

DISTINGUISHED: Wendell Willkie has been awarded a plaque as Indiana's most distinguished son of the year.

RUSSIA:
See-Saw Battle

In the see-saw battle of Russia the course of warfare appeared to favor once more the Red army as an official communique announced the capture of five additional strong points in the Rzhev sector on the central front. It told, too, of the repulse of a heavy Nazi counterattack in the area southwest of Stalingrad.

In their counterdrive at Kotelnikovski, 90 miles southwest of Stalingrad, the Axis armies attempted to throw back the flank of the Russian forces south of the Don river and break through the Russian trap. The attacks were led by tanks, dive bombers and motorized infantry. Red Star, Soviet army newspaper, said many Axis troops were slaughtered and the attacks were hurled back decisively.

To the west of Stalingrad the Red army was said to be widening the broad barrier they had made between the Nazis on the banks of the Don and those trapped near Stalingrad. During the Russian drive on the central front, which took seven more villages, two battalions of German infantry were reported wiped out. A communique reported that near Vilikie Luki, Russian troops beat off a German attempt to break through the lines to help a surrounded Nazi garrison and destroyed Nazi equipment.

SCHOOL BELLS:
In Wartime

America's system of higher education is headed for some profound and sweeping changes under plans now released by the army and navy to train youths between 17 and 22 for specialized military duties.

Scheduled to begin in February the new setup for high school and college youths would be put into operation in several hundred colleges and universities throughout the nation. Students now in high school and college would fit into the program at the time they were called up for military training and virtually every youth over 17 in school would be affected.

As outlined in joint army-navy statement made in Chicago the plan calls for these major developments:

1. Mobilization of a selected number of colleges and universities for training soldiers in military-directed courses.

2. Enlisted soldiers now having completed their basic training (or about to complete) will be selected, if qualified, for specialized training when the plan is first set in motion.

3. A cadet system will be organized for the selected colleges and military training will thus be given but it will be subordinated to academic instruction.

4. When soldiers complete any phase of the specialized training at these schools they will do one of four things: (a) be given further training in officer's candidate school (b) returned to the troops; (c) recommended for technical noncommissioned officers or (d) detailed for advanced technical training.

Meanwhile the navy will be selecting high-school graduates or those with equivalent qualifications for induction as apprentice seamen or marine privates. Placed on active duty with pay these youths will attend designated schools.

China's President

U. S. GOAL:
Double Axis Output

The War Production board's goal for 1943 calls for a production rate by the end of the year estimated to be twice as great as that of the Axis nations. More than $90,000,000,000 worth of American weapons will be manufactured in 1943. U. S. war production in 1942 equals that of all the Axis countries, the WPB reported. The United Nations are out-producing the Axis almost two to one at present.

'VICTORY':
By the Government

"Victory," a picture magazine designed for free distribution in foreign countries, will be published by the government, the Office of War Information has announced.

The propaganda magazine will be published every two months in several languages, but will not be distributed within the United States. Advertising revenue will go to defray the cost of publication, officials said

Hilarious Games Are Feature of New Year's Eve

Unusual interest in a New Year's party can be created by an announcement from the hostess that there will be a good luck New Year's cake.

The New Year's cake occupies the position of honor in the center of the table when the guests assemble for midnight lunch. Inside the cake is baked a thimble, a silver coin and a ring.

Each person present gets a slice of cake. The fun begins when the finder of the ring is announced as sure to be married soon, the finder of the thimble to stay single and the lucky one who finds the coin to have a future of wealth and prosperity.

New Year's Puzzle.

"New Year's Puzzle" is the name of a game that will find favor with holiday merrymakers. It calls for some ingenuity and resourcefulness and the results are always interesting.

The party guests are divided into four or five groups. Each person in a group is numbered. The leader then calls a number and then asks a question. The answer must include a word containing the name of "New." The person who first answers correctly is given a point for his team.

A typical question might be: "Name a nerve disease containing the sound of 'new.' " The correct answer would be Neuralgia.

Other questions and answers might include: Impartial: Neutral; A city in New Jersey: Newark; Pertaining to air: Pneumatic; Pertaining to a number: Numeral; That which annoys: Nuisance; Many: Numerous; A center: Nucleus; An animal: Gnu; A Virginia City: Newport News; A famous Philosopher: Newton; Nourishing: Nutritious.

Cardboard Hour Glasses.

Since New Year's witnesses a significant passage of time, an interesting game called "Hour Glass" is appropriate to any celebration of the day.

Before the party group assembles, the hostess has hidden all over the room tiny cardboard hour-glasses. On each of these is written a different fragment of time—such as 35 minutes; one hour and 20 minutes; seven seconds; two days. One guest who is designated as Father Time announces that considerable time has been lost during the year and that the winning point will be given to the team whose members find most of the lost time. A search lasting three to five minutes follows, players scouting all over the room to find the hidden hour glasses. When the hunting period is over, the leader calls a halt and the team with the compilation of the longest amount of time wins.

Homemade Favors Will Interest Your New Year's Guests

Party favors are so much fun to devise that they can often be turned into a party game. The host and hostess who try out this novel idea for their New Year's eve party will find a reward in the enjoyment of their guests. A tray of materials is passed around and each guest starts to work.

Each guest can use his or her ingenuity. And if you can invent some new, amusing favors, using simple, everyday materials such as button molds, clothespins, pipe cleaners, marshmallows, bottle tops, tooth picks or gum drops, great will be your triumph in the group.

Here are some suggestions that may prove interesting when your guests have assembled to see the New Year in:

Marshmallow Man—The body is composed of two marshmallows with the broad ends together. The neck is a small gum drop and the head is a large round gum drop. The arms are long gum drops of the same color as the neck and head. Legs are long black gum drops; feet are small black gum drops. Mouth and nose are tiny bits of colored gum drop. String together with a very fine wire and large needle.

Peanut Bird—Made of walnut shell, almond, raisins and toothpick.

Mouse—A flat gum drop with a rounded gum drop on each end forms a fat little body and head. Ears are halves of a small rounded gum drop. A bent toothpick, a pipe cleaner or string makes the tail.

Dutch Boy—Body is a fig and the head an English walnut. Legs are fat prunes. Arms are shelled Brazil nuts. Wooden shoes are Brazil nuts with the top ridges whittled off enough that toothpicks may be stuck into the nutmeats.

History Sanctions New Year's Visiting

The custom of calling on one's friends on New Year's day to wish them prosperity and happiness has the sanction of history behind it.

From Colonial times to the present day New Year's has been a day of great significance. The Presidents have received the public at great receptions on that day and the custom of visiting friends has been passed down.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.

● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. Thus advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

Better Impersonations

In China, some actors, specializing in female impersonation, and some actresses, specializing in male impersonation, are so excellent in their roles that they are often engaged to play opposite each other in dramas, says Collier's. Incidentally, when such an actor takes the part of the heroine and such an actress that of the hero, the play is usually very successful.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Why wheel alignment is a "must" in rubber conservation. When a wheel is only ⅜-inch out of alignment the car is being dragged sideways 87 feet in every mile. That's tire scuffing at its worst.

Transportation in private automobiles in 1941 totaled 501 billion passenger miles, compared with about 29½ billion in railroads, about 27½ billion in electric railways, 25½ billion in buses and 1,370,000 passenger miles on domestic airlines. Big numbers, all, but they show motor transportation to be six times greater than all other forms combined.

It has been estimated that the United States military service will require 325,000 long tons of crude rubber in 1943.

Overloading a truck tire 10 per cent will cause a decrease of 18 per cent in the mileage; 50 per cent overload cuts mileage 60 per cent.

Shot Out of World

Scientists believe that if a rifle bullet could be fired upward at a muzzle velocity of seven miles a second, it would pass out of the atmosphere and never return to the earth, says Collier's. Such speed is not inconceivable because, for example, the wave of a nitroglycerin explosion starts at the rate of five miles a second.

Do Not Tell Too Much

On battle fronts every day men risk their lives to discover the location and strength of the enemy. Yet at home, too many of us are presenting the enemy with information of the same milinary value, the Office of Censorship says in a statement.

This is the information which newspapers and individuals are asked not to tell the enemy:

Do not tell the name of ships upon which sailors serve.

Do not tell the troop units in which soldiers serve overseas.

There is no objection to revealing that Pvt. John Jones is in Australia or that Seamen Tom Brown saw action in the Atlantic but there is military information which endangers the lives of American fightting men in stating that Pvt. John Jones, "Co. C 600th Infantry," is in Australia, or Seamen Tom Brown, "Aboard the U. S. S. Wisconsin" is in the Atlantic.

The Office of censorship says: "We ask editors not to publish these troop identifications, and we ask parents and relatives not to reveal them. Don't give the enemy anything that may lengthen the war!"

Karvonen Resigned Position

Mr. Geo. Netteland of Thief River Falls has been appointed as superintendent of the Holt High School. He came here to take that position this week.

Mr. G. W. Karvonen who has held that position for the past five years, has resigned and taked a job with the War Manpower Commission. He is stationed at Fergus Falls for the time being but will be assigned a territory in the Duluth district.

Rev. T. C. L. Hanson left Monday for Milan to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Halvor T. Hanson. Mrs. Hanson has been critically ill this past winter. Rev. Hanson expects to be gone about 10 days.

Stilaf Anderson left for Ames, Iowa, on Sunday where he is a senior veterinary student at Iowa State College after spending the holidays with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Anderson.

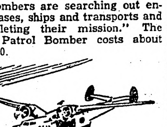
What You Buy With WAR BONDS

At Midway, in the Coral Sea and from General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia, the Navy patrol bombers are searching out enemy bases, ships and transports and "completing their mission." The Navy Patrol Bomber costs about $750,000.



Our factories are turning out hundreds of these bombing ships. Yet it is only through your investment in War Bonds and Stamps you can do your share to help provide patrol bombers for our rapidly increasing air force. Invest at least ten percent of your income every payday in these Government securities and do your bit to win and shorten the war. Our airmen are depending on your help.

When removing good buttons from wornout overalls, cut about two inches of the surrounding cloth with the button. This can be used on other overalls where the button has been pulled out—the button and patch are in one piece.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Ransacking Davy Jones' Locker Off North Africa

Lieut. George N. Ankers of Seattle is in charge of raising ships sunk during the North African campaign. He is shown at right surveying Oran harbor, where American and Royal navy divers have already begun the task of raising battered ships, sunk mostly by Allied bombs. Left: When General Grant tanks were being unloaded at Algiers one fell into the water. A crewman who went down with his tank is shown being brought to the surface by a French diver. The crewman recovered.

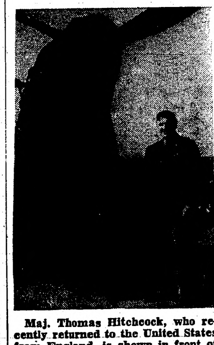
Five Marine Fighters Bring Down 110 Jap Planes

Five pilots of a marine fighter squadron which has accounted for 110 Jap planes in two months' fighting are shown near one of their Grumman fighters on Guadalcanal, in picture at left. They are (left to right), Lieut. Roger Hoberman; Lieut. Cecil Doyle; Capt. Joseph Foss (who tops the list with 22 planes shot down); William Marontate, and Lieut. Roy Ruddell. Right: A Jap fighter pilot, captured after being shot down during a dogfight over Guadalcanal, has plenty to say during an interview with a U. S. interpreter. The prisoner and others have shown a surprising willingness to give information concerning their own forces.

Jungle Hikes Precede Action in Buna-Gona

After being flown across New Guinea to the Buna-Gona area, U. S. troops hiked six days through the jungles before getting into action with the Japs. Here they found plenty of action, with the Japs coming out second best. Photo shows a group of American troops as they were gathered around an exhausted Jap as he was lying on the ground.

Best Fighter Plane



Maj. Thomas Hitchcock, who recently returned to the United States from England, is shown in front of a P-51 Mustang, in Inglewood, Calif. On his return from abroad Hitchcock said: "Current opinion in England, among both American and British fliers, is that the P-51 with the Merlin engine will be the best fighter plane in the world in 1943." While in England Maj. Hitchcock served as assistant military attache for air.

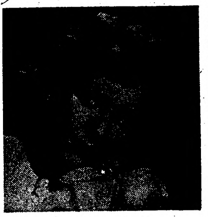
SAID my favorite taxi driver, "So I picks up this couple, and as we starts off he says something to her, and his voice is so familiar that I looks around, and sure enough, it's Ronald Colman. He thinks I didn't get the address, and says it again, and I says 'I know, but Mr. Colman, I had to look at you; I seen all your pictures.' So he's regular; he moves to the jump seat, and we talk, and I tell him which pictures I didn't like, and why. And he agrees with me; he didn't like 'em either. Then he laughs and says: 'What do you think of my wife?' And I says: 'I always knew you was a good actor; now I know you're a good picker too!' "

Incidentally, Mr. Colman was in New York for a rest, after completing "Stand By for Action"; "Random Harvest," the very good picture which he did with Greer Garson, was packing the huge Radio City Music Hall to the roof.

When Mary Martin leaped to stardom by singing "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" in a Broadway musical, she wore a fur coat. Back in New York to appear on CBS' "Stage Door



MARY MARTIN

Canteen," she gave it to John S. Staniszewski, America's most torpedoed seaman—it'll be made into a fur vest and worn on that North Atlantic run, if Staniszewski can bear to have it cut up!

Twenty 16 mm. prints of "Star Spangled Rhythm," an all-star Paramount musical, have been presented by the moion picture industry's War Activities committee to the army; they'll go to battle stations in various parts of the world.

"I Dood It" is now before the cameras at Metro's Culver City Studios, with Red Skelton providing the laughs, Eleanor Powell (who's talking about quitting picture-making,) performing some spectaculardances, and Jimmy Dorsey and his band providing the music.

Just received a copy of "Salute," the smart little 20-page magazine which RKO prints and mails to nearly 600 service men from the parent or affiliated companies. RKO's the first movie company to do this for its men and girls who've joined the armed forces; "Salute" gives them news from home and gives them a directory of other RKO-ites who've joined up.

The Irving Pichels certainly have an interest in "The Moon Is Down," now in the making at 20th Century-Fox. Violette Wilson (Mrs. Pichel) is appearing in it, and Pichel is directing the picture and also playing a tavern-keeper.

When Marguerite Chapman's 18-year-old brother joins up he'll be the fourth to enter the navy. Fred's in Panama, Ed's in Hawaii, Harold's on the East coast. And Marguerite's playing a sailor's daughter in Columbia's "Destroyer," to make it complete.

Gracie Allen takes her regular radio shows in her stride. But after a recent one she made a 15-minute recording with George, Jack Benny and Eddie Cantor for the Office of War Information's gas rationing campaign—and had a bad case of stage fright!

Paul Muni is the star of Broadway's revival of "Counsellor-at-Law," but the curtain wouldn't ring up on Saturdays if Ann Thomas didn't do a bit of hustling. "Abie's Irish Rose" goes off the air at 8:30 p. m., and Ann leaps for the theater, to open the play at 8:35, in her role of switchboard operator.

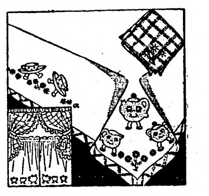
ODDS AND ENDS

Somehow Ilka Chase and Mary Martin persuaded Herbert Hoover to wink when they were photographed with him after appearing on CBS's Stage Door Canteen program.

Walter O'Keefe wants to make a personal tour of Alaskan service camps; if he does, his "Battle of the Sexes" program on NBC will be broadcast from the West coast.

When Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland start work together in "Girl Crazy" it will mark their eighth picture as a team; they joined talents first in "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry," in 1937.

THINGS for You TO MAKE



APPLIQUE animated dishes are a clever idea for a breakfast cloth, especially when they are used above a colorful plaid border and complemented with napkins of the same plaid. Lazy daisy flowers are also used to give interest to these designs.

Hostess Let Herself In For an Awkward Moment

At a Christmas gathering the shy young hostess, in an effort to be genial, led aside the comparative stranger, whose name, somehow, eluded her.

"Look," she said, "I've paired you off with that lady in the corner. Will you take her in to dinner?

"My husband says she's a bit of an old frump, but she's got lots of money, and one of his clever friends has just married her for it, so you can understand we must be nice to her."

"I'm sorry," said the guest, "but I am the clever friend in question."

Released from a plane flying at 300 miles an hour at an altitude of 20,000 feet, this bomb, upon explosion, produces enough force to lift one ton six miles in the air.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Air, Naval Blows on Nazi Supply Lines Pace Allied Offensive in North Africa; New Advance Carries Reds to Ukraine Thus Threatening Million Nazi Troops

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

NORTH AFRICA:
Supply Route Attack

Increased Allied naval and air activity in North Africa took a heavy toll of Axis supplies and men in a series of vigorous actions which foreshadowed greater things to come.

At least six and probably 10 Axis ships were sunk on the Tunisia-Sicily supply line. British submarines sank three supply ships in the Sicily-Africa lane and Middle Eastern command planes based on Malta blew up two more ships in the Tunis Harbor basin. The remainder were sunk as they attempted to bring reinforcements to Nazi forces.

During the comparative lull in the fighting, announcement was made of the landing of American troops in Dakar, nerve center of French West Africa, and the port which repulsed a British and Fighting French attack in September, 1940.

Operating to the southwest of Tunis under newly established Allied aerial superiority, French forces reported that they had captured "numerous prisoners, armored vehicles and artillery" in one sector while beating off repeated Axis counterattacks in another.

A French communique announced that French forces had captured the Axis men and material near Pont-duFahs, about 35 miles south of Tunis.

However, Axis forces in Tunisia were found to be strongly intrenched when Allied Commando troops raided northern Tunisia at a point within five miles of the huge Axis naval base of Bizerte. The incursion lasted several days, and the raiders were forced to regain the beach through about 15 miles of enemy-held territory. The Germans held strong machine gun posts in the area.

Libyan Drive

Dispatches from the Libyan front said that General Montgomery's British eighth army was advancing on Buerat El Hshun, only 50 miles west of Sirte along the Mediterranean coast and 180 miles from Tripoli. The British had advanced more than 200 miles west of El Agheila since launching a new attack to drive Marshal Rommel out of Libya.

FOOD FATS:
Face 15% Cut

Because of military and lend-lease requirements, the government expects to ration food fats and oils in 1943 at a level approximately 15 per cent below civilian demands, the bureau of agricultural economics has announced.

Likely to be rationed are cooking compounds, butter, margarine, lard and possibly salad dressing. Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, food administrator, indicated previously that butter would be rationed as soon as plans could be made.

Food items now under ration or scheduled for in 1943 include sugar, coffee, meats and cheese. Even milk supplies are running low in metropolitan areas.

The bureau estimated that civilians, with increased incomes, would buy about 57.1 pounds of fats and oils per capita in 1943 at present ceiling prices if this supply were available. Per capita consumption amounted to 51 pounds during the 1940-42 period.

CLAUDE WICKARD
48 Pounds Per Capita.

Under a rationing system about 48 pounds would be available for each person, including indirect consumption of fats in bread, cake, confectionery and canned soups.

NEW GUINEA:
Progress Slow

"The advance of our troops continues in the face of desperate enemy resistance. Progress was relatively slow, due to intricate and thoroughly prepared positions of the enemy."

That communique from General MacArthur's headquarters summed up the reasons for the seemingly prolonged battle to drive the Japs out of the Buna area of New Guinea. The Japs made all possible use of nature's defense facilities. The high kunai grass and the abundance of trees made Jap snipers an ever-present threat. The fact that they preferred death to capture made them doubly dangerous.

But American and Australian troops pushed the enemy into two narrowing coastal sectors on Cape Endaiadere. The Japs were forced to evacuate more than 100 pillboxes, leaving many dead behind them in each one.

LAVAL'S 'DEAL':
New Aid to Nazis

When France's Chief of Government Pierre Laval reported to his cabinet following a conference with Adolf Hitler he did so amid growing indications that his country may declare war on the United Nations.

Hitler's demands were all-inclusive. Both neutral and Axis sources said that Laval has acceded to them and that France will become a full Axis partner. According to reports, none of which were officially confirmed, Laval has agreed to put an army in the field under German command, and also to:

PIERRE LAVAL
Complete Sellout for France?

Purge France's anti-Nazis.

Resume the Riom "war guilt" trials with added defendants, including former Premier Edouard Herriot.

Maintain the German forces in France.

Turn over all industries in the formerly unoccupied zone to German war production.

Ship 400,000 industrial workers to Germany.

MILLION NAZIS:
And Russia's Offensive

After getting away to a terrific start the Russian winter offensive stalled, then gained speed again as Moscow communiques told of fierce battling in their campaign for Rostov, key city at the mouth of the Don river. Along the entire front there was plenty of action but it was toward Rostov that the Reds concentrated the full power of their counteroffensive.

While reports said the retreat of the Germans was rapid, Soviet sources reported that in a single day they had found time to kill 7,000 of the enemy and on the next day capture 6,700 more. In the first week of the Rostov campaign, Nazi casualties (not including wounded) were officially set at 55,200.

Fighting still was going on within Stalingrad, where progress on both sides for weeks has been reported in terms of houses and blocks.

In addition, the winter campaign of the Russian army was spreading westward toward the Ukraine. But military experts kept their eye on Rostov for the capture of that city by the Russians meant that all of the Nazi troops in the Caucasus were cut off from retreat (except by sea). Adding this force to the Nazi numbers in peril before Stalingrad it is estimated that a million German soldiers were threatened on two fronts.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

RELIEF: Because 13 midwestern states suffered a record-breaking cold wave in December, the Office of Price Administration ordered a 10 per cent increase in fuel oil rations for that area.

QUAKE: About 1,000 persons were killed with many more injured in an earthquake that destroyed the town of Erbaa, Turkey. Population of the town was 5,000.

SHORTAGE: Because imports from South America are dropping off due to the shipping situation there is developing a real shortage of castor oil, says the War Production board. But children need not cheer because the oil used in the medicinal purpose category will probably continue to be exempt from any allocation plan. Supplies likely will be sufficient.

BRIGHT blue is the color keynote in this bathroom. Blue is used for towels and bath mat stripes and for a painted box cornice. The curtains are of coarse white muslin tufted with old-fashioned candlewicking in bright blue. It is difficult to find appropriate curtains that will stand steam and moisture so you may want to copy these in your favorite color.

Cut the curtains the length and width desired with ample allowance for shrinkage and baste the hems in. Next place the material flat on a table and mark diagonal lines on the goods with a yardstick and pencil, spacing the lines four inches apart to form the plaid pattern. Now, thread a tufting needle with four strands of candlewick yarn, and work along these ruled lines using the thread double, as at the upper right. Also, sew the hem in this manner; then clip the stitches, as shown at lower right and dip in water. Spread out smooth to dry but do not iron. Finish the tops with a rod casing.

THE GREATEST MASS PRODUCTION JOB IN HISTORY

Not in Detroit . . . not in shipyards . . . not in steel mills . . . but rather on six million scattered farms, America today faces the greatest mass production problem of all time.

With tremendous new production quotas for next year just released, the American farmer now tackles the formidable problem of feeding our armed forces, our allies, our home front and the starving nations of the world.

It is not easy . . . yet there is not a farmer in America today who will shirk his duty . . .

Because fighting men need food as much as they need bullets!

Because poorly fed industrial workers never broke a production record!

Because our allies, fighting with us all over the world, need food as desperately as they need fuel!

Because food is more eloquent than words to a conquered nation!

Today America has three armies: its fighting men, its war plant workers and its farmers. To win the war depends on all three. You can be sure that the farmer will do his part—working long, tedious hours—from before dawn to late at night. To do his job, the farmer expects to work on Sundays, on Christmas, on New Year's Day, on every holiday.

This Year's Production Goal

MILK: 122,000,000,000 lbs., 2% more than last year's record production.
ALL MEAT: 25,700,000,000 lbs., a 16% increase.
HOGS: 13,800,000,000 lbs., a 27% increase.
LARD: 3,400,000,000 lbs., a 36% increase.
CATTLE AND CALVES: 10,910,000,000 lbs., a 7% increase.
CHICKENS: 4,000,000,000 lbs., a 28% increase.
EGGS: 4,780,000,000 dozen, an 8% increase.
WHEAT: 52,500,000 acres, a 2% decrease.
CORN: 95,000,000 acres, a 4% increase.
POTATOES: 3,160,000 acres, an 11% increase.

The farmer does not ask for special favors, flag waving or medals.

But he does need farm help. He does need equipment. He does need a fair share of the American dollar.

And most of all . . . the farmer needs an understanding public.

John Brandt
President, Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc.

This message is published by Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., in the national interest, to bring about a better public understanding of the farm production job. Tire Inspection Plans Altered

Editors Note: The following article was taken from Minneapolis Star Journal for Tuesday.

'A' Card Deadline Is Now March 31

Office of price administraiion today modified its periodic tire inspection program by postponing the January 31 deadline for the first inspection and providing for less frequent examinations.

The action was taken, O P A officials said, to minimize public inconvenience and to smooth out occassional work peaks for the inspectors.

A stagger system was put into effect so there will be three different deadlines for the first inspection.

Under the revised program, all holders of basic gasoline ration A coupons will have until the end of March for their first tire inspections.

Subsequent inspections will be once each six months, instead of the former requirement of once every four months.

Motorists with B or C supplementary books or bulk coupons for fleets will be required to get their first inspections by the end of February.

After that, inspections for B bookholders will be once every four months, and for C bookholders and bulk coupon holders once every three months.

Formerly the schedule called for examinations of cars with B and C rations once in two months

Announcements of a similar postponement on inspection of truck and commercial car tires is also expected.

Melvin Larson visited at the Lon Inman home Saturday eve.

Before asking you to sign the 1943 Farm Plan, as set up under the War Production Program, a series of meetings have been scheduled throughout the county to acquaint you with the operations planned for the current Food Campaign and Manpower Inventory.

Farmers in this territory can attend such a meeting at Holt on Tuesday, Jan. 19.

After you have attended this meeting and have had time to consider the all out production goals and duties you have been asked to perform there will be another series of meetings in this part of the county as follows Towships of Holt and East Valley at Holt, January 27. Other meetings will be held at Gatzke, Middle River, Newfolden and Excell town hall.

Tuberculosis Takes Many Lives

"Find Tuberculosis Before Symptoms Appear"

"Build Strong Healthy Bodies to Resist the Disease."

With this keynote, the 1943 Christmas Seal program against tuberculosis is now underway, according to a bulletin from the Minnesota Public Health Association.

Tuberculin testing work for the year to search out school students threatened by the disease, started January 11 with a survey in the schools of Brown County. Dr. Kathleen Jordan of the Minnesota Public Health Association is in charge of the work.

The health inspection program of school children also started January 11 with Miss Mabel Johnson, Christmas Seal Nurse, starting a six weeks survey in the schools of Cass County.

An intensive health education program through films, literature talks and other methods are also underway.

The month of April will be devoted to an intensive "Early Diagnosis of Tuberculosis Campaign."

"Tuberculosis took more lives in the United States in 1942 than the total number that were killed wounded or missing among our armed forces in the same period" the bulletin stated. "The number of United States casualties in the war during 1942 was 58,307, while tuberculosis killed approximately 60,000 in the same time. Moreover, tuberculosis claims its victims just at the age when they are most needed for the fighting and production effort."

"Discovered early tuberculosis is readily curable."

"For these reasons an expanded tuberculosis prevention program is a vital part of the victory effort."

Who can top this one? Mrs. Iver Larson has five brothers in the Armed Forces.

Lorraine Peterson resumed her teaching duties near Gatzke Monday after spending the Holidays at her home here.

Farm Mobilization Day Held

A very good sized crowd came in here on Tuesday for the National Farm Mobilization Meeting that was held in Holt.

Mr. Rosencrans of the Farm Security Administration, Thief River Falls was the main speaker.

A very good and interesting program was held with Walter Larson, manager of the Farmers Cooperative Creamery as chairman. Letters from soldiers were read by Mrs. John Ness and there were instrumental numbers by Irvin Larson and Oliver Backlund accompanied by Mr. Meyer. After the program the crowd listened to noted speakers from all over the world and also a message from President Roosevelt was read over the radio.

Sentinels of Health
Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.
When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.
Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.
The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Sportlight

by GRANTLAND RICE

THE recent death of Jack Doyle, Broadway's famous betting commissioner, cleared up one of the mysteries connected with one of the most famous ring battles ever fought.

Grantland Rice

This was the first meeting between Jim Jeffries and Jim Corbett, won by Jeffries with a knockout in the 23rd round.

In most of the remembered versions of that fight, where Corbett put on the most sensational comeback of all time, the average opinion is that Corbett had the fight packed away by a wide margin until Big Jeff landed the killing punch.

Many who saw the fight had given Corbett 20 of the first 22 rounds.

Doyle's Story

But Jack Doyle had another story to tell. "George Siler refereed this fight," Jack said once, "and for a long time I tried to get him to tell me what his decision would have been if the fight had been only a 20-round contest. For a long time Siler wouldn't say. Then one night he told me confidentially, asking me not to repeat his words, that at the end of 20 rounds he would have given the fight to Jeffries.

" 'I'll tell you why,' Siler said. 'Jeffries was the champion. Jeffries was the aggressor. And Jeffries landed the only damaging punches. It was true enough that Corbett landed many more blows. But none of these bothered Jeffries in the slightest. Jeffries only landed a few times solidly, but when he did I could see that he had hurt Corbett considerably. In fact, once or twice he had Corbett in serious trouble. For that reason at the end of 20 rounds I would have left the title with Jeffries, the defender.' "

Corbett's Angle

Before his death, I talked to Corbett about this Jeffries fight on many occasions.

Corbett felt dead sure that he had lost the championship by being overconfident in the 23rd round.

"I had nailed Jeffries at least 10 times to one," he said. "I don't think anyone could hurt Jeffries when he was in shape, as he was then. You remember, Fitz broke both hands on his jaw in their second fight. But I was nailing him all through the fight. I was far in front when he finally caught me coming off the ropes."

I asked Corbett if Jeff had hurt him. "Twice," Corbett said. "Both body punches, and each time I thought he had torn me in two. The Jeffries that fought Jack Johnson wasn't even a ghost of the old Jeffries. He was a fat, half-bald fellow, far out of shape. But the Jeffries I met the second time was the greatest fighter I ever saw. He was not only tough and rugged, game and strong, not only a killing puncher, but he had also become a high-class boxer, which few remember. He had to retire because there was no one else even close. In his prime I don't think that Jack Dempsey or any one else could have hurt him. He would have worn down and beaten them all."

Doyle's Favorite Story

Jack Doyle's favorite story concerns Jimmy Austin, at that time the Yankee third baseman.

Big Ed Walsh was pitching for the White Sox. "Austin was hitting around .209," Jack said. "He hadn't gotten a hit for three days. Walsh was at his peak. The big fellow was mowing them down with his fast ball and his spitter. On that day I happened to be sitting near a bunch of gamblers who found it hard to get down a bet. They were panning Austin as he came to bat. Sitting near those gamblers there was a drunk about half asleep. He suddenly lurched over and said he would like to bet $100 to $500 that Austin would get a triple. This was too good to be true, especially after he had shown his roll. Five of the sure-thing boys took him, $500 to $2,500, and I held the stakes. On the first pitch Austin hit one against the top of the fence for three bases.

"The funny part is, that was the last bet they could get out of the drunk. He crammed his winning $2,500 into his pocket and went back to sleep. His last remark was: 'I only make one bet a game and then I wait for a sure thing that can't miss.'

"I'd say the odds against that bet were 1,000 to 1."

No Wild Odds

Doyle's prices were closer than many others. You'd never find him laying 7 to 1 that Georgia would beat Auburn, Boston College would beat Holy Cross, or that the Chicago Bears would beat the Redskins.

Jack, who came up in football from the days of Frank Hinkey and The Bloody Corner, had seen too many upsets, especially in traditional games.

The 1942 season was more than ample evidence of the truth of his beliefs.

Puncher Smith Was an Optimist to the Bitter End

In the first round of the heavyweight contest, Puncher Smith hit the floor hard four times, and just before the bell, went down for the full count.

The winner was rushed to the microphone, where he said a few modest words. By this time, Puncher had come to, and managed to stagger to his feet. Whereupon the announcer came over.

"Come on," he coaxed, "say a few words to the millions listening."

Puncher tried to keep his knees steady; then he said:

"Ladies and gentlemen; this is the greatest fight of my career. May the best man win!"

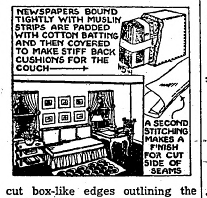
ON THE HOME FRONT

With RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THIS is the story of an old couch that became glamorous and played a conspicuous part in a charming sunny living room. The transformation started with a heavy cotton twill fabric in a soft tan tone to match the background color of the hooked rug that you see in front of the couch. It was decided not to use any contrasting trimming but to accent the clean-cut box-like edges outlining the couch pad and cushions with a second seam on the outside, as shown at the right. Couch cover and cushions used 9½ yards of the 36-inch-wide goods.



NEWSPAPERS BOUND TIGHTLY WITH MUSLIN STRIPS ARE PADDED WITH COTTON BATTING AND THEN COVERED TO MAKE STIFF BACK CUSHIONS FOR THE COUCH
A SECOND STITCHING MAKES A FINISH FOR CUT SIDE OF SEAMS

When the smartly tailored cover was completed it was fastened firmly in place with zippers of the type that come apart at the bottom—one side being stitched to the seam allowance of the cover and the other sewn to the couch pad. Next came the stiff cushions to stand up at the back. These were made with an inside core of newspapers tightly bound together with muslin bands and then padded with cotton batting, as shown.

NOTE: Directions for making the hooked rug in this sketch may be found on page 14 of your copy of Book 5. Directions for making the spool table at the left of this sketch are also in that book. The velvet covered frames for the pictures over the couch are in Book 6, which also contains a description of the series of booklets prepared by Mrs. Spears as a service to our readers. Address:

Australia—Land of Tomorrow

By William C. Courtney

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

Out there in Australia, certain novelties of aviation greatly interest Yank fighting birdmen who roost down between their walloping flights against the no-longer-so-cocky Jappies.

One of the first observations a Yank airman is likely to make at cocktail parties is that Aussie women are universally air-minded; perhaps more so than their menfolk. While at Aussie fields, probably the first unusual thing to catch his eye is the omnipresent Aussie version of WAAFs. Here they add an "a" for aviation: meaning Women's Auxiliary Australian Air force. What the famous Australian accent does to the W-triple-a-fs is beyond me to reproduce phonetically.

The WAAAFs work right up in the advanced combat zones. They've had casualties. Their commander is Wing Officer Clare Stevenson, a charming 36-year-old feminist champion. WAAAFs practically run the whole ground show—clerking, serving messes, cooking, driving cars and trucks, tailoring, folding chutes, administering, handling all telephone, cipher and radio communications, and even "manning" radio location detectors, and making engine and plane repairs. They live and mess exactly on the same basis as soldiers; are permitted but one concession to their sex—hairdressers. They wear Air Force Blue uniforms off duty; blue overalls and berets on duty.

Stork Travels by Air.

The harshness and loneliness of Australia's frontier life is emphasized to interested Yanks by a service that is unique to Australia—the renowned Australian Aerial Medical service; popularly, the Flying Doctors. They have six bases in the more than two million square miles of bush, or outback, as it's variously called. Some 250 principal homesteads have radio sets for which power is generated by a contraption like a bicycle pedal. When a doctor is needed, a messenger may ride horseback as much as 100 miles to a homestead with a radio. From here, a call is sent to the nearest Flying Doctor station, perhaps another 600 miles away.

Doc climbs into his plane with his pilot—or flies himself if the pilot isn't handy—as matter-of-factly as our country doctors used to climb into their buggies and whip up their horses. The planes are single-motor jobs, with a stretcher in the cabin. The doctor lands as close as possible to the ailing one. He is prepared to operate, deliver, or treat on the scene, if necessary; or fly the patient to civilization and a hospital. Truly, the stork travels by air in Australia. Last year, these little-sung medical heroes flew nearly 150,000 mercy miles.

Country With a Future.

For their nightly bull session at fields outside Port Darwin, Townsville, or a dozen secret rookeries outback, thoughtful young Americans find boundless subjects for discussion in the special air-transportation chances that Australia poses. The Big Dipper has seen more of mankind's purposeful comings and goings than the Southern Cross. So this island continent, sidetracked from ancient, historic trade and expansion routes of the Northern hemisphere, will loom in the postwar world as a challenge to the potentialities of air transport.

With fewer inhabitants now than the state of New York or the city of London, in an area as large as the whole United States, Australia can be drawn closely by airway netting into the international web of good neighbors. Then watch her grow! So imaginative Yank fliers say rubbing their hands, planning splendid tomorrows—and perceiving with awe for the first time the true capacity of the airplane as a gourmand of distances.

With peace, the Yank airmen see Australia only two or three days from home by plane, instead of 19, as by fastest prewar steamers. Already the route has been flown by our Generals Brett and Arnold in 30-odd hours.

Today Australia is a five-city nation.

Brisbane, Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide and Perth, each is in its way a nostalgic bit of England.

Behind them lies the strange, wild continent — largely unknown, untamed, unrealized, unsettled. More than half the total population is urban.

Man has scarcely got beyond the beaches of Australia; registering no more impression upon it than that made upon a polo field by half a dozen colonies of ants in the grass on its border. Rail and highway travel is still very primitive; these, with her immigration laws, have held Australia back, her leaders say.

From the village of Cairns on the northeast coast to Perth on the southwest (comparable: Portland, Maine, to San Diego, Calif.) takes 11 days. Except for one semi-streamliner, The Spirit of Progress, that runs from Sydney to Albury on the Victoria border, and that can't be mentioned with North American or European standards, Australian trains are something out of Fontaine Fox cartoons.

Not so in aviation. Herein, Australia long ago saw her salvation. She has a tradition of superb pilots—commercial and combat.

Those Khaki Uniforms

British soldiers in India during their war with the Sikhs, 1848-49, felt too conspicuous in their white campaign uniforms. By dipping them in muddy water they changed them from white to—the Sikhs had a word for it—khaki. The United States quartermaster general, now buying scores of millions of yards of khaki cloth for uniforms, specifies a khaki dye that results from blending many dye shades.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER
In Calcutta wealthy natives with cars invariably paint their tires red because of the superstition that this will obviate motor trouble.
The rubber tapper, or seringuero, in Brazil lives partly off the forest he ranges in search of wild rubber. A shotgun and machete are his traditional equipment.
Superstitious negroes of Georgia believe that the best cure for rheumatism is to sleep with an old tire around the waist.
When dual tires are mis-mated, the larger tire carries most of the load, wears off its tread abnormally and fails early due to the generation of excess heat in its cord carcass.
It is estimated that the average tire loses 12 per cent of its weight in use and yields about ⅝ of its original weight in reclaimed rubber.

Test Grains and Seeds Now

Marshall county farmers who are looking about for weed-free seed of varieties adapted to Minnesota growing conditions have a useful guide in the seed directory issued by the Minnesota Crop Improvement Ass'n. cooperating with the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station. This directory lists several hundred growers who have had their fields inspected and passed by by representatives of the crop association.

Field inspection is exceptionally important because the association will not pass fields which have primary noxious weeds. The farmer who gets his seed from certified growers can avoid worries about weed infestation through seed.

Copies of the seed directory may be secured by writing to the Minnesota Crop Improvement association, University Farm, St. Paul. The directory gives much valuable information about the crop varieties which will grow best under conditions in this state.

Operators who plan to use their own seed for all or part of next year's plantings can take advantage now of the seed analysis service of the State Seed Laboratory at University Farm, St. Paul. Samples of cleaned seed (a pint of larger grains, a cupful of the small grass seeds) will be analyzed for weed seeds and germination. There is no charge for the first five samples. If any seed is to be sold to neighbors, the analysis is require by law.

Those who send in samples samples early will avoid the big spring rush.

Tire Inspection Plans Altered

Minneapolis.—A 60-day period of grace has been given holders of "A" mileage ration cards by the Office of Price Administration to get their tires inspected as required in the mileage rationing program. "A" card holders have until March 31 instead of January 31 in which to get their tires checked over for usability. They need have the inspections renewed only every six months instead of every four months under the new ruling. Motorists who have B or C cards must have their tires inspected before February 28. B card holders must have their tires examined every four months and C card holders every three months. Previously B and C card holders were to have had their tires inspected every two months. OPA officials explained the change was made because few motorists will be doing much driving because of the severe restrictions on gasoline usage.

Walter Larson and J. P. Augustine spent last week end in the Twin Cities attending to business with Land O'Lakes.

WOMEN AT WAR

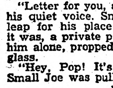
Mom

"Sausages for breakfast! Sausages for breakfast! I can smell 'em!" Small Joe came tumbling downstairs fastening the belt of his shorts as he came. He made a beeline for the kitchen. Pop was already sitting at the table, reading the paper, while Mom held the handle of the frying-pan over the stove. Small Joe came close and sniffed the delicious smoke, wriggling all over with early-morning joy.

"Better be thankful for them while you can still get them." One glance at Mom's face told small Joe this was one of her tight-lipped days. "Not a drop of coffee in the house, and no sugar left to put in it if there was. Some war!" Small Joe kept still.

"Letter for you, son," Pop said in his quiet voice. Small Joe made a leap for his place at table. There it was, a private personal letter for him alone, propped against his milk glass.

"Hey, Pop! It's from brother!" Small Joe was pulling the envelope apart and diving into the contents. "Hey, look what he sent me." He passed over an oblong of thick, crinkly paper while he leaned over the sheet of writing-paper.



"A twenty-five dollar War Bond," Pop said slowly. Mom turned and looked at it over Pop's shoulder, with the frying-pan in her hand.

"Listen what he says. 'How are you doing, kid? Hurry and grow up so you can help me slap the Japs. Aren't you most big enough to get into the Army? Here's something for you in your name. Let's the whole family gang up and help to win this war.'"

Pop and Mom were silent. But small Joe didn't notice that. He was full of his letter and his War Bond.

"Gee, Pop, in six years I could get into the Army, couldn't I, Pop? Gee, Pop, I want to be a soldier like brother and fight in this war. Gee, isn't that bond nifty? Look, it was issued in Honolulu. It's mine."

But Pop was looking at Mom and Mom was looking at Pop. There were tears in Mom's eyes. She shook her head sharply. Pop reached out and patted her hand gently.

"Well, can't let our soldier boy beat us to buying War Bonds, can we, old lady?" was all he said.

She shook her head again. "I guess if he can give up his job and . . . and go off to war I can do some fighting back at home," she said in a queer voice. Small Joe looked up at her in surprise. She saw him looking at her and spoke sharply. "Well, Joe. We're about ready to eat. Say grace."

Small Joe folded his hands and bent his head as he had been taught.

"Oh Lord, we thank thee for this food and all thy bountiful gifts . . ."

"Amen," Pop said.

"Amen," Mom said. "Now eat your good sausages."

Many Women In Polio Fight

Minnesota women will work in behalf of the nation-wide Fight Infantile Paralysis campaign starting Friday, January 22nd. From then until January 29 there will be concentration of all women's activities in the state to raise money for the Foundation.

Half of the funds raised in each county will be used for the benefit of local polio victims. The other half goes to the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis to be used for research into causes and cures for the malady. In Minnesota the National Foundation has returned most of the funds to the state because of the spectacular work of Sister Kenny.

The first women's forum to be sponsored by the National Foundation will be held on January 22 at Town Hall, New York. Mrs Franklin D. Roosevelt will lead the panel discussion, "Women's Part in Polio", in which six women of national prominence have been invited to take active part. The forum will be broadcast over the Blue network at 5 p. m.

More and more volunteers are needed to aid in the fight against infantile paralysis and they are asked to report to their county or city chairman for work in the campaign which closes on the President's Birthday, Jan. 30th.

Named to the Minnesota State Advisory Committee for the celebration of the President's Birthday were Mrs. D. A. Munro Duluth, State PTA president; and Mrs. Herbert Parker, Minneapolis, 1st. vice president, State PTA, according to Arthur D. Reynolds, state chairman.

Heads March of Dimes

H. F. Hedquist, Argyly, was named chairman of the Marshall County Committee for the celefor the Celebration of the President's Birthday, it was announced today by the state committee.

Scores of polio victims thruout the state have been aided by the annual drive for funds which comes to a close January 30.

"The 1942 campaign met with great success and Minnesota is fortunate in having Sister Kenny's work originally sponsored in this area by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis", said Arthur D. Reynolds, state chairman.

Because of gas rationing and other travel difficulties, some communities are placing the campaign on the March of Dimes Birthday Banks, and other local home doings.

Schools Share $18,170

Public schools in Marshall county received $18,170.00 as their share of a Minnesota state income tax payment based on a total enrollment of 3,634 pupils at $5.00 per pupil, according to a report from the County Auditor.

Stephen school Dist. No. 1 received $720.00. Warren, Dist. 2 received the largest share with an allotment of $1,295. Other schools in the county shared as follows: Argyle $880.00. Newfolden $535.00; Strandquist $610. Alvarado $475.00; Oslo $445.00 Middle River $310; Holt $285.

Jones Makes Farm Report

The annual report of Geo. C. Jones, Conservator of the Department of Rural Credit, submitted to Governor Stassen last week, reveals the fact that there are only 55 Rural Credit farms remaining unsold in this county.

Since January 1, 1939, Rural Credit Department has sold 290 farms in Marshall county, comprising 53,973.43 acres, and thru the sale of these farms the annual tax revenue has been increased $22,622.90.

Of the 290 farms sold in Marshall county, 74 were sold to former owners or their children, 105 to local tenants, 79 to local farmers, and only 32 to outside buyers. Many of these sales have come about thru advertsiements placed in local newspapers, Mr. Jones reported.

The aggressive policy pursued by Mr. Jones since becoming Conservator of the Department, and his desire to place as many of the state farms as possible in the hands of former owners or tenant farmers at prices based on the farm's ability to produce, is showing fine results, and complete liquidation of the Department is an early possibility.

ON THE HOME FRONT

with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

"DEAR Mrs. Spears: Recently I sent for your stamping pattern of Mexican figures and used them for two sets of tea towels and pot holders and a pair of curtains for my grand-daughter. Her husband made racks of them that also helped to give the kitchen a gay air.

A triangle shelf to fit in a corner near the sink was put up. It had an ordinary bathroom towel rod screwed to the bottom, and painted, cut-out scallops nailed to the front. For the pot holders, he scalloped both edges of a 4 by ½-inch board; painted it; screwed a brass cup hook in the center of every other scallop and then nailed it up over the stove. G. B. S."

Celebrities Join Up With Uncle Sam

Army Dogs Serve as Messengers to Men at Front

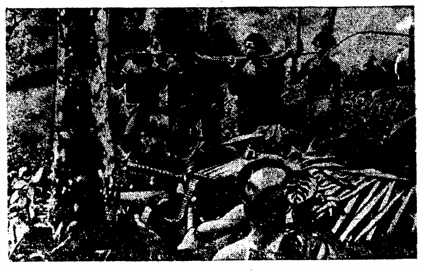
Private Wins $1,500 Air Medal Competition

Private Walter Hancock of St. Louis submitted the winning design for the new air medal. Private Hancock entered the competition while he was yet a civilian. Word that his design won the competition came at the end of a day of KP at Camp Livingston, La. Picture shows Hancock, left, receiving $1,500 check from Col. W. M. Dixon, finance officer, U. S. army. Inset: Cast of the new air medal designed by Private Hancock.

Somewhere in India

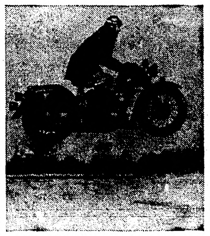
Capt. James W. Snyder, U. S. army intelligence officer, who in civilian life was a historian, is shown in conversation with a veteran Indian guide. This picturesque native served in China during the Boxer rebellion. The ribbon decoration is for service with the late Lord Kitchener. He also served under Lord Roberts.

The Home Town Boys Lend a Hand



Natives, who know New Guinea territory even better than the jungle-hardened Aussies and Americans, carry the wounded past a machine gun nest. Transporting the injured from the line of battle is merely one important function of these dark-skinned men and boys who act as porters, guides and carpenters.

Riding High



Personally we are of the opinion that Sergeant Baycura belongs in the air force. If he can make a motorcycle fly just think what he could do with an airplane! The sergeant is an instructor in the motorcycle school at Camp Lee, Va.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.

● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. Thus advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Jap Armada Repulsed in New Guinea; Russians' Rostov-Caucasus Offensive Wins Back Vital Areas From Germans; FDR Cites 'Miracle' of War Production

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

First picture of an American officer questioning German prisoners is shown above, as Maj. William Yarborough (bareheaded) of Seattle, Wash., interrogates two German prisoners taken in Tunisia. Fighting French troopers look on. Major Yarborough is liaison officer between the advanced U. S. forces and the French in Tunisia.

ROOSEVELT:
Better World Ahead

Bad news for the Axis, good news for the United Nations and the assurance of victory followed by postwar economic security were the three most significant elements in President Roosevelt's annual message to the 78th congress.

In delivering his bad news to the Axis on all fronts, the President bluntly announced: "Now our aim is to force the Japanese to fight. Last year we stopped them. This year we intend to advance." In the African area he promised that the last vestige of Axis power would be driven from the south shores of the Mediterranean. Concerning Europe, he said, "We are going to strike—and strike hard."

The good news for the United Nations was contained in Mr. Roosevelt's enumeration of the "miracle of production" at home, as well as the evidence of close co-operations between all Allied leaders. In his summary of accomplishments during the last year, the President listed the production of 48,000 airplanes, 56,000 tanks and self-propelled artillery weapons, and 10,431,000,000 rounds of ammunition and the transporting of 1,500,000 men of our 7,000,000 armed forces overseas. Significantly, he revealed that more supplies are now being flown by American planes to China than were ever transported over the Burma road.

In his approaches to postwar planning and domestic policy, the President succeeded in promoting good will for the administration in a congress now closely balanced in political faith. He suggested principles rather than specific recommendations for legislation that might stir up factional disputes.

NORTH AFRICA:
Allies Coil

Give and take operations continued on the Tunisian front, with the Allied forces steadily recruiting their strength until superior air and land power aided by more favorable weather would enable them to smash ahead in the all-out assault for Bizerte and Tunis.

As American troop concentrations were speeded in the new U. S. fifth under Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark, British infantry units wrested important heights from the Germans west of Bizerte.

The British, however, were dislodged from these positions by fierce German counter-attacks indicating the enemy's determination to contest every remaining foot of African soil.

British and American bombers were active in the air, while Allied submarines harassed Axis shipping in the Mediterranean, sinking two enemy ships believed to be carrying troops to Africa.

In the east, General Sir Bernard Montgomery's British eighth army had been sparring for an opening for a new push on Tripoli.

On the diplomatic front it was reported that Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French, and Gen. Henri Giraud had agreed to a discussion of North African problems designed to speed French action against the Axis in collaboration with their Allies.

LOCAL TRANSPORT:
ODT Takes Over

In a far-reaching executive order designed to speed up the movement of war workers, President Roosevelt placed Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman in charge of local bus lines and street cars.

The effect was to give ODT complete supervision over all local transportation equipment and to authorize Mr. Eastman to revise present service and schedules wherever necessary to step up the movement of passengers to and from war plants.

SOUTH PACIFIC:
Japs Are Stubborn

Although General MacArthur's forces had cleared the enemy out of the Papuan peninsula, the Japs still held an area in New Guinea as large as Texas and Oklahoma combined. That the Nipponese intended to stubbornly hold this area was evident from their naval operations to reinforce it.

First Jap efforts in this direction were frustrated when United Nations bombers attacked a convoy of 10 enemy ships off Lae, 160 miles up the eastern New Guinea coast from Buna. The Allied airmen sank two ships, one a 15,000-ton vessel loaded with troops, scored hits on a third and shot down 18 Jap planes, according to a communique from General MacArthur's headquarters.

Meanwhile other Allied airmen roved as far as Gasmata and Rabaul in neighboring New Britain, where unusually heavy concentrations of Jap troop and supply ships and war craft had assembled.

In the Solomons, American fliers continued to assert Allied air supremacy by attacking Jap airfields at Munda and Kahili on Bougainville island. Meanwhile in Burma, British planes strafed the area northwest of Akyab and damaged enemy shipping off Burma's west coast.

RUSS STEAMROLLER:
Gains Momentum

Best news for the United Nations' cause continued to come from the far-flung expanses of south and central Russia.

The Reds' two-pronged threat aimed at Rostov, vital city at the mouth of the Don, grew more menacing to the Nazi defenders, as both the northern and southern arms of the pincers continued to make new gains, capturing 61 villages in the Middle Don and rolling up impressive advances in the Caucasus.

The Caucasus offensive was especially significant, for after expelling the Nazis from Mozdok, gateway to the Grozny oil fields, and from strategic Nalchik, the Russ pressed the retreating Germans hard, advancing toward Mineralne Vody, center of a network of Caucasus railroads. The capture of more than a dozen Caucasus towns indicated that the Nazi front in the area was breaking up faster than in any previous battles.

The seriousness of the German plight in the Caucasus was emphasized by the fact that for the first time the Berlin radio conceded that Axis troops were retreating in the east Caucasus, explaining that their troops had carried out "a shortening of the front, according to plan by giving up advanced strong points."

PETROLEUM RATION:
East Curbed Again

The OPA cut deeper into the use of rationed petroleum products in 17 eastern states, when an order banned pleasure driving and slashed the amount of fuel oil that schools, stores, theaters and non-residential establishments may consume to 25 per cent below present rations, giving them about 45 per cent of normal requirements.

Future operation of many amusement places was left in doubt, since the OPA order specifically banned motoring to theaters as well as race tracks, and the fuel restrictions threatened to make theaters and night clubs cool beyond comfort. The OPA warned, too, that future cuts in non-residential fuel oil rations might be necessary.

Stern measures faced motorists violating the new orders. Any car owner driving to amusement centers or to "purely social engagements" was liable to the cancellation of all or part of his gasoline ration.

Diagnosed

At a local boarding house a guest was sawing away at the sinewy knee-joint of a leg of roast chicken.

At last, waving a hand towards a bottle of sauce which stood near the landlady's elbow, he said:

"Pass the liniment, please, Mrs. McPherson. This seagull has rheumatism."

Cheers for Dad

For three solid hours the young man had sat beside her on the settee and talked, and she was thoroughly bored. Time and again she yawned and looked at the clock, but he was blind to hints.

At last, as midnight drew near, she made a desperate effort, with the remark:

"I'm afraid dad always turns out the lights at twelve o'clock."

The young man beamed at her.

"What a thundering good sport he must be!" he said heartily.

The problem of what to send a service man has been solved by the men themselves. Tobacco tops the list of gifts service men prefer from the folks back home, according to numerous surveys. SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Driven under 35 miles an hour, properly inflated and on a car with wheels in alignment war tires of reclaimed rubber should return up to 10,000 or more miles of service. Care should be the watchword of the "war tire" user!

Rubber is considered one of the three most important strategic materials in war by officers in the Army's ordnance department.

Progress in reverse is the reopening of a street car line in Brooklyn, N. Y., that had been converted to motor buses several years ago. A war measure that will save 1,300,000 bus miles a year—and of course a relative amount of rubber.

Caster, camber, toe-in and king-pin inclination are factors in wheel alignment tire users are going to hear about now that periodic tire inspections are mandatory. They mean much to tire conservation.

Entertaining at Home?
BEER IS APPROPRIATE

More Americans are playing host these days in their own living rooms. Simple entertaining, to ease the strain and tension of wartime, is both wholesome and necessary. Naturally the beverage you serve should be appropriate—mildly stimulating to promote good fellowship, refreshing, and, of course, economical. Beer is all of these, and is enjoyed for its own goodness by the majority of your friends. Remember it, too, as a nutritious beverage, carefully brewed from the rich grain harvests of Minnesota. True temperance, more important today than ever before, is best served by serving beer ..... the beverage of moderation and true hospitality.

Two Bad Train Wrecks

Twenty-one cars on an east-bound Soo Line freight train were derailed at Pinewood near Bemidji on Wednesday of last week, considerable damage to the equipment resulting, but no crew members were injured.

Another bad wreck took place on the Great Northern at Osseo, Minn., Saturday when a locomotive exploded piling wrecked cars high on the right-of-way blocking the St. Cloud line several hours. Three trainmen lost their lives in the explosion which completely wrecked the heavy locomotive.

Win With Tin

WANTED — All thoroughly clean food and tobacco containers made from tin plate. Food cans with painted or lithographed labels are acceptable. Condensed milk cans are wanted, if they are completely opened on both ends.

Paint, oil, varnish, and conical top beer cans. Cans made from terne plate, such as motor oil cans. (Terne plate is not tin-largely lead content.)

Proper Preparation

1. Wash can thoroughly, preferably right after removing contents. Remove paper label.
2. Remove top and bottom enough to tuck inside can.
3. Flatten body of can by stepping on it firmly. Step on it hard but do not hammer it.
4. Save in dry place and dispose of thru your local grocery store.

Preparation — Every user of tin cans must be aware of the vital need for tin, and salvage of all desirable cans and their proper preparation is a patriotic duty.

Accumulation — In all Marshall County communities, housewives and other users of cans are urged to take prepared cans to their local grocers. Grocers cannot accept improperly prepared cans.

Collection — Beverage industry trucks are responsible for collecting all prepared cans at each time they make a delivery to a grocery store.

Disposal — Prepared cans are shipped in carload to a detinning plant.

Q. What do I do with the cans after proper preparation?

A. Throughout Minnesota (except in Minneapolis and St. Paul where municipal collections are made) grocery stores are the official receiving stations for prepared cans. Bring them to your grocer or give them to the delivery boy when he calls at your home. Get your cans to the grocers as often as you go to his store.

Marshall County farmers can well be proud because in the scrap iron collection they still lead the nation with per capita collection of close to 400 pounds.

More War Crops Announced

Charles W. Stickney, chairman of the Minnesota USDA War Board and AAA Committee, today announced a revised schedule of essential war crops. The inclusion of hay and pasture crops in the essential war crop list was made because they are of basic importance in maintaining livestock number, Mr. Stickney explained.

The crops now designated as war crops are as follows:

Soybeans for beans, flax for seed and fiber, Irish potatoes on farms where acerage is 3 acres or more, castor beans, dry edible beans, dry peas excluding wrinkled varieties, hemp for seed and fiber, tomatoes, peas, carrots, beets, sweet corn, lima beans, and cabbage for processing, blue grass, bluestem, western wheat, crested wheat, slender wheat, buffalo, grama, Reed's canary and brome grass, alfalfa, clover, clover and timothy mixture, and lespedeza. Sweet clover will not be considered a war crop when seeded primarily as a green manure crop.

John Tangreen of Baudette wat here on business on Monday.

1943 AAA Program Changed

Several important adjustments in the 1943 AAA farm program aimed at greater production of essential food, feed and fiber crops were announced Saturday by Charles W. Stickney, Minnesota USDA War Board and AAA chairman.

"Overnight the outlook for livestock feed has completely changed," Stickney said, in explaining the new corn provisions of the program. "However, due to the adjustment feature of our farm program we can not act immediately to take care of the situationg."

Mr. Stickney said that feed production at the present time is trailing livestock production. The surprise 24 per cent increase in the 1943 spring pig crop as as indicated by late December reports and the possibility of a similar increase next fall touched off reconsideration of the whole feed question.

He also pointed out that the number of livestock on feed is the greatest in history, with the Corn Belt states showing an 8 percent increase over 1942.

"Transportation is also a factor in the feed situation. Most feed produced in the Corn Belt will be used in that area and lack of transportation will make it almost impossible to move feed that is available to deficient feed areas," Mr. Stickney said. "Farmers in deficient feed areas must produce more feed."

In explaining the ~~new corn~~ provisions of the program, Mr. Stickey said that no deductions will be made for overplanting a farm corn allotment providing the farmer meets his war crop goals and that an ACP payment would be made on the corn allotment unles deductions are made for failure to meet war crop goals or for excess plantings of wheat.

Farmers will be eligible for the full loan rate for all the corn grown on the farm if war crop loans are met. The full corn loan rate will also be available to farmers growing corn in non-commercial corn area of the state.

To further encourage the production of feed crops, a support price for borley will be at a level equal to its feeding value in relation to corn.

The goal established on a a farm for this hay and sod crop acreage will become a part of the total farm war crop goal. New seedings, made in the fall of 1942 or spring of 1943, will qualify to meet the farm goal. Sweet clover will not be considered a war crop when seeded primarily as a green manure crop.

The requirement that 90 percent of an allotment crop be planted has been dropped from the program. The designation of substitute feed crops is automatically eliminated. However, the requirement stands that 90 percent of a farm war crop goal be produced if full payment is made. There will be deductions if a farmer fails to meet this requirement. The deduction of $15 an acre will apply to acreage by which a farmer fails to meet 90 percent of the total war crop goal established for his farm.

Although no state or county goals will be determined a farm goal will be established on the farm plan for the total acreage on the farm of designated hay and pasture crops such as blue grass, western, bluestem, crested wheat, slender wheat, buffalo, grama, Reed's canary and Bromo grass, alfalfa, clover, clover and timothy mixture, and lespedeza.

There will be further changes in the 1943 AAA program as conditions change and farmers are urged to keep in touch with committeemen.

There Is A Difference

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, after returning from his grueling experience in the South Seas and his inspection of fighting fronts, is the only man who has said what the American people needed to hear in connection with production problems. In the newspapers and in the news reels he said that if the soldiers could be transferred from the hell holes they occupy on the battlefronts, to our factories, and if the employes in the factories could be transferred to the battle fronts, production in this country would double in thirty days.

By the tone of his voice and his expressions, you could see that he was disgusted with the Pollyanna talk about workers at home being classed as filling "battle stations."

Captain Rickenbacker emphasized that nothing the people in this country can do will in any measure equal what the boys on the battle lines are doing. They don't get overtime pay and they work day and night if necessary.

The people agree with Captain Rickenbacker. Just because some of us wear "tin hats" at home, we don't want to become swelled up with the idea that we are filing "battle stations" - we are not. Battle stations are where the bullets fly and men are dying; where men work as long as there is something to do; where orders; are obeyed; where overtime pay and profits are not an issue; and where the perpetuation of liberty and freedom for the individual are the guiding stars.

Tearing Up Wylie Line

Approximately sixty-five men are busy tearing up the Wylie Line, a seven and one-shird mile stretch of Great Northern track extending from the juntion one mile south of St. Hilaire to the townsite of Wylie. Foremen, machine operators, and laborers started removing the rails about ten days ago.

Tearing up the line turns old Wylie into an inland town and takes away from them railway service they have had for over forty years.

Because the line has not been a paying proposition, the railway company has agitated for its removal. Only recently did the government O. K. the company's appeal to remove the line. Most of the metal will go into scrap.

More Scrap Iron Is Needad

The Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota region of the war production board has been given a 13 per cent larger iron and steel scrap quota for the first six months of 1943.

This means volunteer workers who gathered 476,000 tons of iron and steel scrap in the last half of 1942, must get in 539,000 tons before July 1. 1943, Carl W. Jones, regional conservation manager for the WPB, announced Saturday in Washington.

At the same time Jones announced the Minneaoolis regions special projects program was acclaimed at Washington WPB salvage section meetings as the best in the country.

The following helped Mrs. R. F. Smith celebrate her birthday on Friday evening: Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sandberg and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. James Gusa, Linda Edna and Ray Gusa and Marian Backlund.

Conservation Commissioner

Chester S. Wilson, for the past four years No. 1 man in the attorney-general's office, is Gov. Stassen's answer to the vexing, perplexing problem of giving Minnesota a satisfactory conservation commissioner.

Gov. Stassen passed by all the touted candidates, representing divergent conservation groups, and Saturday night announced appointment of Wilson, a dark horse, to succeed Dr. W. L. Strunk, who asked some time ago to be relieved of the past by Feb. 1. The Wilson term will be six years at $6,000 a year.

The appointment met with instant welcome from some, at least of the of the conservation fans. Probably because he can start from scratch with no strings attached.

Roosevelt-Churchill Meet

The great news came over the radio at 9 p. m. on Tuesday evening that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill of England had met at Casablanca, French Morocco, North Africa, for ten days in a historic conference. They called this the "Unconditional Surrender" conference in which they laid down some very important rules for Germany, Italy and Japan to follow. The real text of the meeting has not been announced but a lot of important stuff was discussed by the two dynamic leaders.

This was a historic meeting since it marked the first time a president has left the country while it was at war and also the first time one has gone to the actual battle front.

Hunted Camels in U. S.

Early settlers of the American West (1870-'80) relished the meat of the wild camel. Camel steaks were a favorite dish. These wild camels were descendants of a herd imported from Egypt for army use in 1856.

Turned loose because they caused horses to stampede (camels have a strange odor), the camels multiplied rapidly until wiped out by American hunters in search of the fine-flavored meat.

Bird Playground

A unique habit among birds is the building of a bower or playground by the bowerbird of Australia, says Collier's. Unique also is the habit of decorating it with stolen articles, all of a certain color.

One such bower, evidently constructed by a bird that liked blue, contained, among many other blue articles, a blue hair ribbon, a blue railroad ticket, a string of blue glass beads and 178 blue bags, belonging to a near-by laundry.

Smile Awhile

Double Up

The chorus girl was telling the other girls in the dressing-room all about her birthday party.

"You should have seen the cake," she told her companions "It was marvelous. There were seventeen candles on it—one for each year."

There was a disbelieving silence for a moment or two, then her best friend smiled.

"Seventeen candles, eh?" she purred. "What did you do—burn them at both ends?"

MAKEUP

"Daughter and her beau must have had a terrible quarrel."

"Why so?"

"Five pounds of candy, a bunch of roses and two theater tickets have just arrived."

He Got It

He—My train goes in fifteen minutes. Can you not give me one ray of hope before I leave you forever?

She—Er—that clock is half an hour fast.

Handicapped

A company of recruits, having been issued with new boots, went for a route march to "run them in." At the end of the march, one man was missing.

When eventually rounded up and asked where he had been he replied:

"My boots were tied together, sergeant, so I couldn't get along as fast as the other chaps."

Next, Please

The oldest barber gag in history was found on the walls of an ancient Egyptian tomb. It concerned a barber and a customer. The barber asked the customer: "How do you want your hair cut?" And the reply was: "In silence."

Time for It

"George looks worried today. What's wrong with him?"

"Oh, he's been contesting his wife's will."

"His wife's will? I didn't know she was dead."

"She isn't."

His Lot

"How many times shall I bow?" said the novice entertainer at the battalion variety show.

"Bow?" said the stage manager. "No bowing for you, you'll have to duck."

Man, they say, is made of dust. But some women think it is gold dust.

Stuck With Him

"I once loved a girl who made a complete fool of me."

"What a lasting impression some girls make."

Functions of Blood

Our bodies are collections of living cells numbering billions. Each cell carries on its work and functions—it is a tiny factory—and constantly needs supplies and also a means of carrying away waste products. Blood does this double task.

Fresh, arterial blood carries nourishment from our heart to all the cells; veinous blood carries away the waste.

Million Dollars In Fees For State By R & W Com.

Railroad and Warehouse Commission, With One of Best Years, Lacks Only $3,500 of Paying All Expense From Fees.

Members of Minnesota's Railroad and Warehouse Commission were able to report this week that the commission had collected the sum of $1,072,463.33, in fees during the year ending June 30, 1942, and had come within $3,525.86 of taking in enough to cover all expenditures.

Commissioners Frank Matson, N. J. Holmberg and W. I. Nolan, the three men who carry on the wide range of activities assigned to the commission, announced that expenditures for the period were $1,075,989.19. "In other words," they said, "it has cost the state $3,525.96 to operate a department that handles a million dollar business and a large number of activities that bring in no revenue." The amount required from tax funds is the smallest in recent years, the records disclose

The fees were collected for weighing, grading and testing of grain; weighing of livestock; licensing of elevators, hay and grain commission merchants, grain buyers, livestock buyers; inspections of weights and measures; licensing of bus and truck carriers; meter inspection and other services. The commission, in addition to these services, carries on many activities that are non-revenue producing, such as regulation of rates and services of railroads and telephone companies, rates of street railways and various other types of supervision of public utilities.

Short Shots On The Home Front

OPA is working out program of information to tell housewives price per pound or package in dollars and cents the ceiling prices on key foods in her budget, with uniform margins of mark up for all dealers first step in program . . . Construction of 500 trailer tanks to help relieve oil shortage has been ordered by WPB; one trailer will relieve 11 railroad cars on hauls of 100 miles or less . . . W. A. McMillan of Fargo is new Fargo area priorities chief in WPB . . . OPA is investigating speeding charges levied against 544 Minnesota motorists and possibility is revocation of gasoline mileage books . . . Waste fats from your kitchen are still needed in war production program for glycerine . . . Coffee manufacturers who changed containers from metal or glass to paper have been told they must pass savings on to consumer; may amount to 2¾ cents per pound in some cases . . . WPB put under control textile and paper shipping bags for beans, cement, chemicals, fertilizer, four, meal, cereal, potatoes and other foods, limiting number of sizes... Garden tools will be simpler next summer—many types being cut out by WPB to save vital steel . . . Sugar stamp No. 10 expires at midnight, January 31; Stamp No. 11 goes into effect February 1 and is good for three pounds of sugar up to March 25 . . . Restaurants hereafter will get coffee rations on the basis of one pound for every 100 meals served; reports show that restaurants don't serve coffee with every meal, says OPA in announcing change from old ration of one pound for every 60 meals.

How Much Butchering Can Farmer Do

How much butchering can the farmer do is one of the questions bothering Marshall county farmers these days.

County Agent R. A. Reierson points out that the government is urging farmers to do the normal amount of home butchering so as to lessen the strain on transportation and on commerical processing plants. According to the OPA meat restriction order, however, every person who slaughters for delivery to others (cattle, calves, sheep, lambs or hogs) is restricted to selling the same amount he delivered in the corresponding period last year. Records of all slaughter for delivery must be kept and made available to OPA inspectors. Controlled meat (pork, veal, beef, lamb) may be traded among neighboring farmers, but ony in the same amount as last year, and records must be kept of the transactions. Farmers who slaughter animals only for their own use are exempt from restrictions. There are no restrictions on sales on animals on the hoof.

OPA Changes Tire Inspection Dates

A 60-day period of grace has been given holders of "A" mileage ration cards by the Office of Price Administration to get their tires inspected as required in the mileage rationing program. "A" card holders have until March 31 instead of January 31 in which to get their tires checked over for usability. They need have the inspections renewed only every six months instead of every four months under the new ruling. Motorists who have 'B' or 'C' cards must have their tires inspected before February 28. 'B' card holders must have their tires examined every four months and 'C' card holders every three months. Previously, 'B' and 'C' card holders were to have had their tires inspected every two months. OPA officials explained the change was made because few motorists will be doing much driving because of the severe restrictions on gasoline usage.

WOMEN AT WAR

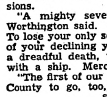
Sophia

Mrs. Kimball and Mrs. Worthington, dressed soberly and wearing their best black gloves, walked along the stony country road back toward Sophia Hardy's farm, to pay their visit of condolence.

"How do you reckon she'll be bearing up?" Mrs. Kimball asked Mrs. Worthington. Both ladies wore their most solemn, funereal expressions.

"A mighty severe blow," Mrs. Worthington said. "Mighty severe. To lose your only son, the mainstay of your declining years. And such a dreadful death, too—to go down with a ship. Mercy!"

"The first of our boys from Hand County to go, too," Mrs. Kimball said, mournfully. "I wouldn't blame Sophia Hardy for feeling right bitter."



They stood on the simple stone doorstep, with downcast eyes, getting themselves into the proper commiserative mood.

"Come in!"

The voice was brisk and cordial. They looked up in surprise. Sophia herself had come to the door. As they followed her into the parlor they exchanged glances, with eyebrows lifted. Sophia was not even in mourning. The parlor shades were not even drawn.

"It's nice of you to come," Sophia said. "Do sit down."

"We came," Mrs. Kimball said almost reprovingly, "to tell you that our hearts are bleeding for you in your great loss."

"We know how lonely you must be out here," Mrs. Worthington said. "With nothing to take your mind off . . . off . . ." She sniffed and reached in her purse for a handkerchief.

"Oh, I keep busy," Sophia said. "I've just finished applying for the Government insurance on Tom's life."

The visiting ladies could not resist a shocked glance at one another.

"I want to get it right away," Sophia said. "So I can put it into War Bonds. My boy hasn't finished fighting yet, not by a long shot."

The ladies were so occupied with feeling horrified, so titillated by this callous behaviour in a bereaved mother—that neither of them noticed Sophia's hands. Under the folds of her clean print dress, against the seat of her chair, they were tightly clenched.

Keep Seed Clean To Eliminate Farm Waste

Dealers and farmers who plan to sell agricultural seeds this winter are urged by R. A. Reierson, county agent, to cooperate in eliminating a waste which each year costs Minnesota agriculture millions of dollars. The sale and planting of foul seeds and unadapted varieties of farm crops are responsible for this big loss which cannot be tolerated in wartime.

State laws lay down rigid specifications for clean seed in Minnesota, but full cooperation of those who sell and buy seed is needed to make those laws fully operative, says Mr. Reierson. The law requires each bag of farm seed to carry an official label giving kind, variety, date of test, per cent purity, per cent germination, per cent hard seeds, per cent weed seeds, noxious seeds present listed by name, state in which the seed is grown and dealer's name and address. In the case of hybrid seed corn the law requires that the label give the county in which the corn is grown, the Minnesota zone for which it is adapted, the number of days normally required for maturity and the type of-cross.

The Department of Agriculture, Dairy and Food, maintains a state seed laboratory at University Farm which tests samples of seed free of charge up to five samples. Those who plan to sell farm seeds are urged to avail themselves of this service as soon as possible and also to make arrangements to have the seed properly labeled before it is offered for sale.

In preparing a sample of seed to be sent to the state seed laboratory, the following steps should be taken: Seed should be cleaned thoroughly as one would prepare it for actual seeding. Then a representative sample should be made up from different parts of the bin and mailed in a heavy envelope to the State Seed Testing Laboratory, University Farm, St. Paul. A pint of large seed or a cupful of small seed is needed for the test.

After the seed has been tested and the report receivd from the laboratory, the next step is to attach the proper label. Labels approved by the division of weed and seed of the Department of Agriculture, Dairy and Food, are available

State Convention Speakers Stress Value of Fair To American Way of Life

1943 Marshall County Fair Dates Are Set For July 12, 13, 14

Minnesota's county fairs were encouraged to continue their efforts towards stimulating food production for the war effort and to encourage better quality of agricultural products at the annual convention of the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs held in Minneapolis last Wednesday, Thursday nad Friday.

Speakers at the convention held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Minnesota Agricultural Society, held definitely that county fairs are a valuable part of the American way of life and urged that they continue their operations during this war as they have done during war periods in the past.

Attending the sessions from the Marshall County Agricultural association were William Forsberg, president, O. M. Mattson, secretary, and R. B. Taralseth, director.

As a result of the opinions expressed at the Federation meetings, the Marshall county delegates met with delegates from the Polk county Fair at Fertile and the Clay county Fair at Barnesville and reorganized the Red River Valley Better Fairs Circuit, arranged dates and contracted for a grandstand program and midway attractions.

The dates for the Marshall County Fair were set for July 12, 13 and 14 with the Clay County Fair being set for July 8, 9 and 10, and the Polk County Fair, July 15, 16 and 17.

The grandstand program for the 1943 fair will be supplied in main by the Northwestern Amusement Co., of St. Paul. This is the same organization that supplied the excellent grandstand program at the 1942 fair. Delegates were of the opinion that this county should be given an opportunity to return to the circuit again after their satisfactory performance of a year ago.

An entirely new carnival company will appear for its first time on the Red River Circuit this year, when delegates signed agreements with the Raney United Shows of Minneapolis. This is a veteran carnival organization and has been in operation in Minnesota for early 20 years, playing principally at Southern Minnesota fairs and celebrations. The company features eight thrill rides, eight high class shows and clean concessions completely devoid of rackets. The circuit members conferred with many of the fair officials from counties where the Raney Shows have operated previously and where they will continue to operate this year and every one of the officials spoke highly of their integrity and gave the organization the best of recommendations.

Directors of the Marshall County Fair board will be called to an early meeting when preliminary plans for operating the 1943 Fair will be discussed.

Map of 1200 B. C.

The oldest existing map in the world is a route map of a mining district in Nubia, made by Egyptians about 1200 B. C. It is on papyrus. We are aware that the Romans surveyed large parts of their Empire, and had excellent maps, but not one of these has survived. The only relic is a 13th-century copy of a map made for the Emperor Severus.

The first of modern maps is one of a part of Switzerland dated 1513. In 1575 Saxton published an Atlas of England. This was from actual surveys and contains 35 sheets.

The French government was the first to start a survey of its whole country. This began in 1683, but was not published until 1744. In 1745 the Jacobite rebellion revealed the need of a correct map of the Highlands of Scotland, and the work began in 1747, but it was not until 1791 that Parliament ordered a survey of England for the production of a map of one inch to the mile. This was not completed until the year 1870.

Suffice to Say, It Was Some Sort of Catastrophe

"Fire! Fire!"

As the shrill cry rang out, a woman dashed out of a house waving her hands. One passer-by ran to the fire-alarm, and another entered the house.

"Where is it?" he asked, after a brief investigation. "I can't smell any smoke."

"Oh, I didn't mean fire. I meant murder!"

"Murder?" A policeman who had heard the commotion came running and entered the discussion. "Who's been murdered?"

"Oh, I didn't really mean murder, either!" gasped the woman. "But the biggest rat I ever saw just ran across the kitchen floor."

Kill for Immortality

The belief that a person must die a violent death to obtain a future life still prevails among several tribes, notably the Batta of Sumatra and the Chukchi of Siberia, says Collier's. Thus, as an act of filial piety, a son kills his father and mother, when they become feeble and are ready to die, so they will achieve immortality.

'Genuine Fake'

For a decade after 1920, Alceo Dossena, an Italian sculptor, so cleverly imitated the works of old masters that, unknown to him, unscrupulous dealers sold many of them as genuine, says Collier's. After the expose, Dossena became famous and his imitations were eagerly sought.

At an auction of his work in New York in 1933, every purchaser requested and received a certificate from the Italian government guaranteeing each piece to be a "genuine fake."

SAVE MEAT WITH TASTY ALL-BRAN MEAT PATTIES

Here's a grand recipe for these times! Delicious, nourishing meat patties—made with KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. Makes meat go further. Gives these patties a tempting, crunchy texture—plus all the nutritional benefits of ALL-BRAN: valuable proteins, carbohydrates, vitamins and minerals. Try it!

Kellogg's All-Bran Meat Patties

1 egg
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 cup milk
¼ cup catsup
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
1 pound ground beef

Beat egg, add salt, pepper, onion, parsley, milk, catsup and All-Bran. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Add beef and mix thoroughly. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) about 20 minutes or broil about 15 minutes. Remove meat patties from pan. Add some milk and seasonings to drippings. Thicken slightly to make gravy. Yield: 5 servings, 2 patties each.

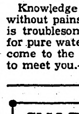
SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER



The first known rubber hose was manufactured in England in 1827.

Collapsible rubber boats equipped with paddles, bullet-hole plugs, sea-anchor, water, etc., are being produced for fighting U. S. airmen. Inflated in 10 seconds, this boat forms part of the pilot's seat and stays with him when he hits the water.

An Omaha, Neb., tire salesman hauled into court before rationing for parking his car near a hydrant first talked himself out of the $2 fine, then sold two new tires to the judge, two to the cop who arrested him and two to the court attendant.

Production of War tires is definitely tied to the production of reclaimed rubber. It is estimated that the country has refining capacity to process 360,000 tons of reclaimed a year.

Rubber authorities estimate that 900 million tires have been scrapped since World War 1.

Entertaining at Home?

BEER IS APPROPRIATE

More Americans are playing host these days in their own living rooms. Simple entertaining, to ease the strain and tension of wartime, is both wholesome and necessary. Naturally the beverage you serve should be appropriate—mildly stimulating to promote good fellowship, refreshing, and, of course, economical. Beer is all of these, and is enjoyed for its own goodness by the majority of your friends. Remember it, too, as a nutritious beverage, carefully brewed from the rich grain harvests of Minnesota. True temperance, more important today than ever before, is best served by serving beer . . . . . the beverage of moderation and true hospitality.

HOLT ....War Production Center!

Except for the growing number of stars in service flags, few outward signs reveal that we in this community are engaged in the grimmest sort of war.

Yet our community—and particularly this farmer cooperative—are gearing nearly all our daily efforts to meeting the needs of war.

This cooperative today is a war industry—equally as much as any steel mill, shipyard or airplane factory in America!

Our job is part of the greatest mass production job in history—securing the tremendous amounts of food America needs for our armed forces, our allies, our home front and the starving nations of the world!

This cooperative is doing its full share!

In doing the job we recognize all the implications of our responsibility. We believe that America must have all the dairy products it will be possible to produce. We also believe that this cooperative's reputation for producing quality dairy products must be maintained both during the war and in the years of peace to come. So, today, as always, our members and our employees are devoted to producing dairy products of highest quality.

This is our solemn pledge:

We shall continue to produce the food America needs . . . maintaining highest quality . . . until Victory and Beyond!

To Keep Better War Records

If we had given more attention to the preservation of records in the first World War, we might have been better prepared for the present conflict, according to a booklet recently by the National Archives of Washington. Today, leaders who seek to profit by the experience of 1917-18 often find when they turn to the records that there are "large gaps in important files that should explain policies and describe procedures."

In an effort to avoid such difficulties in the future, leaders throughout the nation, from President Roosevent down to local officials, are encouraging the keeping of systematic records of the present war. At the suggestion of the President, an Advisory Committee on Records of War administration has been appointed by the director of the bureau of the budget. It will supervise the keeping of records by the major war agencies of the federal government. Among its members are Dr. William Anderson, professor of political science in the University of Minnesota, and Dr. Solon Buck, archivist of the United States, who formerly was superintendent of the Minnesota Historical society.

In Minnesota, the work of preserving state and local war records is well under way, Gov. Stassen established the Minnesota War History committee last May, and local committees have been organized in seventy-four counties and communities.

Life of Mrs. Anna Hoffman

Mrs. Anna Hoffman resident of Excel township for the past 57 years, passed away at her old farm home Thursday, January 21, at the age of 85 years 11 months and 5 days. Rites were conducted for her Tuesday, Jan. 26, at 10:00 A. M. in the Saint Bernard's church in Thief River Falls with Father A. I. Merth officiating. Interment was made in the Catholic cemetery there.

Surviving are three daughters, Miss Mathilda Hoffman at home, Mrs. Swan Ackerblade, Ontario, Canada, Mrs. Lena Doss of Eugene, Oregon; three sons, Paul of Lake Bronson, Minn , Frank of Sico, Oregon, and Arthur at home; 24 grandchildren; and one great grandchild. Her husband and two sons preceded her in death.

Mrs. Hoffman was born February 16, 1857, in Neisse Ober Schlesien, Germany, and was married in Germany in 1884 to August Hoffman. Together they came to U. S. and settled in Excel township where they made their permanent home three miles southeast of Holt.

Win With Tin

WANTED — All thoroughly clean food and tobacco containers made from tin plate. Food cans with painted or lithographed labels are acceptable. Condensed milk cans are wanted, if they are completely opened on both ends.

Paint, oil, varnish, and conical top beer cans. Cans made from terne plate, such as motor oil cans. (Terne plate is not tin-largely lead content.)

Proper Preparation

1. Wash can thoroughly, preferably right after removing contents. Remove paper label.
2. Remove top and bottom enough to tuck inside can.
3. Flatten body of can by stepping on it firmly. Step on it hard but do not hammer it.
4. Save in dry place and dispose of thru your local grocery store.

Preparation — Every user of tin cans must be aware of the vital need for tin, and salvage of all desirable cans and their proper preparation is a patriotic duty.

Accumulation — In all Marshall County communities, housewives and other users of cans are urged to take prepared cans to their local grocers. Grocers cannot accept improperly prepared cans.

Collection — Beverage industry trucks are responsible for collecting all prepared cans at each time they make a delivery to a grocery store.

Disposal — Prepared cans are shipped in carload to a detinning plant.

Q. What do I do with the cans after proper preparation?

A. Throughout Minnesota (except in Minneapolis and St. Paul where municipal collections are made) grocery stores are the official receiving stations for prepared cans. Bring them to your grocer or give them to the delivery boy when he calls at your home. Get your cans to the grocers as often as you go to his store.

Marshall County farmers can well be proud because in the scrap iron collection they still lead the nation with per capita collection of close to 400 pounds.

Hagen Moved To New Office

Washington, D. C. January 30—Congressman Harold C. Hagen, newly elected Representative from Minnesota's ninth Congressional District, had "moving day" here last week.

Hagen, for eight years secretary to Congressman R. T. Buckler before his election to the 78th Congress, had been quartered during this period in the Old House Office building here.

With his election, however, he became one of four new Congressmen to be alloted modern office space in the New House Office building, the goal of most veteran legislators.

"So many of my friends and and 9th District constituents continue to go to the old office," he said, "that I would like to make this a public announcement. From now on, I am located in Suite 1620, the New House Office Building."

H. Rafteseth of St. Hilaire, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Johnson and Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Peterson and Vivian, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Ness Gladys and Leonard visited at the Tony Peterson home Sunday afternoon.

February War Bond Quota

Marshall county residents will have a slightly reduced quota of War Bonds to buy during February with the quota for the month set at $48,000 or $8,350 less than the high quota of $56,350 set for January, O. M. Mattson, county War Savings committee chairman announced today upon receipt of quotas from the state War Savings Staff.

While complete tabulations for sales in January are not yet available, indications are that the $56,350 quota was easily met with sales during the first fifteen days of the month totaling over $46,000, the administration reported.

Begining with the January tabulation, reports of sales will be given for the amount of bonds sold in each village of the county thereby giving communities an opportunity to compare their purchases with their neighbors.

While the February quota has been reduced slightly, Marshall county residents must continue to purchase bonds to the extent of their ability.

Oversubscriptions on bonds during any one month may be used to lessen quotas during slack months.

During the calendar year 1943, Marshall county residents purchased a total of $503,652 worth of War Bonds. Series E. Bonds comprised $453,652 of of the huge total with Series F and G Bonds comprising only $50,000 of the total.

The quota system was established in May and during the eight months in which the quotas were in effect, the county quota was $330,350. During these eight months, county residents purchased $421,152 worth of bonds or $90,802 more than the quota.

Taking only Series E Bonds in consideration, the county oversubscribed its quota by $40,802.

The month of December was the banner bond buying month in Marshall county last year with purchases totaling $128,743 of which $93,726 were Series E Bonds and $35,014 were Series F and G Bonds. The smallest purchases were made during April when only $15,708 worth of bonds were sold to county residents.

Discontinue Food Stamp Plan

The Marshall County Welfare Board, at their monthly meeting on January 25, 1943, made a resolution to the effect that the Food Stamp Plan in Marshall County be discontinued on February 26th, 1943. The reason for this is that the Federal Government has made announcement of removing their aid in the form of blue stamps. The Welfare Board also went on record as approving continuation of this type of plan after the war as a part of a post-war program.

The participation in Marshall County has been very excellent and has been rising continuously since it was put into effect on June 1st, 1941. According to the Stamp Issuing Officers report, the participants in the Food Stamp Plan have purchased a total of $62,881.00 worth of the orange stamps in this county. This means that half of this total or $31,440.50 has been in the form of blue stamps paid for by the Federal Government.

Stamp purchasers should use all their stamps issued to them within the month following the last issuance, namely, by April 1st, 1943.

Retailers and collection agents should redeem all stamps in their possession within 60 days after the termination of the program. If such stamps are not redeemed at that time, there will be a delay in receiving their money for the stamps.

THIS colorful afghan was made by clever fingers from the best parts of old woolen garments put together with odds and ends of bright yarn. Even trousers and fitted jackets yielded strips of the size required.

By holding the goods up to the light it is easy to find the unworn parts. These are cut out roughly; washed with mild soap in lukewarm water; rinsed with a little soap in warm water; and pressed while damp. The pieces are then cut accurately according to the measurements given here. Single crochet stitch is used around all pieces, and the sketch shows how the pieces are sewn together.

A gangster walked into a bank and made a clean sweep. While he was busy stuffing the money into a bag the cashier set off the burglar alarm.

The gangster hurried off in his car and soon the police arrived.

"Which way did he go?" panted an officer.

The cashier pointed down the avenue, and the police pursued.

At that moment a customer entered the bank.

"Good morning," he said to the cashier. "I'd like to draw $500 from my account."

The cashier pointed out the door.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Farm Implement Quota Boosted by 30%; Hitler's Disasters Mount as Russians Speed Up Caucasus-Ukraine Offensive; Tripoli's Fall Spurs Tunisia Drive

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Closer relations between the United States and Chile and a harder crackdown on Nazi espionage in South America were results expected from the recent action of the Chilean government in breaking diplomatic relations with the Axis. Shown above are Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles (left) and Senor Don Rodolfo Michels, Chilean ambassador, discussing the situation.

FOOD PRODUCTION:
Gets New Incentive

Two significant steps to spur the "Food for Victory" campaign were taken when the War Production board authorized a 30 per cent increase in production of farm machinery and Secretary of Agriculture Wickard announced a program of federal credit designed to extend from $200,000,000 to $250,000,000 to farmers for stepping up essential food production.

The WPB increased the steel allotment for farm machinery from 137,000 tons to 187,000 tons for the first quarter of 1943. This new tonnage was in addition to an increase previously authorized for the production of repair parts for farm implements.

Mr. Wickard said loans needed mostly by small and medium-sized farmers would be extended through the Regional Agricultural Credit corporation. Size of loans will be limited only by the amount needed to do the production job. The loans will be of short-term duration at 5 per cent interest.

NORTH AFRICA:
Death of Empire

Tripoli's fall had various meanings for various interpreters. To historians it wrote finale to Mussolini's grandiose dreams of empire, for it was here the Duce had begun his disastrous expansion policy. To military observers it meant that the Allies could now concentrate closer attention on cleaning up the last Axis strongholds in Tunisia.

It had been apparent to observers that Marshal Rommel's retreat through Tripolitania had had Tunisia and not Tripoli as its goal. Rearguard efforts to protect the main body of his retreat had constituted the only action in and around Tripoli.

Allied airmen had not only strafed doomed Tripoli, but General Montgomery's British eighth army and General LeClerc's Fighting French had constantly harried the retiring Afrika Korps.

In Tunisia the Axis had made strenuous efforts to cover Rommel's withdrawal by launching offensive thrusts against French positions southwest of Pond-du-Fahs.

While junction of Rommel's army with those of Nazi Col. Gen. Von Arnim would strengthen Axis forces in Tunisia, the Allies would similarly be strengthened by the addition of British and Fighting French troops to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's legions.

PRICE RISE:
Predicted by Brown

As additional rationing and price regulations were promulgated, the American public learned that Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown's direction of the OPA would be less dramatic but no less firm than that of his predecessor Leon Henderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen were assured by the new administrator, however, that the OPA would be operated solely for the protection of the American people. Frankly acknowledging that price rises were inevitable, Mr. Brown promised that such rises would be "slow and well-ordered."

RUSS STEAMROLLER:
Impact Hurts Nazis

From Leningrad to the Black sea the Russian steamroller offensive rumbled on, gathering momentum on all fronts. Nazi armies were forced to yield ground won in bloody battles last year, to surrender strategic "hedgehog" strong points and to see supply and communication lines shattered.

Russian sources asserted that 500,000 Germans had been killed and 200,000 captured since the winter offensive was launched in November.

Red strategy had specially concentrated on five key Nazi-held cities between the Ukraine and the north Caucasus. These were Kharkov, steel producing center; Rostov, communications city at the mouth of the Don river; Voroshilovgrad, industrial metropolis of the Donets basin; Salsk, important rail junction; and Armavir, gateway to the Baku-Rostov oil railroad.

Possession of these cities would not only open a vast reservoir of materials and machinery to the Russians, but it would loosen the Nazi stranglehold on the central and southern front. It would mean that the Germans would have to fall all the way back to the Dnieper river and hold lines dangerously close to Rumania, Poland and Lithuania.

CHILDBIRTH:
Pain Is Stilled

To a world snuffing out lives in pain on scores of battle fields, the American Medical association brought tidings that the sufferings attendant on life's beginnings might be banished through a new method of childbirth anesthesia that is without danger either to mother or baby.

Designated as "continuous caudal anesthesia" the new technique was developed by Drs. Robert Hingson and Waldo Edwards of the Marine hospital at Staten Island, N. Y. Their report was corroborated by statements from 19 other clinics and hospitals which tested the new method on 589 patients.

SOUTH PACIFIC:
Prelude by Air

"Softening up" attacks by air on Jap-held Lae were carried on by Allied fliers as a prelude to land movements by General MacArthur's forces. For Lae was the next calling spot on the Allies schedule after mopping-up operations had been successfully concluded in the Sananada area, last Jap toehold in the Papuan peninsula.

Aerial activity was not confined to the Lae area, for American and Australian planes bombed shipping at Finschaven and hit the airdrome and wharf sections of Madang in New Guinea. Elsewhere Allied airmen visited Cape Gloucester and Gasmata in Jap-held New Britain and strafed an enemy barge concentration off Willaumex peninsula.

In Australia, Allied bombers continued their pounding of enemy warships and merchantmen far to the north. At Ambon, 600 miles northwest of Darwin, they scored hits on a cruiser and cargo vessel.

HARD COAL:
Miners Bow to FDR

Dangers of a crippling hard coal shortage were averted and a face-saving maneuver for labor executed when 12,000 Pennsylvania miners returned to work after a three-week old unauthorized walkout following a curt ultimatum from President Roosevelt.

The President had served notice that unless the miners ceased their wildcat strike within 48 hours, he would take "necessary steps" to safeguard the war effort.

A tangled skein of labor politics had complicated the eastern hard coal situation. Efforts of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and the War Labor board to get the strikers back on the job had failed. Strike leaders said the miners had walked out in protest against a UMW dues increase of 50 cents a month. The strikers, however, had also demanded a $2 a day wage increase.

AXIS TRUMP:
Subs Still Potent

Hurled back on all world fronts by the ever-increasing ferocity of United Nations attacks, the Axis still controlled one ace offensive weapon—German submarines.

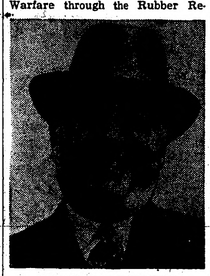
Hitler was said by British Admiral Sir Percy Noble to be maintaining 200 U-boats of his fleet of 500 at sea all the time in an effort to keep the tremendous output of Allied war factories from the battlefields. Unofficial British estimates placed Nazi submarine construction at 15 to 20 a month—faster than naval experts believe the Allies are sinking them.

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, reported that German submarines had sunk more Allied shipping in January than in December.

A brighter side of the picture emerged, however, when the Lend-Lease administration announced that the United States and Britain had sent Russia 5,800 tanks and 4,600 airplanes up to January 1 and promised that aid to the Soviet "will grow still more in 1943." Regardless of submarine wolfpacks, convoys were getting through.

RUBBER:
Jeffers vs. RFC

With his synthetic rubber program facing further curtailment so that more convoy escort vessels can be built and more high octane gasoline produced for fighting fliers, Rubber Conservation Director William M. Jeffers assumed control of all rubber import programs formerly exercised by the Board of Economic Warfare through the Rubber Reserve company, a Reconstruction Finance corporation subsidiary.



WILLIAM M. JEFFERS

This action meant that henceforth Jesse Jones, as head of the RFC's Rubber Reserve company, which supplies the money for operations, would take orders from Mr. Jeffers instead of from the BEW on rubber imports. It meant, moreover, that Jeffers hoped to bolster lagging synthetic rubber production by imports as a means of keeping civilians supplied with automobile tires.

NAZI AIR RAIDS:
RAF Welcomes Reprisals

Tragic as was the death of scores of school children in German bombing raids on London, aviation authorities hailed the renewal of Nazi attacks as a further opportunity to weaken the Axis in the air.

Every raid means a further thinning of Hitler's already over-extended air forces, these authorities pointed out. In the biggest daylight air assault on London since the 1940 battle of Britain, the Nazis lost 13 planes while the British lost two. Because of improved anti-aircraft defense, destruction and loss of civilian life were held to minimum levels.

The German raids have been in reprisal for gutting attacks on Berlin by large flights of RAF bombers raining down four-ton "block busters" on the Nazi capital, and spewing incendiary bombs that caused untold damage. British losses on these raids were comparatively light, officials revealed.

MORE BLOOD:
Asked by Red Cross

Mounting war casualties prompted a request from the army and navy for the Red Cross to procure 4,000,000 pints of blood during 1943, or more than three times the amount obtained from donors last year.

Red Cross Chairman Dwight F. Davis disclosed that the request had come from Maj. Gen. James C. Magee and Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntyre, surgeons general of the army and navy respectively.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

WASHINGTON: Dependents of 1,294,852 enlisted men in the army are now receiving allotments, according to a war department announcement. The announcement revealed that up to January 1, a total of 1,519,055 applications for such payments had been received. Of these, 133,750 were disallowed temporarily, pending receipt of additional information.

LONDON: An 80-year-old San Francisco sea captain, George E. Bridgett, commanded a new Liberty ship in a convoy which recently brought relief to Malta, it was disclosed here. Captain Bridgett, believed to be the oldest active sea captain in the world, emerged from 15 years' retirement to make the run on a ship that had been built in 24 hours at the Kaiser shipyards.

Despite rotary plows, bulldozers and other mechanized equipment which railroads throw into the fight against winter storms, the maintenance worker still meets winter face to face as he battles to keep the tracks open. Freeing switches from snow and ice and similar tasks in below-zero blizzards call for stout hearts and bodies that can "take it".

Fighting Thru

Not for a good many years has Old Man Winter tossed as many punches as he has during the last few weeks.

Almost every mile of railway operated by the Great Northern has been under simultaneous assault by wind, snow and bitter cold for days at a time.

These bouts with the Storm King are nothing new to the men who keep the tracks open and run the trains. They know all his tricks. But generally the battle front is confined to one part of the railroad at a time, with Old Sol shining merrily on the remainder of the right-of-way and giving delayed trains an opportunity to make up lost time.

This winter came the blitzkrieg. From one end of the railroad to another, it was a continuous fight to get the trains through—trains carrying troops, war materials, fuel, food and mail.

Schedules, to be sure, took a bad beating. But the trains kept going through. And behind that simple fact were the maintenance forces, repair men, train and engine crews, and division officials who met every challenge of the heavy snows, the blasting winds and the bitter cold.

Passengers and shippers, for the most part, accepted the fortunes of this battle on the winter front with patience and good nature. And for this friendly consideration, the Great Northern is sincerely grateful.

HOLT ....War Production Center!

Except for the growing number of stars in service flags, few outward signs reveal that we in this community are engaged in the grimmest sort of war.

Yet our community—and particularly this farmer cooperative—are gearing nearly all our daily efforts to meeting the needs of war.

This cooperative today is a war industry—equally as much as any steel mill, shipyard or airplane factory in America!

Our job is part of the greatest mass production job in history—securing the tremendous amounts of food America needs for our armed forces, our allies, our home front and the starving nations of the world!

This cooperative is doing its full share!

In doing the job we recognize all the implications of our responsibility. We believe that America must have all the dairy products it will be possible to produce. We also believe that this cooperative's reputation for producing quality dairy products must be maintained both during the war and in the years of peace to come. So, today, as always, our members and our employees are devoted to producing dairy products of highest quality.

This is our solemn pledge:

We shall continue to produce the food America needs . . . maintaining highest quality . . . until Victory and Beyond!

Determine Labor Requirements

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has recently completed arrangements to help farmers obtain reliable farm operators and laborors.

Working in close cooperation with County War Boards, the U. S. Employment Service and the Farm Security Administration will share the difficult and important assignment of recruiting available farm workers and transporting them to farms where and when they are most needed.

This program has been carefully planned by the Department of Agriculture and the U. S. Employment Service with the approval of the War Manpower Commission; and has already become effective throughout the state.

County War Boards will asume the responsibility of determining the labor requirements of each county; U. S. Employment Service and Farm Security offices will handle the recruiting and placement of all known available farm workers. The Farm Security Administration is prepared to supervise and finance the transportation of these workers from recruiting points to placement farms, whenever such assistance is required and is approved by the County War Board or U. S. Employment Service.

If all farmers will report their labor requirements to their County War Boards or an office of the U. S. Employment Service or Farm Security Administration; and all single or married men who are available as farm operators or farm workers will inform their nearest U. S. Employment or Farm Security Administration office as to the type of farm work for which they are qualified, the work of filling farm labor requests will be greatly expedited and will be much easier for the Department of Agriculture to effectively assist in relieving the present serious farm labor situation.

Surplus Commodity To Close

The Marshall County Welfare has received notice from WPA that the Hot Lunch and Surplus Commodity projects in operation in the county will be closed as of February 28, 1943. Many of the former WPA workers are now in defense work or in defense training. Hence, the need for continuation of WPA has become less as the war has proceeded. However, this does not mean that the Hot Lunch Project will be terminated from the County schools. Plans are being made for continuation of projects by local sponsoring agencies, such as school boards, PTA, and volunteer workers. The Federal Government has recognized the need for continuation of the school lunch projects and have indicated that they will be willing to continue with commodities for the schools as long as they are available. During the past week, Marshall County received parts of two carloads of apples and in the near future will receive fresh tangerines and other commodities needed by the lunch program.

The Agricultural Marketing Administration and the Surplus Marketing Administration has changed its name to Food Distribution Administration. The field of work covered by the new agency will be much larger than the old.

The Marshall County Welfare Board sincerely hopes that the schools and public will make every effort to continue the School Lunch Pprograms and the garden projects for the coming year.

The Federal Government has requested all county agencies to secure new school lunch applications from all schools to see what percentage of the schools are still interested in continuing the lunch program and their allocation of commodities will be based on this survey.

Have Bond Buying Record

Great Northern maintenance employees in the territory from Crookston to East Grand Forks Noyes and Warroad have one of the best records for buying war bonds on the Great Northern system, according to advice received by District Roadmaster F. A. Chinquist of Crookston from H. M. Sims of St. Paul, executive assistant and system chairman of the Great Northern's war bond campaign.

Everyone of the 197 employees working on these lines are buying bonds through the company's payroll allotment plan. Allotments for war bonds this month totaled $2,514, or 12 per cent of the payroll for the department.

Co-operating in the bond campaign in the second district of the Dakota division were John M. Beaudry, Dave Teal, Harry Manole, all of Crookston; Lud Gullickson of Red Lake Falls and John Peters of Fisher.

Application blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Hanson, or by writing directly to WAAC Recruiting Officer, 182 Federal Office Bldg., Minneapolis Minnesota.

Sheep Shearers Needed

Will there be a serious shortage of sheep shearess in Marshall county this spring? In some communities army recruiting and defense industries have taken some of the men who have the skill and equipment to harvest the important 1943 wool crop.

The Agriculture Extension Service is ready to hold sheep shearing schools for men wishing to learn the trade, County Agent R. A. Reierson announced recently. There are two requirements for entry into such a school. The prospective trainee must register at the county extension office at once and agree to do some custom shearing besides shearing the home flock.

If there are enough applicants, arrangements will be made for a one-day school either in this county or nearby. Sheep shearing offers an opportunity to make some extra money in season, the county agent says. Equipment is still available for purchase.

Buy Orthopedic Fracture Bed

The Thief River Falls fire department is sponsoring a campaign to raise funds for the purchase of a portable Hanflig orthopedic fracture bed to be used in case of accidents involving any broken bones, Chief Leonard Hanson stated this week.

Mr. Hanson said the equipment will be housed in the fire hall, and will be available for use in homes in Thief River Falls as well as in all surrounding villages, including Holt and rural areas. No charge will be made for its use, except for transportation.

The purchase plan will be explained in detail by workers bearing letters of introduction signed by Mr. Hanson and H. L. Schuster, secretary of the department. Under a similar plan the fire department has added to its equipment during the past two years a portable inhalator and a portable oxygen tent.

STAGE ✶ SCREEN ✶ RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

A FEW years ago a radio producer, an actress and an actor formed a trio to produce and act in a series of transcriptions called "Story of Martha Blair." Results: the producer married the actress, who became famous on the stage and screen. The actor made a name for himself in the movies, as well as on the air. The director stepped right ahead also. He's Carlton Alsop, producer of radio's "Abie's Irish Rose," now transcribing 15 quarter-hour programs for the Red Cross. She's Martha Scott, who did one of them with the young actor. He's Joseph Cotten, star of the new Hitchcock thriller, "Shadow of a Doubt."

Samuel Goldwyn has signed Walter Huston again to play a leading role in "The North Star"; it's his first Goldwyn picture since "Dodsworth." Huston's been working at Warner Bros. in "Mission to Moscow," appearing as Ambassador Davies.

For six years Cheryl Walker was stand-in for stars; then she was given the romantic lead in Sol Lesser's "Stage Door Canteen," and did so well with it that she stepped straight into stardom; CBS paid tribute to her on "Women's Page of the Air" as a result.

If you have income-tax trouble you'll enjoy "The Spirit of '43," in which Donald Duck tackles his Income Tax stint. When Jean Arthur does kissing scenes the set is closed; she's a bit shy and doesn't like having an audience at such times. But she and Joel McCrea exchanged fervent kisses before an audience of 21 men the other day, for "The More the Merrier"; they were soldiers, being shown through the studio.

Eddie Cantor receives $10,000 per broadcast; his daughter Marilyn gets $50 a week, but she's the radio industry's first girl staff announcer, and proud as punch of the job. She's on WNEW, a local station in New York; she makes commercial announcements, introduces band numbers, and puts records on the studio timetable—and has ruined her father's gag about the cost of supporting five girls.

Jeanette MacDonald has no sympathy for those stars who regard service-camp entertainment tours as a hardship; she thinks they're fun. But at 14 she was dancing in a Broadway revue, taking singing and ballet lessons between times, and modeling fur coats to pay for the extra lessons. She says that an army camp tour is just a vacation by comparison.

Since fire destroyed Bing Crosby's home thousands of people have offered to replace his losses. One offered a complete collection of Bing's records; an army sergeant said every time Bing smoked a pipe in a picture he'd bought one just like it, and offered the singer his choice. SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER
Reclaimed rubber is the product resulting from the processing of scrap rubber. It is prepared from used rubber articles that are cleaned, purified and made plastic for re-use in rubber manufacturing.
Crude rubber in 1899 was selling at $2,200 a ton. At the 1925 high was selling at $2,755.20 per long ton.
Engineers have designed the tires for one of the army's jeeps to resemble the camel's tread, nature's provision for support on shifting sand.
A commercial user of tires reported that an Ameripol synthetic rubber tire used on a light truck returned over 35,300 miles before it was recapped. This tire, with 51 others, was placed in test service early in 1941.
A 35,000-ton battleship required 168,000 pounds of rubber.

Rather Late Hour to Be Changing Instruments

The street musician was tired, and the motorist agreed to give him a lift to the next town.

As they were racing at terrific speed down a hill, the motorist suddenly shouted above the noise of the car: "What instrument do you play?"

The musician shouted back: "The violin!"

The driver crouched over the steering wheel, peering ahead. He yelled: "That's a pity!"

"Why is it a pity?" demanded the musician.

"It's a pity you don't play the harp!" yelled the motorist. "The brakes won't work!"

CONSTIPATED? TRY THIS GENTLER WAY
Many medicinal purges work on you—by prodding the intestines into action or drawing water into them from other parts of the body.
But KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN—a crisp, delicious breakfast cereal—works mainly on the contents of your colon. If you have normal intestines and your constipation is due to lack of "bulk" in your diet, you'll find ALL-BRAN a much gentler way to treat it.
Eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly and drink plenty of water—and you'll find wonderful relief. For this way, ALL-BRAN gets at the cause of constipation due to lack of "bulk" and corrects it. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek and sold by your grocer. Try it!

Keep leftover pancake batter and thicken it with flour for muffins. If it is kept several days, add one-half teaspoon of soda for each cup of batter.

Place a rubber mat on the saucer under your potted plant and it will absorb the right amount of moisture from the mat.

Pipe cleaners are handy in the kitchen to clean gas burners, lemonade sippers, funnels, etc.

Egg stains on table linen should be soaked with cold water, as warm water sets them.

Vegetables should be cooked whole with their skins on, rather than in slices. Cook them quickly and in a small quantity of water. Water draws from vegetables a great deal of their food value, and this food value all too often goes down the drain. Most vegetables will retain their bright color if you remember to cook them uncovered.

The best way to clean lamp chimneys is to rub them with newspaper on which has been poured a little kerosene. This will make them much clearer than when soap is used, and they also are less likely to crack. To clean lamp burners, wash them in ashes and water and they will come out clean and bright.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington, D. C.

CROWN PRINCESS MARTHA

The crown princess of Norway is now a full-fledged member of the "Short-Snorters Club," with such other distinguished personages as Winston Churchill and Henry A. Wallace.

It happened as the Princess Martha was returning by clipper from England to her home in Maryland. The stewardess on the plane asked if she were a member of the club, which requires every member to carry a marked $1 bill as a certificate of membership. She was not. Whereupon other passengers promptly presented their dollar bills—token of membership in the club—for the princess to sign.

She wrote her name in ink, "Martha, Crown Princess of Norway," across a dozen dollar bills that day, as the plane soared over the Atlantic. There were 14 passengers, and she signed for all except her lady-in-waiting, Ragni Ostgaard.

The plane had been some time out of England before the passengers realized they had a princess aboard. She appeared on the passenger list simply as "Mrs. Brown." But someone recognized her from pictures, and the word got around.

While most of the passengers played bridge, the princess read a book. At night she tucked herself into the little sleeping compartment, lower berth, while the lady-in-waiting climbed into the upper.

She chatted with passengers as if she were merely Mrs. Brown, and when the trip was over, passenger Fred Williams of the British air ministry remarked:

"She's quite the most charming lady I've ever met."

HURLEY AND TIMOSHENKO

When friends asked Brig. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, just back from Russia, to explain the Marshal Timoshenko's mysterious disappearance from the limelight, Hurley dodged the question as follows:

Timoshenko is the George Washington of Russia. Washington retreated all the way from Boston to Yorktown. He lost one battle after another, but he figured that as long as he had his army intact, and the vast reaches of North America to retreat into, he might lose the battles but he would win the war.

And he kept on retreating until he was able to spring the trap on Cornwallis at Yorktown.

Timoshenko also followed the retreat strategy — from Kharkov to Rostov to Stalingrad—but kept his army intact. He is a tremendous figure in Russia. His name is stamped on the hearts of the people.

(Editor's Note: Marshal Timoshenko is now on the northern Leningrad front, it has been disclosed. A letter to Stalin from commanders on that front was headed by Timoshenko's name).

LATINS LOVE RUSSIA

Latin American fear of Communism has long kept those countries from recognizing the Soviet Union. But Soviet military successes have persuaded the Latins that the Soviets will emerge among the victors in this war and will be a power to deal with.

Thus some of the countries below the Rio Grande are coming around to diplomatic recognition of the Soviet government.

Cuba is sending Dr. Aurelio Concheso, ambassador to Washington, to Moscow to open a legation, which will later be in charge of Dr. Raoul Herrera-Arango, also from the Washington embassy.

Mexico is sending her minister counselor from the Washington embassy, Dr. Luis Quintanilla, to become minister to the U. S. S. R.

Foreign Ministers Gabriel Turbay of Colombia and Alberto Guani of Uruguay are in Washington today, where they will discuss with Soviet Ambassador Litvinoff the establishment of missions in Russia. Colombia recognized the Soviet in 1936, but has never sent a minister.

It's also reported that Ecuador and Venezuela plan similar action. Thus far, however, Colombia is the only country on the South American continent which has recognized the Soviet Union.

There are substantial possibilities for trade between Russia and Latin America after the war, and some of the Latins are getting on the band wagon.

Note: Argentina, the only Latin American country not to break with the Axis, is scared sick over the prospect of a Russian victory and the danger of communism.

If you're concerned about what sort of gift to send a friend or relative in one of Uncle Sam's branches of the services, your worries are over. If he smokes a pipe or rolls-his-own, the answer is a pound of tobacco. Numerous surveys made among soldiers, sailors, marines, and Coast Guardsmen show that tobacco ranks first on his gift list. Local tobacco dealers are featuring Prince Albert in the pound can for service men. Prince Albert, the world's largest-selling smoking tobacco, is a big favorite among many men in the service. —Adv.

"WON'T YOU BE MY - - - - ?"

TWO hearts, one dart—they have come down the ages to say Won't-You-Be-My-Valentine and to remind us that in an age which bristles with dollar-signs and flaunts sophistication, Romance is not dead.

Then why not give a Valentine party with all of the fol-de-rols which are supposed to be old-fashioned and which your guests will gloat over? Herald the event with a lacey valentine. If your shops are too modern to carry them, make the invitations by pasting paper lace on the edge of a red cardboard heart with two hearts and a dart drawn in the center. Place your initials in one heart and the initial of your guest in the other heart, and write underneath.

Guess Who Is Inviting You
To a Valentine Supper

For a contest game, give the guests bows and arrows to shoot at a heart target. The winner should be presented with a heart-shaped box filled with heart-shaped nut cookies, and each loser who failed to hit the target might be consoled by being allowed to kiss one person for each arrow that went astray.

A Supper That's a "Honey"

Set the Valentine supper table with a lace cloth, red candles and a red heart-shaped box of candy at each place. And here is the supper menu with tested recipes:

Chicken and Ham Shortcake
Cranberry Jelly cut in Heart Shapes
Grapefruit Cream Sherbet with Cherry Garnish
Cocoanut Kisses Coffee
Fairy Gingerbread

Chicken and Ham Shortcake: Make a white sauce of two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk and the contents of two 6-ounce cans of evaporated milk. Add one slightly-beaten egg yolk. Then add the contents of one 12-ounce can of chicken which has been diced, one cup of diced cold boiled ham and two tablespoons diced pimiento. Add two tablespoons cooking sherry and season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve between and on top of split, hot baking powder biscuits which have been buttered. This serves eight persons.

Grapefruit Cream Sherbet: Soften one tablespoon gelatin in two tablespoons of cold water. Dissolve in grapefruit juice from a No. 2 can which has been brought to boiling. Add one and one-third cups sugar. Dissolve and cool. Add three tablespoons lemon juice and one well-beaten egg. Pour the cold fruit juice mixture slowly into one cup cream and freeze at once in refrigerator trays or in an ice-cream freezer. Stir often if you use the refrigerator. Serve garnished with chopped cherries. This serves eight persons.*

Burdensome Bureaus

It has never been my good fortune to meet Bruce MacNamee who, until middle December, headed the United States Travel Bureau. I do not know his home state nor the nature of his boyhood environment. My entire knowledge of the man comes from a ten-line Associated Press dispatch, but I admire him, and here's why: As far as I know he is the only Washington bureaucrat who ever managed to abolish his bureau because he hated to be useless. There is a place in the halls of Harding College for his bust.

The cost of Mr. MacNamee's office could not have been a big item; not much compared with the 100 billion dollars to be spent on war in 1943. But even if there were only two men in the bureau, individually they deserve credit for quitting a useless job and freeing themselves to do something toward winning the war and saving the country.

Why Do We Care?

Do you wonder why the head of a little college in Arkansas, an agricultural state, is so interested in getting unnecessary bureaucrats off the public payroll? There are two good reasons, and both of them vitally concern you, no matter who you are. I will discuss them one at a time. First, every reader of this column is bearing part of the bureaucratic burden.

Many a man has not realized this because his part of the cost has been hidden from him deliberately. Back in 1938 and 1939, before the United States started making war expenditures, men earning $500 a year or less thought they didn't pay any taxes. The truth is however that the average such citizen was paying taxes at a rate of 21.6 per cent. Right now the federal government collects several billion dollars a year by taxing goods, adding the tax to the selling price, and the buyer knows nothing about it. These are called excise taxes.

New Income Taxes

Government expenses have increased, more taxes have become necessary and everybody, including people earning less than $500 a year, are footing the bill. Under the new 1942 federal income tax law there will be approximately 19 million new names added to the paying list. These will pay $73 apiece on the average, to raise $1,420,000,000. And of course income taxes will be in addition to the old hidden taxes. And now for a little simple arithmetic.

Each bureaucrat costs Uncle Sam an average of $2,400 a year, including office space, heat, light and supervision. That's as much money as 33 of these average new income tax payers will provide at $73 each. Get rid of one useless bureaucrat and save all the income tax money collected from 33 new taxpayers. It ought to be worth trying.

Who Are Useless?

In previous articles in this column I have offered some protest against the so-called re-negotiation law under which three gigantic new bureaus are being created. I have explained that about 90 per cent of the work of these bureaus can be done by the already-established Bureau of Internal Revenue with little if any added cost. But one of these new bureaus added 3,000 men last year and has just gotten started. At least that's the way it looks.

These 3,000 new bureaucrats already cost the government as much revenue as it can raise this year from 99,000 of the new $73 income tax-payers. The three bureaus might easily have 100,000 employees before the year is over and they would absorb all the new revenue raised from 3,300,000 average payers of $73 income tax. All this is in addition to the large hidden taxes they are paying already.

Farmers Need Men

Down here in Arkansas we need men. The same is true in every farming community. Every man counts because a man means a crop, planted and tended and harvested. A one-man crop will provide food for a good many people. To some extent every crop means more to eat and lower food prices. It is a safeguard against inflation, but a useless bureaucrat is just the reverse. He does not help with the war, but consumes what some soldier ought to be getting and boosts inflation every day he does nothing.

Of course, no clerical bureaucrat would be worth much on a farm if he were put there, but surely there are useful jobs he could hold. Already rumors are afloat about positions in essential war work with no men to fill them. Such of these jobs as can not be filled by women, some day, will of necessity take men from agriculture. In a labor shortage, it ought to go without saying that every unnecessary bureaucrat costs the country one farm-hand.

Trying to Conserve

Congressman Wesley E. Disney made a suggestion which would have gone a long way to prevent employing thousands of men unnecessarily in the three war-contract, re-negotiation bureaus. He offered an amendment which proposed rechecking only those contracts which earned 2 per cent or more after taxes. Its purpose was to save 95 per cent of the auditing and make available, for battle or for productive work, 19 out of every 20 men engaged in re-negotiation.

According to reports Mrs. O. H. Nohre, who has been ill the past several weeks, is a little better after a setback she had earlier in the week.

Despite rotary plows, bulldozers and other mechanized equipment which railroads throw into the fight against winter storms, the maintenance worker still meets winter face to face as he battles to keep the tracks open. Freeing switches from snow and ice and similar tasks in below-zero blizzards call for stout hearts and bodies that can "take it".

Fighting Thru

Not for a good many years has Old Man Winter tossed as many punches as he has during the last few weeks.

Almost every mile of railway operated by the Great Northern has been under simultaneous assault by wind, snow and bitter cold for days at a time.

These bouts with the Storm King are nothing new to the men who keep the tracks open and run the trains. They know all his tricks. But generally the battle front is confined to one part of the railroad at a time, with Old Sol shining merrily on the remainder of the right-of-way and giving delayed trains an opportunity to make up lost time.

This winter came the blitzkrieg. From one end of the railroad to another, it was a continuous fight to get the trains through—trains carrying troops, war materials, fuel, food and mail.

Schedules, to be sure, took a bad beating. But the trains kept going through. And behind that simple fact were the maintenance forces, repair men, train and engine crews, and division officials who met every challenge of the heavy snows, the blasting winds and the bitter cold.

Passengers and shippers, for the most part, accepted the fortunes of this battle on the winter front with patience and good nature. And for this friendly consideration, the Great Northern is sincerely grateful.

Minnesota Made Holidays Legal

The birthdays of America's two great leaders, Washington and Lincoln, became legal holidays in Minnesota at early dates, according to records preserved by the Minnesota Historical society.

Lincoln was just becoming a national figure when the birthday of the first president was made a legal holiday by legislative action in 1860. The bill was appropriately passed by the House on February 22, and the Senate gave its approval on March 1.

Minnesotans, however, did not wait for February 22 to become a legal holiday; they had celebrated the day for a decade previous to 1860. In 1850 the people of St. Paul, old and young, observed the day. In the afternoon pupils in the "two schools of Misses Bishop and Scofield interchanged visits, marching in procession through the streets." Their elders attended a ball in the evening at the American house, where there was "good music, a good supper," and congenial company.

Minnesota is said to have been the first state in the Union to set aside Lincoln's birthday as a holiday. The bill which made the day a state-wide holiday was signed by Governor Clough on February 12, 1895, and it became effectice in 1896.

Celebrations were held thruout the state on February 12, 1896. There was a huge meeting of political clubs on the University campus, with Dr. Folwell presiding. Eigh hundred people attenden a banquet in Minneapolis at which Governor Clough spoke, and in St. Paul the principal celebration took place at the Ryan hotel. Schools and state, muicipal, and all county offices in Minnesota were closed for the day, and churches and lodges conducted programs.

Johnson of Stephen, member of the Marshall County A A A committee and president of the Marshall County Farm Bureau, died suddenly at 1:00 o'clock Sunday morning, Feb. 7th at the Bethesda hospital in Minneapolis, following an early evening heart attack while sitting in the lobby of the New Nicollet Hotel where he was passing time waiting to take the train home to Stephen.

Mr. Johnson in company with Chas. Kranz, chairman and Anton Anderson of the County AAA committee had been in St. Paul attending a state conference of the county committees.

Holt School Notes

The Eighth Grade boys have been studying radio construction as extra work in science. They have been spending their time so far in constructing a single tube receiver which works quite well. In an actual test made by Irvin Larson last Saturday evening he received WJJD and WLS both Chicago stations, WSM, Nashville, WHO DesMoines, CKY, KILO, WDAY and several others from which no station announcement was heard. Both boys, Irvin Larson and Donald Fluke are very interested in the work and seem to understand it well. They are now working on a larger set which, when completed will operate a loudspeaker. The set that they built last week operates headphones.

The Valentine party planned for Friday in our room was postponed and held Monday instead.

Following is an original poem written by Dorothy Larson, 7th grade English:

Abraham Lincoln

A very cold and wintry morn,
A great and noble man was born.
Homely, though his face may be,
Very wise and kind was he.

His little home of logs was made,
He did his lessons on a spade.
He loved his books and all his toys,
Reading writing were his great joys.

The noble statesman true and brave,
The slaves so helpless he did save.
Thru glad devotion for a noble cause,
He loved and honored the worthy laws

Arthur succeeded George as president of our room. He gives us duties to do each week.

The following had 100 in spelling on Friday: Evelyn, Vernon R., Gloria, Beth, Betty, Dorothy B., George, Robert, Gladys, Harold, Arthur and Dorothy S.

We all enjoyed our valentine party on Monday.

The film scheduled for Friday of this week (Feb. 19) is a 3 reel picture on the Black Hills and The Badlands of North Dakota.

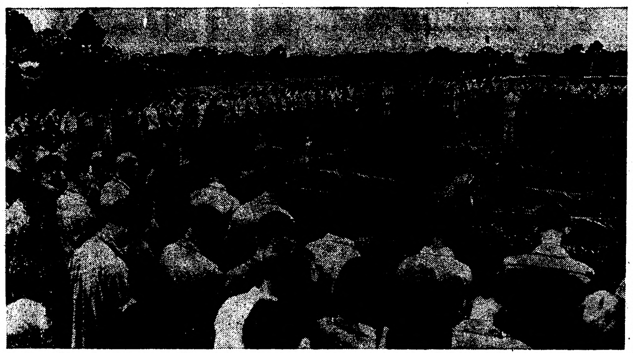
'In Line of Duty' on Guadalcanal



A price was exacted from the Japs in overcoming their hold on Guadalcanal, and a price was paid by the United States marines who landed there and held the island until relieved by the U. S. army. Here the marines stand over the graves of their comrades. Their bared heads are bowed as the chaplain intones the service. These men have come from the front. They stand, some of them in shirts that have been ripped to shreds. Palm fronds decorate some of the graves that are marked by crude crosses. Soon after the services were over the men returned to their guns.

Canada's Unsung Heroes Round Up Mines

Among the unsung heroes of the war list the mine killers of the Royal Canadian navy. An offshoot of England's famous mine disposal squad, these men who flirt with death pick this job voluntarily and receive no "extras." Their job is to round up mines and render them harmless. The gentleman at the left who is "roughing up" a floating mine with an ice pick is Lieut. George Rundle, instructor at a Canadian port. After roughing, the mine is set afire with gasoline-soaked rags and blown up. Right: Lieutenant Rundle, with assistant Harold Simpson, tows a mine towards shore after Rundle had removed the horns that actuate the detonator.

"Dog man" of the New York state troopers is W. W. Horton, who trains the bloodhounds that accompany the troopers on their hunts. At left Danny leads trooper Horton to the "lost" youngster. Upper right: The dog learns to trail his man around haystacks and through thickets. Lower right: Smartie looks worried, but that's the bloodhound's natural expression.

NEW TOMMY CORCORAN

No announcement has been made yet, but the President has a new "Tommy Corcoran"—astute young Joe Casey, ex-congressman from Massachusetts. Make a note of him. He will play an important role backstage around congress.

But where Tommy the Cork and Ben Cohen frequently rubbed congress the wrong way, Casey's No. 1 job is to promote White House-congressional harmony.

Casey is also making some Q.T. surveys for the President. One of them is to see whether members of the War Production board are deliberately slanting their actions to smear the New Deal.

Another Q.T. probe is of Elmer Davis' Office of War Information. Casey believes that shrewd, public-minded Davis could be of great value to the administration if asked to pass on more government moves in order to gauge their effect upon public opinion. Casey, therefore, may recommend that FDR submit all directives and executive orders to Davis before release to the public.

On the congressional front Casey plans more visits to the White House by bi-partisan groups, which may be able to give FDR better advice than Harry Hopkins.

Note: So far Casey has refused to accept any salary, but is slated later for a post in Jimmy Byrnes' Office of Economic Stabilization.

WHY STALIN DECLINED

The diplomatic grapevine has brought a new reason why Stalin didn't want to join the backgammon party at Casablanca—the danger of being dragged into a political discussion over future boundaries of Europe.

One year ago Foreign Minister Litvinoff flew to London, took the initiative in discussing post-war boundaries. But the British were gun-shy.

Since then Stalin has reversed his policy of advance boundary agreements, has announced a policy of self-determination of nations. With large Russian and Slavic blocs in Poland, the Baltic states, Rumania, this means a good slice of eastern Europe would join Soviet Russia.

However, some U. S. plus some British leaders now have reversed themselves about not agreeing on boundaries in advance. Perhaps fearing that Russia might reach too far, they want to work out preliminary peace plans now rather than haggle over them at the conference table.

This advance dealing of the boundary cards, according to the diplomatic grapevine, was what Stalin wanted to avoid at Casablanca.

Note: What Russia wants after the war is a slice of Finland, one-half of Poland, the Baltic states, the Carpathian provinces of Hungary, the Dobrudja from Rumania, all of Bulgaria, which is very pro-Russian, enough of Jugoslavia—also pro-Russian—to secure an outlet on the Adriatic; and an outlet on the Persian gulf. This would give Russia direct access to the Mediterranean and the Indian ocean. Obviously Churchill, who says he wasn't made prime minister to liquidate the empire, can't be enthusiastic about that.

RED ARMY

United States military observers explain recent Russian successes in terms of a development not generally realized in the United States—liberation of the generals from political domination.

Under the system which prevailed in Russia in the early months of the war, the Red generals were responsible to the political commissars. This made them overcautious, prevented daring, resolute action.

Then came the requirement that commissars themselves take military training and indoctrination. Simultaneously their authority over the generals was removed.

Now the Red army is run by the Red army.

THE RUSSIAN FRONT

Though the Russians admitted Brig. Gen. Pat Hurley to the front lines, they still have not revoked their ban on foreign military observers. Their explanation—for what it's worth—is that they would have to admit Japanese observers as well, since they are still at peace with Japan . . . . Most impressive to Americans who have been anywhere near the Russian front are the earnest but improvised supply methods. Across the Russian steppes come food and ammunition for the men at the front—behind a team of caribou, or oxen, or on the shoulders of men afoot. Any way and every way, the people of Russia keep supplies moving.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

The importance of group riding as a rubber conservation practice has been demonstrated in Pontiac, Mich., where today 20,000 workers roll to war plants in 4,000 cars instead of the 15,000 cars they used daily earlier this year.

2,300 cities and towns with a total population of 12½ millions depend entirely upon automobiles for passenger transportation.

In 1896 The B. F. Goodrich Co. made the first fabric clincher type automobile tire in the 36 x 4 size.

A ton of rubber a year is the collection of the average Brazilian wild rubber gatherer. This explains why man power is the crux of the South American natural rubber problem.

Fold-Up Coffee Table Made Without Nails

IF THERE is one piece of furniture for which our own period will be famous it is the low coffee table. Our own generation has discovered that low tables are not only convenient but give a greater feeling of space in a room than high ones.

Here is a little coffee table that is as modern as tomorrow. You can make it yourself from a three by four foot piece of half inch plywood with straight cuts of the saw. It requires not one scrap of hardware. Just cut the three sections according to the dimensions given here; place the slot of the narrow piece of the base through the slot in the wide piece; put the top on, and there you are! When not in use the pieces take up no more space than a large serving tray.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Russ Trap German Army in Caucasus; March 15 Remains Tax Deadline as Congress Plans Pay-as-You-Go Later; Labor Demands Increased Wage Scale

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Three fighting American generals who led their forces against the Japs and were wounded in action in New Guinea are shown convalescing in an Australian hospital. Left to right are shown Brigadier Generals Hanford MacNider, Albert Whitney Waldron and Clovis E. Byers.

WAGES & PRICES:
Labor Looks Upward

Organized labor's clash with the government over wage controls drew disquietingly closer as the American Federation of Labor, the CIO and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers made known their stand.

Conferring at the White House, William Green, AFL president, and Phillip Murray, CIO chief, protested to President Roosevelt that the cost of living was "getting out of bounds" and said that there was increasing dissatisfaction among labor's rank and file.

Previously, bushy-browed Lewis had announced a demand for a $2 a day pay increase in the bituminous coal industry, effective April 1.

The impending crisis in wage control was further emphasized when the War Labor board beset by increasing demands for pay increases asked Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes whether the "Little Steel" wage ceiling formula should be revised upward. This yardstick which has been applied to numerous industries allowed the WLB to grant wage increases of 15 per cent above the levels of January 1, 1941, and was designed to match rising living costs between that date and May 1, 1942.

This problem was dropped in Mr. Byrnes' lap, because any upward wage revision would have consumer repercussions and jeopardize the administration's entire wage stabilization and price pegging program.

INCOME TAX:
March 15 Still Deadline

Neither the Ruml plan to "forgive" all taxes on 1942 income, nor the U. S. treasury department's proposal to double up collections of both 1942 and 1943 taxes will be adopted, members of the house ways and means committee definitely indicated.

One fact appeared certain. Forty-four million American taxpayers will be compelled to file income tax returns by the March 15 deadline, on the basis of 1942 income.

A pay-as-you-go withholding tax procedure will be set up later. Most observers predicted July 1 as the date. This apparently would be a compromise measure embodying some but not all of the Ruml proposals and the treasury's recommendations.

FARM LABOR:
Army to Help?

Many a Washington official has lain awake nights trying to find a solution for the critical farm labor shortage.

Latest suggestion for relieving the shortage is to apply a method used by Union and Confederate armies in the Civil war—furlough soldiers with farm experience to help with harvests and other seasonal farm jobs.

Observers believed that creation of this farm army would be undertaken jointly by the war department and the War Manpower commission and the department of agriculture. It was estimated that 500,000 soldiers might be detailed for this needed task.

Alternately under consideration by top manpower authorities was a proposal to utilize battalions of army men still on military assignment for farm work.

NAZI TWILIGHT:
Darkened by Russ

While the strains of Wagner's funereal Gotterdaemmerung on Berlin radios had proclaimed to the Reich the melancholy tidings of Nazi disaster at Stalingrad, this requiem was regarded by many observers as only a prelude to more woeful news ahead.

For it had become increasingly clear that the German retreat in Russia had long since passed the stage of an orderly withdrawal and had reached the proportions of a rout in many places. Relentlessly the Russians had built up their offensive's momentum, smashing into the Ukraine, narrowing the circle around Rostov and threatening Hitler's harassed Caucasus forces with a Black sea Dunkirk at Novorossisk.

Matter-of-fact Soviet communiques told the story of German reverses. These included the reoccupation by Red troops of Zolotukhino, only 22 miles above Kursk on the Kursk-Orel railroad, thus cutting the main Nazi supply line to the north; the recapture of Kupyansk and with it the control of an entire rail network; and the seizure of Kuschevskaya, below Rostov on the Rostov-Baku railway, the biggest system in the Caucasus.

The loss of Kuschevskaya was particularly bitter to the Nazis. Russ possession of this city which commands a railroad spur leading to the Black sea, threatened to isolate huge German forces already under attack at Novorossisk, the large Nazi-held port on that sea. It had been believed Hitler would try to use Novorossisk for the evacuation of his Caucasian army if Rostov were regained by the Russians.

SOLOMONS:
Nipponese Persistent

Only occasionally during the latest air-sea battle between American forces and their Jap enemies for control of the southern Solomons was the curtain of official secrecy raised. First American reports were necessarily noncommittal to keep useful information from the enemy.

The Japs used a "reverse English" technique in reporting the battle. This consisted of radio announcements telling of overwhelming American naval superiority in the Guadalcanal area, of the presence of 10 American warships and 10 aircraft carriers. By employing such fantastic figures, observers believed the Jap high command was preparing the public back home for bad news.

MERCHANT SEAMEN:
Heroism Unparalleled

The heroic part America's 70,000 merchant seamen have played in the front line of combat on the high seas was dramatized by a report issued by Rear Admiral Emory S. Land of the War Shipping administration which disclosed that the percentage of losses in personnel due to Axis U-boats and bombers was three times as great as that of the U. S. armed forces in the first year of the war.

Numerically, losses of merchant sailors totaled 3,200 including dead and missing, or 3.8 per cent of the total during the war's first year. U. S. armed forces' losses were 1 per cent in this period.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

CHICAGO: Paying its quarterly dividends in war bonds, stamps or cash is the novel method the Belden Manufacturing company is following to help promote the treasury department's drive. Since Whipple Jacobs, president of the company, introduced the plan last August, stockholders have invested 9½ per cent of their dividends in war bonds. This is well ahead of the national average.

WASHINGTON: Planes of the 12th U. S. air force sank or damaged 54 Axis ships in North African waters, ranging from light cruisers to freighters between November 8 and February 1, it was announced here in a report received from Allied headquarters in North Africa. The report disclosed that 13 ships had been sunk, seven severely damaged, and 34 others damaged.

THE CHERRY CLIMAX COMES IN FEBRUARY

CHERRIES are eaten all year round in this country, including February, but the peak of their consumption probably comes in this famous month not only because it is the month of George Washington's birthday and we are reminded of the story of his truthfulness about the cherry tree, but because "red" is a pretty color to put in party foods for St. Valentine's Day and Lincoln's birthday. A National Cherry Week is held annually, from February fifteenth to February twenty-second, this year, at a time when housewives are interested, too, in putting some fruit into the diet to offset the effects of the necessarily heavier winter foods.

A Thrift Opportunity

With the current sales of canned cherries it is a good time for the thrifty housewife to stock up on a variety of them. There are two principal types of canned cherries—sweet and sour. There are both black and white sweet cherries. Sour cherries are red. The most abundant black sweet cherries are the Bing and Windsor, and the most famous white ones are the Royal Annes. Sour cherries are usually either Richmond or Montmorency. Sweet cherries are canned unpitted. Sour cherries are always canned with the pits removed.

This is a good season, too, to check up on your cherry recipes, and make sure they include some of the best ways of serving these fruits. The sweet cherries are delicious and decorative for use in salads, and the sour are grand for making cherry puddings and also for serving with meats when their tart flavor is needed.

Here are two new cherry recipes which you will be glad to add to your repertoire:

Baked Cherry Pudding: Cream together four tablespoons butter and one cup sugar, add three-fourths cup of milk alternately with the following sifted dry ingredients: one and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons of baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Pour into a buttered baking dish. Meanwhile boil together for five minutes the contents of one No. 2 can of pitted red cherries, one-half cup sugar and two teaspoons grated orange rind. Pour this on top of the batter, and bake for about thirty minutes in a medium oven—350 degrees. The dough will rise to the top, the cherries and syrup sink to the bottom forming a sort of sauce. Turn out upside down and serve warm with plenty of cream. This serves eight persons.

Cherry Queen of Puddings: Pour two cups of hot milk over one cup of dry bread crumbs which are fairly fine. Add one-half cup of sugar and two tablespoons butter. Let soak for five minutes. Then add the lightly-beaten yolks of three eggs, and pour into a buttered pudding dish. Bake in a slow oven—275 to 300 degrees—for from forty to fifty minutes, or until a knife, inserted, comes out clean. Meanwhile cook the contents of one No. 2 can of pitted red cherries with three-fourths cup of sugar until the syrup is thick, then cool slightly. When the pudding is done, spread this cherry mixture on top, cover with a meringue made of three egg whites and six tablespoons of sugar. Return to the oven for about fifteen minutes or until the meringue is firm and a delicate brown. Serve cold. This serves eight persons.*

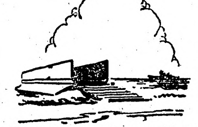
What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Down in the Solomons and on the African coasts the Crocodile Boat or tank lighter played a most important role in landing our invasion armies. These self-propelled, light . . . fast boats haul tanks, artillery and other equipment from the big ships off-shore to the beach heads.



We need more and more of them, for they are essential to the successful operation of the war. They are made in several sizes from small fifty-footers, costing about $2,400 to the big 500-tonners costing around $37,000. Your purchase of War Bonds every payday will help pay for them. *U. S. 18% OF HER PAY GOES INTO WAR BONDS

War Plant Worker Buys Bonds for Warrior Husband

Although she has two children to support on her wages as a power press operator at a war plant, Mrs. Mabel W. puts 18% of her pay every week into War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Mrs. W. thinks of every bond she buys in terms of what it can do for her soldier husband out in Australia. "Already," she says, "I've bought Jim a Garand rifle and a gas mask in War Bonds. I feel I'm helping to bring him back safe and sound!"

You Can Spare 10%!

Maybe you can't save as much as 18% of your salary in War Bonds. But you can stretch yourself a bit more—make a few "sacrifices"—and reach Uncle Sam's goal of 10% for War Bonds every payday! Sign up today with the Payroll Savings Plan where you work!

There's NO PLACE LIKE HOME

Stephen Foster, who wrote the immortal words of "Home, Sweet Home" never had a home . . . . . Most of us are more fortunate, and just now a great deal more appreciative of our homes, be they 'ever so humble'. Beyond the protection and comfort they offer, are the serenity, good cheer and hospitality which they provide after the day's hard, war-winning work is over.

Hagen Gets Appointment

Washington, D. C. — An assignment and honor seldom given "freshmen" congressmen, has been received by our own ninth district representative, Harold C. Hagen, of Crookston, by his appointment as Chairman of the Foreign Mails Sub-Committee of the House Post Office and Post Roads Committee.

The selection of Representative Hagen as chairman of this group was announced this week in Washington, D. C. by the committee chairman, Representative Thomas G. Burch of Virginia.

Minnesotans will remember that the chairmanship of the House Post Office and Post Roads Committee was once held by the late Congressman Halvor Steenerson, also of Crookston, who represented the ninth district in Congress from 1903 to 1923. Mr. Steenerson gave this committee the importance and prestige that it holds today. An assignment to this major committee precludes a place on any other Congrestional committee.

Mr. Hagen, in addition to being chairman of the Foreign Mails Sub-committee, is a membre of five other sub-committees, includind Air-Mail Service, Special Postal Services, Offenses against the Postal Services, City and Village Delivery Service and Postal Savings.

Mr. Brenna was 74 years old at the time of his death. He was the pioneer auctioneer in this area having cried sales far and wide for the past forty years, retiring from active duty only last fall.

Funeral rites will be held at Middle River on Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m.

Many Jobs Are War Jobs

Such essential civilian activities as agriculture, food processing, mining, textiles, transportation, communications, heating, power, and educational services are "war jobs", says the War Manpower Commission. People must be housed and fed and clothed in wartime as well as in peace, and essential civilian workers are on an equeal plane with workers in basic war industries.

New Types Farm Credit

Two new types of credit to stimulate farm production now available through county war boards with funds provided by the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation, were described today by George Susens, member of the Minnesota USDA War Board and president of the Production Credit Corporation of St. Paul.

"The main objective of this new type credit," Susen said, "is to make sure that no farmer who has the skill, experience and capacity to add to the nation's supply of vital foods, fibres and oils, is kept from doing his bit because credit is lacking.

"Funds will be provided by the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation, but the taking of applications, and the decision as to who gets the money and how much, is in the hands of County USDA war boards. These funds will be made available in every farming or livestock county in the state, thus putting them within the reach of practically every farmer who is in position to add to our supplies of food and fibre for civilian, war and lend-lease.

Susens pointed out that one type of credit will be made for livestock and general farm production, at 5 percent, secured by notes and chattel mortgages. He emphasized that it is expected that all such loans will be repaid within one year, and it is not contemplated that loans will be made unless there is reasonable expectation that they will be repaid.

The other type of credit deals with funds for production of a much needed war crop, production of which might not be undertaken if this source of credit were not available.

"These special crop advances may be furnished with only limited liability," Susen said, "under certain conditions. Where a farmer, at the request of the county war board, undertakes to produce a crop because of the urgent need for it, his debt will marked paid upon application of all the proceeds from the crop even though these proceeds are less than the amount of advance--provided he used the money for producing the specified crop, followed good farming practices, and then did not have enough to repay the advance."

Moved to West Coast

Mrs. Geo. Dovre and son and Mrs. Ole Christenson left recently for Everett, Washington to join Mr. Dovre who went out there some time ago to be employed. Mrs. Christenson will visit her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. David Johnson and family while there and also a brother.

Howard Takes Over AAA Post

Tom Howard, who was elected First Alternate of the Marshall County Agriculture Conservation association at the annual meeting here last fall, has succeeded to the post as a full fledged member of the committee, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Alphonse E. Johnson. The county committee will be composed of Chas. N. Kranz, chairman; Anton Anderson and Mr. Howard.

The committee members have been attending community meetings throughout the entire county recently signing up farmers for the 1943 program.

Life of Pearl Hamerness

Funeral rites were held Tuesday, February 16, at 2:00 P. M. for Miss Pearl Irene Hamerness, age 17, who died at a hospital in Thief River Falls Wednesday, February 10. Rev. G. S. Thompson, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Thief River Falls, conducted the rites which were held at the Erickson & Lund Funeral Home in that city, and burial was made in Rindahl cemetery.

Miss Hammerness, born March 15, 1925, at Holt, and in 1927 she moved with her parents to New Solum township southwest from here. She lived there until 1941 when she moved to Thief River Falls to make her permanent home.

Surviving are her father, Ole Hamerness, three sisters, Mrs. Thelma Stenerson of Callaway; Olivia and Opal of Thief River Falls; two brothers, Peter Sjosvold of Little Fork, and Orvis at home. Her mother and two brothers preceded her in death.

4,067 "A" Books in County

OPA gasoline rationing officials compiled totals of gasoline coupon books issued, showing Marshall county to have been assigned 4,067 "A" books to date.

The figures, compiled from reports of rationing boards in all parts of the state, show that Marshall county motorists received 756 "B" mileage ration books and 161 "C" mileage ration books.

The total for the state was 606,057 "A" books issued to motorists of whom 414,530 received no other gasoline books. A total of 139,282 qualified for "B" gasoline books and 52,245 for "C" gasoline books.

The Greatest Mother in the World
RED CROSS WAR FUND
MARCH ~ 1943

Symbolic of the role the Red Cross is again playing, the 1943 Red Cross War Fund poster depicts the organization as a mother ministering to the needs of the men of the United States armed forces and the victims of war throughout the world. The poster is an appeal to all men and women for contributions to the War Fund. Lawrence Wilbur, noted illustrator, designed the poster. Helen Mueller is the model.

Red Cross Needs $125,000,000 To Finance Wartime Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Faced with the greatest wartime program in history, the American Red Cross will launch its 1943 War Fund appeal for $125,000,000 on March 1, Chairman Norman H. Davis has announced.

Pointing out that the bulk of the fund will be used to expand Red Cross services to the men of the armed forces and their families, Chairman Davis urged every American man and woman to contribute to the fund.

With the approval of President Roosevelt, who also is President of the American Red Cross, the month of March is being observed as Red Cross Month. Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, is chairman of the Red Cross 1943 War Fund.

"Red Cross services to our armed forces and to the needs of distressed civilians on the battle and home fronts can be supplied only by great expenditures and sacrifices," Chairman Davis said. "We are exerting our utmost efforts to accomplish these tasks with the least possible drain upon the resources of the people in funds, time and energy. We must never falter in our determination to meet these definite obligations. The Red Cross is confident that all our people will be generous in their support of the 1943 War Fund."

More than 65 percent of the fund received by the national organization will be devoted to meeting Red Cross responsibilities to the armed forces. These include the Red Cross overseas club program, recreation and hospital program, the stationing of field directors at all foreign and domestic military camps and bases, the huge surgical dressing production program, and the blood plasma project which recently was expanded to a total of 4,000,000 pints at the request of the Army and Navy.

Chairman Davis pointed out that the 1943 program will be vastly greater than the accomplishments of last year, in which the Red Cross aided millions of war victims through its foreign war relief program; gave aid to thousands of prisoners of war; collected 1,500,000 pints of blood for the armed forces; produced 520,000,000 surgical dressings, and aided more than 1,500,000 servicemen and their families.

The $125,000,000 quota, he said, will finance the local, national and international work of the Red Cross for the entire year, barring unforeseen emergencies.

Read this ad on the back page in which the creamery sets forth so many good reasons why food is now needed to win this struggle.

SO MANY readers have written me to ask what could be made from old phonograph cabinets, and it is only recently that we have found a really satisfactory answer. This smart reading stand with deep green leatherette top has good proportions and is made from an old oak cabinet rubbed down with sandpaper and then waxed. In the next article we will show how the lid of the old cabinet was used.

The new top of the reading stand is made of old lumber and the cover is tacked in place with brass tacks to match the knobs of the doors. The old sound box at the top now houses a small radio and the old record compartment keeps current magazines neatly separated.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

In Zambezi, Africa, carts used by the natives have tires made of elephant hide, which serves the purpose of rubber.

In Bulgaria natives paint pictures of their enemies on their tires so they can be regularly splattered with mud, as a gesture of contempt!

Cars and trucks for transportation account for 56 per cent of the Army's rubber requirements.

Cordtire construction, the type common today, first made rapid inroads on the cord-woven fabric tire in 1915. Low pressure balloon tires made their appearance in 1924.

Cryptostegia is a new word for the rubber lexicon. To Floridians it is the technical name for the Mexican morning glory, which has been recognized as one of the most promising rubber-producing plants.

One thing a soldier is afraid of is a display of emotion. That's why his slang so often sounds derogatory. For example, he refers to the silver eagles on his colonel's shoulder straps as "buzzards." But when he speaks of his favorite cigarette, he says: "Camels." They're first with men in the Army as well as with Sailors, Marines, and Coast Guardsmen. (According to actual sales records in service men's stores.) A gift of a carton of Camels is always well received. Local tobacco dealers are featuring Camel cartons to send to any member of our armed forces. Hint for the day: Send "him" a carton of Camels.—Adv.

Primary Grades

Marlene and Ione Larson were visitors in our room Friday afternoon.

The children in our room had dress-up day Wednesday. Each pupil brought adult clothing from home and dressed as a grown person.

We are making paper animals in Art. We are going to make a circus using these animals.

Ruby Johnson was absent from school Monday.

Grades 3, 4, 5

The third and fifth grades started new reading books this week.

We have been writing poems in our language classes. The best poems were sent to three childrens' magazines. We are waiting to see if any of them will be published. We also sent some drawings.

The following had 100 in spelling last week: George Fricker, Robert Johnson, Betty Johnson, Betty Ness, Beth Weaver, Vernon Reierson and Evelyn Wegge.

The attendance in our room was excellent last week.

In fourth grade geography we are studying Egypt. We think it is interesting to learn how the Egyptians irrigated the land with a shadoof. Beth Weaver made a small shadoof, so now we know how it helps the farmer lift the water to the level of the field.

Upper Grades

The radio building class completed two sets this week. Both Donald Fluke and Irvin Larson built individual receivers this week. Both sets work well, receiving a large number of stations including some Mexican. Irvin Larson spent Monday evening at the school house testing his set.

We were pleased that we were able to demonstrate our sets to Alton Carlson and Caroline Aspelin Monday evening during rationing time. The parts used in building these radios were donated to us by Albert Haglund. He gave the boys some old radio sets no longer useful.

Four pupils in our room had perfect score in spelling last week. They were Mae Fluke, Jean Wegge, Delores Sandberg and Shirley Larson.

The following original poem was written by Delores Sandberg, 6th Grade English:--

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

George Washington was brave and true,
He always knew just what to do.
He helped the people everywhere
And he was very, very fair.

He was born on an estate.
For his work he was never late.
He was a very polite man
And never had a sister Ann.

He was our first president.
He had a real nice resident.
The people liked him very much
As if he had a magic touch.

The pupils of our room have contributed the following questions which we hope will be of some interest to our readers:

1. Do you know what the study of animals is called?
2. Do you know from what country the U. S. got the "Statue of Liberty?
3. What color is a Chimpanzee?
4. Do you know what the emblem of Canada is?

Watch next week school notes for answers to these questions.

The movie scheduled for this week Feb. 26 is a 5-reel picture "Sky Rider." This is a story of a German Police dog "Champion."

The film on the "Black Hill" of South Dakota proved interesting.

Not Gold .. but ..
THE FULL PRODUCTION OF MEN'S MINDS AND HANDS
Will Win the War!

EVEN the broken machinery on the scrap heap is needed more urgently today than gold!

The world needs airplanes ... guns ... ships ... medicine ... food. But these things cannot be delivered by gold alone. It takes the full production of men's minds and hands to do the job.

That's how the farmer is working today to attain maximum food production. The farmer is working unceasingly with his mind and his hands. To produce ...

FOOD ... as essential to our armies as ammunition!

FOOD ... that will mean another allied nail in Hitler's coffin!

FOOD ... that must sustain the workers in this arsenal of democracy!

FOOD ... that can out-talk Herr Goebbels in a conquered nation!

To make it possible for the farmer to achieve 1943 food production goals:

The farmer needs manpower—to work long tedious hours, seven days a week, including holidays. Part-time work for the harvest helps only on some farms. The farmer needs machinery—in an adequate, if limited, supply. The farmer needs a fair share of the American dollar—to meet the increased cost of labor, equipment and supplies.

No farmer expects an arms plant worker to turn out rifles without the machine tools to make precision parts.

No person should expect the farmer to produce food without the tools of production!

Remember: There is a farm problem. It's your problem. It is the most vital problem in America today. Airplanes come off production lines every minute. But it takes a year to grow a crop—three years to grow a cow! Nature decreed that few production rabbits can be pulled out of a farmer's hat!

This year, American farmers must meet the largest food goals in the history of the nation ... with less help and equipment than ever before. But, God willing, they'll do it! They ask no favors; only a fair deal ... honest public and legislative consideration of their problems—of America's problems—as they fight their daily battle to "win the war and write the peace."

Highway Patrolman Report

State Highway patrolmen arrested 797 traffic law violators during the first month of 1943, according to the January report submitted this week by Chief Elden Rowe to M. J. Hoffman, State Highway commissioner.

During the same month "do not repeat" warning tickets were issued to 610 drivers and 3,789 motorists were given verbal warnings for less serious traffic offenses. Patrolmen during the month gave aid to 3,080 motorists of which 1,726 required minor adjustments or repairs to cars stranded on the hingway.

Five-hundred twenty-seven cars, an extraordinarily large number, were pulled out of the ditches during the month by Highway patrolmen and garages were called for 88 other motorists who required assistance the patrolmen with their light equipment were unable to render.

Of the traffic law violators arrested 287 went to court for failure to have obtained their 1943 registration plates. Excessive speed was the cause for the arrest of 153 drivers; going through stop signs for 78; improper passing, 38; careless driving, 61; and driving while drunk, 21.

Driving with improper equipment caused 72 arrests and other violations included driving in the wrong lane, improper parking on the roadway, exceeding legal gross load weights, and driving without proper drivers lisenses. Fines imposed totaled $5,611.

In addition to arrests and written and verbal warning, 1,104 motorists were issued illegal equipment tags requiring immediate repair of vehicular defects. Of these 428 were driving without a rear warning light and 346 were on the road with only one headlight.

Boys from here who left on Saturday from Warren for the army were: Rubin Ness, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Ness and Floyd Holmstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Holmstrom. Others from this end of the county were Glenn Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leny Olson and Arthur Kolden, son of Mrs. S. S. Kolden both of Middle River.

Word was received here that Mrs. S. H. Nohre is ill in a hospital at Bemidiji, Minnesota.

Miss Clara Ellestad of Spring Grove arrived Wednesday for a visit at the O. H. Nohre home.

Life of Ole C. Brenna

Funeral services were conducted from the first Lutheran church at Middle River on Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. for Ole C. Brenna, pioneer farmer and auctioneer of this community for the past forty years. Mr. Brenna passed away at the Mercy hospital at Thief River Falls on Tuesday morning, February 23, 1943, at the age of 74 years, 2 months and 5 days, after an illnes of only a short duration.

Rev. G. T. I. Bergee officiated and Carlson Funeral Home of Middle River had charge of all arrangements. Interment was made in the family plot in Middle River cemetery.

Ole C. Brenna was born Dec. 18, 1869 in Norway. He came to this country with his parents at the age of two years. They settled on a homestead at Ulen, Clay County. He was married to Carrie Severson, of Ulen in 1889. To this union fourteen children were born.

They moved to Middle River in 1900. His wife and seven children preceded him in death His wife passed away Aug. 11, 1921. Later he married Mrs. Emma Sorter and to them one son was born.

Left to mourn his passing are his wife Emma; one daughter Olga, Mrs. Emil Johnson of Duluth; one stepdaughter, Junis, Mrs. Floyd Tanner of Middle River and six sons Calmer and Ole Jr. of Middle River; Sanford, of Tacoma, Washinton; Morris, of Seattle Washington, Anthony, in the Armed Forces; Kermit of Kennedy, Minn. Four stepsons, Arthur, Lennie, Walter and Johnnie. Also 15 grandchildren and one greatgrandchild.

All the children were home for the funeral with the exception of Morris and Anthony.

Misses Gordon, Lee and Larson were supper guests at the O. T. Ness home on Friday evening. Callers in the evening were, Rev. Hanson, Mrs. Orris Johnson and Mildred Odie.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been very unsettled. Saturday we had one of the hardest blizzards of the winter. It blew itself out after a good six hours run. Sunday and Monday were real cold and yesterday we had another northwesterner all day.

Geo. Karvonen of Duluth visited his family here Sunday.

Annual Cemetery Meeting Held

The following report of the Annual Cemetery meeting was submitted to the News by Rev. T. C. L. Hanson and we thank him for writing so complete a report and also for setting forth so many good reasons why we all should take more pride in our cemetery.—the Editor.

The Annual Meeting of the Holt Cemetery Association was held at the Holt School on Friday afternoon. A fair number of lot-holders were present so that a quorum was held. This was a postponed meeting from last November when only one lot holder besides the officers was present. It was unanimously decided to amend the Constitution so that the name was changed from "Sandridge Cemetery Incorporation" to "The Holt Cemetery Association." The Treasurer's report showed there was a balance of about $292.00 in the Treasury. Mr. John P. Augustine was re-elected on the Board of Directors. The other two members holding over are Ludvig Sagstuen, Secretary and Alfred B. Anderson, Treasurer. It was also decided that the Board be authorized and instructed to secure the services of an Engineer or Surveyor to plat out new lots, make a new map and new lot designations of the present graves and inaugurate any new and modern methods that would make it more practical. Then, when this new platting has been done, the old certificates will be turned in and new ones issued. Also, all those who have lots but have no certificates will be issued certificates. The Board together with the Engineer or Surveyor will attempt to clear up much of the confusion that exists today.

All those present unanimously expressed their desire to turn the cemetery over to the village of Holt, if and when all legal entanglements are cleared up and also if the village would be willing to assume it. It was the consensus of the opinion of those present that this would be the most practical way to assure proper care for posterity in that it is so difficult to get much interest in the welfare of the present system. Mr. Nels M. Engen of Warren has been the attorney to assist and advise in clearing up the numerous legal procedures involved. It is expected that by the Annual Meeting in November, the Cemetery Association will be on a modern, efficient and up-to-date basis, due to the faithfulness, concern and much work the present Board of Directors has put into this work. It is hoped that all the lot-holders and other interested parties will take much interest when one views it from the point of view that the loved ones and many present lot-holders will have this place as the repose of their earthly remains as long as the world stands.

The meeting adjourned subject to the call of a special meeting by the Board or the Annual meeting in November.

Rev. T. C. L. Hanson

There can be no let-up in Marshall county's rate of War Bond purchasing, with the new quota for the month of March being placed at $54,000, an increase of $6,000 over the $48,000 goal for February, O. M. Mattson, county War Bond committee chairman, announced today. The county quota was set by the state administrator in St. Paul on March 1. Minnesota residents are expected to purchase $13,500,000 worth of the government securities this month While official reports for bond buying in February are not yet available, indications are that the county again easily oversubscribed the quota assigned. Issuing agencies report brisk sales every week.

Biggest Red Cross Drive

The biggest Red Cross drive in the history of Marshall County will swing into action next Wednesday, March 10, when more than 150 Marshall county volunteer workers will begin the 1943 War Fund Appeal to raise the county quota of $5,200.

Plans for Marshall County Chapter campaign were formulated at a meeting of the executive committee of the organization with Harold Gronningan, field director of the National chapter, in Warren last Thursday night. Sup't E. M. Weltzin of Warren will direct the county campaign for funds as Appeal chairman.

Never in its history has the American Red Cross been called upon to send so much relief to so many lands and to do so much humanitarian service for so many people, Sletten C. Olson, chairman of the county chapter pointed out. The Marshall county quota of $5,200 represents this county's share of the $125,000,000 goal for the nation and also includes a percentage for maintaining activities of the county chapter.

Every village and every township in the county will have its volunteers to make a house-to-house and farm-to-farm solicitation, said Mr. Weltzin. Quotas have been set up for each village and township in the county to serve as a guide for the volunteers in soliciting the funds. The quotas for Holt and surrounding townships follow:

Holt — $75.00; Holt Township — $150.00; Excel — $150.00; East Valley $35.00.

This March campaign will be the only Red Cross campaign in 1943, the National chapter has decreed. The War Fund Appeal takes the place of the former Roll Call which was usually conducted in November and as a result, contributions will also accord individuals with Red Cross memberships for the year.

There is no organization that does so much and asks so little as does the American Red Cross. This organization is following your boy wherever he may be in the service of our country and is doing for him what we ourselves would like to do if we were in his presence. Give cheerfully and give liberally. Who knows, it may be your boy or your neighbor's boy that will be benefitted from your donation.

268 Get Ration Book No. 2

The registration completed last week end on a nation-wide scale, was completed at the Holt High school with the issuing of 268 No. 2 War Ration books Very little stocking up of canned goods was reported. In a great number of instances fewer than the allowed number were reported on hand. In many cases no cans were on hand and in no case did anyone in this community have a surplus amount

The board therefore is proud to report that no blue point stamps needed to be removed fram any book issued. In a very few cases coffee stamps were removed because of excess supply on hand November 28, 1942.

Many of the roads around here were entirely snow blocked on Monday morning after the heavy week end storms.

Card Of Thanks

I wish to extend my thanks for the visits, letters, cards, cut flowers and gifts I have received while here at the hospital. I enjoy the plant given me by the church choir and the Concordia Hymnal presented on my birthday from the Nazareth Ladies Aid. They mean so much to me. Thanks to Rev. Hanson for his many comforting visits.

May God Bless You All.

United States Army Nurses in North Africa

The first U. S. army nurses to arrive in North Africa are shown at work and at leisure here. In picture at right three American nurses set off in a bicycle taxi to see Algiers, and create quite a stir among the natives. Left to right they are Lieuts. Doris Gressel, Herkimer, N. Y.; Margaret Farrell, Paterson, N. J.; and Florence Christman, Kregesville, Pa. At the left, Lieut. Betty Eggiman of Rochester, N. Y., takes the temperature of Sergt. Leonard Krenzke of Racine, Wis., who is obviously pleased to receive the ministrations of an American army nurse.

German and Italian Prisoners Not Too Unhappy

The brighter side for enemy soldiers is to be taken as war prisoners, as is apparent in this picture. Shown on the left are smiling Italian prisoners who realize that the war and all its horrors are over for them. They are on their way to a prison camp for the duration. On the right, German prisoners from a U-boat don't seem to be too unhappy over their plight. Perhaps they are thinking of food, shelter and comparative safety.

Stacking the Deck on the Axis

At an air operational station in England, an American ordnance crew stacks bombs in one of the scores of ammunition dumps at the station—stacking the deck on the Nazis, as it were. The big busters are taken from the truck by means of a small crane. In this working party are, left to right, Master Sergeant Warren E. Gray of Export, Pa.; Private Hubert Blessinger of Huntingsburg, Ind.; and Sergt. Alex Balacki of Rochester, N. Y.

His Gun Blazes in Raid Over Tunis

Calm, but with determined accuracy, waist-gunner Robert L. Doremus controls his blazing gun as he directs fire at enemy planes. This action took place when Flying Fortresses accompanied by the deadly P-38s bombed Tunis in one of the biggest air raids on the Tunisian front. Twenty-year-old Doremus of Henrietta, Okla., hero of the operation, kept his guns going all the time.

The World Food Problem

By Herbert Hoover

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

There are more Horsemen that follow modern war than at the time the Apocalypse was written. In modern total war, Famine and Pestilence are accompanied by four new recruits—whose names are Revolution, Unemployment, Suspicion and Hate. These additional destroyers make the job harder to manage.

That there is and will be famine in this world of today, needs little demonstration. Already 148,000,000 people in the occupied democracies in Europe and Asia are short of food; millions of them are actually starving, and our Allies are obviously running on very short rations.

The Nazis' food supply is sufficient for their evils of today. They are working hordes of prisoners on the farms and robbing some of the occupied territories. But their internal production will grow worse as the war goes on and there is less to steal from the subjected peoples.

In fact, the whole of Europe will continue to degenerate in domestic food supply. The reasons for that are simple enough: Europe in peacetime—and by Europe I mean Britain and all of Europe excluding Russia—has to import large amounts of food for human beings. That is now cut off by the blockade, except to Britain, and some small amounts to the neutral countries.

Decline in Field Crops.

On top of this, under the pressure of total war, field crops decline year by year. Manpower and horsepower are increasingly drained to the war; farm implements cannot be replaced; fertilizers are diverted to explosives; planting is less effective, and harvesting less perfect. Also, the animals in Europe are in considerable degree dependent upon imported feed. In consequence of the blockade, some part of the dairy and breeding herds must be slaughtered early in total war, and domestic feed for the remaining animals decreases because more fields must be turned to direct food for humans—and still more of the flocks and herds must be slaughtered.

In the last war, the principal food animals of Europe—cattle, hogs and sheep—decreased by over 70,000,000 head, and that is again taking place. The invaluable chicken vanishes, and fishing is greatly diminished. Thus the stream of animal products steadily decreases. To all this must be added the ravages of armies and scorched-earth policies.

Nor will famine this time be limited to Europe, for these causes are also working in Asia and Russia.

It is difficult for Americans to picture widespread hunger or starvation. We have not had such a thing in America.

What Starvation Means.

Nation-wide hunger and starvation mean grim suffering, incalculable grief over wilting children, physical degeneration, stunted growth, distorted, embittered minds and death. Its lasting effect is one of degree and time. Adults can recuperate from months of undernourishment. Children can stand less. In fact, the undersized, rickets, and the death rate among children are the sensitive barometers of starvation. Not even during our Civil war was there a town or city where these effects reached one-tenth of what they are in certain cities of the occupied democracies at this moment.

From all food shortages comes the danger of pestilence. People do not often die directly from starvation. Their resistance is weakened and they fall easy prey to contagions. Moreover, people consume their available fat supplies and have little or none left for soap. Uncleanliness invites such scourges as typhus—which is transmitted by body lice.

There is another vital peril in this question. Unless these masses of people in scores of nations can have food and be protected from pestilence, there can be no social or political or spiritual stability upon which peace can be built.

We had a parallel experience with this problem after the First World war. In that famine, America bore the major load of supplies, finance and administration. Except for American food preparedness there would then have been the greatest sacrifice of human life in all history.

That America succeeded in its task is evidenced by grateful statements of every government in Europe.

No nation had ever undertaken such a mission before. We had to pioneer through the thickets and swamps of governmental, social, financial and economic problems, including human nature in the raw. From that experience, we can make some estimate as to the need next time, the source of supplies, and the strategy and tactics necessary to defeat both famine and pestilence and to set millions upon the road back to strength and health.

The size of the problem is partly indicated by the number of human beings who will be in some degree short of food. After the First World war, 28 nations outside of Russia were involved. They comprised over 375,000,000 people.

After the present war these numbers will apparently be increased by 15 or 20 millions, and this time Russia and China must be added.

In the last war, defeated Russia, with roughly 140,000,000 people, was famine-stricken in certain areas. We made an effort to furnish food but Russia refused relief.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Rubber ball sports, baseball, football, tennis, etc., really had their beginning back in the 16th century. Someone has reported that in 1520 Emperor Montezuma entertained Cortez and his soldiers in Mexico City with a game played with rubber balls.

Overloading and over-inflation are two rubber wasting practices most common with motor truck operators.

Plantation rubber had its beginning in 1876 when Henry Wickham had planted in the Kew Botanic Gardens in London some of the 7,000 Hevea brasiliensis seeds he had smuggled out of the jungles of Brazil. A few years later trees were transplanted to the Far East.

A car traveling on packed snow at 20 mph when braked will travel 79 feet before coming to a stop if it is not equipped with anti-skid chains on the rear wheels. Attachment of chains will stop the car traveling under the same conditions in 40 feet.

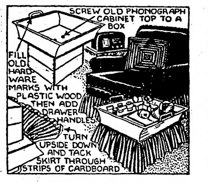
Half the time required for mending is usually taken up in getting everything together at a convenient time. This portable stand equipped and ready can be placed beside your easy chair in a jiffy with everything handy to make mending for victory a pleasant task.



SCREW OLD PHONOGRAPH CABINET TOP TO A BOX
FILL OLD HARDWARE MARKS WITH PLASTIC WOOD THEN ADD DRAWER HANDLES
TURN UPSIDE DOWN AND TACK SKIRT THROUGH STRIPS OF CARDBOARD

If you can't find a pair of old metal drawer handles there are many designs at the dime stores made of composition and wood. The lid may be painted or stained as desired and the box will be masked by the full skirt tacked to the under part of the lid edge. If you wish to line the upper part, cut pieces of cardboard to fit the sides and bottom. Cover these with chintz; add a strip of belting ribbon to the side sections, catching it down to make holders for equipment; then glue the sections in place.

Tunisia Upset Slows Yank Timetable; Japs Open 7-Pronged Offensive to Knock China Completely Out of War; Axis Spokesmen Try Peace 'Feelers'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

A wounded U. S. soldier struck during a heavy air attack by German planes on the airfield at Souk el Arba in Algeria is shown being comforted by a comrade-in-arms. The airfield was originally captured by U. S. paratroopers.

TUNISIAN TIMETABLE:

Delayed by Rommel

General Eisenhower had had his choice of fighting decisive engagements on ground offered him by Marshal Rommel or on terrain of his own choosing. That he had preferred the latter was indicated by the fact that he was not drawn into a major battle when the Nazis pushed American troops out of the Tunisian area between Sidi Bou Zid and Gafsa into the foothills bordering Tebessa, Algeria.

While the Tunisian reverse was not a catastrophe, it was nevertheless a punishing setback that meant considerable further delay in liquidating the Axis in Africa and moving on to the vastly bigger job of getting at Europe. The situation was brightened somewhat by reports that the veteran British Eighth army had rolled up from the south and had engaged Rommel's attention.

The loss of three advance airfields and three forward positions by the American forces was costly. Superior weight and mechanical equipment, plus gruelling battle experience was the explanation for the Nazi success. The new German 60-ton Mark tanks had proved too strong for the 28-ton American tanks. The Nazis, moreover, had caught the Americans with their lines too thinly held.

In Washington Secretary of War Stimson said that American forces, outnumbered and outarmed have suffered "sharp reverses and substantial casualties."

BLACK MARKETS:

Gangsters Reap Riches

How to combat the black markets in meat products which were skyrocketing retail prices, menacing the supply for military and lend-lease purposes and endangering the future existence of small packers was a problem that had congress as well as agricultural officials worried.

As reports persisted that gangsters had turned their unscrupulous talents into this highly profitable illegal trade, two suggestions were made by the OPA to the house small business committee, for solving the problem. One was for the government to purchase live animals. The other was for a registration of every person who sells or handles meat.

FRENCH ARMADA:

To Strengthen Allies

Heartening news that 42 French warships, in addition to the four now undergoing repairs in American shipyards, would soon be fighting on the side of the United Nations was brought out by Vice Admiral Raymond Fenard, chief of the French naval mission to the United States.

Admiral Fenard said that two more battleships, six cruisers, an aircraft carrier, seven destroyers, 14 submarines and ten auxiliary craft would join the United Nations armada "soon, but I don't know when."

The naval leader said that the cruisers Gloire and Georges Leygues already are in action against the Axis.

PEACE OFFENSIVE:

Axis Tries Wedge

Long expected by Allied chancellories, the Axis peace offensive finally got under way. First feelers were extended by Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor. The next move came from Nazi Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels.

The theme of both Axis spokesmen was that the unprecedented Russian victories were as much a danger to Britain and America as to the Axis. Therefore why not a separate peace, so that Europe could be saved from the Bolshevik menace?

Quick to expose the spurious technique by which the enemy hopes to talk its way out of the consequences of impending defeat, was Elmer Davis, chief of the Office of War Information. "This pulls the whole matter into the open," he declared. "The Axis is trying to drive a wedge between Britain, the United States and their Allies."

CANNED MEAT:

Temporary Freeze

Making supplies of canned meats and canned fish last through the year was a problem causing many a headache in the Office of Food Administration. Stocks on dealers' shelves had dwindled ominously; housewives were on a buying spree. Result: the OPA suspended sales of canned salmon, tuna, shrimp, meat spreads and kindred products until at least March 28—the date on which meat rationing was expected to begin.

Meanwhile, housewives and corner grocerymen had begun to familiarize themselves with the point-rationing system governing the sale of canned fruits and vegetables, dried fruits, canned soups and canned baby foods.

JAP WAR THEATER:

Mme. Chiang Urges Speed

Even as Madame Chiang Kai-shek in Washington was calling for more decisive Allied blows against Japan, communiques from China revealed that the Japs had undertaken what was apparently a major effort to knock China out of the war.

The Jap offensive took the form of attacks in seven Chinese areas from above Shanghai to Yunan in the Southwest. The core of the drive had been directed along the old Burma road in Southwest Yunan.

Seeking to stir America to a greater understanding of Japan's menace to the Allies, Madame Chiang said it was contrary to the United Nations' interests to allow Japan "to continue not only as a potential enemy, but as a waiting sword of Damocles, ready to descend at a moment's notice."

Reports from Allied Pacific headquarters continued to reflect steady, if undramatic progress. In New Guinea, American and Australian jungle troops were pushing hard on the heels of Japs retreating from the Wau area toward Mubo on the outskirts of Salamau. In the air Liberator and Flying Fortress bombers continued attacks on Jap positions in Dutch New Guinea and New Britain.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

WASHINGTON: Col. Bernt Balchen, New York, famous for his Arctic exploits and now a member of the army air corps, has been awarded the Soldier's medal and Oak Leaf cluster, the war department announced. Balchen participated with two navy fliers in the rescue last June of a Flying Fortress crew in Greenland that had suffered a wilderness crackup.

CANBERRA: The Australian commonwealth issued a proclamation according the United States most favored nation treatment on tariffs. This action was taken without formal request from the United States. R. V. Keane, minister of trade and customs, said: "It is wrong that our principal ally, who has given us great material assistance, should remain on the punitive general tariff."

Not Gold . . but . .

THE FULL PRODUCTION OF MEN'S MINDS AND HANDS

Will Win the War!

EVEN the broken machinery on the scrap heap is needed more urgently today than gold!

The world needs airplanes . . . guns . . . ships . . . medicine . . . food. But these things cannot be delivered by gold alone. It takes the full production of men's minds and hands to do the job.

That's how the farmer is working today to attain maximum food production. The farmer is working unceasingly with his mind and his hands. To produce . . .

FOOD . . . as essential to our armies as ammunition!

FOOD . . . that will mean another allied nail in Hitler's coffin!

FOOD . . . that must sustain the workers in this arsenal of democracy!

FOOD . . . that can out-talk Herr Goebbels in a conquered nation!

To make it possible for the farmer to achieve 1943 food production goals:

The farmer needs manpower—to work long tedious hours, seven days a week, including holidays. Part-time work for the harvest helps only on some farms. The farmer needs machinery—in an adequate, if limited, supply.. The farmer needs a fair share of the American dollar—to meet the increased cost of labor, equipment and supplies.

No farmer expects an arms plant worker to turn out rifles without the machine tools to make precision parts.

No person should expect the farmer to produce food without the tools of production!

Remember: There is a farm problem. It's your problem. It is the most vital problem in America today. Airplanes come off production lines every minute. But it takes a year to grow a crop—three years to grow a cow! Nature decreed that few production rabbits can be pulled out of a farmer's hat!

This year, American farmers must meet the largest food goals in the history of the nation . . . with less help and equipment than ever before. But, God willing, they'll do it! They ask no favors; only a fair deal . . . honest public and legislative consideration of their problems—of America's problems—as they fight their daily battle to "win the war and write the peace."

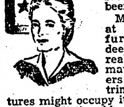
WOMEN AT WAR

Margaret

Margaret turned off the humming vacuum cleaner, and straightened the slipcovers of the armchair and the daybed that she had pushed up to go over the rug. Then she stood quite still in the doorway and looked at the small bedroom with its southern exposure. It was as neat and impersonal as a pin. It might never have been lived in. The door stood open on the clean, bare closet. There was not a pennant, not a team picture, not even so much as an old Arithmetic book left to show whose room it had once been.



Margaret stared at the walls, the furniture, and deeply, slowly, she realized that no matter what lodgers with their own trinkets and pictures might occupy it, she would always see it the old way. It was the old way that she saw it now. A pair of hard-worn gray pants lay on the floor where they had been dropped. Three baseball bats were stacked with a fishing rod in the corner. A battered red cap with a letter on it lay on the bed. And through the bed, as though it were transparent, Margaret saw another bed, smaller, and with high slatted sides.

She put the vacuum cleaner away and went down to her desk in the sitting-room. She took the fifteen dollars rent that the new lodger had paid that morning in advance for the room, and added to it, from her purse, three dollars and seventy-five cents more. Then she drew out a sheet of paper and began to write on it, slowly, gravely.

"To buy a bond to help train a young man to replace Don, Jr.—killed on June 6th in the Battle of Midway."

(Letter from an actual communication in the files of the Treasury Department.)

Six Cylinder Sentences

Better to have been born dumb than to speak unkindly.

Diluted truths do more harm than 100 per cent falsehoods.

Trust your intimate affairs to another and you will likely die eating crusts.

The only sure cure I have ever found for sorrow is resignation to the Higher Will.

Thank God each day for the sense of shame which nature put within us to reprove us of wrongdoing.

Holt School Notes

Grades 3, 4, 5

We enjoyed having the first and second graders walk through our room in their costumes. We thought Vernon Nelson was the funniest boy and LaRue Fricker the funniest girl.

The following had 100 in spelling last week: Robert Johnson, Dorothy Bottem, Betty Ness, Vernon Reierson and Evelyn Wegge.

In connection with our study of Egypt, the fourth grade is making a large map of North Africa. It pictures characteristic features such as oases and pyramids.

In music we have been studying the kinds of notes and rests. We have been putting measures after their correct meter signature. We find it helpful in learna new song.

We have bought enough sttmps to pay for 6 gas masks.

Upper Grades

The answer to the questions submitted by the pupils of our room in last weeks issue are as follows:

1. The study of animals is called "Zoology."
2. We got the "Statue of Liberty" from France.
3. A Chimpazee is blackish-brown in color.
4. The emblem of Canada is the Maple Leaf.

The moving picture "Sky Rider" was enjoyed by all.

The following moving picture films are scheduled for our school use. "One Point Landings" and "America Marches On", a 45 minute program, Friday, March 5. On Friday, March 12 we have a 45 minuse film tititled "South America-Past and Present." These films are a part of our regular visual education program.

Oliver Backlund, high school student, has been spending some of his spare time in our room experimenting with radio set building. Oliver completed a two-tube set which he tested last Monday evening. His first station was KMOX St. Louis.

Shirley Larson and Marion Sorum were the only to pupils to come thru with a perfect score in spelling for the week ending Feb. 26.

The upper grades and high school orchestra had practice at the school house Monday evening.

Miss Mildred Odie who has been visiting here at the John Olson nome for the past several weeks, returned to Duluth Sunday to take another course at the NYA school.

Save All The Dairy Females

The No. 1 food problem now confronting the Food Pproduction Administration and nation is that of an adequate milk supply, To obtain an adequate milk supply, all dairy females must be retained as milk producers and such animals must not be sold for slaughter.

Our demand for milk products greatly exceeds our present production. This demand is now constantly increasing and will continue to increase until the war is won. It is obvious, that the dairy cattle are now essential to the war effort and that no fairly good dairy animal should be diverted for slaughter. Until the war is won we shall need every good dairy female for the production of milk to meet the demands of our civilians, our armed forces and our allies. After the war the United States farmer may be called upon to supply foundation stock for the rehabilitation of the countries now devastated by war. It is of utmost importance that all ages of dairy females be retained as producers or for development into dairy cows. The sale of good type dairy heifer calves as veal should be discontinued. These calves are needed to meet the demand for dairy cows in the coming years.

Farm Security County Supervisors have now been instructed by the War Food Production Administration to round up all surplus dairy females which might be sold for slaughter and arrange for their purchase and distribution to other farmers who have facilities to properly handle them for maximum milk production or for development from calves to dairy cows. This dairy cattle purchasing and distribution program is well under way in some counties of the state. Hundreds of good dairy animals have thus been retained as milk producers.

Farmers in Marshall county who wish to buy or sell dairy females should contact Mr. Rosengren, County FSA Supervisor at courthouse in Warren, Mondays.

Annual Luther League Day

The annual "Luther League Day" was set for March 7, but since Norwegian services were conducted in Nazareth Lutheran Church last Sunday and since the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Nazareth Luther League falls on this Sunday, it was decided to observe "Luther League Day" on Sunday. The pastor, Rev. T. C. L. Hanson, will preach at the morning worship on the theme: "Young People Are Wanted". At this time, a special "Youth for Christ" Project will be received. Special envelopes will be placed in the pews for this purpose and those desiring to use the envelopes or give by loose collection to the local church may still do so. The "Youth for Christ" project serves many purposes. One of the added services rendered is the work done with the men in the Armed Services. While this organization is carrying on the noble work of "Winning and Holding Our Young People for Christ" on the home front, it has also extended its services by sending Bibles, Testaments, Service Prayer books, tracts and other devotional material to the men in service through the Lutheran Service Centers and Army Navy and Marine Chaplains.

This is a time when Christian Leaguers on the home front must be willing to deny themselves for the sake of Christ, His Church and His Luther League. Too often we relegate the Luther League to the left-over department of our energy, time and money. Now Christ calls for cross-bearing Luther Leaguers who mean business in His Church. This is time for work. We need to make every effort to place the entire youth program also on the hearts of the entire congregation so there gets to be a deep concern in the hearts of all our people for the spiritual welfare of our youth.

Red Cross Field Directors Solve Soldiers' Problems

Thousands of U. S. fighting men last year accepted the invitation to discuss their personal problems with Red Cross field directors who accompany troops to all parts of the world. This picture, taken in London, shows everyone happy after the field men had satisfactorily solved the problems of the two soldiers at the desk. Contributions to the Red Cross 1943 War Fund, now in progress, make this service possible.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The soldier stormed into the Red Cross office at a southern Army camp. His mouth was set in a hard, straight line; his eyes were cold, determined. His wife trailed him as he strode across the reception room; her face was red and swollen from crying. They were not over 22.

"I need help," the soldier told the Red Cross field director at the desk. "And I need it fast."

The Red Cross field director smiled, but the soldier did not return it. "All right, soldier, let's see what's the trouble."

"If I don't get help I'm going over the hill," he blurted. "I'm on alert now—due to move out almost any minute. But I'm not going—and leave my wife with no place to stay."

Further conversation developed that the young bride was an expectant mother. She was unable to go home because of her stepfather. Her husband had no relatives with whom she could stay. And the allotment he had made to his wife had not yet come through.

Two hours later—after much conversation and planning—the soldier was shaking the hand of the Red Cross field director.

The Red Cross man had arranged that the soldier's wife spend the night at the Army camp guest house. Preparations had been completed with a nearby Red Cross chapter for her transportation back home. The Red Cross chapter in the girl's home town had agreed to see that she had proper care until the baby was born. By that time the allotment would be coming through.

In every United States military establishment, at home and abroad, the American Red Cross maintains a field director and staff to help Uncle Sam's fighting men work out such personal problems. More than 1,000,000 servicemen passed through the offices of the Red Cross field directors last year. Their problems covered all phases of life—families needing financial aid, allotments, illnesses, deaths, loss of contact with the home folks. These and other problems are unfolded in a never-ending panorama before Red Cross field directors. Almost always they are solved.

The Red Cross field director is ready to furnish information, counsel, and assistance as needed to men of the armed forces. Reaching into every county in the United States through local Red Cross chapters, these workers and local home service chairmen act on behalf of the men of the armed forces and their families in matters affecting the welfare of either or both.

In addition to the servicemen aided by field directors, more than 500,000 families of men in the service received help through Red Cross chapters and branches.

Contributions of the American people to the Red Cross during the $125,000,000 War Fund appeal now in progress will help to keep and expand these services to the nation's fighting men.

Varied and often unusual are the other demands made of Red Cross field directors. Field Director William Fluharty, stationed in a remote Australian area, traveled down to a railroad junction to bring back 6,000 pounds of American magazines for troops to which he was assigned. Returning on a train, he was asked to help deliver a baby for a native woman, belatedly en route to a hospital.

Red Cross Field Director Albert S. Campbell and two assistants, David S. Oman and John J. Clandy, Jr., distributed clothes, cigarettes, soap, razors, tooth brushes, playing cards and other articles to American fighters during one of the most furious Solomon Islands battles.

Whatever the welfare and personal problems of American fighters at home or abroad, the field director, backed up by 3,755 Red Cross chapters and 6,000 branches, is the serviceman's best friend in time of need.

Start With Well Bred Chicks

Half of the six million chicks that die annually in Minnesota could be saved if poultry raisers would follow a few simple precautions, says conty agent R. A. Reierson. Time for taking these precautions is at the beginning of the chick season.

Of first importance, according to Cora Cooke, poultry specialist at University Farm, is getting good chicks from tested flocks. Heavy death losses from pullorm disease, ranging from 30 to 90 per cent, may be avoided by purchasing baby chicks from pullorum-tested flocks.

Chicks should also be secured from flocks with good egg production records, she says. Though these chicks will be more expensive, at present prices the increase in egg production will more than pay for the slightly increased cost of the official grade certified chicks Another tip to semember when buying chicks, says Miss Cooke, is to get all of the same breed.

To save transportation, chicks should be bought as near home as possible. Miss Cooke stresses the importance of ordering at once and through hatcheries under supervision of the Minnesota Poultry Improvement board. A list of these hatcheries may be obtained by writing Poultry Improvement Board, State Office Building, St. Paul.

Remember The Red Cross

The biggest Red Cross drive in all history of Marshall County swung into full stride on Wednesday when over 150 volunteer workers from all over the county took up the work of soliciting the county quota of $5,200 for the War Fund Appeal.

Never in all history had the Red Cross been called upon to send so much relief to many lands and its up to us all here at home to give to this great cause. Remember that we now have many of our own boys in foreign lands that may need the relief given by the Red Cross. Let's oversubscribe the county quota.

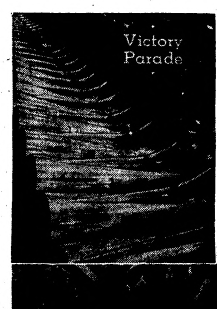
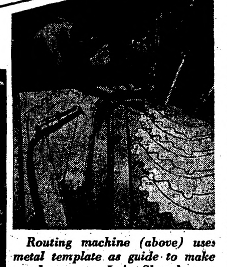
FLYING FORTRESS
Symbol of American Might

The Flying Fortress has covered itself with glory in this war. It can fight through to a target and back again—dish it out and "take it."

From great factories Flying Fortresses are coming off the assembly line in ever-increasing volume. The big Boeing bombers are now being made in two other plants—Douglas and Vega—as well as at the company's own huge factories.

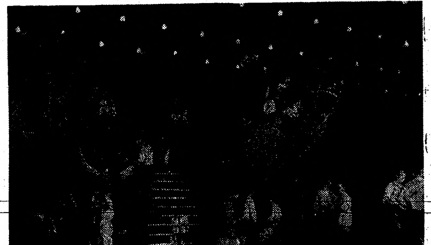




Routing machine (above) uses metal template as guide to make wood patterns. Left: Sharply protruding dorsal fin gives name "Dragon's Teeth" to row of rear sections.

The engines shown above are awaiting installation in Flying Fortresses. With their nine huge air-cooled cylinders they represent work by factories all over America, and contain rare metals collected from many parts of the world. Shown at right is the belly turret. This adjunct to the flying Fortress has stopped many an Axis plane. A gunner on the rotating cage controls the fire of two heavy .50 caliber machine guns.

The Flying Fortress was among the first major contributions of the United States to United Nations warfare against the Axis. It first demonstrated its striking power against the Japanese navy with the sinking of the battleship Haruna, and has since become a vital part of the war.



Pictured above is the final assembly of the Flying Fortress. Center section and wings have now been mated for the big four-motor bombers, and the plane receives finishing touches prior to the first flight.

NO SEWING machine should be idle today. No matter if yours is not the newest model, keep it in good repair and include it in your decorating scheme. This sketch shows how one was fitted into a living room to look very smart and to do extra duty as a table.

Plywood or composition board may be used for the removable top, (see sketch). The top cover is of blue felt with a scalloped band stitched around it. This is quick and easy to do as it is not necessary to finish raw edges of felt. The full skirt is made of the best part of old sheets dyed a soft ecru tone. This is sewn to the seam allowance of the felt and all is tacked to the back of the removable top so that it may be removed easily. A pair of kitchen stools are painted cream color and topped with blue felt for lamp stands. Scalloped felt also trims the lamp shades and the cover of an old side chair to match the table.

'Adam's Footprint'

On a rock on Adam's Peak in Ceylon, a footlike impression, five feet by two feet, is the object of an age-old dispute among the adherents of three great religions, says Collier's. The Buddhists claim it was made by Buddha, the Hindus claim it was made by their god Siva, and the Mohammedans claim it was made by Adam when he stood there for two centuries, to atone for his sin in the Garden of Eden.

Our Prisons Are Doing Part in Defeating Axis

American prisons are now producing millions of dollars worth of war materials, says Collier's. Air-raid sirens are being made at San Quentin; shirting for the navy at the Alabama state prison; bomb parts at the federal penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa.; and cartridge belts at the reformatory for women in Alderson, W. Va.

Even large patrol boats for the army are being built entirely by the inmates at McNeil Island.

Railroads Return Steel

For every hundred tons of new steel purchased by American railroads today, 80 tons of iron and steel scrap go back to the mills from this industry.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Scientists have determined that rubber latex as it drips from the trees is about 60 per cent water, 28 per cent chemically pure rubber, the balance resins, minerals, proteins and sugars.

Clothing made water-proof by the use of rubber was being sold in England as early as 1791.

Beads of the five and ten cents variety have a stronger influence than ordinary currency in encouraging the Yumbo Indians of Ecuador's Oriente jungle to haul rubber out from the waters of the Amazon. Next to beads, guns and machetes put the "go" in the Yumbo.

The first rubber to be imported into the U. S. was in the form of water bottles. They came direct from the Amazon district.

A full grown Hevea rubber tree averages 30 to 60 feet in height and its average life is 40 years or more.

RUSSIAN SOCIALISM WANES

The Russians are doing more than reversing the direction of Nazi military movement. They are also reversing certain important political and social directions.

Americans in Russia now report the reappearance of shoulder insignia on the officers of the Red army—for the first time since the dark days of the Revolution.

In those days, officers who supported the Bolshevik movement tore the epaulets from their uniforms as a mark of democracy. Those who failed to do so were regarded as enemies of the Revolution, and in some extreme cases, mobs attacked them, drove nails through the epaulets into their shoulders.

There is also a change in official awards or decorations, indicating that Bolshevik scorn for heroes of the past is vanishing. Three of the most coveted decorations of the Soviet Union today are the award of "Nevski," who was a 13th century prince, and the awards of "Suvorov" and "Kutuzov," who were Czarist generals at the time of Napoleon.

Also the St. George's cross, which would have been torn from the breast of the wearer a few years ago, has made its reappearance at official functions.

The U. S. public has the impression of modern Russians as dressed in coarse, formless clothing, but reports from the USSR today state that Red army officers dress with such punctilio as to make American officers look shabby by comparison.

LITTLE AID TO CHINA

Just back from Chungking, General "Hap" Arnold, chief of the air forces, gave a glowing report to Secretary of War Stimson regarding Chinese resourcefulness in battling the Japs. He was amazed and full of praise for Chinese ingenuity in repairing planes, landing in cow pastures and conserving fuel.

As far as General Arnold is concerned he would like to send the Chinese a lot more planes—though in the past he has not been too keen about it. (Incidentally, one reason for sending him to China was to win him over to the Chinese cause.)

However, despite Madame Chiang Kai-shek's graceful appearance here, despite Hap Arnold's enthusiasm, despite the President's public statements, China is not going to get anything much in the way of supplies.

Reasons Listed.

Reasons are: (1) the impossibility of opening the Burma road now with the monsoon season only a few weeks off; (2) the absolute necessity of cleaning up Africa and preparing for a drive against Hitler in Europe; (3) Chinese political dissension which requires too many aims for personal armies.

Some war weapons will be flown over the Himalayas, but not much more than in the past.

SECRET RUML PLAN VOTE

The vote of the house ways and means committee on the Ruml plan was secret, but inside fact is it never had a chance of getting more than five votes.

The flood of mail reaching committee members, at first favorable, turned round and showed conclusively that the country was against outright postponement of taxes. Underlying sentiment expressed in the mail was that although high taxes hurt, it was unfair to postpone too much of the war cost to the next generation.

Also the committee became more and more convinced that the Ruml plan was largely cooked up for the benefit of top bracket incomes, and if taxes were forgiven one year, it would mean shifting a much greater burden to lower income groups to make up the deficit.

This, they concluded, was just what Mr. Ruml's war wealthy clients wanted.

CURE FOR TYPHUS

By way of London has come word that the Germans have evolved a cure for the dread disease typhus. If so, it is a discovery meaning the lives of thousands of men in the eastern front. In 1914 "General Typhus" was responsible for more lives than machine gun fire, and from time to time it has ravaged the Balkans, Russia and eastern Europe ever since.

The German cure was discovered by a Dr. Van Meerdock and is a combination of atebrin and plasmochin. U. S. Public Health officials have their fingers crossed regarding the cure, but British medical circles seem to be favorably impressed.

Victor Herbert could write two scores at the same time, turning from one to the other, as they were spread out before him. He could also, between afternoon and evening performances, tear off an orchestral composition and have it rehearsed well enough to be played at the evening performance.

In Crimean War There Were 'Horse Marines'

"Horse Marines" is an expression supposed to have originated in England. It means, as you know, stupid or impossible persons. When the present corps of British marines was formed in 1775, officers came from the half-pay lists of all sorts of army units, including cavalry regiments. And the idea of a cavalryman serving on the deck of a ship undoubtedly amused irreverent folk who started the expression.

In the Crimean war a certain Captain Brock actually did mount his marines when he was facing Cossacks.

The British marine corps antedates our marine corps, which was formed by the Continental congress on November 10, 1775.

Help your Grocer

Let's Get Behind Him and Make Rationing a Success—Start Now to use more of the plentiful NON-RATIONED FOODS

THE man who runs your grocery store has his headaches these days. For months, in the face of shortages and lack of experienced help, he's been trying to carry on . . . trying to give you the kind of service you've always expected of him.

Now he has a brand new problem—point rationing. He has to collect the stamps from you as well as the cash.

It's a burden for him—sure—and for you. But he knows and you know that it's got to be done. It's the only fair way of making sure that everybody gets a fair share. That's our way of doing things.

So it's his job—and your job—everybody's job—to make point rationing work . . . as smoothly, as efficiently as possible. Traffic jams in food stores aren't going to help anybody.

☆ ☆ ☆

Now there are a number of ways in which you can give this grocer of yours a real hand . . . in a good, neighborly American way. You can shop early in the day, early in the week. You can shop as infrequently as possible—once a week only, if you can manage. You can always make sure to have a shopping list, and to have your "point values" added up before you go to the store.

And you can help yourself as well as your grocer by using the plentiful, non-rationed foods as much as you can, instead of the scarce, rationed foods. Foods such as cereals, fresh fruits and vegetables, home-cooked soups, home-canned fruits and vegetables are not rationed and they deserve an important place in your wartime meals.

☆ ☆ ☆

Because cereals are one of these abundant unrationed foods, we here at the Kellogg factory in Battle Creek have been doing everything we possibly can to meet the unprecedented demand for our products. We're sending millions upon millions of packages of crisp Kellogg Cereals to the boys in our armed forces. We're packing K-ration for troops in the front line of fighting. Even our machine shop is making gun parts! And we're short of help, too. There are 423 stars on the big service flag hanging in the lobby of the Kellogg building.

Other ways to help your Grocer...

1. Shop early in the day.
2. Shop early in the week.
3. Shop only once or twice a week.
4. Prepare a shopping list.
5. Add up total "point" values before going to the store.

But in spite of these wartime difficulties, we've doubled our efforts to be sure that we can supply Kellogg Cereals to the millions of American families who are depending on cereals more than ever.

☆ ☆ ☆

Always famous for marvelous flavor, every Kellogg Cereal is made of WHOLE GRAIN or is restored to WHOLE GRAIN NUTRITIVE VALUES through the addition of thiamin (vitamin B₁), niacin and iron. With milk alone, or with milk and fruit, a bowl of crisp, delicious Kellogg Cereal gives you vitamins, minerals, protein, food-energy in one dish!

And remember this about cereals in your daily meals. They're quick and easy to prepare. No cooking, no pans or skillets to clean up. Even the dishes are easier to wash.

Cereals save time—work—fuel—other foods. Used in hamburger, meat-loaves, croquettes, etc., they help you stretch your meat . . . and they make milk go farther, too.

Think of cereals as one of your best, most nutritious, non-rationed foods and think of Kellogg Cereals as the finest you can buy.

FROM O.P.A. CONSUMER INSTRUCTION SHEET

"EAT MORE CEREALS—There is an abundance of cereals and, as you know, they are mighty economical. They are nourishing and delicious—what's more, cereals can be used to stretch your rations when mixed with vegetables and fruits."

TRIM SHIP FOR ACTION!

We are engaged in a war to save our American tradition of liberty and opportunity for ourselves and our children. Our leaders have committed us to become the arsenal of democracy; to furnish food for our allies; through our lend-lease to help finance the Allied war machine and, finally, to raise and equip an army of some 10 million men.

Any one of these jobs is a tremendous undertaking. We are thousands of miles from the theater of war, and this involves tremendous problems of transportation. All of these jobs together will tax every resource of the United States. Already we face rationing and priorities in our materials and acute shortage of manpower, and a burden of taxes which indicates our financial resources are strained to the utmost.

Of a certainty, we must have complete unity if we are to do this job, and face the postwar future with hope and confidence.

American industry, agriculture and finance must use to the maximum the productive power, initiative and intelligence latent in every American.

No Time or Place for Drones

There must be no drones hidden away on public payrolls, engaged in peacetime experiments which are useless under the emergency of war. Every branch of our military service is devoted to the sole purpose of fighting and winning this war. Our government, both local, state and national, should inspire and lead in the support our civilian population gives to the war effort. Unnecessary civic expenditures, surplus payrollers, useless economic and social experiments have no place in a war emergency.

The new Congress is tackling this job with a will and a purpose. Those Congressmen are our representatives and we, the people, should support them to the limit. Right now they are trying to bring some order and efficiency in the prevention of excessive profits in war contracts by the Army, Navy and Maritime commission. The present law, passed by the old Congress, provides for a "renegotiation" of their war contracts by each department.

New Bureaus Not Needed

There are over three million of these contracts. Not more than 5 per cent will show any excessive profits after taxes have been paid. The ordinary man on the street would say that the Internal Revenue Department can easily discover any excess profit from any war contract. Certainly we can use the manpower that would be wasted to much better advantage in other places.

We, the people, want Congress to adopt the most direct, efficient and economical method of doing this job. None of us believes in excess profits on war contracts. There are ceiling prices on most things we produce. Now let's get at the job of cutting down unnecessary civic expenditures and cutting unnecessary payrollers off the payroll.

Holt School Notes

Grades 3, 4, 5

The following had 100 in spelling last week: Betty Ness, Ruth Larson, Dorothy Sagstuen, Arthur Peterson, Harold Ness and George Fricker.

The fourth grade has finished its study of Minnesota History. Stories have been written about Minnesota's riches. The following story, written by Ruth Larson is one of the best.

Why I Am Proud of Minnesota

Minnesota is a great state, because it has so much that other states do not have.

At one time Minnesota was the greatest state for lumber. At another time Minnesota was the leading state in raising wheat.

Minnesota has many more lakes than any other state. These lakes bring many tourists here to spend their vacation, and they like to fish.

We use our forests for many things. We get lumber, furs and many other things. We are proud of our forests.

Minnesota is first in iron. We are glad that we have so much iron when it is war, because we can make so many things from it.

There are three great river systems in Minnesota. One of these is the Mississippi River which starts at Lake Itasca. We have more waterways than most states have.

Our state has many wonderful schools too.

Minnesota has many good citizens. They have fought in other wars, and are doing their part now too. I think they should be counted among Minnesota's riches too.

I am proud of Minnesota for all these reasons.

Upper Grades

Jean Wegge was absent from school all last week due to illness.

Glenn Peterson, Delores Sandberg, Shirley Larson and Marion Sorum hod a perfect record in spelling for the week ending March 5.

The sixth grade pupils have been making posters to advertise the movies which we have been showing in school. The film "East of Borneo" will be shown March 26. This is the latest addition to our schedule. This is a jungle picture with a picturesque tropical setting and an adventure story starring Charles Bickford. Borneo you will remember is one of the islands in the Dutch East Indies, where some of our Pacific fighting has been done. Therefore, it should prove very educational as well as entertaining.

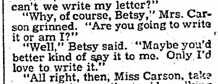
Due to the inclement weather Thursday, no school buses were able to travel their regular routes Friday morning and as a result our attendance Friday was rather limited.

The girls in our room have started a sewing class. Most of them are showing a great deal of skill. We expect to have some of their work on display in our room after a while.

The sixth grade completed their first text book in History on Monday

Irvin Larson is now qualified for a merit badge in "Scholarihip" which is part of his Boy Scout work. He is making an application for the scholarship which he hopes to obtain.

Several Holt fans attended the sub-district basketball tournement at Newfolden on Friday evening.



Betsy

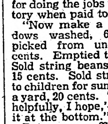
The little girl tugged gently at her mother's sleeve

"Now, Mother?" she asked. "Now can't we write my letter?"

"Why, of course, Betsy," Mrs. Carson grinned. "Are you going to write it or am I?"

"Well," Betsy said. "Maybe you'd better kind of say it to me. Only I'd love to write it."

"All right, then, Miss Carson, take a letter," her mother said, walking slowly up and down the room. "Ready? 'Dear Mr. Morgenthau: The way I save money for War Stamp buying is to steer all the small household jobs toward my daughter, who is eight years old. She is so keen about buying War Stamps that I know all the money I might have paid to someone else for doing the jobs will go toward Victory when paid to her.'



"Now make a list, Betsy. 'Windows washed, 60 cents. Apples picked from under the tree, 25 cents. Emptied trash cans, 4 cents. Sold string beans from the garden, 15 cents. Sold strips of spoiled film to children for sungazing, at one cent a yard, 20 cents. Total, $1.24. Yours helpfully, I hope,'—and then I'll sign it at the bottom."

Betsy was puffing like a grampus from her labors. The tall, painstaking letters tottered bravely across the sheet of paper. Gravely Mrs. Carson took the pen to sign.

"Mother, would it be the proper etiquette if I signed it too?"

"Perfectly proper, I think," Mrs. Carson said without a smile, and handed the pen back to Betsy.

Bought Amplifying System

One of the largest attendances in the history of the Nazareth Lutheran Church Men's Brotherhood was present at the Church Parlors on Tuesday evening of last week. Mr. Carl B. Vogen, Manager of the Mud Lake Wild Life Refuge was the guest speaker who gave a inspiring, illuminating and interesting talk. Pictures were shown by Julien Meyer. O. T. Ness, chairman, presided at the business meeting. Following the suggestion made by the past treasurer, Mr. Alton Carlson, it was decided to combine the offise of treasurer with that of the secretary. Mr. Julien J. Meyer is now the Secretary-Treasurer. It was also decided to buy an Amplifying System for the church to be used for church, school and community affairs. A free-will offering was inaugurated instead of the usual 10c for lunch. A list of subscriptions was passed around for those desiring to contribute to the amplifying system which amounted to about $35.00. The lunch collection was about $9.00. On Wednesday, the Amplifier Purchasing Committee consisting of O. T. Ness, Frederick Voth and Julien Meyer, accompanied by Rev. Hanson, drove to Thief River Falls and placed the order.

The type ordered is a 20 Watt combination 110 volt and 6 volt amplifier with two 12 inch speakess and one microphone. It is a postable system that can be placed anywhere and can be used with the regular current in town or with an ordinary 6 volt storage battery out in the country. With the fine subscription list, the evening collection and the balance in the treasury, it will be possible for the Brotherhood to pay cash for this system when it arrives. This amplifying system will be a fine thing on overcrowded occasions in the church and school or outdoor events in the village or country. Mr. Julien Meyer and Rev. Hanson were the hosts for the occasion.

Lawrence Tobiason arrived here on Monday from an Army Camp in Kansas. He was in the over 38 years old class who was discharged to work on a farm to help out in the war effort.

Iver Larson who has spent the past few years here with the Great Northern Ry. has resigned his position with the company and is planning on going on the Alaska Highway job.

Miss Mattson Joined WAVES

Miss Phyllis Matson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Matson of Crookston, left for the naval recruiting headquarters in Minneapolis, where she will be sworn in as a WAVE. Miss Matson, graduate of the dental hygenist course at the University of Minnesota, will be assigned to this duty in the WAVES service, releasing an enlisted man from pharmacist's mate duty.

Miss Matson has been recently employed at Davenport, Iowa, as a dentist's assistant. The Matson family are former Holt residents.

Light Vote Cast In Township

Only thirty votes were cast at the Holt Township election held on Tuesday of last week. Those elected to office at this time were: E. O. Waagedahl, Supervisor; Carl Johnson, Treasurer and Oliver Grondahl, Assessor. Officers of the township holding over are: L. F. Larson and Willie Larson, Supervisors and T. B. Folden, Clerk.

Women AT WAR

Irene

When Irene got home from the airplane factory she was good and tired. This was the hour, after work and before dinner, that she always looked forward to. Her private name for it was "My sissy hour." Into it, these days, she packed all the lazy, luxurious little things she loved—things that used to take up a lot more than an hour of her peace-time days.

She sat down at the little desk in her room. You could tell quite a lot about Irene from that desk. The water-glass filled with the small bouquet of flowers she sometimes bought on the way home. The paper-weight of pink marble. The thin, crackly blue air-mail stationery. And the big, framed photograph of a young man in a corporal's uniform—as good-looking a man as Irene was pretty. On the blotter pad lay the telegram that had come that morning just as she was leaving for work.

With those long, well-shaped fingers she reached for a sheet of paper. She nibbled the end of her pen for a bit, and then she wrinkled up her nose at the picture of the soldier and began to write, "Dear Mr. Morgenthau", but the corporal's name was Jackson and she called him Pete. Her round handwriting spread across the page. "My boy friend is with the A.E.F. in Ireland. He has cabled me fifty dollars with which to buy a diamond ring. I've been thinking it over and decided to buy a War Bond to help Uncle Sam instead. This may help to bring my boy friend home sooner, and then he can help me select my ring."

Slowly she began to sign her name. "Irene ——"

Give More To The Red Cross

The Red Cross War Relief Fund for 1943 solicitations will begin in the village of Holt the latter part of this week, according to Rev. T. C. L. Hanson, local chairman for the Red Cross. The Red Cross is known as the "Greatest Mother on Earth." Its scope is world-wide mercy. It constantly stands ready to aid those in distress due to disaster or enemy action. It has moved swiftly to meet its unprecedented war-time task at home and also abroad. The Red Cross serves as the connecting link between our armed forces and their families. Wherever our troops may go, there too goes your Red Cross. And always it occupies a vital role on the health and accident prevention fronts in our community.

For America's Sons--Service to our Armed Forces at home and abroad, to their families, to our prisoners of war is a primary Red Cross obligation. It serves as a line of communication everywhere. There may be something one would like to do for these men but restrictions make this impossible. One possible indirect method of assisting them is a liberal contribution to the Red Cross.

For the Home Front — Service in disaster, enemy action, epidemic or other community emergency is a Red Cross responsibility. It aids with food, shelter, clothing, medical care and training to protect the Home Front.

The quota for the village of Holt is $75.00. This means that if the village is to raise its quota, it must raise the total amount of the Roll Call in 1941 and 1942 War Relief. Or, each contributor should give 2 or 3 times the amount he gave at the last drive. Visualizing humanity's crying need forhelp, it should not be an undue burden upon anyone to give liberally to the Red Cross. Each one of us who is called upon to give are among the fortunate who do not need the help of the Red Cross.

Assisting in the village soliciting are: Marian Backlund, Irene Ness, Silvia Sandberg, Marguerite Lee, Kay Gorden, Duane Larson and Marvin Larson. The township chairmen and quotas for the surrounding townships are: New Solum twp., Emil Anderson, chairman, with quota of $125.00; Holt twp., E. O. Waagedahl, chairman, quota $150.00; Excel twp., Gust Hillyer chairman, quota $150.00; East Valley, twp., John A. Sorum chairman, quota $35.00.

If it is impossible for some homes to be contacted by the solicitors due to blocked roads or weather conditions, arrangements have been made so that contributions can be left with Miss Caroline Aspelin at the Marshall County State Bank in Holt or with Rev. T. C. L. Hanson. Out-of-the-village contributors will be given credit for their township with the money given to Miss Aspelin or Rev. Hanson.

Giving a liberal amount to the Red Cross will be only a small contribution to easing human distress when one consider what the millions of men in the Armed Services are giving for the future welfare of our nation. Give to your Chapter's War Fund and help lessen the human problems growing out of War.

[illegible] Week In The Legislature

[illegible] down the stretch on the last half of their session, members of the Minnesota Legislature came to grips this past week on a wide range of controversial measures and made some approach toward a decision on a number of the sharper issues that have agitated the house and senate.

Highlighted among activities of the Legislature for the week were.

1. The house passed a bill sponsored by rural members, providing for submission of a constitutional amendment, which would limit the number of members of each house of the Legislature which any county may have to one-sixth of the total membership. The amendment also would direct the Legislature to reapportion the legislative districts "on the basis of population and geographical area" instead of "in proportion to population" as the constitution now provides. Minneapolis members made a strong fight against the bill, contending that it would prevent a reapportionment that would be fair to the large cities, but rural members pushed the bill through 67 to 41.

2 The house adopted a committee report killing a bill that called for repeal of old age assistance lien. Representative Roy E. Dunn, majority leader, told members of the house that he wanted to vote for a bill that will increase the maximum allowance for old age assistance from $30 to $40 and that he believed such a measure cannot be passed if the Legislature repeals the lien law, which serves as a safeguard to keep off the rolls many whose children are in position to care for them. Legislators must choose between the two proposals he suggested.

3. Forces seeking improved regulation of beer sales, bed by Senator O. J. Finstad, chairman of the senate liquor control committhe, put in a busy week and made some important advances. They defeated two attempts to kill a bill, which would give the state liquor control commissioner power of revocation over 3.2 beer licenses through issuance of a $1 special state license, and had sufficient votes to advance the bill to the calendar. Senator Finstad and others supporting him also defeated an attempt to adopt a committee report killing another bill, which would have prohibited sale of 3.2 beer outside of cities and villages, and saved the bill on a close vote.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been of the mean variety. Snow, cold and windy every day. It started right out on Saturday with a wind and on Sunday with a snow storm. Monday was a blizzardy day and Tuesday we had a heavy snowfall that filled everything to full capacity. It will now be hard to plow out some of the roads on account of the high banks on the sides from earlier plowings.

Tuesday we had no mail as the trains could not get through.

Wednesday was no better as the blizzard was still raging and no trains or busses could get thru. The way it appears as we go to press, no mail would be through on Thursday.

Several ladies gave Mrs. C. L. Sandberg a birthday party on Friday afternoon at her home.

Given Farewell Party

A farewell party was given for Mrs. George Karvonen on Friday evening at the church parlors. A program was given consisting of a vocal solo by Mr. A. Carlson reading, Mrs. Joe Nelson, a talk by Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson, a word of thanks from the Ladies Aid by Mrs. H. O. Hanson and a talk by Mrs. Fricker. A cash purse was presented by Mrs. Sanoden to which 32 ladies had contributed. Games were played and a lunch served. Hostesses were Mrs. Sanoden, Mrs. Fricker, Miss Aspelin and Miss Lee.

Mrs. Roy Hanson left on Tuesday for Minneapolis to meet Mr. Hanson who was returning here from Newfoundland where he has spent the past 18 months on special work for the U. S. Government.

Mrs. J. H. Knutson, who has spent the past six months with her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Swan at Seattle, Wash., and also worked in the shipyards there, returned to her farm home in Excel last week.

Confirming Jap's Death

The Japanese military authorities usually announce that a soldier or sailor is dead when he is only reported as missing and his fate is unknown, because his family would "lose face" if he had allowed himself to be captured. Often the authorities also send a sealed urn of ashes to the family to "confirm" his death.

BURMA

By Daniel De Luce

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

Greatest reservoir of fighting manpower to whip the Japanese lies in free, unoccupied China. For five years the Chinese soldier has proved himself every bit as courageous and clever as his Japanese enemy. He has hung on in the face of discouraging odds, lacking modern weapons and an air force.

Anglo - American arsenals should eventually be able to furnish him with these new arms and give him the support of a combined armada of airplanes.

However, "the day" is indefinite. In 1943? Perhaps longer. There is a lot of spade work to be done, for a great Allied offensive on the Asiatic continent.

It is required chiefly in Burma. And it is being planned right now by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, General Wavell and General Stilwell.

Allies Need Burma.

The transfer of a thousand bombers and a thousand fighting planes from America to China could be made in seven days. But once having got the air fleet to China, the Allies would be little better off than before, unless they had Burma.

For the air force would need fuel—not a few thousand gallons flown laboriously over the Himalayas, but many thousand tons.

And where is the oil for the future planes of China? In Burma. "Oh," you say, "weren't the Burma fields scorched by the British? Or was that just another newspaper story?"

Yes, the Burma fields were scorched, thoroughly scorched. At the moment they're useless. But listen to the man who did the scorching.

"If the Japanese brought in 15,000 specialists and 50,000 tons of equipment and machinery, they could get Burma producing again within a few months. But they have neither the specialists nor the equipment. We have both. We can soon have the wells flowing—if and when we recapture Burma."

Scorching of Burma.

For the story of the scorching of Burma, let's begin looking into a little red cloth-covered notebook which this itinerant war correspondent bought in Mandalay for ten annas, before the ships were bombed and burned down on Good Friday last year. I had it in a sweaty pocket of my khaki shirt when I jeeped through Yenang-tuang, oil capital of Burma, on Thursday, April 16, 1942.

Yenang-taung in Burmese, means "stream of the smelly waters." Some centuries ago, silk-skirted natives scooped up the pungent black liquid and burned it in crude lamps at home.

Came the white man. In the last 60 years thousands of derricks sprang up on the drab hills. Burma oil, a million tons every 12 months, began lighting many a lamp in greater Asia.

Then came the Jap. He was about 30 miles south of the oil capital and pressing hard last April when I walked into the main oil-field headquarters and met a lean, hard, eagle-nosed English civilian loading his .38 army revolver.

He was Walter L. Forster of the Shell Oil company at Cairo. He had supervised the demolition of the Rangoon refineries the previous month, then calmly departed and was now in central Burma to finish similar assignments here.

At work or play, Forster likes dynamite. Knowing his specialty, the British government had sent him late in 1941 to Russia, to advise the Soviet engineers in their program of scorching the earth. He quickly decided that the Russians knew more than he did, but he stayed to learn their methods, and visited secret areas of the Caucasus.

He remarked afterwards that the Reds had carried out factory wreckings in one day that Anglo-American experts had forecast might take six months.

"But I wish the Russians could have seen our job at Rangoon," he mused. "Smoke up to 15,000 feet. Vapor up to 19,000 feet. Not a drop of oil left for the Japs, nor a piece of workable machinery."

After Rangoon was gone, Forster tackled the pipe line which had run more than 300 miles down-country from the Burma oil fields. He plugged the pipe with cement at river crossings, smashed the section pumps, wrecked bridges. Then he turned to the oil fields.

The last job, he said, was blowing up the big powerhouse.

"I've got 6,300 gallons of oil in drums stored above the transformers," he said. "Got oil piped in here to the main room, too. And the jets will turn on after the explosion. Nice fire we're cooking up!"

Forster glanced at his wrist watch. It was 10 a. m. "Let's see if we've overlooked anything at the well," he invited.

The field was ten miles long and about a mile wide, on rolling hills.

Hundreds of wooden derricks had burned and fallen.

"The best wells were usually those with steel derricks," Forster explained. "We didn't bother the derricks, but we put a sweet mixture of concrete and scrap metal down the wells. It would be easier to bore a new well than to try to punch through that kind of plugging."

Converting Our Industry

The groundwork for the conversion of American industry to war production started as long ago as 1922 when the Army and Navy Munitions board was set up, and the army established ordnance offices in 13 important cities throughout the country, says Collier's. The board then began a survey of some 20,000 large industrial plants to determine what these companies could and would produce in case of war.

Every amateur ought to have a cold frame, if only to grow lettuce in. If seeds are sown the latter part of March there will be lettuce to eat in a few weeks, with radishes as a sort of side crop grown between the lettuce plants. When hot weather comes it will be found that lettuce grown in the cold frame will head nicely and be crisp and tender, while that grown in the open ground will mostly go to seed. This is the secret of growing good summer lettuce, and few people know it.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER
Akron, Ohio had its beginning as the WORLD'S RUBBER MANUFACTURING CAPITAL in 1870 when its first rubber plant was started by Dr. B. F. Goodrich.
The switching of Dakar, French West Africa, to the side of the United Nations meant the establishment for the Allies of an important port for the shipment of crude rubber, among other important war essentials.
Atabrine, the chemist's answer to the war time shortage of quinine, is serving to step up the collection of rubber in the malaria-infested jungles of Brazil. Here is a case of a synthetic product being used to stimulate the gathering of a natural product that is rapidly being replaced by synthetics in the United States.
Ordinary tires are now cured in molds at factories in 40 to 50 minutes. Before organic accelerators were developed by B. F. Goodrich it took about five hours to vulcanize a tire.

Meat Ceilings to Check Black Market; Bismarck Sea Triumph Forecasts U. S. Drive to Sweep Japs From New Guinea; Small Firms Get Billions for War Work

Even the most advanced air base in Tunisia gets its mail, as pictured above. This photo of the mailman arriving and being welcomed at an advanced U. S. air base of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's army, should be an incentive to those on the home front to write and keep writing to loved ones no matter how far away on Uncle Sam's service they may be.

BLACK MARKET:
Action on Meat

Action rather than words was the keystone of a program sponsored by the OPA and the department of agriculture to smash the black markets in meat.

First barrage laid down in this offensive was Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown's order imposing specific retail price ceilings on meat, beginning with pork products. Second attack came in the announcement by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard of orders licensing livestock slaughterers as well as those who buy and sell livestock for slaughter.

Effective April 1, the meat ceilings were expected to check black markets and end an "unjust squeeze" on packers. Mr. Brown said they would also lay the groundwork for the start of meat rationing about April 15. Pork ceilings were to be followed by uniform regulations on beef and lamb.

When red meat rationing is undertaken, the order will include bacon, butter, cheese, lard and other cooking fats.

With prices uniform throughout a community on all cuts of meat, Brown said, it would be difficult for dealers to get rid of illicit meat at higher prices.

RUSSIANS:
Repeat Old History

Back over the snowy Russian steppes where Napoleon's army perished long ago, reeled the retreating German legions.

While the collapse of Nazi resistance at Rzhev had been of high immediate strategic importance to the Red command it was prophetic of further Nazi reverses, for with the whole German salient west of Moscow unhinged, the fate of Orel and Vyazma to the east virtually sealed.

The rapidity of the Russian advance was indicated by the capture soon afterward of Olenino 35 miles west of Rzhev giving control of the railway running from Moscow to Velikie Luki.

While German spokesmen described the Rzhev defeat as a strategic withdrawal to shorten Nazi lines, Allied military observers saw in it a threat to all Axis defenses from Smolensk to the Baltic sea.

In the South the Russians had moved forward more slowly, impeded by the first thaws of oncoming spring. But Red forces were reported driving forward from recaptured Lgov, important railroad center west of Kursk.

WAR COST:
Exceeds 43 Billion

More than $43,830,452,651 was spent for war purposes in the first eight months of the current fiscal year, it was disclosed by the treasury department.

The war department spent the most for war—$27,303,243,684. The navy spent $11,502,653,956, the maritime commission $1,685,143,236 and the war shipping administration $733,211,740.

Expenditures by the government for all purposes during the eight-month period totaled $47,600,944,727, while net revenue totaled $9,512,808,497. The government's deficit for the eight months was $38,084,682,608.

SMALL BUSINESS:
Good News Ahead

Good news for small business concerns was forthcoming from Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman of the War Production board when he announced that war contracts placed with smaller companies "will run into billions of dollars by the end of the year."

Wilson said that more than $30,000,000 of work a week is being placed now with small business firms through the efforts of the Smaller War Plants corporation.

The WPB's program for small business, Wilson said, includes: 1—An increase in the number of prime contracts placed with small plants; 2—Widening of WPB's lending policy to make loans to small business easier; 3 — Certification of more small plants to handle war contracts.

BISMARCK SEA:
Disaster for Japs

Three facts of major significance to the future of the war in the Pacific emerged from the stunning victory of General MacArthur's bombers over the 22-ship Jap armada in the Bismarck sea, approaching New Guinea.

Fact No. 1 was that in sinking the 22 enemy ships and bagging 82 Jap planes, MacArthur's airmen proved that a force of land-based bombers manned by skilled pilots is more than a match for a seaborne invasion force. Fact No. 2 was that the victory removed the danger of invasion to the Australian mainland for the time being at least. Fact No. 3 was that the enemy garrisons at Lae and Salamaua, New Guinea, would not now be reinforced, for it was estimated that 15,000 Jap troops perished when Yankee bombs sank their transports.

Military observers believed that one of the immediate results of the Jap disaster would be an increase in pressure by General MacArthur's armies besieging Lae and Salamaua with the object of driving the Japs entirely from New Guinea.

The clean-sweep character of the American triumph was summarized in General MacArthur's terse communique: "We have achieved a victory of such completeness as to assume the proportions of a major disaster to the enemy."

NAVY:
Predict 10% Losses

A navy "big enough to dominate all seas over the world" was envisioned by Secretary Frank Knox, who added a warning that the American people must be prepared to expect a 10 per cent casualty rate in navy personnel before the war's end.

Secretary Knox and ranking naval officials unfolded a program for building up personnel strength to 2,250,000 by July, 1944, in testimony before the house subcommittee on naval appropriations. Appropriations totaling $3,816,000,000 to implement this program were approved by the subcommittee.

The navy had 3,205 ships in commission on January 1, 1943, according to Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of the bureau of personnel. This number will be increased to approximately 4,100 by the end of the year, he added.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

LONDON: "Take a towel with you when you go visiting" was, in effect, what Britons were told in a new set of rationing regulations. In announcing towel concessions for factory and medical workers, Hugh Dalton, president of the Board of Trade, said that in future "we must be prepared to take our towel with us if we go away to stay, or if asked to do so, to the hairdresser."

LOS ANGELES: Canned baby food is becoming more popular—particularly with adults, according to Sam M. White, secretary of the Southern California Retail Grocers' association. The reason, he says, is the present rationing system. The low ration point value of canned baby foods constitute their chief appeal. A purchaser can get a 4 or 5½-ounce can for one point.

Slip Covers for an Unusual Chair That You May Desire to Protect

FRILL COVERS CARVING
ARM COVER

THIS cover was a twofold conservation measure in the most literal sense. Its purpose was not to cover shabby upholstery but to protect handsome damask from everyday wear and tear, in a household where there were children. The substantial striped cotton material chosen harmonizes perfectly with the rather elegant lines of the chair frame.

If you have an especially difficult chair to cover, you will save time by fitting a muslin pattern first. Then you can snip until it fits perfectly around arms and other supports and, if you make a mistake in the pattern just stitch a patch over it and start over again. Before removing the pattern from the chair, plan the openings so that they will lap neatly and be sure they are long enough. In the finished cover either bindings or facings may be used for irregular edges.

Solomon Islands Lost Nearly Two Centuries!

With the Solomon Islands, 500 miles east of New Guinea, now prominent in the news, it is hard to believe that after their discovery in 1567 this archipelago, which includes 10 large islands and hundreds of smaller ones, totalling 17,000 square miles and stretching for 900 miles, was completely lost for 200 years. Later navigators looked for them in vain. They became a joke among sailors, and—incredible though it may seem—they were struck off the map!

Not until 1767 were they rediscovered by Captain Carteret, an Englishman, who came upon them by accident.

Admirals may be admirable, but that isn't where the word comes from. It comes from an old Arabic word "amir-al" meaning "commander of." TRIM SHIP FOR ACTION!

We are engaged in a war to save our American tradition of liberty and opportunity for ourselves and our children. Our leaders have committed us to become the arsenal of democracy; to furnish food for our allies; through our lend-lease to help finance the Allied war machine and, finally, to raise and equip an army of some 10 million men.

Any one of these jobs is a tremendous undertaking. We are thousands of miles from the theater of war, and this involves tremendous problems of transportation. All of these jobs together will tax every resource of the United States. Already we face rationing and priorities in our materials and acute shortage of manpower, and a burden of taxes which indicates our financial resources are strained to the utmost.

Of a certainty, we must have complete unity if we are to do this job, and face the postwar future with hope and confidence.

American industry, agriculture and finance must use to the maximum the productive power, initiative and intelligence latent in every American.

No Time or Place for Drones

There must be no drones hidden away on public payrolls, engaged in peacetime experiments which are useless under the emergency of war. Every branch of our military service is devoted to the sole purpose of fighting and winning this war. Our government, both local, state and national, should inspire and lead in the support our civilian population gives to the war effort. Unnecessary civic expenditures, surplus payrollers, useless economic and social experiments have no place in a war emergency.

The new Congress is tackling this job with a will and a purpose. Those Congressmen are our representatives and we, the people, should support them to the limit. Right now they are trying to bring some order and efficiency in the prevention of excessive profits in war contracts by the Army, Navy and Maritime commission. The present law, passed by the old Congress, provides for a "re-negotiation" of their war contracts by each department.

New Bureaus Not Needed

There are over three million of these contracts. Not more than 5 per cent will show any excessive profits after taxes have been paid. The ordinary man on the street would say that the Internal Revenue Department can easily discover any excess profit from any war contract. Certainly we can use the manpower that would be wasted to much better advantage in other places.

We, the people, want Congress to adopt the most direct, efficient and economical method of doing this job. None of us believes in excess profits on war contracts. There are ceiling prices on most things we produce. Now let's get at the job of cutting down unnecessary civic expenditures and cutting unnecessary payrollers off the payroll.

No More "Blank Checks"

Out with the December sweepings of the 77th Congress went H.R. 7762, its revisions, modifications and amendments, bag and baggage. If this bill had passed it would have authorized the President to suspend federal laws at will, in whole or in part, "for the effective prosecution of the war," to give free movement of people, property and information into or out of the United States.

Formerly this Congress had given the administration everything it asked. H.R. 7762 was the first declined request from the President for a war measure. What caused Congress, at the year's end, to deviate from its unbroken record of granting all war legislation requested by the President? I have tried earnestly to get the truth, and I will report what I have heard.

Why the Change?

After talking with a number of congressmen and studying discussions of the measure in meetings of the Ways and Means Committee, I am satisfied that Congress has experienced a complete change of sentiment about passing out its legislative powers to others. I predict that bureau chiefs aspiring to make their own rules this year will be disappointed. Even those who have been doing so for ten years may encounter difficulty.

Many congressmen, without casting the least shadow of blame in the direction of the Chief Executive, claim that subordinate executives have used the President's influence to obtain, through legislation, powers which Congress did not want them to have nor imagined they would get. The President is busy every waking minute with numberless complicated problems of a world-wide war. Obviously he can't watch everybody. He must trust a great many people.

Fear Carte Blanche

Congressmen express belief, not without resentment, that some of the President's advisers have taken advantage of his preoccupation. They point to a series of disappointing experiences with laws requested by administration executives; cases where congressmen found quite a little difference between their understanding of a bill before it was passed and the uses made of it after it became a law. Consequently they are reluctant (not to say unwilling) to keep on giving a free hand to miscellaneous executives.

The price ceiling miff makes a good example: For some time, House members sensed an effort to force them to place legal price limits on food (products of the farm) without permitting them at the same time to fix an up-stop on wages—fruits of the laborer's toil. And finally, last September, Congress gave in, accepting assurances that the President would take care of Wages. Now certain congressmen complain that the law they passed is being used, not as administration men led them to believe when they voted, but quite differently.

Flouting the Senate

Then, too, there was the circumstance about salary limitations. Three times Congress had silenced with decisive vote, proposals to name a top figure for anybody to draw as a salary. Then an administration bill came along to give James F. Byrnes potent authority over payrolls. Some of its backers said the bill would not be used to lower existing salaries, but soon after passage, it WAS used for just that. Moreover the high limit was pegged at the very figure Congress had three times disapproved: $25,000.

Probably the most comment grew out of the construction of a certain building in Washington, D. C., after the Senate had refused authority to erect it. Subordinate executives used money obtained from one of the "blank checks" Congress had given the President, and built it anyway. Naturally the Senate is a little particular about who "goes over its head."

Congressmen Speak

May I present some hand-picked utterances? Rep. Gearhart of California said, "We have begun to lose faith in some of the promises made, in the light of what has transpired since." And, with reference to the anti-inflation bill, Rep. Disney of Oklahoma remarked, "We have learned a lot of things since we passed that bill that we did not know then, and which we do not like now."

Opposition to giving the President authority to suspend laws controlling the importation of undesirable food products brought representatives of 4,500 farm associations to Washington. This has strengthened the conviction of congressmen that they should retain all of the legislative powers of Congress.

A Still Worse Example

Probably the shoddiest suit of second-hand law making power, with which a bureaucrat was ever clothed, came with a law providing for re-negotiation of war contracts. It gives power, not to bureau chiefs alone. It permits thousands of auditors and other special clerks to exercise many authorities which the Constitution gives to Congress alone, even to break government contracts and revise prices as they please. I predict the authority of these underlings will be reduced sharply by the new Congress.

Jules and Angeline Johnson visited at the Carl Johnson home Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Sanoden and Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson visited with A. O. Aspelin and daughter Caroline Saturday evening.

Jules Johnson returned home Monday after spending a week with friends at Greenbush.

Mrs. Lawrence Hams and son returned home on Saturday from Roseau where they had visited with relatives.

GET YOUR COAL SUPPLY

Because certain kinds of coal are now difficult to obtain, those planning to convert to coal should make arrangements to obtain their supply before starting actual conversion. Coal consumers are urged to place orders for their entire next winter's supply immediately, to accept the coal as it can be delivered, and to place it in protective storage during summer months when production and transportation are more readily available.

Veterans Bills Take Spotlight In Legislature

$2,000 Exemption on Income Tax Granted Service Men as Committee Begins Study of School Aid Proposals

Legislation to help men and women in the armed forces get started again in civilian life after they return from the war occupied the spotlight before Minnesota legislators as they reached the half-way mark in their session and prepared for the final stretch.

New developments this week were:

Approval by both houses of a conference committee report extending to persons in the armed forces an exemption of $2,000 from state income tax in addition to other legal deductions and exemptions.

Introduction of a bill authorizing payment by state of tuition, up to $200, for honorably discharged veterans continuing their education in the University of Minnesota or colleges of the state.

Meanwhile committees in both houses began the consideration of another measure, recommended by Governor Stassen, which would set aside a fund of $5,000,000 from the present surplus in the general revenue fund for a war veterans fund on July 1st, to be used to help needy veterans continue their schooling or assist them in other ways to get a start in civilian life. This measure is being sponsored in the senate by Senators Charles N. Orr, Donald N. Wright and J. V. Weber. Authors in the house are Representatives Roy E. Dunn, A. M. Burnap, and R. F. Lee.

Under this bill, grants could be made in the form of cash or loans to be used for expenses in attending the University, teachers' colleges, private colleges in the state or trade or business schools. A veteran needing help could get a cash grant of $250, under the bill, or borrow $500, without interest, to be repaid in five years.

The other veterans' school aid bill, introduced this week, would provide for payment of tuition in the University, teachers' colleges or private colleges of the state for men in the armed forces from Minnesota, without restrictions as to need. The bill would appropriate $100,000 each year of the next biennium to defray costs.

The two houses in adopting the measure giving men in service an added exemption from the state income tax included another provision, which will allow those in service to defer filing their income tax returns or making payments until six months after the war, if the ability of the individual in question to file a return or make the payments is impaired by his being in service.

About 10 million pounds of copper will be saved for war production through an order controlling the use and sale of copper textile printing rollers.

Beaver Trapping Season

A season for the trapping of beaver will be opened throughout the state excepting in game refuges and state parks for 15 days from April 5 to 19th, inclusive, with a limit of 4 beavers per trapper.

A census made by the Game Research Unit of the Bureau of Game on sample townships in the beaver range showed a population approximately the same as that existing previous to last year's season. Last year's catch, including seizures and permit trapping, was 5,217.

The Superior Water Shed which was closed last year will be opened this year. In this region beaver have increased not only because of protection afforded them by being closed for two years, but also by natural dispersion from the Superior Game Refuge.

In the greater agricultural section of the state beaver are still present in scattered distribution from the southeast and southwest corners of the state up to the northwest corner. In this area any beaver colony not already causing damage is a potential source of nuisance due to their natural dispersion habits.

In some localities, however, where the presence of a beaver colony is desirable and appreciated, protection may be afforded by posting.

Card Of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere "Thank you" for the lovely party given me last Friday evening. It was an occasion which I shall always remember as one of the most pleasant in my life. Especially do I wish to thank those in charge of the party and those who took part in the fine program as well as to all of you who contributed to the cash purse.

Thank you once again.

Theo. Gusa Missing In Action

Word was received last week by Mr. and Mrs. George Gusa from the U. S. Navy that their son Theodore Gusa is missing in action on the African war front. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family and the sympathy of the entire community go out to them. We still harbor the hope that this young man can be heard of before long.

The county snow plows had quite a battle with the heavy snow in order to bust through from the highway to River east on the county road this week. There is a one-way tunnel on this road now with spots here and there for passing traffic. Many say they were lucky to get this stretch open at all the way the last storm blocked it up.

A crowd of eighteen men and boys got out here Thursday morning last week to shovel out the village after the four day blizzard which had plugged every drive-way in the street. There is so much snow here now that it seems the best way is to let the spring weather take it away instead of trying to do any hauling.

Robert Forder who has for the past few years been employed as game warden on the Mud Lake Wild Life Refuge, has resigned his position there and will leave with his wife and baby daughter for the west coast.

BE A Good NEIGHBOR

Uncle Sam has pointed out a number of ways you can be a good neighbor—and therefore a good citizen. By sharing rides to save tires and gasoline, by sharing the available food—buying only what you need so there will be enough to go around; and by investing in War Bonds and Stamps every pay day.

4 P-T BOATS Every Day! ... FEDERAL TAXES ... THE BREWERS OF THE U. S.

You can be a good neighbor, too, by inviting your friends to enjoy a friendly glass of beer in your own home. This simple entertaining, wholesome and entirely appropriate during wartime, is being adopted in thousands of patriotic homes. In addition to the pleasure it gives at small cost, beer possesses the nutritive elements of natural barley, malt and hops.

Get Permit To Sell Meat

All persons who slaughter livestock for sale and all dealers and agents who purchase and sell livestock must obtain permits from the county USDA War Board before midnight, March 31, if they continue in business C. N. Kranz, chairman of the county War Board, announced this week.

"The new program for national management of meat will not in itself stop the "black" market practices," Mr. Kranz said. "That will depend upon the cooperation of everyone, because we all eat meat. It will depend upon livestock dealers, producers packers, health authorithies, local law enforcement officers farmers and consumers."

In explaining the new program briefly, Mr. Kranz said all livestock slaughterers who sell meat, including farmers and local butchers, must operate under the permit slaughter system. As an aid to enforcement, permit holders must stamp their permit number at least once on every wholesale cut.

All livestock dealers and agents must obtain permits to buy and sell livestock and keep complete records of their operations. Farmers are not required to obtain a permit to sell live animals, but are asked to keep records of all their purchases and sales.

Farmers who slaughter meat strictly for their own consumption will not be required to obtain a permit, but if they sell any portion of the animal slaughtered they must obtain a permit before the sale is made.

"Housewives can do more than anyone else to stamp out the "Black" markets endangerin the healt and morale of the people during these trying times." Mr. Kranz said. "They should demand to see that the wholesale cut from which the piece of meat they are buying is marked with a permit number or with an offiicial U. S. inspection stamp. If it is not marked properly, they should refuse to buy.

"Not only that, but our boys fighting for us may go without meat because of these unpatriotic people that operate the "Black" markets," he said. "The armed forces recently have been able to obtain only a fraction of their needs for beef and have had to substitute pork. That has cut down the reserve of pork.

"We will slaughter around 25 billion pounds of meat under federal inspection this year and 8 billion pounds of that total will go to the armed forces and lend-lease. If the remainder is not distributed properly, some of us will go without," he warned.

Bill Asks For Tax Money

A bill to appropriate $186,759 to reimburse certain school districts in 26 Minnesota counties for tax money they would have received during the last six years had not certain lands become tax exempt as a result of being acquired by the state in operation of the rural credits system was introduced in the state senate last week.

Half the money would be paid to the school district during each of the next two years. Sponsors of the measure are Senators W. E. Dahlquist, Thief River Falls, A. O. Sletvold, Detroit Lakes, and N. J. Larson, Ada.

Largest amount $47,603 would go to school districts in Aitkin county and the smallest $81.24, to Waseca county.

Other two years allowances would include Becker, $13,012; Clay, $10,920; Freeborn, $276.50; Lyon, $1,327; Marshall, 14,011; Pennington, $3,400; Polk, $12,900 Roseau, $10,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Torrance Lillevold arrived here on Friday evening by car from Oakland, California, where they have spent the past five months being employed at the Shipyards and the Key System Transportation Co. They were accompanied home by Howard and Walter Gilbertson of Hillsboro, N. D. who had also spent the winter out west.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Indians of the Amazon River region made the first rubber overshoes, which were imported into the U. S. in 1800.

Mistakes of many kinds can cut into the rubber conservation program, as is indicated by the fact that normally 180,000 pounds of rubber was used annually in the manufacture of pencil mark erasers.

Before vulcanization was discovered in 1839 rubber goods hardened like rock in winter; and melted in summer. Early rubber goods manufacturers suffered severe financial losses because of the unreliability of their products. That was many years ago.

A check of the tires on 800 vehicles recently disclosed that 80% were under-inflated, even to the extent of from 10 to 15 pounds. This is a heavy waste of rubber because it has been found that 30 per cent under-inflation permits the return of only 74 per cent of the mileage built into a tire.

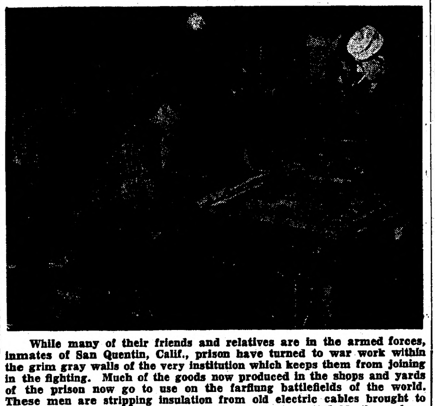
Eighty-Three Days on a Raft in Atlantic

Reduced to skin and bones by hunger, thirst and exposure, Cornelius Van Der Slot, of Rotterdam, is helped by a U. S. sailor aboard a navy patrol boat off the Brazilian coast. Van Der Slot's two companions, Nick Hoogendam Viaar Dinger, Holland, left, and Basil Izzi, South Barry, Mass., gather up their meager belongings preparatory to being helped aboard the rescuing craft. The men, survivors of five who reached the raft after their vessel had been torpedoed, were adrift on the South Atlantic for 83 days. They existed on raw fish, fowl and rain water which they managed to catch from time to time. (Official navy photo.)

Convicts Make Goods for Battlefronts



While many of their friends and relatives are in the armed forces, inmates of San Quentin, Calif., prison have turned to war work within the grim gray walls of the very institution which keeps them from joining in the fighting. Much of the goods now produced in the shops and yards of the prison now go to use on the farflung battlefields of the world. These men are stripping insulation from old electric cables brought to the prison from civilian scrap piles and from the battlefields themselves.

Perfect WAAC

Introducing the perfect WAAC, Jane A. Whiteman, pretty blonde 21-year-old employee of the fuselage tail department of Consolidated Aircraft corporation, Fort Worth, Texas. She has just passed her physical examination for the WAACs with a score of 100 per cent, and was declared by examining physicians the first to fit perfectly the WAAC physical specifications. Weight 143, bust, perfect 36.

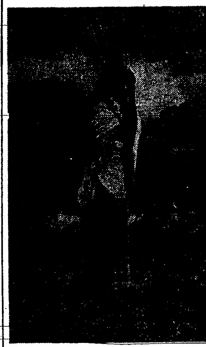
Mrs. Anna Marie Oswald Huber is about to cut the cake as she celebrates her 105th birthday at Harrison, N. Y. Mrs. Huber was born in Switzerland in 1838 and came to America in 1881.

Primitive Labor



A picture out of an ancient world, primitive tools, bullock carts and hand labor, but all so necessary to the modern scheme of things, particularly war, for here is being constructed an air field for American fighter, bomber and transport planes. A young girl laborer rests upon her crude tool. Broken stone, used to make a bed for the landing strip, is brought in by women who carry it in baskets upon their heads.

Pitches Hot Steel

Bob Feller, one of the finest baseball pitchers of the era, is now captain of a 40-mm. gun crew aboard a new battlewagon. Bob joined the navy as physical instructor but later applied for gunnery school. Here he is, grin and all, beside his gun.

George—Did anyone in your family ever make a brilliant marriage?

Harry—Only my wife.

His Turn Next

At the end of the third round the heavyweight boxer staggered to his corner in a dazed and battered condition.

His manager approached the fighter and said sweetly: "Here, Butch, I've got a great idea! Next time 'e 'its you, 'it 'im back!"

Couldn't Hold It

Hearing a crash on the platform, the stationmaster dashed out of his room. He was just in time to see the tail of the train vanish from sight, while a very dishevelled young man lay flat on his face, surrounded by upset milk cans and the contents of his suitcase.

"Was he trying to catch the train?" the official asked a small boy.

"He did catch it," replied the lad, "but it got away again!"

Reason Aplenty

"There's no need for you to shout," said the dentist. "I haven't touched your tooth yet."

"No," said the patient, "but you're standing on my corn."

"He'll never make a soldier," exclaimed the sergeant of the knock-kneed recruit. "When his legs above his knees stand at attention, below they stand at ease."

The Hope of Death Kept Spark of Life in Recruit

The army medico was making his cheerful rounds of sick bay on the huge transport that had been working for several days through the long, oily swells of a rough sea. One case was nothing more (or less, depending upon the individual point of view) than an old-fashioned attack of seasickness.

"Well, Private Jenks," boomed the doctor heartily, "it looks to me like you're not going to die after all."

Private Jenks opened a horrified eye, to stare at the doc.

"Not going to die!" he wailed. "Gosh, doctor, I thought I was. That was the only thing that kept me alive."

Technically-Minded

Our present need for scientific knowledge is shown by the tremendous increase in the publication and sale of technical books, says Collier's. The number of titles published has grown from 452 in 1939 to 791 in 1942, with the retail demand about five times larger than before the war. Certain of these books have reached a sales volume of 250,000 copies within the past year.

Medical officers have long recognized tobacco as an aid to morale among our armed forces. Surveys among the men themselves have shown that tobacco is their favorite gift. If you have a friend or relative in the Army, Navy, Marines, or Coast Guard who smokes a pipe or rolls-his-own, nothing would be more appreciated than a pound of his favorite tobacco. Prince Albert, the world's largest-selling smoking tobacco, in the pound can is recommended by local dealers as an ideal gift for men in the service.—Adv.

TAX PLANS:
Ruml Revived

Like the cat with nine lives, the Ruml plan to skip a tax year and put America's 44,000,000 taxpayers on a pay-as-you-go basis, was hard to kill.

Even though the house ways and means committee had approved a plan imposing a 20 per cent withholding levy from pay envelopes effective July 1 and making "pay-as-you-go" optional with each taxpayer, proponents of the Ruml plan, principally in the ranks of the Republican minority, had ranged themselves solidly behind a bill embracing the Ruml principles.

Sponsors of the house ways and means committee's tax program pointed out that the withholding levy would not be a straight 20 per cent deduction against wages and salaries, but against the portions of such earnings remaining after deductions were made on the basis of dependents. The levy would not be an additional tax, but merely a means of collecting actual taxes through wage and salary deductions.

LEND-LEASE:
Diplomacy Weapon

Predictions that lend-lease shipments in the coming year would dwarf all previous records and that Uncle Sam would use it more and more as a means of obtaining agreements with nations receiving it for postwar security, were voiced by Washington observers, after the house and senate had approved extension of lend-lease for another year.

What eventual payment this nation will seek for its wartime aid to its allies and friendly neutrals remained to be seen. Two major principles were involved, however. One was the promotion of a stable economic situation throughout the world after the war. The other was the necessity of America obtaining additional naval and air bases to help prevent a recurrence of Axis aggression.

A report to congress by Edward R. Stettinius Jr., lend-lease administrator, disclosed that aid extended by the United States under the act aggregated $9,632,000,000 in its first two years of operation. Mr. Stettinius reported Russia was allotted 29 per cent of all lend-lease shipments last year, including half of all tanks shipped and 40 per cent of all tactical planes.

CHINA AIR FORCE:
Victory for Mme. Chiang

The labors of Madame Chiang Kai-shek had not been in vain. One of the first fruits of her American visit and Washington conferences was the creation of a full-fledged U. S. air force command in China.

Hailed as the fulfillment of long-deferred Chinese hopes this move indicated a sizable expansion of American air power in the China war theater and a new phase in the war against Japan.

MME. CHIANG KAI-SHEK
. . . first fruits sweet.

Under the new arrangement the newly activated 14th U. S. air force under command of Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault replaced the former China Air Task force. Famous as the trainer of the "Flying Tigers" which scourged Jap air invaders, Chennault with augmented manpower and planes would now be able to expand his operations greatly.

FRANCE:
Patriots Fight

As repressive measures by the Nazis had failed to halt the underground revolt by French patriots against conscription into German slave legions, it became clear that this movement was well organized and had the leadership of key men in General De Gaulle's Fighting French forces.

As hundreds of thousands of youths were reported fleeing from their homes to escape conscription, the flareup of anti-Nazi sabotage and terrorism resulted in the wrecking of German troop trains, the killing of Axis soldiers and attempts to assassinate pro-Nazi French leaders.

PACIFIC FRONT

Over widely scattered fronts in the East, Allied forces continued their battles against the Japanese. One major action in the Pacific area was reported from China's capital, Chungking, where it was announced that the Chinese had driven the Japs back toward the Burma frontier above Tung-yuch in the Salween river area.

In the Solomon Islands area, American dive bombers continued their attacks on Jap-held Munda, important sea and air base.

Ukrainians Are Russians With Their Own Republic

The Ukrainians are Russians, and they have a republic of their own which is a constituent member of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. By origin, however, they differ from the "Great Russians," and they have their own language. Their land is one of the most fertile in the world; hence the German desire to conquer it.

Ukrainians were often in conflict with the Czars of Russia, but the disappearance of their native aristocracy has demolished most of their nationalism.

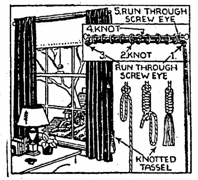
Here's Easy, Quick Way to Make Draw Curtains With Your Fixtures

IT IS easy to make draw curtains with the fixtures you have, plus a pair of large screw-eyes, some wood or brass rings, and about five yards of cord.

The screw-eyes are placed just under the hooks for the curtain rods; then run the cord through the screw-eye at the right; then through the rings, knotting it to the left ring at center; then through the rings and the screw-eye at the left; and back through the rings, knotting it to the right ring at center.



Now pass the cord through the rings and the right screw-eye and then make the tassels; raveling the ends of the cord after making the knots. Sew safety pins to the back of the curtains so that they may be fastened quickly to the rings.

NOTE—The curtains shown here are from BOOK 1 of the series available to readers at 15 cents each. BOOK 1 also contains directions for making curtains for various rooms; also cutting and making directions for bedspreads, dressing table skirts and slip covers. Wives in Camps

In British units of native troops along the Gold Coast of West Africa, the soldiers are permitted to have their wives with them in the barracks, privates being allowed one, sergeants two and sergeant majors four, says Collier's. When the men are transferred to another camp, the transportation costs for the ladies are also borne by the British government.

Gold-trimmed china needs special care if the beauty of the gold is to be preserved. Wash the plates in water less hot than for ordinary dishes and always use a mild soap. Do not rub at gold trim more than is absolutely necessary. Rinse well and drain on rubber-covered rack or on towels. This will prevent chipping of gold-trimmed edges.

Keep him flying!

Urging Americans to "Keep 'em Flying" through the purchase of more War Bonds, the above poster will soon make its appearance in several hundred thousand stores and display spots throughout the country. A wide variety of products essential to the construction and armament of airplanes, tanks, ships and other implements of modern warfare, will be manufactured from the contents of these box cars, enroute from Butte to the copper and zinc mills at Great Falls, Montana. The heavily loaded train is seen crossing a mountain summit north of Butte.

A Bomber is Born

A good idea of the symphony of industry that goes into the making of an airplane comes from a high official of the War Production Board.

More than 1,500 concerns, he says, take part in the production of a single airplane.

It begins, of course, with raw materials, drawn from many parts of the Nation. Finished materials and parts take form in hundreds of plants in widely scattered cities. These flow in endless procession to the assembly plant. And in a surprisingly short time a completed bomber rolls onto the flying field—ready to join the fight for freedom.

An important part of this symphony of production begins in the Northwest. It is reflected in the tasks assigned to the railroads.

The Great Northern hauls iron ore from Northern Minnesota to the boats on Lake Superior, lumber and important lumber products, such as plywood, from western forests and mills, copper and zinc from the mines at Butte, aluminum from the recently completed plants in the Pacific Northwest, and other products that have their roles in the making of an airplane. Plants for the production of magnesium, another vital commodity, are nearing completion in the Pacific Northwest.

The Great Northern participates also in the assembling of the finished materials and parts, transporting them in an uninterrupted flow for airplane manufacturers in other parts of the country, as well as to the Northwest's famous airplane plant which is filling world-wide skies with Flying Fortresses.

Thus from forests, fields, and mines—from gondolas, box cars and flat cars—from more than 1,500 widely scattered manufacturing establishments—from inventive and organizational genius—and from labor—a bomber is born.

Annual Creamery Meeting Held

The stockholders of Farmers Cooperative Creamery held their annual meeting here last Thursday afternoon. The meeting was posponed from March 18 due to the snow storm during that week.

The creamery association in 1942 produced the substantial total of 253,239 pounds of butter, it is revealed in the annual report of Waller Larson, manager, prepared for submission at the annual meeting here.

The average net price paid for all butterfat was 49.92 cents a pound, this figure including a patronage refund of 1.57 cents per pound. The total expense per pound of butter was reported at 3.164 cents, and the plant showed net earnings from all operations of $3,779.12, compared to $1,920 01 the previous year.

Officers who served the association during the past year include E. O. Waagedal, president; O. H. Nohre, vice president; J. P. Augustine, secretary; and H. D. Inman and Carl Johnson, directors. Mr. Nohre and Mr. Johnson were re-elected to the board at the annual meeting without any opposition.

Minn. Farmers Get Awards

Minnesota's award to farmers for increased production of vital war foods in 1942 reached its climax at the State Capitol on Wednesday, March 24th, where colorful ceremonies were held and Service Flags and "A" Badges of Merit were presented to producers in the vicinity of the Twin Cities. The formal presentation, by Governor Stassen, was symbolic of the award that is being made, by mail, to more than 30,000 producers and 120,000 farm workers.

The widespread attention that has centered on the Minnesota program was dramatized when the radio program, "Report To The Nation," selected the presentation as an outstanding news development in the entire country. The Columbia Broadcasting Company's stations presented Mrs. Anna Borden, A Washington County farm woman a widow who operates a 137-acre dairy farm despite the fact that four sons are in the armed forces, and Hector Marcotte, a Lyon County pork producer who is farming 400 acres while four of his sons are under arms and a daughter is in the WAVES. This Minnesota farmer and farm woman were presented as representatives of the state's agricultural folk.

At the ceremonies, representatives of the Legilature, the state business interests, service and civic organizations, and farm leaders joined the Governor in an hour's review of the state's "major contribution to the war effort" and in the presentation.

Thereafter, workers at the Award Program's state office began the big job of mailing the Service Flags and Lapel Insignia. Ten days to two weeks, it is estimated, will be required before the last of the awards are dispatched.

Awards are being sent to all farmers who filled out applications and whose production statements were approved by town officials. With each Service Flag is mailed "A" Badges of Merit that the farm operator will present to workers whose names he had listed on the application as persons having had a worthwhile part in the farm's 1942 production. The award is based on increased production in 1942 over 1941, rather than on plans for future production or competition between farmers.

As the 120,000 Merit Badges reach the farm workers, Minnesotans will begin wearing the only statewide, official recognition that thus far has been given "food front soldiers." The badge is a metal shield bearing an embossed maroon "A", and it compares favorably with the insignia that has been presented to war workers of plants to which the Army and Navy "E" has been awarded.

The quality of the state's award has been made possible by a fund, presented to the state as a gift by Minnesota businessmen who felt that farm folk should have as worthwhile a recognition of their war efforts as industrial workers receive.

Sandra Ann Grondahl, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Grondahl was baptised at the Lutheran Parsonage on Friday evening with Rev. T. C. L. Hanson officiating. She was born on January 19, 1943 and her sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Becklund, Evelyn Larson and Viola and Toivo Tuuro.

2nd U. S. War Loan April 12

Marshall county's 2nd War Loan Drive with a goal of $260,000 which will get under way on April 12, was mapped out at Warren last Wednesday night when members of the Marshall County War Finance committee met to establish quotas for each community in the county.

The Marshall county campaign will be centered around each village in the county with a member of the county committee being directly responsible for the quotas in their respective areas, said O. M. Mattson, county chairman. Schools of instruction will be conducted by the local chairmen for the solicitors in order to acquaint them with the big selling job they have before them. The campaign will close on April 30.

The quotas were established for each township and village on a basis of population, assessed valuation of property and general knowledge of the wealth of communities involved.

"While the amount of bonds to be sold in Marshall county may appear large to some," said Mr. Mattson, "it represents only a very small proportion of the total amount of money on deposit in our banks for example.

"Bank deposits, expanded by higher farm incomes and increased volume of business totaled $3,680,000.00 in this county when compiled recently. All of the nation's people have more money in savings and are earning more than ever before.

"A county quota of $260,000, he explained, "represents the amount to be raised from the general gublic. In addition the banks will be heavy buyers of bonds. In like fashion 8 billion dollars of the 13 billion dollar National goal will be sought from the general public.

"Plans already are taking shape for a campaign that will reach every person in the county and nation." Mr. Mattson said. "Volunteer solicitation committees are being set up throughout the county and in all other count- for this purpose."

The slogan for the huge campaign will be "What did you do today for your country?" and all publicity through newspapers, radio and volunteer workers will carry this convincing appeal.

Quotas for neighboring counties include: Kittson, $100,000; Roseau, $200,000; Pennington, $230,000; Polk, $700,000; Red Lake, $80,000; and Beltrami, $300,000.

Mr. Mattson and R. J. Schirber of Warren were Marshall County War Finance committee members who attended the War Finance Conference of the 9th Federal Reserve District in Minneapolis Saturday.

The Bond Drive quotas for the neighboring townships are as follows: Holt, $4,000; East Valley $1,000; Excel, $3,500; Agdar, $2,500 and Holt Village $3,000. Geo. Fricker is chairman of the local units.

Janice Elaine and Judith Adelle, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fredrickson, were baptised at the home of their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. A. Bennes Sunday afternoon March 21. Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fredrickson of Devils Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bennes of Fertile, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bennes and Mr. and Mrs. Ole Larson. Rev. Hanson officiated. A buffet supper was served immediately after the ceremony.

Thanks Contributors & Solicitors

On behalf of the American Red Cross War Fund, I wish to thank all who so generously and willingly gave such fine amounts to the Red Cross. It gives much civic pride to us all to realize that the quota was oversubscribed by such a large amount. While it is not easy to single out individuals or institutions when all was such an important factor, we do wish to especially thank the following: the solicitors, Marguerite Lee, Kathleen Gorden, Sylvia Sandberg, Marian Backlund, Irene Ness, Marvin Larson and Duane Larson for their untiring efforts; to the Marshall County State Bank for its contribution, for its acceptance of contributions and for its timely and thought provoking advertisement in last week's issue of the local paper; to the Holt Weekly News for the much free publicity and to all others who in some manner made this drive possible and successful. Thank you for everything you all did for the Red Cross.

War Stamp Sales Over Half Billion Dollars, Album Drive Opens

SAY YES!
Take your change in WAR STAMPS

U. S. Treasury photo

Appealing Margaret C. Russell of the War Savings Staff tacks up this new Treasury poster which will be seen from coast to coast. It pictures retailers' slogan, "SAY YES." A drive is underway for Americans to buy additional War Stamps to fill albums and convert them into War Bonds.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The nation's retailers from the tiniest hamlets to the mighty cities are acting as a spearhead in a great Treasury Department campaign to sell the additional War Savings Stamps needed to fill more than 100,000,000 albums now in the hands of the American people.

According to a report released by the Treasury Department today, sales of War Savings Stamps totaled $559,777,000 for the period from May 1, 1941, through November, 1942.

Stamp sales have risen from less than three million dollars per month when they were first introduced to the public to an average of more than fifty million dollars per month at the present time.

The Treasury's slogan, "A half-filled album is like a half-equipped soldier," has been adopted officially by retailers for the campaign.

The importance of the drive is seen in the fact that a War Bond potential of nearly two billion dollars hangs in the balance.

Every War Stamp album, converted into a People's Bond, for which the purchaser pays $18.75 and which matures to $25.00 value when held for 10 years, adds its force to the war effort.

The Treasury Department is counting upon the country's school children to play a powerful role in the success of the SAY YES drive. The volume of stamp and bond sales is at the rate of $200,000,000 for the current school year.

GRACIE ALLEN sets an example for all radio and movie stars to shoot at. Asked to pose digging in a Victory Garden at a huge department store in New York, she arrived right on time — though she'd been up late doing a benefit — liked the clothes she was to pose in, complimented the store because she wasn't mobbed for autographs. "Sometimes when we're traveling we hardly get a chance to eat, because people want to talk to us," she said, then added, "But if it weren't for the radio public maybe we wouldn't be eating!" Incidentally, broadcasting still scares her, because she gets to thinking of all the thousands of us, who are listening to her!

THE BLUEPRINT FUTURE

No more worries, no more care,
No more future need to fret;
Everybody'll get his share
From his country. Wanna bet?

No more forging to the front—
It was something of a crime—
Dead the "rags to riches" stunt;
Laws will do it all in time!

Gone the old trail-blazing way
Of the fit and tough and free,
Government will see that they
Find trails opened by decree.

No more "shack to palace" stuff—
Out with "May the best man win!"
Smooth'd will be all journeys rough—
Congress will protect YOUR chin!

No more strong types pressing on—
No more extra-feathered nests . . .
Bid the pushing type begone!
Bar the whiskers from all chests!

No more Algers—not a one!
No more bootblacks making good;
Legislation will, my son,
See to that, it's understood.

No more hare-and-tortoise game—
(Hares will be controlled, and how!)—
Tortoises will get the same
Breaks that hares are getting now.

No more "Upward, onward!" cries
No more praise for ambish keen;
Everybody lives and dies
On the lower mezzanine.

No more bothering to plan,
No more "upward to the sky";
Welcome to the standard man,
Each one like the other guy!

No more "hitch your wagon to
Some far star that brightly gleams";
Hitch it to the planners who
Also standardize your dreams.

U. S. Steel Reports 1942 Production 28 Per Cent Greater Than World War I Peak

United States Steel Corporation's Annual Report for 1942, reporting attainment of a steel ingot tonnage production 28 per cent greater than in the peak year of World War I, has just been released as "a production story—and a financial story—of a great war effort."

Production by U. S. Steel in 1942 of more than 30,000,000 net tons of ingots as well as the manufacture of a steady flow of products entering into thousands of items used in prosecuting the war were described by Irving S. Olds, Chairman of the Board of Directors, in his review of the year contained in the Corporation's forty-first annual report.

The victory parade of steel ingots was listed as only one of several principal contributions of U. S. Steel to the war effort. These contributions were enumerated as follows: "First, a record volume of steel and other materials needed not only for the fabrication of essential war products but also for the creation of new facilities to make such war products has been produced. Second, the technical ability representing many decades of accumulated research and experience has been made available for the requirements of the Government. Third, the construction and operation of vast new facilities for the Government in connection with the war effort have been undertaken. Fourth, millions of dollars of U. S. Steel's funds have been expended for various facilities contributory to the war effort."

A one-page condensation of the financial record of the Corporation for the year describes in simple language what disposition was made of the $1,865,951,692 received by the Corporation from sales of its products and services during 1942. Employment costs of $783 million in 1942 were 25% greater than for the previous year; 1942 taxes of $204 million were 21% more than in the preceding year; while dividends to stockholders remained unchanged. The amount carried forward for future needs of the Corporation was 78% less than in 1941.

Among achievements cited is the development of the airplane landing mat. The serious problem of handling plane landings on hastily built air fields was solved with the war-time invention by Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, a U. S. Steel subsidiary, of a landing mat, consisting of portable interlocking steel sections. It was pronounced the outstanding development of the year in the field of aviation by the Chief of the Army Air Force. As mass production methods were evolved, other companies were licensed to use the process, and thirty smaller manufacturers are now producing these landing mat sections in quantity.

The report reveals that in 1942 one subsidiary, Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, completed more destroyers for the Navy Department in shorter building time than any other shipyard in the country. A new shipyard built by this subsidiary for the Navy Department began operations five months after ground was broken. A fully equipped shipyard for the production of the latest type of tank landing craft was constructed and is being operated for the Navy Department by American Bridge Company, another subsidiary.

An interesting comparison of the use of U. S. Steel's own resources and of Government funds for the expansion of emergency facilities undertaken by U. S. Steel from June, 1940, to the end of 1942, shows that the ratio of U. S. Steel's investment to the use of Government funds was 65c of its own money to every dollar of Government funds used. This compares with a ratio for all industry of 27c of private funds to one dollar of Government funds. In this expansion program, U. S. Steel's private investment was $282,000,000, as compared with $436,000,000 of Government funds expended, making a total of $718,000,000 expended in the program.—Adv.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Seed-bearing pods high up in rubber trees when ripe go off with an audible pop. The pods, about the size of a goose egg, contain formations of gas which explode when ripe and throw the seed as far as 100 feet.

The French call rubber caoutchouc from an Indian term meaning "weeping tree."

Ninety per cent of roadside flats that plague car owners can be avoided. Checking air pressures while tires are cool, before inflating will show up tubes that are losing an abnormal amount of pressure due to slow leaks.

Temperatures, topography and types of roads as well as driving habit of owners account for wide variations in mileages from identical tires. These factors may account for a tire turning in from twenty to twenty-five thousand miles of service in Chicago whereas from seven to eight thousand miles may be the mileage it will render in Texas.

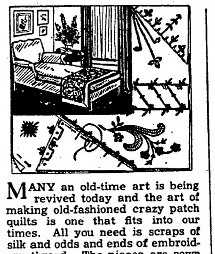
Beautiful Crazy Patch Quilt Made From Scraps of Silk and Thread



MANY an old-time art is being revived today and the art of making old-fashioned crazy patch quilts is one that fits into our times. All you need is scraps of silk and odds and ends of embroidery thread. The pieces are sewn to a foundation of light weight cotton material with a variety of embroidery stitches.

This colorful patchwork may then be used for a new cover for a comforter. Another idea is to cover a worn blanket with it.

NOTE—Book 7 of the series available to readers shows another crazy patch design and gives directions for more than 20 stitches and combinations of stitches to be used for this work. Book 2 of the series gives directions for 42 other stitches that you will want to use for your quilt. Books are 15 cents each, and requests should be sent direct to:

Our Freedom Is Priceless

By JOSEPH E. DAVIES
Former Ambassador to Russia and Belgium.

(Written for the Treasury Department in connection with the Retailers' "SAY YES" campaign to complete the nation's 100,000,000 partially filled War Stamp albums.)

What I myself saw in my four years in Europe gave me a new realization of the priceless rights which we here enjoy.

No secret police can in the night whisk us away, never again to be seen by those we love.

None of us can be deprived by any party, state or tyrant of those precious civil liberties which our laws and our courts guarantee.

None of us can be persecuted for practicing the faith which we found at our mother's knee.

None of us can be persecuted, tortured or killed because of the fact that an accident of fate might have made us of the same race as the Nazarene.

No American can be placed by any party or government in a regimented vise which takes from him or her either freedom of economic opportunity or political religious liberty.

What would the millions of unfortunate men, women and children in Europe give to be able to live and enjoy such a way of life?

Well, in this war, those are the things in our lives which are in jeopardy. Our boys are dying to preserve them for us.

Then we can do no less than to "say yes" and fill those war stamp albums. It is our duty and privilege to help the secretary of the treasury, Mr. Morgenthau, in his magnificent effort to do the tremendous job of getting the money to keep our boys supplied with the weapons with which to fight our fight.

Surely that is little enough for us to do on the home front.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College Searcy, Arkansas

Congress and Freedom

There is a threadbare story about a department store manager who employed a man to be fired at irregular intervals to satisfy the anger of customers who believed (right or otherwise) that they had not been well treated by the store. This hapless character took the blame for everybody's mistakes, repeatedly undergoing the public humiliation of peremptory dismissal.

I heard the old story dusted off and told again not long ago, and it set me to thinking about the Congress of the United States. For years, Congress has carried the brunt of jokes, complaints and criticisms about all manner of administrative matters.

Blaming Congress

Among the many weaknesses of mortal man there is a tendency to "throw off blame" on somebody who for some reason cannot or will not contest the allegation. It was nearly 15 centuries before the Year One when Moses instituted the ceremony of placing the sins of a nation on the head of a goat, thus to have them carried away "unto a land not inhabited." The ceremony is obsolete now, but the practice continues. For blunders of national scope, there has to be a goat. In the United States it has been Congress.

With 531 members, never quite the same ones after any election, Congress has presented a handy place to "throw off," but most of the castigation was completely misplaced. Legislators are representatives of the people and it is reasonably safe to say they have been representing us at our best. If rightly informed, Congress does the fair thing, almost unfailingly. I am honest in the belief that a congressional committee constitutes the fairest jury in the world.

Concerning "X" Cards

It would be hard to find a better illustration of the nation's traditional hair-trigger attitude toward Congress than to tell what took place at the issuance of gasoline rationing cards. Congress did not ask for unlimited motor fuel privilege. The bureau in charge mailed the congressmen their "X" cards in keeping with bureaucratic rule. When about half had signed for the coveted credentials, Washington publicity sounded off in full fury and the nation indulged itself in a ten-day hate spree, with Congress on the receiving end.

The country's lawmakers (by no means all of them guilty) took amplified scorn for accepting "X" cards. But, as far as I know, not one word of criticism was aimed at the 4,500 other government employees who applied for "X" cards and got them. Aside from the top White House staff, cabinet members and under secretaries, Supreme Court justices and perhaps a half dozen top-flight alphabetical war agencies (not more than 100 in all), nobody in Washington pretends to outrank a congressman or to have any more right to an "X" card.

Congress Co-operated

For years Congress has been the nation's "whipping boy." Any time in the first year of the war, if you had stopped the first ten grown people you met and asked who, in their opinion, was most to blame for the government's mistakes at making war, the survey would have been enlightening. Most likely nine of the ten would have launched into an incoherent tirade about a "stupid and corruptible" Congress. They would have been sincere, but the best news of early 1943 is that this unfortunate fad is dying.

The popular appraisal of Congress is changing rapidly and for the better. Let me point out three of the good reasons:

(1) Until after last Thanksgiving, Congress had given the executive branch of our government, promptly and without fail, every dollar and power requested by the President for war purposes. The only reasonable basis for criticism was that Congress might have signed over too much of its own rightful authority. A change in its mood to give out law-making powers to bureaus has come since, and will be discussed in this column in a few days.

Good House-Cleaning

(2) Congressional committees investigating the war effort have spotlighted many administrative weaknesses and forced correction of most of them. Who was it that decapitated that sublime boon-doggle, the Civilian Defense plan? Who forced the creation of a commission to study rubber? In both cases, Congress!

(3) Congressional leaders and a majority of both houses wanted an adequate and practical revenue bill, one including a sales tax. The Treasury submitted three widely differing revenue programs. The second came months after the first; the third, months after the second. Each succeeding program nullified countless tedious days and nights of work on the earlier ones. The public is learning that the responsibility was divided, but Congress took all the odium for not providing a revenue measure earlier.

Jokes have gone too far when they start beclouding the fact that freedom and democracy can not long exist without Congress. No tyrant was ever a tyrant until he had destroyed a nation's representation. Without parliaments, free governments die.

Program and Free Movies

A local program will be given at the Men's Club on Tuesday evening, April 13th, in connection with the Second War Loan bond drive that opens Monday, April 12. Geo. Fricker, chairman for the Village and surrounding townships in this drive, will speak on the various types of bonds that can be bought.

There will a one-act play given by members of the school faculty; Reading by Mrs. Walter Peterson; Solo by Mrs. O. Fosholm; Several musical selections by the local school orchestra and a Solo by Delores Sandberg. In addition to all this, the Crookston Coca-Cola Company, with Mr. Geo. T. Bang, owner, will give a free show to the Men and their Wives at this meeting. This will be a ten-minute film. It is very effective and deals with the destruction of Lidice and the importance of Buying Bonds. This picture, "The Free American Way", contrasts the full horror of life under Hitler's terrorists and our way of life.

This will be one of the biggest meetings of the year for the Men's Club and all the Men and their Wives should attend, not only to hear about the big bond drive, which is one of the most important things in the United States at this time, but to have a big evening together and to see this wonderful picture shown by the Crookston Coca-Cola Co. and also take in the presentation of the new amplifying system just received by the Church.

The Americn Red Cross War Fund Drive in Holt Township and the Village of Holt went over the top with a bang. The chairmen of these two units are to be commended for the fine work they did in having this drive put on so successfully. We will, when space permits, print the names of the contributors and amounts given.

Second War Loan

The people of Marshall County will be put to the acid test during the Second War Loan, beginning April 12, it was announced today by O. M. Mattson, County Chairman.

Organization work for the sales effort in Marshall county is now practically complete and on Monday morning more than 100 solicitors will begin their task of selling $260,000 worth of bonds to the people. Every farmer and every family living in the towns will be called upon to do their part in this greatest selling effort.

"The United States Treasury must raise $13 billion during the Second War Loan, and a substantial part of this money must be loaned to our Government by people in our ordinary walks of life —like you and me and the fellow next door," Mr. Mattson declared. It is obvious to every man and woman that as the United Nations take the offensive against the Axis dictators, the cost of war operations increase in proportion.

"The staggering sums of money necessary for the victory drive of the American and other Allied armies and navies - - the task and the cost of providing food, transportation and munitions for millions of men, over and above the cost of equipment in planes, guns, tanks, ships and other material - - must be borne, in large measure, by the American people left here at home.

"It is not only necessary and right that we should assume this additional participation in the war effort — it is an honor to do so. We who are left here on the home front can do no less than attempt to approach the sacrifices of those brave men out on the fighting fronts to whom the last great measure of sacrifice is but a daily offering. They give their lives. We lend our money..

"While it is true — and this to the everlasting credit of the American people — that there are more people today who own Government securities than at any time in the history of the nation or the history of the world - the simple facts of the matter are, it is not enough.

"If the people of Marshall County, and every county and town in the nation, are to meet their full measure of responsibility, they must loan their Government every cent not needed for the essentials of living and we have to revise downward our ideas about what are essentials. In other words, you, and you and I must go on an all out war basis.

"There are at the present time many billions in liquid funds — cash and commercial bank deposits — in the hands of the American people over and above taxes, debt payment, insurance, and their present investment in Government bonds . . over and above what they can buy this year because of the restrictions or unavailability of consumer goods. This may amount to as much as $40 billion this year.

"It should be the objective of every American to invest these 'loose' billions in Government securities. Now, during this Second War Loan, is the time to invest liquid funds from both current income and from past accumulations in your Government. This Second War Loan makes available to you a type of security for every pocketbook.

"This is not only a patriotic duty, but a duty to yourself as well. Every dollar which you have available now and do not invest in Government securities is a "wild" dollar which may, together with its billion of brothers, turn into a Frankenstein which will raise your cost of living to the point where your dollar will be worth no more than the paper it is written on. In short, this loose money likely to be the cause of a wild inflation that will sweep away your savings and send the price of a loaf of bread beyound what you now make in a year. It CAN'T happen? It did in Germany-and that could happen here.

"On the other hand, the dollar loaned to your Government will work for you in three ways: (1) it will help hold down inflation because it will be harnessed to war work; (2) it will help buy the food, the transportation, the munitions that our boys out there in the front lines need to win the good fight, and (3) it will be earning interest that, together with your original loan, will come back to you later to help you buy the things you can't buy today—to insure your peace of the future.

"So let's not quibble about it. Let's not shilly-shally and debate. Let's dig down into our pockets; let's root those dollars out of dark today and invest them in this Second War Loan, Remember those boys out there. They give their lives—you lend your money.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Forces Gain Ground in Tunisia; New Food Czar Seeks Speedy Solution Of Acute Farm Production Problems; Russ Offensives Endanger Smolensk

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

For conspicuous heroism as leader of a marine fighting squadron in aerial combat with Jap forces in the Solomon islands, Maj. Robert E. Galer is presented with the Congressional Medal of Honor by President Roosevelt. The air hero's mother is shown helping to adjust the pendant on which the decoration hangs.

FOOD:
3-Way Attack

No stranger to farm problems, food production or the delicate job of dealing with recalcitrant congressmen was Chester C. Davis, recently appointed chief of the new Administration of Food Production and Distribution. Former head of the Agricultural Adjustment administration, Davis knew the ropes in Washington and how to keep from getting tangled in them.

For weeks the capital had expected some action in the increasingly critical food production situation. By relieving hard-pressed Secretary of Agriculture Wickard of his food administrator tasks and appointing Mr. Davis as sole food czar, President Roosevelt had created a new three-way agency, combining the Food Production administration, the Food Distribution administration and the Farm Labor administration.

Closer working agreements between congress and the food administration and a minimum of official friction in dealing with war-created farm problems were expected to result under Davis' administration. Observers agreed that Davis had one of the toughest jobs in history, but they were betting he would win.

AIR RAIDS:
Woe to Axis

Axis-held Europe will soon be subjected to 'round-the-clock air raids in which newer, bigger and faster American bombers will carry three or four times the bomb weight of present Flying Fortresses.

This prediction was made in London by Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the U. S. army air forces in Britain. American forces, he said, are now ready to build up a striking power on a par with that of the Royal air force. Soon, he added, will begin the sustained offensive in which the Americans will strike at Europe by day and the British will bomb by night.

General Eaker disclosed that in a series of 51 raids, the U. S. army air force has lost fewer than 90 bombers.

NORTH AFRICA:
Rough Road Ahead

The battle to clear the Axis out of Tunisia was going to take time. Rommel's army still had an offensive "kick." The struggle was likely to get tougher before it got better.

These facts emerged more clearly as the inexorable pressure of the Allied forces ringing the enemy was met by counter attacks which had regained for Rommel's army much of the ground lost when the British Eighth army sliced into the Mareth line.

The communiques did not indicate any lessening of the Allied effort. They merely served to show that the battle was by no means won at the present time. The conviction of an ultimate Axis defeat continued.

While the British stoutly contested the Nazi forces in the South, the Americans under Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton not only held their previous gains at El Guettar in the "waist" of Tunisia but pushed on east of Maknassy in a drive on the coastal road.

DOCTORS:
Rural U. S. Praised

Praising the rural areas of the United States for having in many instances exceeded their quotas in contributing doctors to the nation's armed forces, the American Medical association declared that enrollments of medical officers in the army and navy are lagging because of the failure of young available physicians in large cities to volunteer for duty. This situation is particularly prevalent along the Eastern seaboard, the association's official magazine charged.

The fact that the armed services are not getting all the doctors they need was disclosed at a recent meeting with military authorities in Washington, the Journal of the American Medical Association said. The conference revealed that 6,000 doctors must be drawn from the civilian population this year.

FLOUR:
16 Millers Indicted

In Chicago a federal grand jury indicted 16 flour milling companies and the industry's trade association on charges of conspiracy to fix prices of packaged family flour—the kind ordinarily sold for use in homes throughout the United States.

The indictment charged that the defendants who mill 81 per cent of the 45,000,000 barrels of family flour sold annually met from time to time and agreed upon a uniform schedule of price differentials to be applied to the various sizes of packages in which the flour is sold. Addition of packaging charges had the effect of increasing bulk prices charged by millers by more than 100 per cent in some sizes, the indictment alleged.

The Miller's federation in a statement declared "there are no price agreements in the milling industry and there is no price fixing of family flour."

RUSSIA:
Action Slackens

Although the tempo of battle on the Russian front had slowed down and action appeared to be drifting into a deadlock in several sectors, the Red army had continued its dogged drive through the spring slush and mud toward Smolensk.

Meanwhile German onslaughts designed to gain control of the upper Donets river valley had slackened following the furious resistance of the Russian defenders.

The Russian move toward Smolensk took the form of a north-south drive. The heaviest assault. A Soviet war bulletin reported sharp thrusts by the Red forces north of Dukhovschino, 32 miles northeast of Smolensk. At the same time a Russian column was reported moving toward Dorogobuzh, below the Moscow-Vyazma-Smolensk railway and 50 miles east of Smolensk. Fierce counter-attacks with heavy concentrations of artillery backing up infantry were being undertaken by the Germans, a Russ communique reported.

To the south, the Germans were paying a heavy price in men and material for their effort to gain control of the upper Donets river basin. Nazi attempts to establish bases on the east bank of the river had been severely repulsed.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

SAN JUAN: Expenditures on U. S. naval installations in Puerto Rico, hub of a network to fight enemy submarines, will total more than $100,000,000 by the end of this year, according to Vice Adm. John H. Hoover, Caribbean area commander, in a statement issued here. More than three-fourths of this sum has already been spent in the San Juan areas, he said.

MANAGUA: Primitive idols, grinding stones and ceramic objects that are expected to shed light on the life and customs of early Central American civilizations were unearthed by workmen excavating for the approaches to the Ochomogo bridge on the Inter-American highway near Rivas. The articles will be housed in the natural history museum of Managua.

Personalities on Day's News Front

Shown at left is Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., a "native son" of California, who is a crack shot with a pistol. General Patton's armored forces have been giving Gen. Erwin Rommel's desert army in Tunisia something to think about. Center: Petite, attractive Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, first lady of China, who has become the American spokesman for China's fighting masses. Mme. Chiang thrilled great audiences here. Right: J. Lester Perry, president of the Carnegie-Illinois company, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, shown as he appeared before the Truman committee investigating war production. Charges were made that false tests were made on steel which was being used by the navy.

Teamwork Keynote of Anti-Aircraft Artillery Success

In few branches of our armed services are teamwork and co-ordination more important than in the anti-aircraft artillery. Pictures shown here were taken during maneuvers at Camp Davis, N. C. Upper left: When the alert sounds, anti-aircraft crews must reach their stations in seconds. Dress is of slight importance, but they must have their rifles, cartridge belts, gas masks and helmets. They race to their posts. Right: This picture was made while the 90-mm gun was actually in full recoil. Lower left: Captain Rousseau peers through a slit in the battery commander's underground station to check on the operations of the crew.

Sends Son to Fight Against Homeland

Shamed by the Jap attack upon Pearl Harbor, James S. Kondo, 51, a Jap-born resident of the Hawaiian islands, was gratified when the army permitted his son, Herbert, 18, to join a special combat regiment made up of Americans of Japanese ancestry. Herbert is shown in the center with his mother and father, who wears his American Legion cap. He is a veteran of World War I.

Nineteen stenciled Jap flags mark the score of this Grumman Wildcat shown on famous Henderson Field, Guadalcanal. The score was made by several different pilots, of which Tech. Sergt. R. W. Greenwood, a marine from Jamesport, Mo., is plane captain. He is shown in cockpit.

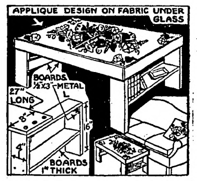
Make a Coffee Table From Odds and Ends

IT ALL started with a bright idea for making a simple, painted coffee table from odds and ends. The sketch at the lower left gives the dimensions and shows the simple construction. Two end sections were made first; the top and sides of these being fastened together with metal angles, as illustrated. A shelf was then nailed in and a ½ by 3-inch board nailed across the back of it. Two boards for the top of the table were then screwed to the end sections.



So far the table was substantial but crude and that is where the lady with the needle came in. The table was to be painted putty color and then waxed. She bought a yard of slightly darker tan sateen and appliqued a design of bright blue and red morning glories and green leaves on it with stems and tendrils in green outline stitch. This was placed over the table top and tacked around the edge. A piece of glass was then cut to fit and ½ by 3-inch pieces were screwed to the sides flush with the top of glass.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has prepared a sheet—17 by 22 inches—giving complete dimensions and directions for making this table. Even the gal who is just learning to do small chores with hammer, saw and screw driver can follow these simple, clear directions. To get a copy ask for Design 254, address:

I LICKED MY CONSTIPATION

Of course, it wasn't due to anything organically wrong with me. It was just ordinary constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet.

A dose of some medicinal laxative gives only temporary relief for such constipation. You got to find something that gets at the cause and corrects it. I found just that—in KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is a wonderful-tasting breakfast cereal and a swell way to start the morning. Eat it regularly, drink plenty of water and—if your constipation's like mine—you'll "Join the Regulars," too! ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek, Michigan.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

ELMER TWITCHELL AND THE VICTORY GARDEN

Elmer Twitchell issued a communique today announcing that he has launched his spring Victory Garden drive again. "I never won a victory over it yet," he said sadly, "but I am going to try once more."

* * *

"I can't give you much time," he told reporters, "I'm going over the whole situation to check up on gains and losses in my campaigns so far, find out where I am, consolidate my forces and decide on my 1943 tactics."

"What's your tactical position?" a reporter asked.

"I'm not positive," he replied. "This is only my second summer in the field. Last summer it was touch and go most of the way, with a pretty serious defeat at the finish. I held my own until August when overwhelming forces just about ruined me."

"Are you more confident of victory this season?"

"I am stronger than I was a year ago. I've trained hard all winter. I've got some new weapons and I have the will to win."

"Do you intend to wage a defense or offensive war?"

"I found out last summer that you can't get anywhere with a Victory Garden on the defensive. Those damned bugs love it if you stay on the defensive. That's right up their alley."

* * *

"Don't forget," Elmer resumed, "that all these garden pests and blights were in a much better position than I was when the fight started. They had been doing nothing else but waging an all-out war for years. I was green at it."

"Was it the element of surprise that bothered you?" he was asked.

"Not so much surprise as the power and determination of the enemy," he replied. "And of course their reserves are inexhaustible. I'd lick 'em and think I had wiped out the last bug, and up would come another battalion of 'em. That sort of thing gets pretty discouraging."

"Who do you think was your toughest foe?" a reporter asked.

"I thought General Aphis was tough early in the season but later the Mexican Bean Beetle proved harder to beat. His armored attack on bean vines is terrific. Then came the Japanese Beetle. He used heavy tanks and is strictly a suicide fighter."

* * *

Elmer seemed depressed just reviewing last year's garden campaign.

"I threw them all back up to midsummer, but then General Cutworm attacked in force, using blitz methods. He was supported by waves of corn borers, potato bugs and snails."

"How about your chemical warfare?" he was asked.

"Oh, I gave 'em all I had, but they had too many fresh shock troops to throw in. But do you know what really broke down my morale last season?"

"No."

"The neighbors' chickens," concluded Elmer. "That was what got me. I thought they were neutral. They were Fifth Columnists!"

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Laboratory tests demonstrate that rubber can be made to stretch from 50 to 1000 percent or to have no stretch at all, as in hard rubber.

A cubical piece of about half an inch of the substance we now know as rubber was selling for three shillings in London art shops in 1770. It was then called rubber because it could erase pencil marks.

The first articles of rubber to be manufactured were clothing and shoes.

American seamen are now equipped with rubber life-saving suits weighing slightly over 14 pounds. This new buoyant suit features a whistle, flashlight, knife and yellow hood and gloves to attract rescuers. Weighted shoes keep the wearer upright in the water.

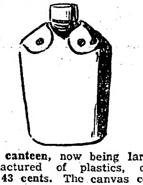
One of the most essential articles of equipment for our soldiers is his canteen. In equatorial countries and in other warm climes they are particularly important to the welfare of our fighting men.



The canteen, now being largely manufactured of plastics, costs about 43 cents. The canvas cover . . . about 41 cents or 84 cents in all. Your purchases of War Bonds, or People's Bonds, will buy many of these for our men in the Solomons or in Africa where they are badly needed. Local Farm Help Committee

The problem of Labor Supply for the 1943 farm production is serious. There is no longer an unlimited supply which can be imported to fill in seasonal needs. 90 per cent of the labor required to produce this years crop must come from within the communities and from within the county.

The responsibility of the direction of the Farm Manpower program has been transferred by Paul McNutt, Director of the Manpower Commission, to the Secretary of Agriculture. On Feb. 24th Governor Stassen issued an executive order placing the responsibility for the organization of an effective program in Minnesota upon P. E. Miller, the Director of Extension, and requested that he serve as Minnesota Farm Manpower Director. The county agents have been designated to serve as a similar capacity at the county level.

During the past week here has been organized in each trade center a local farm help committee which will assist in the mobilization, recruitment and the placement of all available farm help which might be found in all townships and villages. In addition there has been set up in each of these trade centers placement offices which will assist farmers in locating farm help and which will eandeaver to place all available farm labor.

When these committees and officers are set up and functioning a real service can be rendered to both the farmer and the farm help. The personnel of the local farm help committee together with the placement office are:

Walter Larson, Chairman, Olaf Ness, Secretary, Alton Carlson, John P. Augustine, and Hartley Peterson.

Plan Your Definite Future

The financial welfare of Marshall county farmers for the next 20 years depends upon how wisely they use today's wartime income," R. A. Reierson, County Agent, said today. "That is over and beyond the fact that we owe it to our country to back our fighting men with necessary dollars.

"Whether all farmers realize it or not, the higher returns they are getting for their products these days are not all increased income. Much of it is pay for the wearing out of all types of farm equipment. This is not income, but a return of working capital, which is being worn out."

Mr. Reierson explained that the money that ordinarily would be used to replace or repair tractors, trucks, automobiles, harvesters, planters, fences, and other equipment should be invested in government securities as offered in the 2nd War Loan drive as a depreciation reserve which will be availabe for replacement after the war.

He urged farmers to plan a definite future financial program now to make these replacements after the war. "All out efforts to produce record supplies of war crops are utilizating the land and farm equipment and buildings to the maximum," he explained. "Use actual depreciation figures for estimating how much you should invest in War Bonds each year to replace or repair everything used on your farm. Build financial reserves today for tomorrow's buildings. While helping to arm the armed forces today, prepare to arm your farm for the future." To take care of the soil fertility being taken from the soil in producing record war crops."

Many farmers and 4-H Club members of Marshall County have wholeheartedly adopted the policy to "Make Every Market Day Bond Day" he said. Others have designated a certain number of their hogs as "Victory Pigs" for the purchase of War Bond and other securities. Still others are deducting a portion of the money they receive for their farm produce for bonds.

"Regardless of what system is used," he concluded, "every farmer in the county, if he has not already done so, should begin now to invest regularly in Treasury issues out of his currents income to build a financial reserve for future needs."

Two pioneer newspaper men from this end of the state have passed away recently. R. D. V. Carr, founder of the Middle River Pioneer forty years ago, died at his home there on March 21st at the age of 84 years. He is survived by his wife.

Martin Widsten, former owner of the Warroad Pioneer and for the past few years retired and living at Bemidji, passed away on April 3rd at the Veterans Hospital at Fort Snelling. He was 64 old and had served in the Spanish-American War. He was buried at Ft. Snelling with military honors.

The Marshall County State Bank of Holt has charge of two more auction sales at Middle River. One is on Friday, April 16 in the afternoon, when Carl Kilander will sell out his stock and farm machinery and the other is on Monday, April 19, when Arvid Peterson will sell out his stock, machinery and household goods. Read their ads in this issue of the News.

Ship Named for Pioneer Editor

The United States Maritime commission has named one of the newly completed Liberty ships for James M. Goodhue, editor of the first newspaper published in Minnesota. Goodhue settled in St. Paul on April 18, 1849, only a few weeks after Minnesota territory was organized. Before the end of the month he had established the "Minnesota Pioneer," which has continued to the present as the "St. Paul Pioneer Press."

Goodhue's name was selected from a list compiled by the Minnesota Historical society in response to a request from the Maritime commission. The society was asked to furnish the names of twenty-five men and women who have been prominent in the history of the state. Among those included on the list, in addition to Goodhue, are Colonel Snelling, Henry Sibley, Alexander Ramsey, Ignation Donnelley, John A. Johnson, Jane Grey Swisshelm, Dr. W. W. Mayo, Leonidas Merritt, and and Frank B. Kellogg. Some of the ships launched in the future may bear their names.

The "James M. Goodhue" was built by the California Shipbuilding corporation and was launched at Long Beach, California, on March 15. Another recently completed ship was named for John Banvard, an artist who painted a moving panorama of the Mississippi Valley in 1840.

Sentinels of Health
Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.
When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.
Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.
The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

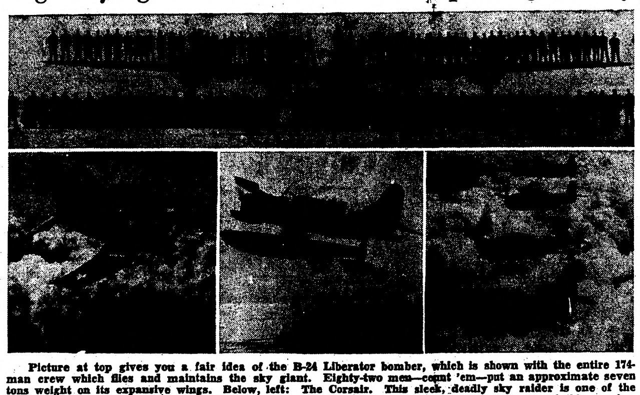
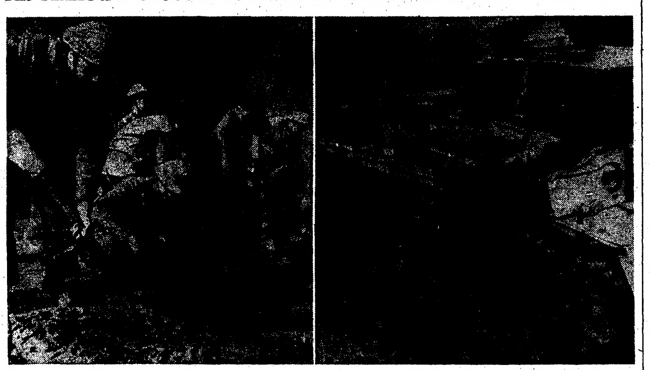
High-Flying Warbirds That Will Help Bring Victory



Picture at top gives you a fair idea of the B-24 Liberator bomber, which is shown with the entire 174-man crew which flies and maintains the sky giant. Eighty-two men—count 'em—put an approximate seven tons weight on its expansive wings. Below, left: The Corsair. This sleek, deadly sky raider is one of the newest of U. S. navy fighting planes. Note long narrow fuselage and the inverted gull wings of this carrier-based fighter. Center: The Sea Gull, our navy's newest pontoon-equipped scout observation plane. Can be launched by catapult from battleships and cruisers. Right: The Avenger, the navy's new torpedo bombers, capable of hedge-hopping waves to press home a torpedo attack and flying high above enemy targets to drop tons of high explosives. Carrier-based.

As Allied Forces Put Heat on Gen. Rommel in Tunisia



These scenes are from Tunisia, as the battle for this last Nazi foothold in North Africa got into full swing. At the left, British Royal Engineers are probing the road for land mines left by the Nazis as they abandoned their Mareth line positions. Right: This German Mark 3 tank was put out of action as Rommel's panzer units tried to stem the pressure of the advancing Americans. A Nazi tank crewman died beside his gun and lies sprawled atop the tank.

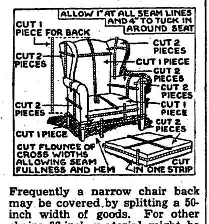
YOUR tape measure and a little figuring can help you save material when making those new slip covers. In estimating goods remember that the length and width of each section must be the same as the widest and longest measurement of the part of the chair to which it is to be fitted plus seams, seat tuck-in and flounce fullness. The method of measuring is shown here.

Slip cover material usually comes in 36 and 50-inch widths.



Frequently a narrow chair back may be covered by splitting a 50-inch width of goods. For other chairs 36-inch material might be cut to better advantage. If the material has a large figure an extra yard will be needed for matching and centering the design. Decide in advance which seams are to be accented with welting or trimming and measure them to determine the amount needed.

In Riding a Bicycle, We Balance With Our Ears

The transportation restrictions have sent many thousands of people back to the bicycle. Some of us had not ridden a bicycle for years, but the art of balancing on two wheels came back to us easily enough.

Now, why don't we fall over? The tires on the bicycle are a semi-circular pattern, you will have noticed, and when you come to think about it they do look pretty precarious. In fact, it is obvious that you are going to hold them up, not they hold you.

The truth is that we balance our bicycles with our ears. It is all part of our normal make-up, this balancing act, and we commence putting it into operation as soon as we begin to walk.

The ear is divided into three parts: the outer ear, the middle ear, and the inner ear. Our balancing mechanism is contained in the inner ear. There we have two tiny canals filled with liquid. We might almost call them "fluid levels," for they function in much the same way. When the liquid is moved by the sway of the head it touches tiny hairs which convey to the brain the message that we are overbalancing.

You know what happens when we spin round quickly. In a little while we lose all sense of balance, and the room appears to be spinning round us. Actually we have set the liquid in our ear canals spinning, and not until it has settled down and become still again shall we regain our normal faculties.

Uncle Phil Says:

There's Hope for Us

Perhaps we are not as absent-minded as we are thought to be, or we could forget our troubles.

Some men are born great, but the majority don't even have greatness thrust upon them.

Nature is a good mother, but she coddles no one.

Have You Noticed It?

Journalism has made great advances since we were a boy. Now the number of casualties in a great disaster is approximately what the first reports say they are.

An auctioneer must be very wide awake, but that doesn't get him anywhere if the people don't nod.

Arise with the lark, but avoid larks in the evening.

Paper Watermarks

A watermark is obviously a very valuable trademark, since it is embodied in the paper without interfering with that paper's usefulness. The name of the inventor of watermarks is unrecorded. We find watermarks as far back as the 13th century.

Briefly, a watermark is made by incorporating a design in thin wire in the mold on which paper is being formed. Where the wire touches the paper, it is naturally thinner. And so the impress of the wire is visible if the finished paper is held up to the light.

Do you know the new regulations on packages sent to men in the service? Here they are: You can send packages to soldiers anywhere in the U. S., although there are now Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men; and you can send packages to men in the Navy, Coast Guard, and Marines, wherever they are. And when you send that package from home, remember—the gift men in the service always appreciate is cigarettes. And the favorite with men in the Army, Navy, Coast Guard, and Marines is Camel (based on actual sales records in Post Exchanges and Canteens). So stop in at your local dealer today—and mail him a carton of Camels.—Adv.

IN THE COAST GUARD they say:
"SACK DRILL"—for take a nap
"FISH"—for torpedo
"FOUR-O"—for very good, or tops
"CAMEL"—for the favorite cigarette with men in the Coast Guard
FIRST IN THE SERVICE
With men in the Coast Guard, Army, Navy, and the Marines, the favorite cigarette is Camel. (Based on actual sales records in Canteens and Post Exchanges.)

MARTINIQUE APPEASEMENT

How tolerant we have been of the French island of Martinique, for two years thumbing its nose at us within bombing distance of the Panama canal, is illustrated by a conversation which took place between the state department's Sam Reber and treasury department officials.

Reber had gone to Martinique to negotiate with Vichy Admiral Robert regarding the airplane carrier, cruisers and six oil tankers rusting in Martinique waters. Subsequently, the state department announced that an agreement had been reached with Admiral Robert whereby these ships would be turned over to the U. S. A. Months have passed, however, with no result.

After state department envoy Reber returned, treasury officials asked him:

"What about the gold in Martinique? What is to become of that?"

They referred to 25 billions of gold francs still stored in Martinique.

"Oh," replied Reber, "that didn't come up."

"Wasn't it even mentioned?" asked treasury officials, who remembered how France had defaulted on her debts from World War I, still owing us several billion dollars.

"No," replied Reber, "did you think it would be safer up here?"

"Well, it certainly isn't very safe down there," countered the treasury.

"We decided," replied Reber, "that we didn't want to do anything which might infringe on the sovereignty of France."

That ended the matter. The gold is still in Martinique, and Admiral Robert, who apparently isn't much impressed by the subtleties of state department appeasement, has continued to thumb his nose at the United States.

RED CROSS DONOR

Several weeks ago Mrs. Roosevelt phoned the Red Cross to say that she wanted to donate blood to the Washington blood bank, but wanted no publicity.

Red Cross officials agreed and the visit went off without any fanfare. Mrs. Roosevelt merely took her place in line with other blood donors, rolled up her sleeve, had a pint drawn from her arm, and went on about her business.

Some weeks later, Red Cross officials were astounded to have Mrs. Roosevelt appear at the blood bank again. This time she had not telephoned, but they felt their pledge of no publicity still held good. Once again, the First Lady took her place with other blood donors, and scarcely anyone knew she had been there.

Red Cross officials wished they could have publicized the incident, because they were in the middle of their drive for funds. However, they did not do so, and this column learned of the facts quite by accident.

PAY BEFORE PATRIOTISM

War Production board officials tell of a heavy snow-and-sleet storm that blanketed Seattle and left the Boeing Aircraft plant snowbound, unable to operate for two days. By the end of the week roads had been opened, and Boeing broadcast a back-to-work call.

Men came to the gates of the plant, but stopped there. And they declined to go further until they could be assured of receiving time-and-a-half pay for week-end work.

"But you haven't put in 40 hours this week," officials retorted.

The men stood their ground, however, and Boeing officials telephoned Washington for advice. They talked with Madame Perkins, who ruled that nothing should be allowed to interfere with production and that the men should be paid.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

U. S. department chiefs have asked for the deferment of very few government workers, but local draft boards, acting on their own, have deferred a tremendous number simply because they worked for the government.

The diplomatic envoys of Honduras, Costa Rica, Salvador, Guatemala, and Nicaragua soon will become ambassadors extraordinary instead of ministers plenipotentiary. This would give all Good Neighbor diplomats the rank of ambassador except Haiti and the Dominican Republic; would also place them ahead of Australia, Canada and New Zealand.

Figures for accidents on the home front continue to be almost as tragic as war casualties. Ned Dearborn of the National Safety Council says that 93,000 Americans were killed and 9,300,000 injured last year.

Of the 26 British camera men who filmed General Montgomery's "Desert Victory," four were killed, seven wounded and six taken prisoner . . . The film is imperfect and hard on the eyes because it was taken under battle conditions. But it is a great story of British heroism.

Only American journalist to visit the Japs' secret naval base, Truk, is Willard Price. In his book, "Pacific Adventure," he scooped the world on Japan's surreptitious plans to dominate the Pacific from Truk. Recommended as required reading for the state department.

Pay of Captives

When an American soldier is captured, his pay is continued and the accumulated amount given to him upon his return, minus such deductions as insurance premiums and allotments made to dependents. When a man is reported missing in action and his fate is unknown, he remains on a pay status for at least a year.

All From Wood

Wood is known in Germany today as "universalrohstoff"—the material of which anything can be made. German soldiers are clad in fabrics produced from wood. They eat yeast, molasses, and sugar made from wood; also cattle.

German soldiers move to Russian battle lines in wood-gas-driven trucks which are greased with tree-stump lubricants and employ Buna tires made from wood alcohol.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When two glasses become wedged together, place cold water in the upper one and set lower one in warm water. They will then separate with little effort.

To prevent the lower crust of fruit pies becoming soggy, brush over with the white of egg before putting in fruit filling.

If ivory enamel is to be used on furniture an undercoat of flat ivory paint first should be put on. Imperfections in the application of enamel will show less if a flat coat is added first.

* * *

To restore jam or jelly after it has become hard and sugary, place in a warm oven and leave there until the sugar softens. This will make the jam or jelly as good as before.

* * *

When tablecloths wear thin in the center, cut up the outside into 12 or 16-inch squares and hemstitch and use as napkins.

* * *

Wilted vegetables may be made crisp if covered with cold water and allowed to stand several hours in the refrigerator.

* * *

Do not fill a bird too full when stuffing a chicken or turkey. Filling about three-quarters full is better. The dressing in cooking, will have a chance to expand.

A night light can be made from a half-burned candle. Light it for a few minutes and then blow out and sprinkle fine salt over the surface and halfway up the wick. The flame will be much smaller and the candle will burn slowly.

Sprinkle a cake with cornstarch before icing to prevent icing running off.

Smile Awhile

His Prerogative

The conversation had turned on the ways of wives.

"Well," said Brown, "when my wife and I have an argument I always have the last word."

"Oh," exclaimed someone. "You do?"

Brown nodded.

"Yes. I apologize."

Trouble seems to be a patriotic affliction. It makes the eyes red, the hair white and the feelings blue.

Should Know Them

There was a scream of brakes as the bus pulled to a sudden stop, to avoid a flustered-looking pedestrian who was dithering in the roadway.

Crimson with strain and rage, the driver leaned out of his cab. It was plain he was controlling himself with a great effort as he asked politely:

"May I ask what are your plans, sir?"

Could He?

Said Mr. Henpeck, who had just overheard his wife scolding the maid: "You and I seem to be in the same unfortunate position, Mary."

"Not likely!" replied the maid. "I'm giving her a week's notice tomorrow."

Seizing Opportunity

Man at Door—Do you believe in free speech?

Housewife—Why, certainly I do.

Man—Fine. Let me use your telephone.

Not Kidding

"See that bevy of quail in the underbrush?"

"Yes."

"Well, watch me shoot a hole clear through the red barn behind 'em."

Only He Knows

Mistress—Marie, you were entertaining a man in the kitchen last night, weren't you?

Marie—That's for him to say, ma'am. But I tried my best.

Some Reputation

Magistrate—Is the prisoner a known thief?

Constable—A known thief? Why, he'd steal the harness of a nightmare.

Too Binding

Insurance Agent—I take it you favor a straight life policy?

Client—Well, no. I like to step out once in a while.

"A monologue," wrote the school boy, "is a conversation between two people, such as husband and wife."

Peaceful Andorra

Unharmed and unmolested by the conquering Napoleon and more recently by Hitler's armies is a small nation, Andorra, which lies between France and Spain on the slopes of the Pyrenees mountains. During the long winter months the people of Andorra (pop. 5,000) are "holed in" as the mountain passes become obstructed by snow.

Frequently farm animals are kept inside the homes to utilize the warmth of their bodies. Murder has never been committed in Andorra, according to records.

Army Dogs to Rescue

U. S. army dogs are specially trained in rescue work. Upon locating a wounded man, the dog returns to headquarters, indicates his find by chewing his "brinsell," a short wooden stick that hangs from his collar, and leads stretcher-bearers to the spot.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER
War workers cars are being checked in company parking lots by at least one manufacturer to make certain that tires are kept in serviceable condition. If the worker fails to have his tires recapped in time he is denied further application either for tires or recaps.
It takes three to eleven times normal distance to stop on snow or ice without tire chains, and you can't negotiate slippery hills with bare tires that spin on packed snow, waste gas and wear tires.
Each tapper on a rubber plantation is responsible for about 300 trees, which in one day's tapping will net an average of 50 pounds of latex, equal to about 17 pounds of dry rubber.
Automotive conservation authorities in New Hampshire boast of the reduction of that state's tire needs by 87 per cent as an example of what can be done in saving rubber now on motor vehicles.

One of the biggest auction sales to be held in this part of the country was handled by the Marshall County State Bank here when they had charge of the Gust Martinson sale at Middle River on Friday. The crowd was about as large as it could be at a farm sale and the bidding was brisk with prices for livestock and machinery going skyward.

Mrs. Emil Boyum and Mrs. Albert Miller of Grygla called at the H. O. Hanson home Monday. Mrs. Boyum, who is Grygla's assessor, had attended the meeting at Warren.

WOMEN AT WAR

Leonora

Leonora straightened the objects on her desk with great care. She had put her desk at the end of her room facing the door so that when her mother came in she would have to cross the whole room under Leonora's stern executive eye to get to her. From movies and pictures in the newspapers Leonora had gotten a good idea of how the desk of a busy woman of affairs should look.

With an important scowl, Leonora picked up a sheet of paper. Now she was two people—herself, the busy woman, and her own stenographer. "Miss Simpkins, take a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury, will you?" she murmured under her breath.

"Yes, immediately," she murmured back at herself.

Leonora cleared her throat and looked at the ceiling for inspiration. Miss Simpkins bent over the sheet of paper hanging on the words about to fall.

"Dear Mr. Morgenthau," — "Got that?" — "Yes, madam."

"I am — ahem — thirteen years old and anxious to be of all possible service to the country at this time, ahem!

"I earn a weekly income of from $1.37 to $2.12 by helping with the housework and by shovelling snow. I am at present in possession of one War Savings Bond and am buying stamps weekly. I want to become a member of the 10 percent Club. I feel it to be — ahem — not only my duty, but my privilege' ("How do you spell privilege?" asked Miss Simpkins. "Don't bother me with these details," said Leonora)—my privilege as an American to invest at least ten percent of my income in War Bonds.

Yours truly,"

"Get that off at once, Miss Simpkins," said Leonora. "Yes, Ma'am! You certainly are an important woman, ma'am," said Miss Simpkins.

Honestly now, just what did you do today for your country?

Sure, you're an American and proud of it and you'll put up your dukes to anyone who questions your loyalty, but . . .

Honestly now, just what did you do today for your country?

There's a war on now and we're in it 100%—total—all out—from "hell to breakfast." Every Jap, German and Italian is working 100% against us. Every American who isn't giving his all, for the war effort, is a load some other American has to carry. Of course, you have bought bonds and our boys have fought battles, but it takes a lot of both to win a war. The boys'll keep on fighting, if you'll keep on buying to provide equipment they need to do the job . . .

Honestly now, just what did you do today for your country?

Keep this straight, when you sign up for war bonds, you're not buying . . . you're lending, to your government, to back up your boys. While we're backing the war with our men, dare we fail to back our men with our money? Just how much do you think money will be worth if we lose this war? Better put it to work now, at interest, through War Bonds which help protect its stability, help shorten the war, help save American lives . . .

Honestly now, just what did you do today for your country?

When a fellow American calls on you this week asking that you buy more War Bonds, remember that he is neglecting his job to see you. He is just a volunteer—a fellow citizen who is trying to do his part, in his way, to help the war effort. Because he is enthusiastically in this war program, he will appreciate any bond purchase you may make, and your purchase will be your answer to the question . . .

Honestly now, just what did you do today for your country?

BE SURE YOUR NAME IS ON THE WAR BOND ROLL CALL

The cost of this advertisement was borne by a group of American Industries in the Ninth Federal Reserve District as a contribution to the war effort.

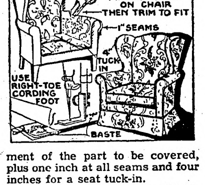
Showing the Panel Type of Slip Cover

IN EVERY price range today there are handsome flowered materials for slip covers. The patterns are designed so that a motif may be centered in each part of a chair to make a panel. This is not difficult to do if you cut straight pieces first according to the widest and longest measurement of the part to be covered, plus one inch at all seams and four inches for a seat tuck-in.



CUT PANELS WITH DESIGN CENTERED-PIN INSIDE OUT ON CHAIR THEN TRIM TO FIT
1" SEAMS
4" TUCK IN USE RIGHT-TOE CORDING FOOT
BASTE

Pin and trim to fit, as shown. Seams that are to be sewn without welting are pinned and basted from the wrong side. Unpin seams where welting is to be used. Baste the welting to the right side of the seam edge, then baste the seam. A right-toe cording foot is best for welted seams as it allows the bulky material to be on the left where it will rest on the machine leaf.

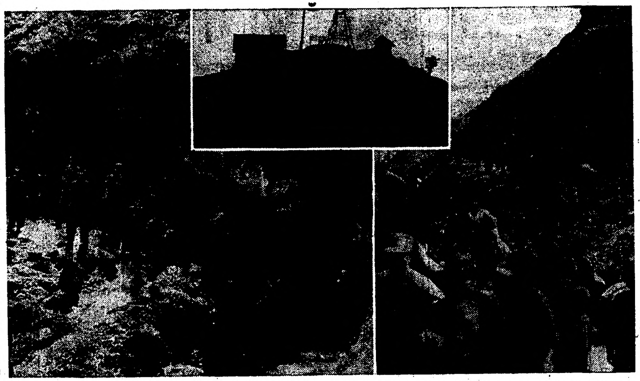
When China's Air Alarm System Warns of Jap Planes

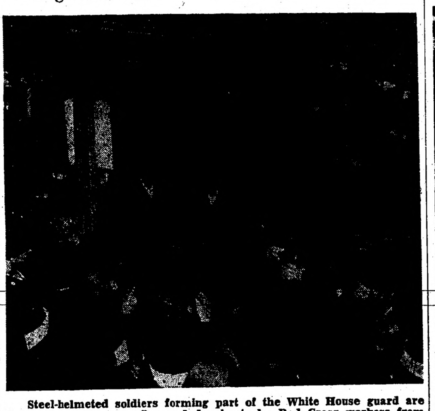


China's air alarm system is the world's best, giving Chungking residents two hours' warning of the approach of Jap planes. In the picture at right, Chinese residents of Chungking walk unhurriedly to their cave shelter in the hills: Left: Entrance to a typical cave air raid shelter. The people seem to be more interested in the cameraman than in the Jap planes, which are to appear overhead in a matter of minutes. Inset: Hillside signal system, near Chungking.

Making Big Guns That Will Thunder for Allies

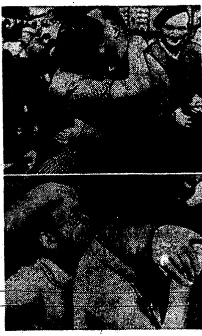
The Washington, D. C., navy yard turns out big 16-inch rifles that thunder from battleships, as well as the eight and six-inch guns for heavy and light cruisers. Also deadly five-inch dual purpose guns. At left, an overhead crane swings a partial assembly of a five-inch dual purpose gun over the partial assembly of a six-inch triple mount (foreground). Center: A white-haired inspector minutely examines small caliber cartridge cases before they are sent on to receive their lethal load. Right: Cartridge cases getting their final inspection. Their destination is the breech of a five-inch gun trained on an Axis warship or plane.

Doughnut Time for White House Guards



Steel-helmeted soldiers forming part of the White House guard are shown being served coffee and doughnuts by Red Cross workers from their new clubmobile, a mobile kitchen equipped with a doughnut-making machine and large coffee urns.

Joy and Sorrow



Two flashes from a captured German newsreel, made at the time the Germans released French prisoners of war who had been held in German camps. At top, a wife embraces the husband she hadn't seen since 1940. Below, two youngsters who watched the reunion weep because the father they expected home had not come.

Beware the Booby Trap

British soldiers learned from experience never to touch an object in captured territory until sappers announce that the territory is safe. Yanks are profiting by British experience. The U. S. soldier on the left is making a mistake in touching the camera on the body of this German soldier. Photo on right shows how it was wired to explode at slightest touch.

America Loved In Middle East

By Gordon Gaskill

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Woman's Home Companion.)

Since time means nothing in the great bazaar of Damascus, I had contentedly spent a full half hour haggling the price of a dagger with a merchant named, like all Syrians apparently, Ali Hassan.

Then for the first time he noticed the brass insignia on my uniform: "U. S." His eyes opened wide.

"What!" he cried. "You American?"

I nodded and Ali Hassan pondered my answer for a moment. Then suddenly he held out the dagger.

"Take it," he said, "take it free for nothing, and the next time you see that President Roosevelt, give him the dagger as a present from me and tell him he has the love of Ali Hassan of Damascus."

So I took the dagger, and told him I would, and I will—for I think I shall never forget the look in his eyes as he said the name of Roosevelt.

High Opinion of U. S.

I have now been in the Middle East long enough to be past amazement at such behavior. But at first, before I became immune, I was astonished and touched to find how enormously America bulks in the thoughts and dreams of the entire Middle East. To find how American products are cherished and used—and sometimes oddly misused. To find how the ancient East is becoming Americanized.

For example, merely because I was an American, a Jewish merchant in Beirut had given me the best pair of shorts in his shop, a Free French tobacconist had pressed rare and expensive cigarettes on me, an Arab restaurauter had refused payment for my dinner, and a Greek woman who runs a printing shop had waved aside money for some visiting cards. Instead, she wept as she told me how the Nazis had killed one son, how another son works in New York, and how much she loves all Americans.

"All Americans," she said simply, "will go to heaven. All of them. I am certain." I let it go at that.

Prized American Cigarettes.

When I entered Syria at a remote border point, the frontier official waived all formalities, and I gave him a package of American cigarettes. "The first I've had in two years!" he breathed and he took them as if they were gold. They almost were, for in Beirut they were selling for a dollar a pack.

Syria has always loved Americans. Most of us forget, if we ever knew, that after the last war Syria voted to have the United States rule her. When America declined, France took the mandate instead.

America has been generous to Syrians who emigrated and often found their fortunes. Almost every other Syrian you meet has a kinsman in America and asks something like: "Do you know my son, Joseph, in the state of Philadelphia?"

Zahle, a charming city in the Lebanon's lovely Valley of Mulberries, especially cherishes Americans. There are 20,000 Zahlians in Zahle, but 20,000 more live in America. The local newspaper actually has more subscribers in America than in Zahle itself. I went to Zahle to stay one day and left, very regretfully, after ten days of unbelievably generous hospitality.

A Kiss for the President.

It was in Zahle, for instance, that a woman of about 50 came up to me as I was walking along the main street and asked me, in French, whether I was really an American. I said yes, and she asked if she could kiss me, then and there. So she did, on both cheeks. "Once for President Roosevelt, and once for all other Americans, may God bless them."

What she said about "all other Americans" makes a point that should be underlined: This lavish gratitude and hospitality that Americans in the Middle East are receiving is emphatically not for us as individuals, but as symbols of the 130,000,000 Americans back home. Through us here, they are thanking everybody in the States.

Even the money situation helps this pleasant state of affairs. For example, the lowest paid American ordinary seaman receives today at least $200 a month, or about as much as a British major. And the dollar is at a premium, worth in purchasing power nearly a half more than face value.

For economy's sake, American merchant marine officers have discarded their ancient prejudice against wearing their rather snappy uniforms on shore. They have discovered that a uniform—any uniform—means great savings.

For instance, the rail trip from Suez to Cairo costs $3.30 to civilians, only 70 cents if you're in uniform.

Virtually all movies in the Near East are American, with French, Arabic and Greek subtitles on a separate screen. I can't decide whether Alice Faye or the Lone Ranger is the great popular favorite.

American music is complete mistress of the dance floors and radio waves, ranging from Star Spangled Banner to O-Johnny and My Heart Belongs to Daddy. "Hi-ho, Silver!" has been adopted as a sort of battle cry by many nationalities.

JUST JESTING

Loved But Not Lost

He—Have you ever loved and lost?

She—No, the jury awarded me $10,000 heart balm.

Don't They?

Teacher (to new pupil)—Do you know the alphabet? What letter comes after A?

New Pupil—All of them.

A milkman, inducted into the army, wrote back home from camp: "Bessie, I sure do like this army life. It's nice to lie abed every morning until five-thirty."

Seat of Learning

The lad was dull at school you see;
His dad took things to heart.
He took the lad across his knee
And there he made him smart!

Frightful

"What's that ugly insignia on the side of the bomber?"

"Sh-h-h-h. That's the commanding officer looking out of a port hole."

Time Changes Things

Visitor (in defense plant)—Look at that youngster, the one with the cropped hair, the cigarette and trousers on. It's hard to tell whether it's a boy or girl.

War Worker—She's a girl and she's my daughter.

Visitor—My dear sir, do forgive me. I would never have been so outspoken if I had known you were her father.

War Worker—I'm not her father, I'm her mother.

When Your Back Hurts -
And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par
It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

FDR Tightens Living Cost Controls; Allies Push All-Tunisia Offensives As Rommel Speeds Retreat Northward; Draftees Status Altered in New Plan

ANTI-INFLATION:
'Hold the Line'

President Roosevelt's "hold the line" anti-inflation order served blunt notice on all special economic groups that competition for higher prices and wages must end, because the resulting conflict would not only result in inflation but "breed disunity when unity is essential."

Banning further wage increases except to correct substandard living conditions virtually freezing employees to their present jobs and extending price controls to all cost-of-living commodities, the President's order centered a four-pronged attack on inflation. The order provided:

1—No further wage increases beyond the Little Steel formula of 15 per cent over rates on January 1, 1942; 2—Immediate ceilings on all commodities affecting the cost of living; 3—No hiring of new employees by employers, except in accordance with War Manpower commission regulations, to prevent employment of workers at higher pay than they received in previous jobs; 4—Stabilization of rates of common carriers and public utilities.

DRAFT:
Classes Reshuffled

As local draft boards speeded the reclassification of registrants, in accordance with new selective service regulations, the fathers of children born before September 14, 1942, found themselves the sole occupants of class 3-A. All other men of draft age were being placed in one of the following classes:

1-A—Subject to immediate induction; 2-A—Deferred because of occupation in activities directly supporting the war effort, or vital to the maintenance of civilian health and welfare; 2-B—Deferred because of occupation in war plants; 2-C or 3-C—Deferred because of essential agricultural work; 3-D—Deferred because their induction would cause extreme hardship to dependants; 4-F—Mentally, morally, or physically unfit for service.

PACIFIC FRONT:
Air War Continues

Aerial warfare on the north and east extremities of the Pacific battle front provided for weeks the only activity in this theater.

In the north American army bombers escorted by fighters continued their daily assaults on Jap positions in the Aleutians, bombing Kiska and blasting Attu.

Largest scale action of all occurred near Guadalcanal, where American airmen destroyed 37 out of 98 Jap planes and bombers which attacked U. S. shipping. Americans lost seven of their own planes in the encounter.

U. S. NAVY:
Billions for Building

Further evidence of the navy's determination to build itself into unmatched global power was seen in President Roosevelt's request of congress for a $24,551,070,000 appropriation for the fiscal year 1944—the largest amount ever sought for the nation's sea-fighting forces.

The President asked for $6,230,000,000 for new warships; $1,830,000,000 for maintenance and repair of ships and $3,476,000,000 for guns, ammunition and armament. While only $1,640,000,000 was requested for airplanes, a backlog of about $4,000,000,000 in orders will provide adequate numbers of fighting craft.

ADM. ERNEST J. KING
. . . more battle-wagons for him.

RUSSIA:
Quiet on Donets

As reports had persisted that the Germans were moving many fresh divisions to the Russian front for a new offensive, the Red forces took the initiative in the Kharkov area and seized several favorable positions south of Izyum, thus widening the Soviet bridgehead on the south bank of the Donets river.

Following their failure at Izyum, the Germans were reported massing strength in the Balakleya sector.

A Moscow communique reported that quiet had again descended on the Smolensk front after a lightning Russian thrust that resulted in the capture of several strongly held villages northeast of the Axis stronghold.

Engagements were but a prelude to bigger movements, for both sides were massing their forces for new major actions once the spring-thawed ground became firm again.

TUNISIA:
Fox in the Open

Rommel's retreating Afrika Korps had been faced by Allied armies on three sides after "The Fox" was uprooted from his El Akarit positions and chased into the open plains of Tunisia well north of Gabes.

The seriousness of the crisis for the Axis was reflected in Italian communiques which admitted that Italo-German forces were being steadily overpowered along the entire Tunisian front.

GEN. BERNARD MONTGOMERY
. . . outfoxes Rommel.

The long-hoped for junction of American and British forces had intensified Rommel's plight, for now General Montgomery's British Eighth army was not only pressing him from the south, but its advance units now joined directly with General Patton's Second American army corps were menacing his flanks from the east. To the north, General Anderson's British First army had moved to close off Rommel's movements for a possible union with the Axis forces of Gen. Von Arnim.

In routing Rommel at El Akarit, General Montgomery took the Nazis by surprise with a night attack that blazed its way forward under the screen of 500 cannon and scores of tanks and reinforced by hundreds of planes overhead. In the first break-through the Eighth army had gathered in 6,000 Axis prisoners.

As the battle picture became clearer, the contributions of General Patton's American forces emerged importantly. Prior to the historic junction with the British Eighth army after piercing the Axis armies' flanks, the Americans had held up most of Rommel's armored forces in the El Guettar region, weakening his defenses and making easier the task of the British at El Akarit.

BLOCK-BUSTERS:
Work Well Done

The penetrating eyes of British reconnaissance cameras confirmed reports of RAF bomber pilots that "block-busters" have done their work well in laying waste industrial areas of Berlin.

Photographs taken after one recent raid disclosed that 30 important war factories had been destroyed or damaged. The devastation was concentrated mostly in areas south and southwest of the center of Hitler's capital, a report by the air ministry disclosed.

Railway repair shops, freight yards and the Templehof airfield were among objectives damaged.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

NEW YORK: Secretary of Navy Frank Knox announced that salvage operations were progressing rapidly on the 83,000-ton former French liner Normandie, now named the La-Fayette, which burned and capsized at her pier here on February 9, 1942. He indicated that the vessel should be righted by midsummer. The giant liner is being refitted for naval service.

LONDON: A shipment of 10,000 American alarm clocks will be used to replace those worn out in Britain since the war started, it was announced by Hugh Dalton, president of the board of trade, in a statement to the house of commons after a member complained that coal miners were having a hard time waking up for their 2 a. m. shifts in British and Welsh collieries.

From an old French word "mes" derived from the Latin word "missus" meaning a course at a meal, comes the Army's name "mess" for its breakfast, dinner and supper. Favorite meal with the soldier is chicken dinner—his favorite cigarette, Camel. (Based on actual sales records from service men's own stores.) A carton of Camels, by the way, is a gift that's always welcome. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. Schools Open Drive To Buy 10,000 Jeeps

THE little jeep which is serving so nobly from Guadalcanal to Africa has become the symbol of the gigantic efforts of millions of American school children in their War Savings program.

Thousands of public, private and parochial schools soon will be displaying a certificate of honor from Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., signifying that they have paid for at least one jeep by buying $900 in War Stamps and Bonds.

Countless others will be flying the Schools At War banner awarded to schools with 90 percent pupil participation in War Savings.

Ten thousand jeeps and a hundred bombers! This is the new goal of America's schools as 30,000,000 children continue their Schools At War program under the auspices of the Treasury Department and the U. S. Office of Education.

Results so far in the program reported by Dr. Homer W. Anderson, Associate Field Director in charge of the education section of the War Savings Staff, are:

More than 7,000,000 elementary and high school students from 30,000 schools have prepared special Schools At War scrapbooks for state and local exhibits.

War Stamp and War Bond purchases may reach a grand total of $300,000,000 for the school year.

Other Prices are Hitting the Ceiling—
But Electric Prices are Low!

Today all of us are bumping our heads on ceiling prices. The cost of living has been rising so rapidly the government has had to put a ceiling on many prices. The prices of all commodities have been going up and up, yet electric rates have remained low . . . and your electric company is doing its best in the face of rising war-time taxes, plus increased production costs, to keep electric rates low.

Today you are getting twice as much electricity for your money as you did 10 to 12 years ago. While the price of electric service was going down, you were adding many labor-saving appliances, and thus using more electricity.

There is still plenty of electricity available for war work and the Home Front, too. There is no need to curtail your use of electric service in this area. The abundent supply of electricity at low rates is the result of sound business management and experienced employees working together . . . working to bring you good electric service at low rates.

Hard Wind and Dust Storm

One of the worst dirt storms that has hit this country for a long time, blew in here from the west with a hard driving wind all day Saturday. According to press dispatches the storm came all the way from the west coast Seattle, Washington, was hit hard with small boats being capsized and ferry traffic coming to a standstill when the high winds made Puget Sound travel very dangerous. Many lives were lost in drownings.

Minnesota Has New Governor

In an historic day, filled with swift-moving events, Governor Harold E. Stassen gave up his position as Minnesota's chief executive Tuesday--first man in the history of Minnesota to resign from the governorship to go into the armed forces--participated in the elevation of Lieutenant Governor Ed Thye to Governor and departed for Great Lakes Naval Training station to begin his active service in the Navy.

Standing in the rotunda, beneath the great dome of Minnesota's capitol, Stassen handed his resignation to the Lieutenant Governor in the simplest of ceremonies, and Thye sworn in, the first farmer ever to become the Governor of Minnesota.

Clinic For Crippled Children

Thief River Falls has again been selected as one of the nine Minnesota centers at which district clinics for crippled children will be held this spring.

Announcement that the clinic has been scheduled for Saturday, May 1st is made by Dr. Malvin J. Nydahl, head of the Minnesota Bureau for Crippled children.

Boys and Girls under 21 years of age unable to afford private orthopedic care from the following counties: Pennington, Marshall, Kittson, Red Lake and Roseau will have the opportunity for medical examination by orthopedic surgeons at this clinic. Vocational advisers will also be present for those wishing to consult them.

It is requested that those attending the clinic for the first time bring a letter from the family physician. Children who have had care under the Bureau for Crippled Children or Gillette State Hospital are asked to report to the clinic, if they have been instructed to do so.

If any special information is wanted, it can be procured by writing to the State Bureau for Crippled Children, Division of Social Welfare, Globe Building, St. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Sanoden and Russel visited relatives in Mentor Sunday. Mrs. Julius Borchert and Bonnie, who had spent a few days here returned with them to her home at Mentor.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Peterson and Donnie were supper guests at the Carl Peterson home at Thief River Falls on Sunday.

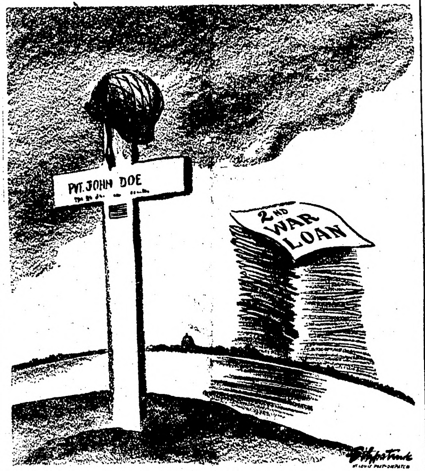
THANK YOU

At this time, I wish to thank the people of the Townships of Agdar, East Valley, Excel, Holt and the Village of Holt for the fine cooperation given me in the recent War Bond Drive. I also wish to thank all my committee men who donated their time and funds in trying to make this drive a success. I wish to advise the pledges turned into me as of Tuesday, April 27th:

Townships	Quota	Pledges
Agdar	$ 2500.00	$ 3852.50
East Valley	1000.00	1575.00
Holt	4000.00	1836.00
Excel	6500.00	3545.00
Village of Holt	3000.00	3299.25

Two townships and the Village of Holt have gone over their quota. I hope that those not over may still be able to do so. Today is the last day to buy bonds for the April drive, and I ask that those that have not bought, do so today. A pledge means nothing unless you buy a bond. Lets show that we have the right spirit and not fail in our duty.

Yours truly,
Geo. Fricker, Local Chairman



"They Give Their Lives—You Lend Your Money"

PROCLAMATION

State of Minnesota Executive Departmet, Saint Paul

Whereas, natural resources may be the decisive factor in ultimate victory for the democratic cause, and

Whereas, it is America's tremendous wealth of natural resources that gives the Allies faith that our participation in the war will swing the pendulum of battle toward victory, and

Whereas, Minnesota is endowed with a great abundance and variety of resources. The intelligent and economical use of which is good sense in peacetime and a grave necessity during war, and

Whereas, we should not neglect, even during the exigencies of war, to continue the fundamental conservation practices that insure the safeguarding of basic stocks of our natural resources, and

Whereas, education concerning the importance of, and interrelationships existing among our forest, water, land, wildlife and mineral resources is essential to a broad public understanding of the necessity for conservation,

Now, Therefore, I, Harold E. Stassen, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby designate the week of

May 2nd to 8th, 1943 as Minnesota Conservation Week and Friday, May 7th as Arbor and Bird Day and urges all school, churches, sportsmen's organizations and other civic groups to observe the week with appropriate ceremonies and the day by planting trees and encouraging appreciation of birds.

In Witness Whereof

I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State Of Minnesota to be affixed at the State Capitol in Saint Paul this 6th day of February, 1943.

Sewing Project Completed

The Red Cross sewing which was sent to Holt in February was completed by April 1st. The 25 size 12 pajamas were cut by the following: Mrs. Hjalmer Peterson, Mrs. Joe Nelson, Mrs. Ludvig Sagstuen, Mrs. Louis Sagstuen, Mrs. Harry Engen and Mrs. Hartley Peterson. The sewing was done by the following:

Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson, Mrs. J. Meyer, Mrs. G. Sanoden. Mrs. Hjalmer Johnson and Mrs. Iver Larson, 1 pajama each. Mrs. Knute Nelson, 3 pajamas. Mrs. Ludvig Sagstuen and Mrs. Hilmar Moberg, 5 pajamas each. Mrs. C. Sandberg, 7 pajamas.

No more sewing is expected now until in the fall. There may be some knitting this summer.

Perhaps someone would like to help make an afghan for the Red Cross. Either old or new yarn may be used. Knit blocks exactly 6 inches square in the garter stitch (knit every row). Each afghan requires 48 blocks. Blocks may be plain colored or a combination of colors. Any size needles may be used as long as the block is exactly 6 inches square.

This is a good way to use up old yarn from worn sweaters or other knitted garments, and the Red Cross will appreciate getting the afghan. Also this is an easy project for beginning knitters. If anyone is interested in learning to knit, please let me know.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

OWI Predicts 6% Cut in Food Supply; Bombers Strafe Italian Supply Ports As Allies Close Axis Tunisia Trap; U. S. Promises MacArthur More Planes

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Typical of the harvest of Axis prisoners in the Tunisian campaign is this batch of German soldiers guarded by a lone British Tommy. They were taken in the early stages of the drive northward, after General Montgomery's Eighth army had shattered the Mareth line.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC:
Battle for Air Control

While Gen. Menryo Sato, chief of the Nipponese military affairs bureau in Tokyo threatened Jap air raids on the United States, enemy planes continuing a battle for control of the air over a wide area at the approaches to Australia mounted a 100-ship raid at Milne Bay, New Guinea. Allied fighter planes, alert to the danger, shot 30 of the enemy raiders out of the sky.

Meanwhile, Allied air forces ranging over the vast battle area described by Gen. Douglas MacArthur as "our bomber line—the first line of Australian defense" attacked a Japanese convoy of six merchant ships and three warships approaching the enemy base at Wewak, 450 miles north of Port Moresby, New Guinea. Three of the merchantmen were hit, including two 8,000-ton and one 5,000-ton ships.

In answer to warnings from General MacArthur's headquarters of the increasing strength of Jap air, sea and land force concentrations threatening Australia, Secretary of War Stimson promised that enough planes would be sent to the South Pacific to counter the rising Jap power.

TUNISIA:
84 to 3

As the Allied armies closed in on the Axis' last mountain bastions in Tunisia, the gravity of Marshal Rommel's supply problem was shown by the heavy German reliance on aerial transport from Sicily.

That this supply problem would become even more critical was evident from two facts: 1—The Axis had lost all but three airports in Tunisia; 2—Rommel's thin supply line was being menacingly depleted by American Flying Fortress attacks.

Typical of the potency of the American aerial offensive was a raid on Axis rear bases at Castelvetrano and Milo in Sicily in which 84 enemy planes were destroyed with the loss of but three American aircraft.

With the Mediterranean at their back, the forces of Rommel and Col. Gen. Von Arnim were hemmed into an area less than the size of Connecticut in Northeast Tunisia. The Axis did, however, have the advantage of holding mountainous positions difficult for the Allies to storm.

The strongly fortified ports of Tunis and Bizerte were the Allies' final goal. Operating under the supervision of Commander-in-Chief Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the British First army in the North, American and French forces in the center and General Montgomery's British Eighth army on the South steadily closed the trap on the Axis.

MEAT:
Ceilings Deferred

Following through on President Roosevelt's directive to "roll back" the cost of living items found too high, OPA Chief Prentiss M. Brown suspended until May 17 the price ceiling schedule on beef, veal, lamb and mutton.

Meat trade sources disclosed that the OPA had received complaints that its previously proposed standard prices on these meats would have resulted in higher prices.

FOOD:
You'll Get Less in '43

Controversies might rage over whether the Office of War Information had or had not sugar-coated its estimates of forthcoming food shortages, but the sober fact remained that civilians will have at least 6 per cent less to eat this year than they consumed last year.

Warning that the food situation is serious, OWI experts said, "There will be more or less continuous shortages of some kinds of food—such as canned vegetables . . . (and) . . . meat products." Civilians, however, will get enough to eat. In fact, compared to the pre-war years they will have about 3 per cent more food.

Among food supplies on the debit side for 1943, OWI roughly estimated: 11 per cent less meat, 21 per cent less butter, 11 per cent less cheese, 3 to 25 per cent less canned vegetables, 27 per cent less canned and shell fish. Among items on the credit side, OWI calculated: 30 per cent more chickens, 57 per cent more margarine, 13 per cent more frozen fruits, 7 per cent more wheat and 13 per cent more rye. Listed among food supplies that will be about the same as last year were: Fresh and frozen fish, eggs, fluid milk and cream, lard and other cooking fats, fresh citrus fruits, potatoes and sweet potatoes.

RUSSIA:
Sparring Tactics

Still sparring like prize-fighters seeking advantageous openings, the Red and Nazi armies on the far-flung Russian front held each other off in preparation for the cudgelling blows that will fall when dry ground makes movement possible.

Military activity was confined to minor skirmishes. In the Kuban valley of the Caucasus, the Russians mounted attacks which resulted in the capture of a series of pillboxes and trenches from the German defenders.

In the Donets river area the Germans attempted another offensive in the Izyum sector, but were repulsed, a Soviet communique said. North of Chuguev in the Kharkov area, Russian artillery was credited with dispersing a German infantry battalion.

AIR RAIDS:
Sardinia to Stuttgart

From Sardinia to East Prussia, Allied bombers struck at Axis-held Europe with increasing fierceness as the tempo of "softening up" raids continued to rise. British, American and Russian planes had simultaneously taken the offensive.

Among spectacular raids was the vast British foray against the big German industrial city of Stuttgart. Observers reported that planes on this raid could be heard roaring across the British Channel toward the continent for an hour and a half.

Nazi radio broadcasts were the authority for reports that Red air forces had raided Koenigsburg in East Prussia three times within a five-day span.

American Flying Fortresses continued to destroy Axis shipping facilities with punishing attacks on the port of Cagliari in Sardinia.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

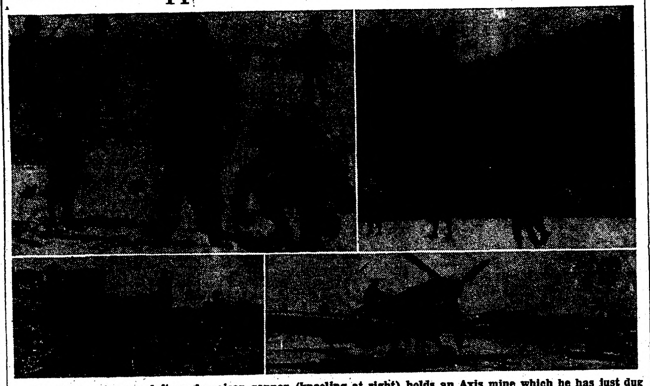
BUENOS AIRES: Seven members of the crew of the scuttled German pocket battleship Graf Spee escaped during a leave here from an internment camp on Martin Garcia island, government sources were informed. Authorities were reported searching for the men. More than 300 Nazi sailors from the ship have escaped since they were interned in Argentina three years ago.

BERNE: Germany which meted out aerial punishment to Britain three years ago has learned what a bitter experience it is to be on the receiving end of Allied bombings. A statement quoted here from the Strasbourger Nachrichten says: "We must admit the war has taken a turn we had not foreseen. Sad, too, is the fact that we have no means of preventing air raids."

As Yanks Ripped Rommel's Lines in Tunisian Hills

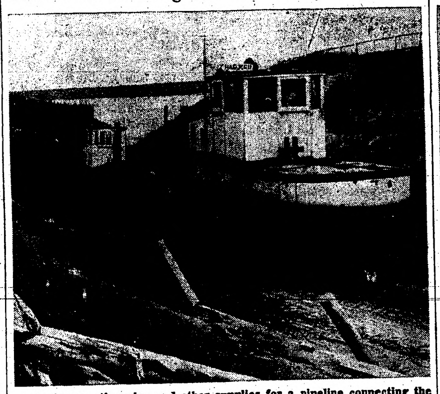


In picture at upper left an American sapper (kneeling at right) holds an Axis mine which he has just dug from the sand near Gafsa, Tunisia. Upper right: On the hunt for snipers, a U. S. security unit searches the ruins of an old fortress in Gafsa. Below, left: Through rubble-filled streets and past the bomb-blasted buildings of Gafsa march U. S. troops, meeting no resistance. When the call comes to go aloft, U. S. pilots are rushed out to their airplanes in jeeps. In picture at lower right one of the airmen is running from the jeep to his sky fighter.

U-Boat Meets British Destroyer—Goes Down to Stay

The Italian submarine Asteria had the misfortune of meeting a British destroyer in the Mediterranean. In photo at upper left the sub is brought to the surface for the last time by a depth charge attack. Her crew await being picked up. Lower left: The Asteria is on her way to a permanent rendezvous with Davy Jones, as members of her crew, most of whom were saved, swim to the destroyer. Right: Italian U-boat prisoners leave the destroyer at an undisclosed port.

One Phase of Tough Job for Army Engineers



In transporting pipe and other supplies for a pipeline connecting the Norman oil fields of Canada with White Horse, on the Alaskan highway, to make fuel easily available for defense stations, U. S. army engineers overcame great obstacles. Here a convoy of supply barges and towing craft nears the end of a rough 16-mile cross-country voyage.

Farm Migration to More Fertile Areas

As partial solution of the farm manpower problem, farm families are being transported from so-called "submarginal" low-production farms to areas where production is high. Picture shows men, women and children arriving in New York en route to the truck farming region around Stafford Springs, Conn. Camp Connors, former CCC camp, will house them.

'Ike' Meets 'Monty'

Gen. Dwight ("Ike") Eisenhower (overseas cap) shakes hands with British General Bernard Montgomery, commander of the Eighth army which chased Rommel from Egypt halfway up Tunisia. General Eisenhower flew to General Montgomery's headquarters to congratulate him and his men for cracking Nazi resistance.

When the soldier talks about "the skipper" he means his captain, the head of his company. And that's just what the title "captain" means. It comes from the Latin word "caput" meaning "head." Another leader high in the Army man's favor is Camel cigarettes—they're first choice with men in the Army. (Based on actual sales records from service men's own stores.) When you're sending gifts from home, keep in mind that a carton of cigarettes is always most welcome. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Stout chains and padlocks bind each of the four wheels to the bumpers of a Trenton, N. J. woman's car when she parks it in the streets at night.

It was not until 1916 that the U. S. made its first annual appropriation for Federal aid highways. Good roads, good automobiles and good tires are companion necessities in modern motoring.

It is generally believed that at speeds below 35 mph, tire blowouts, whether front or rear, are not particularly dangerous for alert drivers, other things being equal. Another good reason for keeping to the rubber-saving 35 mph limit!

In return for their stimulated rubber growing and collecting activities the United States has agreed to pay South and Central American countries from 33 to 45 cents a pound for rubber until the end of 1946 at least. Before government price freezing, rubber was selling in the U. S. at 22½ cents a pound.

The Real Problem

Hubby—Have you ever wondered what you would do if you had Rockefeller's income?

Wife—No, but I have often wondered what Rockefeller would do if he had mine.

An antique is something no one would be seen with if there were more of them, but which everyone wants when no one has any.

No Moss on It

"What's that stone in Ann's engagement ring, Joyce?"

"A rolling stone, my dear. I had it once."

Selfish Thought

"What are you thinking of?"

"Oh, nothing much!"

"Don't be so self-conscious."

Her Touch

A parson had occasion to reprove a small boy for swearing.

"If you feel you must say something just say 'Bother!'" he said. "Your father doesn't swear, does he?"

"Oh no, sir!"

"Well, then; if he were working in the garden and suddenly stepped backwards on to a rake which flew up and hit him from behind, what would he say?"

"He'd say: 'You're back early, dear!'"

The boys in Australia sent us this one. A mother kangaroo had patiently scratched her stomach three times, but when the process was to be renewed a fourth time, she snatched two baby kangaroos from her pouch, spanked them, and said: "How many times have I told you not to eat crackers in bed!"

Last Chance

"Well, we have exhausted reason, logic, common sense, and justice; what more can we do?"

"I guess we'll simply have to go to law."

Uncle Phil Says:

A Popular Fallacy—

Some believe opportunity is a chance to rake in money without earning it.

You have to cultivate good habits. Only the bad ones grow wild.

The man who sings his own praises is usually a soloist.

An Old Proverb—

Never shift your tongue into high gear until you are sure your brain is turning over.

"The man who wants to marry should make a little money first," says a social worker. Afterwards his wife has to make a little money last.

Success comes from cans. Failure is packed in can'ts.

Weight of Birds

Hummingbirds, which weigh about one-twelfth of an ounce, are the lightest birds in the U. S. Heaviest birds are the wild turkey, trumpeter swan and the Canada goose, which weigh from 15 to 31 pounds.

12th Century Monastery Crossed Ocean in Cases

The 12th century Spanish monastery which Mr. William Randolph Hearst purchased and had shipped to America in a specially chartered steamer in 1923 has been sold to an anonymous buyer for $19,000.

Twice this sum was spent on repacking the monastery, after it arrived in the United States in 10,500 cases. This had to be done because the stones had been wrapped in straw, and it was discovered too late that it was illegal—for sanitary reasons—to import straw. Mr. Hearst is believed to have spent $500,000 on the monastery. It has been estimated that it will cost another $125,000 to transport it from its present resting place in a New York warehouse to wherever it is to be re-erected.

Save the peels of oranges and tangerines, dry them in the oven, and store them in glass jars. They give puddings a delicious flavor.

Keep the tops of your spice tins very secure as the air tends to make spices lose their flavor.

If a little piece is chipped off walnut furniture, touch up the spot with iodine applied with a piece of cotton, then go over the surface with furniture polish.

To remove fresh paint, wash fabric with soap and water. If the stain is old, soften it with lard or sponge with turpentine. Then launder. If material is nonwashable, sponge with turpentine or spot remover.

Next time the steps need painting, try painting every other step; let these dry, then paint the others. It takes a bit longer, 'tis true, but it's a lot handier and the kiddies will love having to take 'em "two at a time."

When the ironing board is folded up and stood away in the closet or corner of the kitchen until needed again, the end that rests on the floor becomes soiled. To prevent this, make a slip cover for the end.

Brooms and other sweeping brushes should be hung up when not in use. For hanging, use ordinary picture wire. It wears indefinitely and being stiff will catch on hooks more easily than string.

A clean, well-kept iron gives efficient service. With a damp cloth, wipe off any starch marks. If the iron sticks while pressing, rub it over salt sprinkled on a paper. Once a month rub the warm iron with beeswax or paraffin and then rub over a clean cloth or paper until the excess wax is entirely removed.

A small piece of tin or a thin piece of wood is useful when washing the baseboard of a room. It can be slipped along as the woodwork is scrubbed and save many a nasty smear on the wallpaper.

KITCHEN CHAIR

HERE is how you can play Fairy Godmother to a kitchen chair. Pad the back as shown here, using at least three layers of cotton batting for the front of it and one for the back. Next, cut an 18-inch circle of cardboard and use it for a pattern for marking the shape of the round seat on boards or plywood. Cut out the wooden seat and screw it to the chair. Save the cardboard pattern.

Cover the front of the chair back next, tufting it with covered buttons sewn through the back with a long needle. Sew the back of the cover in place with stitches hidden under welting. Tack a strip of muslin around the seat, and sew the ruffles to it. Now, pad the round cardboard; stretch covering fabric over it; then sew it in place on the chair.

Not Suited

All the wordy skill of the dealer was called in as he tried to sell a broken-winded horse to a reluctant customer.

After a trial trot around, he struck an attitude of admiration and exclaimed:

"And hasn't he got a lovely coat?"

"Mebbe," said the customer coldly; "but I don't like his pants."

Loudest Wail

The loudest continuous noise ever created by mechanical means is produced by the Victory Siren, one of which is installed on the RCA Building in New York city as an air raid alarm, says Collier's. Although operated solely by compressed air, it has a "wail" equivalent in power at the horns to the combined voices of 4,000,000,000 men, twice the entire population of the world.

It's Interesting to Watch Departments Whizz By

Desirous of bucking up business, the proprietor of a large department store engaged an "efficiency expert," whose chief delight was changing the various departments around.

One day a section would be at the top of the building; the next it would be in the basement or where the restaurant used to be.

After three weeks of this an old lady approached a worried-looking shopwalker and asked if he could tell her where the hardware department was.

"No, madam," he replied wearily, "but if you'll stand here for a few minutes, I'm sure you'll see it go by."

Thirteen billion dollars—the sum the Treasury must raise in the Second War Loan drive, is only one sixth of the estimated cost of the war for the fiscal year of 1943.

Where Will Money Come From?

People ask: "Where will the money come from?" to reach the thirteen-billion dollar objective of the Second War Loan. The answer is simple. The people HAVE the income.

When we produce munitions or peacetime goods, or anything else, we likewise produce income. For every dollar of production, there is a dollar of income.

The problem of war finance boils down to this—if individuals and businesses receive more income after taxes than there are things produced for them to buy, then excess funds arise. The government deficit is matched by the combined surplus of everybody else. This surplus should be put into Government securities to wipe out that deficit.

They give their lives . . . You lend your money.

Butch is on a BALANCED DIET!

This situation isn't covered by Army regulations, but we're betting that Butch will find a way to handle it without spilling a spoonful.

In fact, your electric company knows just how he feels, because we have the same problem. Right now, we're being called on to balance good service and low regulated rates against fast-climbing costs and ever-increasing demands for electric power.

We're doing it, too—supplying plenty of electricity for war work and the Home Front, too . . . and besides that, we're balancing a big plate of taxes.

Don't get us wrong. We know the need of war time taxes. We're proud that the business-managed electric companies in the United States paid $620,000,000 in taxes last year. That was 23c out of every dollar customers paid in—8c to local and state governments—15c to the federal government—enough to outfit 1,687,762 buck privates like Butch.

How is it possible to make so much electric power and meet so many taxes at the same time? Because of sound business methods and long experience—because men, women and management work together as a team.

But while we're doing all this, government and municipal power systems are not paying a penny in federal taxes to help win the war. Shouldn't everyone do his full share?

Sabotage

An interesting letter has come to my desk. I regret that it is necessary for me to withhold the writer's name. I am giving it to you without comment, beyond saying that I am laying the case tactfully before Mr. Prentiss Brown, administrator of the OPA, confident that he will be as anxious as anybody to correct such abuses if they are at all general.

Dear Dr. Benson:

I wonder if you are in a position to tell Captain Rickenbacker or somebody else who gives a hoot, that absenteeism among industrial workers is not the only kind of sabotage that plays havoc with the war effort? But let me start at the front end of my story.

Rickenbacker is an idol of mine. I never met him, but they could adorn the Captain with two stars or break him down to two stripes and he would still be Eddie Rickenbacker to me, and to many a kid my age (over fifty) who, like myself, loved to strip an old jaloppie, rev-up its motor, paint the skeleton red and call it a racing car.

Hero Worship Maybe

Of course I listened to Rickenbacker's radio talk here a while back, and what he said was still on my mind the next day when I went to my local ration board after gasoline coupons for my truck. I'm a union man at heart, certainly no labor-baiter, but I'm a farmer. All the time I worked at my trade I was buying some land, and my truck (a Ford pick-up) is used exclusively for farming, the same as me. I'm positive that I'm not prejudiced; I'm against nobody but the enemy, at home as well as abroad, regardless of his calling.

At the ration-board office I had to fall in line of course—I'm getting used to that now, and don't mind much. The man ahead of me in line had a job in a plant where they make airplane parts. He had just got a promotion and started working under a new boss in a new department. He had come to get gasoline coupons too. He lives 20 miles from the job and said he couldn't get to work the next day without gasoline; neither himself nor four neighbors who ride with him.

He Didn't Get It

The fellow was an honest looking chap. He explained everything plain enough for me to understand it; and I'm no braintruster. He said he knew he needed a form, part of which had to be filled out by his employer, and he had asked the Ration Board for such a form but did not get it. He conceded that the Board had probably overlooked his request for a special form innocently, his change of jobs being a sort of irregularity.

The man went on to explain that when he had fixed up his papers (all but the one he didn't have) and had brought them to the Ration Board's office, he was told that the "employer's form" also had to be completed. He declared that he had attended to it immediately but, on account of the delay, he failed to get his papers in on time to receive official action at the Board's last meeting. All he got from the manager of the Board was assurance that the case would be considered at the Board's next meeting—four days off.

Five Workers Absent

If the man had wanted to buy 25,000 barrels of gasoline in I.C.C. drums he couldn't have been treated any cooler, but actually all he wanted was an emergency supply to take him and four other airplane builders to work for four days until the Board met. He tried to emphasize that point but it only served to irritate the manager who began phonographing, "Your case will be considered when the Board meets."

I am telling you truthfully, it completely got my goat. I got the gasoline coupons I went after. Maybe I ought not to be kicking about a headache that belongs to somebody else. But you see I was still all built up with the common sense patriotism of Captain Rickenbacker. He had talked about how American soldiers in tropical fox-holes need support from the air. He had made staying home from work look like a felony, half-way between arson and murder.

Abuse of Authority

Personally, I think the fellow sitting right there looking down his nose and opening his mouth just wide enough to say "Your case will be considered when the Board meets," had enough authority to allow this man some gasoline to take five war workers to their jobs. But maybe not. Perhaps he is tied down by rules and gets pretty tired every day listening to arguments over things he can do nothing about. But it's a rotten situation if the manager of a Ration Board can't allow an emergency ration of two gallons per man to keep them making airplanes four whole days.

Maybe this fellow likes his job. After all, if it wasn't for the war he wouldn't have that position of authority. Maybe he thinks it's to his personal interest to let the war last as long as possible. I can't believe that is what's the matter with him, but the results are the same.

Footprints on the Sands of Time

The past record of a man or an institution is a reliable omen of the present or future. A long record of reliable, honest and sincere service, and factors that make up a past that can truly be pointed to with pride, these are "footprints" that lead to success.

The past record of this paper is our strongest recommendation.

We today pass into another stretch of time, having started volume No. 38 and hope that we have so served our readers and advertisers that we may merit your continued support in this field of business.

The Publisher.

John Moberg of Gatzke is ill at a hospital at Thief River Falls. His relatives here have been down to see him every day.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been of the wet variety. We have had a few showers of rain and some all day drizzles. In all they have kept most of their seeding done. Yesterday it cooled off and we had a light snow storm.

County $84,153 Over Quota

Marshall county sucessfully hurdled its greatest financial undertaking when pledges and actual sales for the U. S. Treasury's Second War Loan totaled $344,154.75, according to final tabulations completed this week.

Marshall county will over-subscribe its $260,000 quota in the huge 13 billion dollar nation campaign by $84.153.75, if all pledges are fulfilled before May 7, O. M. Mattson, county chairman at Warren, revealed after tabulations had been completed Tuesday.

The nation as a whole will have subscribed $17 billions during the 2nd War Lorn when final tabulations are completed after May 7, reports from Washington indicate.

The Federal Reserve Bank in Minneapolis reported actual sales of Marshall county at 102 per cent of quota up to April 29. The sales do not become official until payment for the bonds has been received by the Federal Reserve Bank. When the final tabulation is made, this percentage will be inrceased considerably as many large reports from issuing agencies in the county have been submitted since. Marshall county ranked 28th in the state tabulation with Kittson county leading the state and entire district with 259 per cent.

There can be no let-up in bond purchasing as a result of the April drive, the county chairman warned today on receipt of the May quota from the U. S. War Savings Staff. Marshall county has been given a quota of $60,000 for the current month. However, the county will receive credit for all bonds sold since May 1 in the May quota, and these figures will also be credited to the April War Loan Drive.

The final tabulations this week show eight districts in the county over-subscribing their district quotas as follows: Argyle, Alvarado, Gatzke, Middle River, Oslo, Stephen, Viking and Warren.

Marshall county was credited with a $250.00 purchase of bonds from the Thief River Falls Production Credit association R. J. Lund, secretary-treasurer announced last week. The agency which serves Eastern Marshall along with Pennington and Roseau counties, purchased $1,000 worth of bonds, and alloted certain amounts to the counties served.

Stephen held the largest bond purchasing record of all municipalities in the county with actual sales of $42,570 00 which is $30,570 over its $12,000 quota. The Stephen district also led in total subscriptions, with figures reported yesterday by J. Forrest Yetter, co-chairman, reaching $79,222.50. The Warren district was second with $64,801.25 and Argyle third with $34,486.00.

"In behalf of the Marshall County War Finance Committee I wish to thank all solicitors, workers and others who contributed of their time and efforts in conducting the Second War Loan campaign," Mr. Mattson srated. "The cooperation has been excellent throughout the entire county, and of course, the response of the bond buying public in every community of the county, has really shown that Marshall county people are backing their sons on the fighting fronts with their money in order to help hasten the close of this war."

Sunday Is Mother's Day

People sometimes say there are too many special days.

Suppose, for instance, all such special days were abolishdd, except one. What would that day be? Unquestionably it would be Mother's day, for all of us the special occasions we celebrate throughout the year, Mother's day has the most universal appeal.

Regardless of whether we be Protestant, Catholic or Jew, we honor our mother. Whether we are old or young, we pay homage to motherhood.

This custom of setting aside an occasion to express love and reverence for mothers is deep-seated in the human mind. It has been sanctioned and promoted by the great religions.

While the official observance of Mother,s day in this country was first given attention by a resolution of congress 30 years ago, on May 10th, 1913, the idea of such a celebration trails back into history's mists.

For centuries the Fourth Sunday in Lent - Mid Lent - has been known in many parts of Great Britain as "Mothering Sunday". On this occasion young people away from home were expected to visit their parents and also to attend services at their parish church.

Gifts for mothers of past centuries took the form of a cake made of the finest wheat flour called simmel cake. A century ago country people in some parts of England always made a rich baked batter pudding for Mothering Sunday. This was evidently a survival of the simmel cake.

Roy Hagberg was honor guest at a farewell party at the Dennis Wegge home at Thief River Falls Wednesday evening. Those present besides the honor guest were: Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Werner, Opal and Ruby, Mrs. L. Wegge, Mrs. J. Hagberg, Miss Gordon, Mrs. Joe Nelson and Vernon.

U. S. Treasury Department

War Department Request

According to the latest information received through the American National Red Cross, the War Department has requested for reasons of national security that no messages be accepted for members of the United States armed forces missing in action. Relatives should make no attempt to contact members of the armed forces officially reported as "missing in action" either through the Red Cross or by any other means until official notification has been received that the soldier in question is a "prisoner of war".

If a soldier is reported as "missing in action" by the War Departcent it does not necessarily mean that he is a casualty. He may be an unreported prisoner of war of which there are undoubtedly many.

However, relatives should not attempt to send letters or messages to those reported as "missing in action" merely on the assumption that they are prisoners of war.

The Nazareth Lutheran choir with Mrs. A. W. Carlson as director, gave a concert on Sunday evening at the church. The program of sacred music was beautiful and the choir and director are to be commended for their fine work. Due to the bad weather and roads many who had planned to be there could not come.

A directive covering all details incident to the blackout has been issued by the auxiliary service corps, Minnesota state guard and the State Office of Civilian Defense and mailed to all persons concerned, said Gen. Walsh.

Bride to Be Kept Off of Ground for Three Days

Among the strangest wedding customs of the world are those of the Bugis tribesmen of the Celebes in the Dutch East Indies.

When a woman is to be married, it is necessary for three days before the ceremony that her feet do not come into contact with the ground. During this period she is continuously under the influence of drugs administered to her as she is carried about on the shoulders of members of her family.

The gaily enameled unit insignia you see on a soldier's lapels and overseas cap are reproductions of his regimental shield displayed in the center of the eagle on his regimental flag. It's a part of U. S. Army tradition. Traditional, too, is the Army man's preference for Camel cigarettes. (Based on actual sales records from service men's own stores.) It's a gift from the folks back home, that always rates cheers. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Adv.

American Submarines

By Frank Gervasi

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

Dozens of American submarine commanders have made records in the Pacific. Their roster grows every day. There are proportionately more Navy Crosses in the submarine service than in any other branch of the navy, and for this there are many reasons.

The submarine is an American weapon, invented and now perfected by Americans. Our men understand what the submarine can do, and they employ it as what it is—an offensive weapon of irresistible hitting power.

Most important of all, however, is that fact that German U-men are ordered or "sent" into action in ships lacking even elementary comforts and unequipped with any safety devices.

Our men "go." They love the submarines, and spend as much time telling you how safe they are—"safest ships afloat"—as fliers will say in describing the good qualities of our planes.

Submariners and fliers are the most weapon-proud men I've met in this war.

There is evidence of the submariners' contention concerning the safety of our submarines. Since the war began, the navy has reported the loss of only six undersea boats, including the Argonaut.

Submariners Quiet About Exploits.

Concerning their exploits, however, submariners are invariably mum, and no matter how well you might be prepared to contend with a submariner's economy of words, his reticence will still surprise you.

A quiet "Very well" is the accustomed acknowledgment of all orders, disasters, communications and missions aboard ship. A torpedoman might come to the control room with news that the aft and the forward torpedo room is flooded, and he would probably obtain from the skipper nothing more than a "Very well."

This reticence, however, as admirable as the submariners' courage and ingenuity and calm efficiency, has contributed to the neglect which was the lot of the service until war came. Hidebound naval traditionalists with limited imagination couldn't see the submarine as anything more than an adjunct of the battleships and cruisers. To the horse-and-buggy naval strategists of yesterday, the submarine represented merely a scouting and observation auxiliary weapon which might, with luck, sometime surprise and sink an enemy ship.

Our Sub Force December 7, 1941.

And on December 7, 1941, we had, for a major sea power, a third-string submarine force. Theoretically we had 113 submarines, with 73 building and 23 more scheduled to be constructed. Actually, however, there were substantially less than 100 submarines in service. Thirty-five subs were of the S-type which were found to be unsatisfactory and had been withdrawn for refitting.

Out of the total of submarines available for duty, roughly only one-third could be spared for action against the Japanese.

With our declaration of war on Japan, the picture changed rapidly, although not fast enough to suit our submariners. In May, 1942, an additional appropriation was made by congress for the construction of 200,000 tons of submarines which are now coming off the ways in yards on both coasts at a rate surprising to the layman but still unsatisfactory to submarine commanders.

U. S. Subs Sink 82 Jap Ships.

Even the publishable figures appear to support their point of view. Up to August of last year, American submarines had sunk or damaged 82 of the 219 Japanese ships sunk by all weapons. This represented 37 per cent of the total. Our submarines accounted for 27 per cent of all enemy warships sunk, and for 60 per cent of all noncombatant shipping sent to the bottom.

The submariners' record improved as more boats entered service. The navy department has credited our submarines with having sunk approximately 180 Japanese vessels of all categories.

Written down beside the total number of United Nations ships sunk by German U-boats, the admitted 180 sunk or crippled by our own subs in the Pacific might not seem so startling. But every Jap ship sent to the bottom represents a proportionately higher loss than the equivalent in American or British tonnage.

The reason is simple: The Japs send supplies to their overseas troops only when absolutely necessary. The Jap soldiers fight on less food, medicines and other nonmilitary supplies than their American or British counterparts.

The submariners see their mission as twofold. First, they must prevent ships with raw materials for Japan's war industries from reaching Nippon. Second, they must intercept and sink all ships sailing from Japan for overseas battlefields.

The Japanese soldier might be able to live on the country in the rice regions of the Pacific, but his guns, tanks, shells, planes and other fighting equipment must come from Japan over thousands of miles of water.

That's Japan's greatest weakness—her long supply lines.

"Yes," said the lawyer to the grocer, who had come to consult him "undoubtedly you've got the best case that I've ever heard."

"Thanks," said his client, quickly grabbing his hat and making for the door.

"Here, what's the rush," asked the astonished lawyer. "Where are you going?"

"I'm going to settle this case out of court and that right away!" the other informed him.

"But I told you it's the best case I ever heard."

"Maybe so," said his client, "but not for me. I've told you the other fellow's story."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Pledges Bombs to Japan's Heart; Allies Break Axis Mountain Defenses As Drive for Tunis and Bizerte Speeds; Russ-Nazis Locked in Caucasus Battle

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

American arms, ammunition and equipment were a potent factor in stepping up the fighting strength of French armies aiding the Allied cause in the Tunisian campaign. Above, Gen. Henri Giraud (center), French high commissioner of North Africa, is seen inspecting U. S. war equipment sent for French army use.

VENGEANCE:

For Jap Executions

Stern punishment for the Jap military leaders responsible for the execution of American fliers captured after last year's raid on Tokyo was promised by President Roosevelt, who said the United States would "hold personally and officially responsible" all those who participated in these crimes and bring them to justice.

That the Japs' barbarity was a confession of their vulnerability to air attack was clear. This was underscored by Tokyo broadcasts threatening to execute American fliers captured on future raids over Japan.

The reply to such threats was given by Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commander of the air forces, who told his fliers:

"Let your answer to their treatment of your comrades be the destruction of the Japanese air force, their lines of communication, and the production centers which offer them the opportunity to continue such atrocities."

To this Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle, who led the Tokyo raid a year ago added: "Soon our bombers will be there again, striking at the heart of Japan until the empire crumbles and they beg for mercy."

RUBBER:

Showdown on Oil Use

Rubber continued to be a controversial subject as William M. Jeffers, rubber director, came to grips with Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, and Harold L. Ickes, petroleum administrator, in a dispute over the use of gasoline in the synthetic production program.

Patterson, supported by Ickes, charged in a statement that Jeffers was weakening American air strength against the Axis by reducing combat supplies of high octane gas for the benefit of the civilian synthetic rubber manufacturing schedule.

Still at odds with Elmer Davis, OWI director, over publicity releases on the rubber program, Jeffers briskly took on his two new opponents declaring that their charges called for investigation to bring out the true facts to the public.

PACIFIC:

U. S. Fliers Busy

From the Aleutians to New Guinea, American airmen continued their assaults on Jap airfields, shipping and ground installations.

Liberators, Mitchells, Lightnings and Warhawks made 15 raids on the enemy at Kiska, carrying the total of forays on this menacing Jap installation to more than 100 in the course of a single month.

In the Solomons, Yankee fliers battered Jap positions in four air raids, attacking Tonei harbor and Kieta and smashing at Kahili and Munda.

From Australia, Allied aircraft made 10 forays in a single day, destroying enemy planes and straffing Jap base installations and occupied villages. Rabaul and Ubili, New Britain, the Saidor area of New Guinea and Laga on Timor island were the principal targets.

TUNISIA:

Nazis Counter-Attack

Fighting stubbornly to delay the inevitable day of reckoning, Axis troops sought desperately to prevent the Allied armies from further narrowing their last hold in Tunisia.

On both the north and south fronts, German counter-attacks were followed by successful Allied thrusts that wrested mountainous terrain from the enemy and forced the Axis armies nearer to their last-stand positions.

In the north, the British First army pushed southeast after repelling major enemy assaults in the Medjez-el-Bab sector, destroying more than one-third of the Nazi tanks opposing them.

In the north, General Montgomery's British Eighth army made important gains in the strategic hill country north and west of Enfidaville which brought it closer to Tunis.

Meanwhile, bombers of the Allied tactical air force kept up constant attacks against the few remaining Axis-held airfields.

RUSSIA:

Caucasus Front Active

Continuing to employ "strive at any cost" tactics, German armies in the Caucasus kept up full-scale attacks against the Russians in the Kuban delta despite heavy losses and lack of success in the early stages.

Two objectives were included in the Nazi plans, military observers believed. One was to relieve Soviet pressure on the enemy's bridgehead at Novorossisk. The other was to build up the momentum of a drive that might be the prelude to a new Axis spring offensive.

As the fighting increased in intensity, the activity of the opposing air forces was stepped up. German communiques reported that the luftwaffe was straffing Red supply bases on the Black sea coast. Soviet communiques revealed that while Red airmen had broken up one enemy effort to ferry reinforcements across the Black sea to Novorossisk, the Germans had succeeded later in providing substantial reinforcements for their army in the Caucasus bridgehead.

POSTWAR FINANCE:

Congress Holds Reins

Voting to extend for two years the President's authority over the $2,000,000,000 currency stabilization fund, the house adopted an amendment designed to prevent the use of this money in the $5,000,000,000 international banking fund proposed by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau for a postwar world bank.

The senate had previously withdrawn the President's power to devalue the dollar while approving continuance of his power of the stabilization fund.

In effect, the house amendment introduced by Representative Reed of Illinois gave congress control over the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund and the proposed postwar banking fund. House leaders indicated that congress would provide funds for the latter, in the event it was set up.

ANY pretty flowered print may be combined with the side strips of sheets that are good after the center part has worn out. A good section may be cut from the center bottom too. The diagram at the left gives all the dimensions you need for making a spread for a double bed from the good parts of three old sheets put together with six-inch strips flowered cotton material of about the same weight.

Here, the figured goods is in a pink and white pattern that is especially effective with the white muslin. It is also used to trim the curtains made from old sheets. Another interesting color note is the mats of the pink and white material used for the row of framed photographs over the bed. It also edges the full white lamp shades.

Use 50,000 Words Daily; 600 Ways to Say 'God'

According to a statistical expert, during 15 hours of wakefulness a man speaks, hears, reads, and thinks of words to the tune of 50,000 a day.

Certain native dialects are famed for sundry peculiar distinctions in speech. In this connection the British and Foreign Bible society tells us that whereas a verse in the third chapter of St. John runs to 15 words in English, 51 are required for it by the people of Mare, in the Loyalty Islands, and by those in Burma who speak Kachin. More remarkable still, there are 600 ways of pronouncing the word "God," some of them very lengthy.

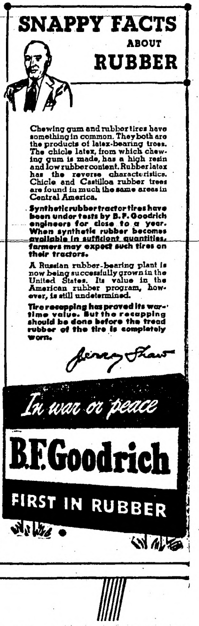
Newton, Mass., is a city built on seven hills, as was ancient Rome.



Chewing gum and rubber tires have something in common. They both are the products of latex-bearing trees. The chicle latex, from which chewing gum is made, has a high resin and low rubber content. Rubber latex has the reverse characteristics. Chicle and Castilloa rubber trees are found in much the same areas in Central America.
Synthetic rubber tractor tires have been under tests by B. F. Goodrich engineers for close to a year. When synthetic rubber becomes available in sufficient quantities, farmers may expect such tires on their tractors.
A Russian rubber-bearing plant is now being successfully grown in the United States. Its value in the American rubber program, however, is still undetermined.
Tire recapping has proved its wartime value. But the recapping should be done before the tread rubber of the tire is completely worn.

Agricola

Hurrying along "K" street in Washington a few weeks ago, the cab in which I was riding narrowly escaped an accident. Somebody, absorbed in thought, carelessly stepped off the curb in front of the taxi and the driver veered sharply to the left to avoid striking him. I saw the man. He was tall, dreamy-looking, carried a big package and needed a haircut rather noticeably.

Of course, I wondered who he was: maybe a hopeful inventor going to the Patent Office with some contrivance he believed would win the war, or perhaps some learned bureaucrat pondering weighty figures such as fill the pages of the federal budget. Imagine my emotion at hearing the driver remonstrate, "Wake up, you dumb farmer! Dis ain't no corn field."

Did He Mean It?

The driver meant "lout" but he said "farmer", and set me to wondering how many people in America think these words mean the same thing. Not all of them, certainly. But all too many are not aware that farming is a real art at which louts do not succeed. Not enough people realize that the farm problem ought to be receiving far more intelligent attention than it is getting. One of America's gravest dangers in the present crisis is a low appraisal of the skill required on American farms.

The average farmer in the United States is an alert, thinking individual. Even a good farm hand is amazingly versatile. He is obliged to be, in order to do his work. Farming is a calling of many skills. A farmer does not have to be a veterinary surgeon but he must know how to breed and feed and care for livestock. A farmer need not be a graduate meteorologist but he has to know something about forecasting the weather if he hopes to succeed.

It's a Broad Field

There are many kinds of farms and many kinds of farmers but they have a great variety of fundamental, scientific knowledge in common, most of it unknown to men of other callings. In fact, one real farmer can do more on a farm than five equally strong, intelligent men who are not farmers. For this reason I honestly believe that a large percentage of the farmers now working in factories ought to be sent back home to protect America's armed forces and the civilians, too, against a food shortage of growing seriousness.

The agricultural manpower problem of 1943 cannot be solved by relegating miscellaneous industrial misfits to the country. If they can't learn factory work there is no place for them on the farm. A neighbor's son, now holding a position of some responsibility in an eastern war-production plant, visited home recently and told me some things that illustrate the point perfectly. The young man is earning $200 a month now at a job he learned in four days. His daily output was above average when he had worked there a month. Starting green, as he started factory work, it would take nearer four years than four days to learn farming.

"Incentive" Wages

He is an energetic young fellow but he can't earn $200 a month on his father's farm; couldn't do it if he owned it. That's why he left home when his country could not rightly spare him from the farm. The food administration would have to pay him quite an "incentive" to put him between plow-handles again, I fear, although he says the country boys in factory towns are all homesick.

The food problem at a glance is this: Farmers can't net anything at today's fixed prices but they can learn in a week to earn good wages in a factory, so they leave the farms to old men and small boys who will unavoidably produce less this year than they did last, although more is needed. Farmers in the armed forces under 38 can't be brought back but those in factories can and ought to be. Somebody else can do their work in the mill but not at home.

Worse Than Nothing

Farmers have had advice enough. Texas cotton men provide an example. Lacking gin capacity they needed new machinery and more repair parts than they could get, so they inquired of bureaucracy. Don't miss this: They were told to move their gins south-to-north across the state as the cotton matured, serving more cotton with fewer gins. The expert didn't know a cotton gin was permanent as an ice plant. He was smart as his contemporary who suggested rotating shoes on horses to make them wear longer.

This country's farm problem has been badly muddled, and in part by "experts" who couldn't make a living on 1,000 acres with two county agents to tell them how. The real need is more farmers on farms. The notion that anybody can farm or do a farmer's thinking is silly and dangerous. In two years it can start our city-bred farm experts walking to the country hunting a real farmer and a square meal.

Butch is on a BALANCED DIET!

This situation isn't covered by Army regulations, but we're betting that Butch will find a way to handle it without spilling a spoonful.

In fact, your electric company knows just how he feels, because we have the same problem. Right now, we're being called on to balance good service and low regulated rates against fast-climbing costs and ever-increasing demands for electric power.

We're doing it, too—supplying plenty of electricity for war work and the Home Front, too . . . and besides that, we're balancing a big plate of taxes.

Don't get us wrong. We know the need of war time taxes. We're proud that the business-managed electric companies in the United States paid $620,000,000 in taxes last year. That was 23c out of every dollar customers paid in—8c to local and state governments—15c to the federal government—enough to outfit 1,887,762 buck privates like Butch.

How is it possible to make so much electric power and meet so many taxes at the same time? Because of sound business methods and long experience—because men, women and management work together as a team.

But while we're doing all this, government and municipal power systems are not paying a penny in federal taxes to help win the war. Shouldn't everyone do his full share?

Series E War Bond Sales

Series E War Bond Sales during the April Second War Loan Drive in Marshall county totaled $256,311, O. M. Mattson, War Savings committee chairman, announced today on receipt of figures from the State War Savings Staff in Minneapolis. This figure does not include any of the other government issues offered to the public during April.

Sales of Series E Bonds topped all previous monthly sales in Marshall county by a wide margin, and came within less than $4,000 of the county's entire quota for all issues during the month. The final reports on actual sales of all issues in the April drive have not yet been released by the Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank, but these figures will be announced as soon as they become available.

Marshall county residents have been given a quota of $60,000 durinng May, this quota to be made up of Series E Bonds alone the War Savings Staff announced last week. While the quota is large, it will include the final wind-up of the April campaign which includes all bonds pledged but were not redeemed until the first days of May. However with the outstanding successes of the African war last week, bond sales are expected to show some increase as the public at large is anxious to supply the material as quickly as possible to shorten the war. There can be no let-up in bond purchasing as long as the war is in progreess.

Nationally the Second War Loan sales totaled $18,533,000,000 or more than 5½ billions more than was originally sought, the Treasury announced yesterdsy. As a result of this generous response, the Third War Loan, originally planned for the month of August, has been postponed until September. The Ninth Federal Reserve district ranked third in national sales, subscribing 169 per cent of the quota of $175,000,000.

All issuing agencies in Marshall county reported splendid sales of Series E Bonds during April, according to the state report. The report shows the amount of sales by the issuing agencies in each village, but does not take into consideration the address of the purchaser. Therefore, some communities will be credited with unusually large figures, while others not near enough. The report released from the state committee follows: Alvarado, $7,255; Argyle, $14,549; Gatzke, $2,456; Grygla, $13,948; Holt, $5,323; Newfolden, $43,874; Middle River, $12,505; Oslo, $4,649; Stephen, $44,042; Strandquist, $4,667; Viking, $4,761 and Warren, $98,267. The county committee is of the opinion that these figures do not truly reflect tho extent of the bond purchases in the various villages, however, but as far as the county's total is concerned it would be near correct.

The black-out held here Friday evening as a part of the statewide surprise test, was a great success. All those who had part in it did a good job.

Marjorie Mae Schwartz, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Swartz was baptised at her parental home on Monday evening. She was born on Jan. 8, 1943, and her sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. George Baker, Mrs Nick Baker and Pfc. Lewis Runnestad. Others in attendance were Mrs. Runnestad and family from Mavie.

New Salvage Drive Is On

There is a new salvage drive on at the present time. It is a serious business. New quotas must be met by July 1st. Another communication from the government salvage department to local salvage leaders has just been received, in which farmers and townspeople alike are pleaded with to bring in their scrap iron and scrap metals of all kinds, rubber, tin cans, fats and greases, to the nearest scrap dealer immediately.

Toyay's salvage scrap will be tomorrow's weapons. Our armed forces are calling for more guns, more tanks, more planes, and are only limited in supplying them through what is available in salvage scrap materials. Fifty per cent of the steel that is going into war machines is made of scrap.

Those old pots and pans, that discarded lawn mower, and garden tools, can be converted into bayonets, bullets and hand grenades. Uncle Sam is appealing to every living soul to do his part.

"For 23 years we,ve been accumulating junk" says a bulletin "things we thought were too good to throw out—things that were just barely good enough to save. Yes, we,ve been accumulating junk since the last World War." Get out the old doll buggies, sleds, stoves, and so forth that have been put away. Such things will help th make planes and tanks and guns.

Some farms have been quite thoroughly scoured for scrap. Others are still literally cluttered with scrap that is doing no good where it is. Townspeople who cleaned out their places last fall will find many pieces of scrap now that were overlooked then, last fall.

If you see a scrap dealer with a tremedous pile of scrap, don't think he is hoarding. He has that pile ready for the first call. If you have scrap, bring it to him so that the pile is ready when it is called for.

War In Africa Ended

The war in Africa ended over the week end and on Wednesday evening all the resistance in that war theatre came to a final shut down when the Americans and British and the African French captured the big General and all officers of the German regime. They also took 150,000 prisoners and a great amount of all kinds of war material.

Many of the enemy soldiers were glad to call it a day-finish.

State Admitted To Union-1858

The bill for the admission of Minnesota to the Union was passed by Congress eightyfive years ago on May 11, but nearly two days passed before the people living on the upper Mississippi learned that the had become citizens of a state. The snail-like pace at which news traveled in 1858 is reflected in contemporary newspaper, files of which are preserved by the Minnesota Historical society.

News of Minnesota's admission was sent from Washington by telegram as far as Prairie du Chein, Wisconsin. From that point it was taken to Minnesota communities along the river by a steamboat slowly creeping up the Mississippi. Winona heard a "rumor of admission" on the evening of May 12, when the steamboat "Milwaukee" topped there. St. Paulites did not learn that their city had become a state capital until the morning of the thirteenth.

The St. Paul "Pioneer" then as now a morning sheet, had been issued when the news arrived, but its editors succeeded in making a scoop by immediately printing an extra. In flaming headlines it announced the "Glorious News! MINNESOTA Admitted!!" That evening the "Falls Evening News" of Saint Anthony and Minneapolis reprinted the story from the "Pioneer." In the weeks that followed papers issued at Chatfield, Winona, Rochester, Henderson, Faribault, Red Wing, and other places ran statehood announcements. Most of them expressed pleasure and satisfaction because Minnesota had become a "member of the fair sisterhood of American commonwealths."

NEED FOR UNITED EFFORT

To win this war we must have unity of effort. "The do-as-I-tell-you-not-as-I-do" attitude will never mobilize national power or bring speedy victory.

This need for united effort was emphasized by the President in his recent call for a 40 per cent reduction in the use of government automobiles. Take the use of tires and gasoline by various federal agencies. A report of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures says:

"Despite the growing automobile crisis, both in tires and gasoline, the investigation of the committee indicates that for the first four months of the present fiscal year the various agencies of the government, exclusive of the Army and Navy, continued for the most part to use as many passenger cars, to drive as many miles, and to consume about as much gasoline as did these agencies in a comparable period of the previous year, notwithstanding the efforts of the government to reduce the consumption of gasoline and conserve rubber.

Same Standard for All

"The committee believes that the same standard of strictly essential driving should be applicable to government employees as now applies to individual citizens."

The committee gives figures upon which its conclusions are based. In the last fiscal year the government owned 17,305 passenger automobiles, exclusive of the Army and Navy and exclusive of trucks and motorcycles. It now owns 18,953 passenger automobiles.

In the last fiscal year the cost of operating these automobiles was $4,243,602. According to the use of the first four months of the present year the cost will be $3,924,069. In the last fiscal year these government-owned cars traveled 203,550,280 miles. According to the first four months of this year, government-owned cars will travel, this fiscal year, 199,830,930 miles and consume 12,853,533 gallons of gasoline.

The report also quotes from a statement of the Director of the Budget, indicating that "until now government cars have had an average of six and one-half tires each." The Committee's finding "that the same standard of strictly essential driving" should apply to government employees as is applied to individual citizens is too downright sensible to require discussion.

Why More Payrollers?

Another example of the need for united effort is found in the problem before Congress as to whether excessive profits on war contracts require new bureaus and additional payrollers or whether the Department of Internal Revenue can do the job.

The average citizen struggling with high taxes and a shortage of manpower answers: If necessary, amend the Internal Revenue Act for this purpose.

To win the war we must spend money and use materials wisely. We have enough manpower to do our essential jobs, but we have neither the manpower nor the taxes to hire special payrollers to do work that can be done better by established agencies.

Get Your New Law Supplement

With 666 new and amended laws and 12 resolutions to their credit, the fifty-third Minnesota legislature, adjourned very late Wednesday night, April 21, after running overtime with the face of the clock covered up.

The last measure was acted upon by Governor Stassen, now lieutenant commander in the Navy, on Saturday, April 24.

Complete text of all measures then went to the St. Paul Dispatch-Pioneer Press, where more than a quarter of a million copies of a 72-page publication were printed under the heading Minnesota 1943 Laws. This makes considerably more than a pound of reading matter, the most that the Legislature has ever produced to the electorate of the state; the 1941 session laws numbered 555 and required 64 pages for publication. Away back in 1913 there were 595 new laws to present to the people. This held the record until the present law makers reached the 666 mark.

Copies of the Law Supplement can he had at the News Office.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

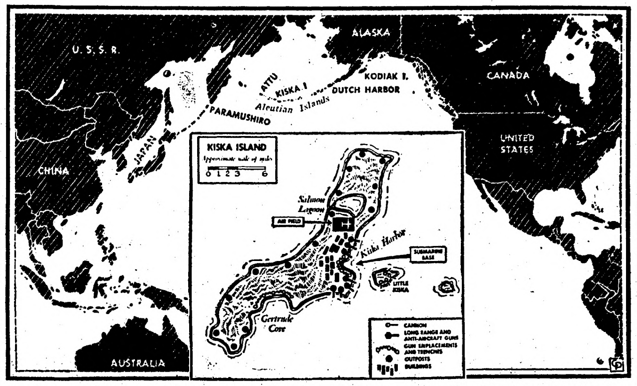
Kiska, Jap Threat to Alaska and United States



This map shows you what the busy Japs have accomplished on the Aleutian island of Kiska since they occupied it last June. Despite repeated bombings by our air forces, the Nips have succeeded in installing formidable military establishments on the island with a view to future operations against Dutch Harbor, our naval base in the Alaskan area, and against Alaska itself. Proximity of the major enemy base at Paramushiro makes it possible for Kiska to be reinforced with comparative ease.

Hard to Stomach

The smallest member of the United States senate was Georgia's Alexander H. Stevens, later vice president of the Confederacy. He was less than five feet tall and weighed somewhat under 80 pounds.

One day an out-sized western congressman, stung into a fury by the barbed remarks of the little Georgian, shouted: "You! You! Why, I could swallow you and never know I'd et a thing!"

Replied Senator Stevens: "In that case you'd have more brains in your belly than you ever had in your head."

When armored knights met, it was customary for each knight to raise the visor of his helmet as a means of identification. This gesture has come down through all armies in the form of the salute. Traditional, too, is the Army man's preference for Camel cigarettes. With men in the Army, Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard, actual sales records in their service stores show that Camel is the favorite. It's one of the favorite gifts with service men. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. WHICH brand of baseball would you rather see? The Ty Cobb scientific type or the Babe Ruth power stuff? Which makes the more interesting ball game—1 to 0, or 9 to 8?

For the first time in over 20 years the fan colony may have its chance to look at much lower scoring. No other season ever opened with a clean spread of shutouts, such as the 1943 balata special, presented to chilly customers.

The once noisy blast of the home run has given way to the widely-scattered plunk of the single or double, and the odds now are that any man who can hammer out 20 home runs this season will lead his league.

Unless more rabbit meat is fed the present ball, we may even get back to the day when Home Run Baker earned his title and led both leagues with the magnificent total of 11 home runs.

The Ty Cobb Brand

Ty Cobb has told me more than once that his interest in baseball lagged when Babe Ruth began taking his home-run swing.

"That," said Ty, "meant the finish of base running, of scientific baseball where you had to work for a run at a time.

"We had to work our heads off to get a run. A run was important. After the arrival of Babe Ruth and the rabbit ball, not even five runs were important in many of the games."

I can take you back to Ty Cobb and the campaign of 1911, to slip you an idea of what Ty Cobb baseball meant.

In 1911, Cobb made 248 base hits, scored 147 runs and stole 83 bases. In the records of those days his home run mark, extremely low, was not even mentioned. It was a matter of hits, runs and stolen bases.

Ty Cobb

In 1915, Cobb scored 144 runs and stole 98 bases. His combination of speed and smartness along the towpaths was one of baseball's greatest features, where home runs seldom figured in any game.

The Babe Ruth Brand

Babe Ruth came along as a home run hitter in 1919. As a left-handed pitcher he had set a new winning percentage, even above Johnson, Mathewson and Alexander. Now he was on the offensive side.

In Babe's tremendous wake the scientific side of baseball gave way to raw power. Base-running and sacrificing became unimportant factors.

Raw power was combined with a far livelier ball, a ball that piled up trouble for pitchers and infielders. The records show all this.

Ruth was on his way to over 700 home runs. "And the point is," Cobb told me, "the Babe's great success swept both leagues. They were now all trying to be home-run hitters. They were all, or nearly all, taking the big cut at every pitch near the plate."

It would be interesting to know what might have happened to baseball if Ruth hadn't arrived just at that time.

The Bambino undoubtedly changed the game. Hands that once choked the bat after the manner of Keeler and Cobb, now moved back to the end of the knob.

Stronger Defense

The games of Cobb and Ruth were entirely different in many ways. The same thing happened to polo and golf, where power became more important than control.

Both Cobb and Ruth have their supporters. The old-timers are almost solidly for the Cobb game. The moderns are for Ruth.

The main point is that after over 20 years of power baseball, the crowds now face a stronger defensive game, where a single run might be important.

This means a greater premium on speed, pitching and defensive play. If it doesn't work out there is sure to be a quick change to the livelier ball—where once again the home run will supplant the single, the sacrifice and the steal.

Season's Length

This is about what a majority think about the length of the current baseball campaign—

"Most of the ballplayers now left have either been deferred on physical grounds or have wives and children. These children are all young, many of them between the ages of two and six. It has been announced more than once that the supporting heads of such families will be the last ones drawn into service. Many of these might be called by midsummer, but hardly by Labor day."

25 Tons of Violets for One Ounce of Perfume

Ever since the dawn of civilization woman has used perfume as an allure. At one time, when baths were looked upon as both unhealthy and ungodly, perfume was a necessity, but since then women have used it as an added attraction, something that accentuated their femininity.

Some of the best perfume came from France, Italy and the Balkans. In those countries perfume-making was a very important trade, and millions of roses, jasmine, violets, and other flowers were harvested. These were bruised, boiled, and pulped until they had given up their oils.

The petals were boiled in water, the steam caught and condensed, and the essential oils skimmed from the surface. It was an expensive process, too, for it took 3,500,000 roses to make one quart of pure perfume. One ounce of pure violet perfume was the result of the compression and pulping of 25 tons of blooms.

When the oil was finally extracted it was very strong, and a single ounce of it would be sufficient for many thousands of bottles.

Hitless Ball Games

Of the more than 27,000 major league baseball games played since 1920, only 21 were hitless and only one man, Vander Meer, pitched two, and both in the same week for the Cincinnati Reds, says Collier's. The first was against Boston on June 11, 1938, and the second was against Brooklyn four days later.

60 Was Basic Number Unit in Ancient Babylon

The ancient Babylonian numerical system had 60, not 10, for its basic unit, reports Dr. George C. Cameron, University of Chicago archeologist who has been deciphering thousands of clay tablets.

While 10 can be factored evenly only by one, two, five and itself, the Babylonian unit had the advantage that it could be factored by one, two, three, four, five, six, ten, twelve, fifteen, twenty, thirty and itself.

Hooked Fish

Fish suffer little if any pain when they are hooked, for there are very few nerves about the jaw which could cause the sensation of pain. Some trout have been known to be hooked two or three times in the same day—by anglers using the same type of bait.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Airplanes now transport workers and supplies to South American rubber forests in hours. Until war placed rubber on the "have not" list in the U. S., weeks and months were consumed in carrying supplies to the rubber tappers.

When one considers that for more than 20 years car and truck owners were encouraged to abuse their tires, through various forms of road hazard guarantees, it must be acknowledged that a laudable patriotism is being shown by them now in conserving their rubber supplies.

Remember the days when 20 pounds pressure per cross section inch was the standard inflation recommendation! Rough riding and flats were the order of the day.

A new highway has been constructed to the Mercapata gold mines in Peru. But rubber is the most important item being carried over it.

Joseph C. Graw Warns

Half-Effort Will Not Defeat Japan

By JOSEPH C. GREW

United States Ambassador to Japan until the outbreak of war, and author of "Report From Tokio."

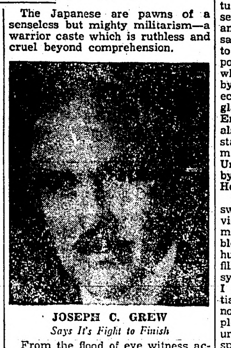
(Written for the Treasury Department in connection with the Retailers' "SAY YES" campaign to complete the nation's 100,000,000 partially filled War Stamp albums.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In describing one of the big air battles over Guadalcanal a recent newspaper account tells of an American flyer who parachuted from his crippled plane to the waters of Ilunga Bay. The Navy craft which picked him up next went to the rescue of a Japanese pilot seen struggling in the water nearby. As the rescue boat reached the Japanese flyer he suddenly pulled out his revolver, aimed it at the drenched American pilot and pulled the trigger. The cartridge failed to explode. Then the Japanese officer turned the gun on himself with suicidal intent. Again he pulled the trigger and again his revolver failed him. At this point an American sailor knocked him out with a boat hook and pulled him aboard the American craft a prisoner.

Almost daily one reads eye-witness stories such as this one, and all of them clearly demonstrate that war with our enemy in the Pacific cannot end in compromise.

For ten years I lived in Japan. The truth as I know it from close observation is this: Nothing less than the exertion of our maximum capacities, individually and collectively, in a war of offense will bring our beloved country safely to the longed-for haven of victorious peace.

The Japanese are pawns of a senseless but mighty militarism—a warrior caste which is ruthless and cruel beyond comprehension.



JOSEPH C. GREW
Says It's Fight to Finish

From the flood of eye witness accounts of atrocity and bestiality one fact shines clear. We must utterly crush that machine and caste and system. If, however, we Americans think that collectively and individually we can continue to lead our normal lives, leaving the spirit of self-sacrifice to our soldiers and sailors, we shall unquestionably run the risk of a stalemate with Japan. I do not have the slightest doubt of our eventual victory. But I do not wish to see the period of our blood, sweat and tears indefinitely and unnecessarily prolonged. We must not fail to realize that we are up against a powerful fighting machine, a people whose morale cannot be broken even by successive defeats and untold economic hardship, a people who gladly sacrifice their lives for their Emperor and their nation. We must also remember that Japan did not start this war without carefully laid military plans for victory over the United States and a peace dictated by their war lords at the White House.

This is a total war, the only answer to which is a total American victory. It is a war in which half measures of any kind mean incredible waste of material, energy and human life. In this sense a half-filled War Savings Stamp album is symbolic of a half effort. There are, I am told, roughly 100 million partially complete War Stamp albums now in circulation. These uncompleted Stamp albums are, in a measure, like a 100 million threats to a speedy and victorious peace. On the other hand, for every War Savings album completed and cashed in for a Bond, you the owner have helped some soldier or sailor take a forward step on the uphill road to total victory.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President-Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Dictator-Proof

Production of essential war materials in the United States grew several months ago to a point where the daily output of the United Nations exceeded that of the Axis powers. Gradually since then good news from fighting fronts has come with more frequency; setbacks have been less often. No longer is America fighting a losing fight, although no one predicts a sudden and smashing victory.

Nevertheless there is hope that peace will come to the world again, and all except a negligible few hope it will be soon. Pledges, made by the Earth's most powerful leaders, that peace will bring victory to America and her Allies, are backed by men, materials and machinery as well as determination. Now the best of all things possible in the world seem to await only the bells and whistles which ultimately will proclaim an armistice.

Complicated Years

It will be a joyful sound but as certainly as it proclaims an end of carnage it will also announce the beginning of another struggle, an undertaking to make peace permanent. Many big questions will demand answers, such as: Will capitalistic Britain or communistic Russia dominate Europe, and who will help them decide? And all these questions will bespeak humanity's highest hope; hope that no more military maniacs can take possession of powerful peoples (as Hitler grabbed Germany ten years ago) and rob a whole generation of its rightful peace and progress, and centuries of accumulated wealth.

Here is how it happened: Hitler had no right to rule Germany but there was nobody to stop him. As a political demagogue he had gained some following. The German people were hungry. For three sad years they had endured unemployment and starvation. It took no brains to guess what they wanted. Hitler offered them jobs and bread; subsistence in return for work—much work.

They Fell in Line

With what they believed was "all to gain and nothing to lose," the Germans followed Hitler, followed him headlong into what they did not want, the most pitiless war of aggression ever known. Will it happen again? Hitlerism, to be sure, can hardly last, but power-madness will not vanish from the earth with Hitler. Grasping men will always scheme for power. How can the world's right-thinking people keep them from getting it?

Examine records of the past to learn how despots work and you will see one glaring similarity. Dictators climb to power over wreckage: wrecked lives, wrecked fortunes, blasted hopes. All men have inalienable rights to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," and they do not sell their privileges to work and vote and worship God. Only extortion takes it from them. When men are doing even fairly well, they hold on to their freedom. They turn it loose only in dire calamity, when their children are weeping for bread.

Safety in Prosperity

In a very real sense, prosperity protects human liberty. No Hitler can hypnotize and enslave a prosperous nation. People who are economically independent are dictator-proof. With full employment for labor and consequent high prices for farm products, with factories busy turning out marketable things for peace-loving customers, totalitarian rule is impossible, call it Regimentation or what-not.

"Certainly dictatorship is unlikely in America," somebody will say, "but what has that to do with permanent peace? We are in war now on account of dictatorships in Europe. How can we stop it over there?" . . . That's a fair question and fortunately it has an answer: Prosperity in Europe depends on prosperity in America. We have only 6 percent of the world's population, nevertheless, the world prospers when we prosper.

Uncle Sam, Buyer

In normal years the United States turns out 40 percent of all the usable things manufactured. In order to do this, factories of the United States utilize 40 percent of the world's output of raw materials. Uncle Sam is Mother Earth's big customer. Prosperity follows the American buyer to the four winds. Troubles in Germany over which Hitler climbed to power resulted in part from America's big depression that started in 1929. The most important step toward a lasting world peace is prosperity in America.

The brightest spot in world politics today is the fact that business leaders in the United States are making plans for full employment through private enterprise, starting with the armistice; and full employment means plenty of buyers and lively markets for farm products. It was private enterprise that made Uncle Sam rich enough to be the world's best customer. Private enterprise made America the bountiful source of world prosperity. Some seek to destroy it, only that they may climb to power over its ruins. Be assured, however, if it is destroyed, our unique prosperity goes with it.

Steel Investigating Committee

The iron ore crisis ahead and how to make metallic iron out of Minnesota iron ores by the use of North Dakota lignite instead coking coal, was the subject of a three-day conference of delegations representing the Governors of the two states with the Boykin Steel Shortage Investigating of the House of Representatives in Washington, D. C.

A formal committee hearing has been requested and scheduled for June 9, 1943, when a completely coordinated program is to be submitted and defended before the committee.

Lignite has been described as the greatest of North Dakota's mineral resources. Vast deposits in excess of 600 billion tons extend over 28,000 square miles. It is estimated these deposits represent 60% of the nadion's total lignite, which is equivalent to 15% of the nation's solid fuel reserves.

Hydrogen, which can be economically made from lignite, has proved to be an efficient agent for making iron ores into the metallic iron. Several iron producing plants are expected to be erected near both the iron ore and lignite mines. Many by-products of strategic war value are also derived from the use of lignite. These include plastics, tars, and liquid fuel of high efficiency to replenish the diminshing fuel oil supply.

Memoranda on the ore crisis filed with the Committee state:

Billions of tons of rich iron ore will continue to be available for many years of war production, but only if progressive mining is introduced and special ore processing plants are erected near the mines to improve the quality of Minnesota's vast deposits of low grade ores. Processing, or "beneficiating" the ores before they are shipped to the blast furnaces 1200 to 2000 miles away will result in a more efficient use of facilities. The raw ores, without beneficiating, contain around 50% to as low as 40% metallic iron. There are also vast deposits whose quality runs near 80% metal. To so beneficiate or remove the clay and all other foreign material, the steel industry will save millions in wasted freight expenses from the Minnesota mines to the blast furnaces.

Equally important is the fact that the beneficiating processes may be carried on continously through the year of 12 months. This is contrasted to the present practice of mining only during the six months when the lakes are ice-free for cargo transportation. From the same local supply of manpower it is estimated that from three to five times greater tonnage can be produced for the war effort should the industry make use of the minning methods known and used by progressive mining companies.

A very large crowd attended the Young Peoples' Conference held here at the Mission church Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The following visited Mrs. J. O. Johnson and family on Sunday afternoon: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Halvorson and son of Viking, Mrs. Ole Ellingson of Warren, Loren Swenson of Newfolden, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Garthus and family, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Nelson, Orville Ness, Clifford Moberg, Mrs. Knute Nelson, Verna and Dorothy Case, Mr. and Mrs. L. Monson, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Inman and son.

Join The New Salvage Drive

The objective of the current Scrap Drive in Marshall County is "all the scrap from all farm". The scrap program concerns itself chiefly with farms because it is mainly from the farms that the scrap must come. Farm scrap is heavier and more desirable than household scrap.

With what will be likely the greatest action of the present war coming up in the near future the plea for scrap is more urgent than ever. So far the mills have been kept going at full speed and there must be no slow down.

Those who have been "thinking" of getting their scrap iron in, but have just not got around to it, are advised to do something about it so that the next call for scrap from the local yealer will not go unanswered.

If farmers have heavy scrap items that cannot be handled they should contact the local salvage committee who will in turn give the job over to the proper "demolition squad". Turn such items into cash today, buy War Bonds for the future development of the farm.

Wheat King Gets War Bond

Peter Sohirrick, prominent grain grower of Red Lake Falls, last week was awarded a $25.00 war bond by the Standard Oil company in recognition of his ability to raise the kind of wheat that won for him the title of state wheat king.

Schirrick, for the second time in two years, has grown the best wheat in the state judged at the state seed show at the University of Minnesota during Farm and Home Week.

The winning wheat, raised on his Red Lake county farm, was of the Reward variety. This year his sample weighed 65.2 pounds per bushel.

Aid to Enemy

"Any American who wilfully neglects to pay his taxes on time or to invest every cent he can in War Bonds is surely giving aid and comfort to the enemy . . . We have a job to do and we are all called for service to our country. Our dollars are called to service too. Let us all ask ourselves, 'Shall we be more tender with our dollars than with the lives of our sons?'" — Secretary Morgenthau.

Take Good Care Of Wool

Sheep producers who want hihg quality wool to sell must watch their methods of shearing and caring for the wool after it has been sheared, says County Agent R. A. Reierson.

Wool removal is cleaner and smoother if the weather is fairly warm at shearing time, so the yolk runs free, according to P. A Anderson, in charge of the sheep section at University Farm. Sheep should be dry when they are sheared, he says, since wool will mildew and may even burn if stored when wet. Wet fleeces should be spread out on a clean surface before they are rolled up and since fleece dry slowly and take up much room, a great deal of trouble can be avoided when sheep are dry.

Holding the sheep in a comfortable position while shearing is an important factor in securing a marketable fleece. A sheep that struggles breaks up the fleece so the wool varies in degree of fineness, Anderson says. "Second cuts" or the short stubs of wool that need a second going over and are of little value can be avoided by keeping the shear head close to the skin.

Skirting the fleece after shearing will improve quality and give the producer a better price. Skirting involves removal of the stained wool from the rump, the wet soiled belly wool, and strawy neck and head wool. The soiled parts of the wool can be sold as tags.

In typing the fleece, the objection to using the box tie, Anderson says, is that the tendency is to get the fleece to compact. The blanket roll is preferable if it is tied loosely with paper twine. The wool may then be placed in sacks and stored in a clean, dry place, free of mice, until shipping time.

Mrs. J. O. Johnson and children Lyle, Russel, Ruby, Vernon and Viola left Monday for Oakland, California, to make their home. Mr. Johnson has been there for some time.

A. O. Aspelin and daughter Caroline made a trip to Grand Rapids over the week end to fish and visit friends.

Had Good Beaver Season

Grand Rapids — According to an old legend, the Hudson Bay factors demanded a pile of Beaver pelts, one above another, as high as a man's head before they would trade a muzzle loading rifle with a supply of powder and ball. Recently trappers bringing their pelts to town in piles as high as a man's head received checks of good size. The pelts brought from $15 for kits up to as much as $50 and $60 for dark "blankets" which measured 60 inches across. Some walked out with checks for $150 to $200 for the four pelts allowed on their license. In some cases where several members of the same family had licenses and they trapped together checks for $800 to $1,000 were written for their two weeks trapping effort.

Drifting Icebergs

As the International Ice Patrol in the Atlantic has been discontinued, there is no estimate of the number of icebergs that will drift south into shipping lanes this summer.

Their number varies considerably from year to year; while the average since 1900 was 423, there were 1,351 in 1929 and only two in 1940.

Capt. Kidd Not Ruthless Pirate but Virtuous Soul

Captain Kidd, whose name for centuries symbolized vicious and ruthless piracy, never was a pirate. He actually was a brave and patriotic English sea-captain of the 17th century who, through villainous intrigue and circumstances, was hanged with six of his confederates.

They were hanged along the muddy banks of the Thames river and for many years their skeletons were left to creak and swing in the wind as a warning to passing seamen against piracy.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Neither South American sources of natural rubber nor expansion of Guayule Cryptostegia and all other rubber-bearing shrub production will produce any large amount of satisfactory rubber for some years, according to government agencies.
In 1941, 86 per cent of all travel by Americans was in cars.
No gas! No cars! Ban on pleasure driving brought a drop of about 80 per cent in the passenger cars on the streets of New York City. Jay walkers had a holiday in the automobile deserted main streets.
Five in a car instead of just the driver and one passenger means that 8 tires are saved, if the average of three cars to five war plant workers is considered. The amount of rubber in 8 tires is enough for 72 gas masks, or for life rafts and rubber life jackets for 8 plane crews.

Invention on Shooting Oil Wells Led to 16,000 Suits

The invention of the Roberts Torpedo in 1866 was followed by the greatest patent litigation in American history, says Collier's. Before the legality of its patent was upheld by the United States Supreme court in 1880, this device for shooting oil wells was so widely infringed upon that more than 16,000 suits and countersuits were filed, all those brought to a decision being won by the inventor.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Allied Generalship, Planes and Guns Decisive Factor in Tunisia Windup; Farm Situation Improves, Davis Says; Red Drive Perils Nazi Caucasus Hold

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

How blood plasma contributed by donations of Americans to the Red Cross is used to save lives on battlefields is illustrated by the above photo of doctors treating a wounded U. S. soldier at a portable field hospital in New Guinea. Clayton Mitchell (left) of Wyandotte, Mich., and Maj. William Garlick of Baltimore, Md., are administering the plasma.

TUNISIA:
Master Generalship

Axis resistance in Tunisia had steadily crumbled as the Allied armies moved inexorably toward their goals. As American artillery pounded the Bizerte harbor area setting fire to wharves and docking facilities, the British First army had swept over the Tunisian plains leading to the capital city of Tunis.

The moves on Bizerte had been expedited by the capture by American and French forces of hilly strongholds protecting Lake Achkel and Lake Bizerte. In mopping up operations in the Mediterranean coastal region the Allies had continued to capture numerous prisoners.

In analyzing the results of the successful offensive, observers credited master Allied generalship with outmaneuvering the Axis. The Allied high command had led the enemy to believe that the principal blows would be struck by General Montgomery's British Eighth army from the south. After the Axis had thrown heavy strength to repel Montgomery, American forces in the Bizerte area and British First army forces before Tunis had struck crushing blows simultaneously.

Europe Drive 'Sure'

As the North African climax had approached, Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, had declared there is "no question but that there will be Allied operations on continental Europe this summer." Expressing his confidence that the Allies would clean up Tunisia in time to permit invasion of the continent this year, Davis added that it might possibly be necessary to leave a pocket of Axis resistance of Bizerte to be reduced by sustained pounding even while continental operations were under way. Following the death of Lt. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers was named U. S. European commander.

STRIKE BAN:
More Power for WLB

Congress moved swiftly to strengthen the government's hand in dealing with strikes.

First step was the senate's overwhelming enactment of legislation empowering the government to take over plants in which war production is stopped by labor disputes and making it a crime to instigate a strike in war plants or mines which have been taken over by the government.

The senate measure was a much-amended version of a bill by Senator Connally of Texas to give congressional sanction for government seizure of struck plants and mines. Originally introduced months before, it had lain dormant until John L. Lewis refused to submit the soft coal wage dispute to the War Labor board and the miners' work stoppage resulted. The final version contained a clause giving the WLB legal power to enter and settle labor disputes.

As the bill went to the house, it provided maximum penalties of one year's imprisonment or $5,000 fine upon anyone guilty of inducing a strike or slow-down in a government-operated plant.

RUSSIA:
Nazi Setbacks

Hammering at the northeast approaches to Nazi-held Novorossisk, Russian forces had captured numerous towns, including Krymskaya and killed 10,000 German troops in a smash through the Kuban delta bulge of the Caucasus toward the Black sea.

Although the Axis forces were weakened by the break-through, Hitler had been preparing for weeks for action by bringing up fresh troops, tanks and munitions.

The capture of Krymskaya had two strategic benefits. It placed the Red army in a position to seriously menace Novorossisk and it enabled the Russians to cut the German-held railroad between Novorossisk and Protoka, 36 miles northeast of the port.

Significant was a Soviet report announcing the presence of powerful Russ naval units in the Black sea, led by the flagship "Paris Commune." This sea force was awaiting an opportunity to pounce on any German attempt to evacuate troops from the Caucasus.

FARM PROSPECTS:
Situation Improves

Heartening tidings that the farm labor, equipment and supply situations are showing "improved promise" were heralded by Chester C. Davis, food administrator.

"A current appraisal of the farm labor situation," he declared in a letter to James F. Byrnes, economic stabilization director, "indicates that there is an available labor supply sufficient to produce and harvest a 1943 crop up to the levels of the announced goals."

While not entirely satisfactory, Mr. Davis said, the farm machinery and supply situation for 1943 recently has been improved. He revealed that the War Production board has agreed to permit an increase in farm machinery production from 23 to 40 per cent of the 1940 level and an increase in repair parts to 160 per cent of the 1940-41 average. The petroleum administration has promised full gasoline supplies for food production, even if further cuts in civilian supplies should be necessary, he added.

COAL:
Take and Give

Reversing the procedure of "give and take," Fuel Administrator Harold L. Ickes announced a new "take and give" policy as an insurance against any new coal emergency. The doughty interior secretary set up machinery by which he may take coal from persons or plants with safe margins of supply and turn it over to those caught short.

The action was taken at a time when coal miners of the nation were at work on a 15-day truce before final settlement of wage demands had been made.

Mr. Ickes issued regulations setting up procedure under which he could act to protect war plants and essential civilian users from shortages, regardless of whether they arose from a work stoppage in mines, faulty distribution or other causes.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

LOS ANGELES: Government orders for lemon pectin as a blood plasma replacement are keeping southern California lemon products plants busy 24 hours a day, it was announced by the Fruit Growers Exchange. The new byproduct of lemons is used in place of blood plasma in treating human beings suffering from shock, and saves the plasma for transfusion purposes.

CHICAGO: American farm pastures should become "filling stations" where cattle will find plenty of succulent forage, instead of "gymnasiums" where animals toughen their muscles in a fruitless search for feed, the Middle West Soil Improvement committee declared. The committee's recipe for pasture improvement included the application of phosphorous and potash.

No American wants this war to go one minute beyond the time we can bring it to a victorious end. To hasten that victory—to save possibly the lives of millions of our boys on our far flung fronts—it is imperative that every American do his part in the Second War Loan. There is an investment to fit every purse. The most you can do is little enough compared with the sacrifice offered by our boys in service. They give their lives—you lend your money.

Pay as You Go

Before this year is half gone, unless all signs fail, the United States Government will be collecting taxes on 1943 incomes as they are earned. The President, the Treasury and leaders in both the House and the Senate favor some kind of pay-as-you-go plan for income tax collection. Specific provisions have not been worked out. The law is still in the making. But features of suggested plans are much alike and are being discussed freely.

The main idea in taking taxes out of current income is to collect revenue while the people have the money, which is sound. In the case of an employee, tax payments likely will be deducted directly from salary checks and pay envelopes, and the worker will never handle the money at all. Such a method might (but not likely) get started before March 15, when payments on 1942 income taxes will be due.

What About 1942 Taxes?

Fully three times as many people will be paying income tax this year as ever before. New taxpayers, as well as the old ones, already are wondering about 1942 taxes. They ask three main questions. (1) Will I be expected to pay last year's taxes at the same time I am paying this year's taxes? (2) Will we skip 1942 and, if so, will the government lose a year's revenue? (3) Will the 1942 taxes be suspended now and dropped on our necks right after the war when, most likely, we will be having a spell of hard times?

Matter-of-fact statements of some plain facts will answer two of those questions: The average American who earned anything last year is not able this year to pay taxes at current rates on two years of income. Especially is this true of a typical farmer. His last year's earnings are gone, because he had operated at a loss for several previous years, and obligations that were hanging over took his 1942 profits. Two years' taxes in one year will not leave him a living.

Postponement Is Worse

Suspending the 1942 taxes temporarily, and perhaps spreading them out over several future years, is a sorry suggestion. If the taxpayer, especially the farmer, is not able to pay two years' taxes in 1943 when he is earning something, certainly he can't lift such a burden in a post-war depression. Farmers were hit harder than any other group of citizens after the last war and they have every reason to expect the same thing to happen after World War II.

Question No. 2, above, is double-barrelled. The answer to the first half of it is "Yes." If the vast majority of people can't pay 1942's income taxes this year, nor in several post-war years, we should skip 1942 for them. It is the only sensible thing to do because it can be proved absolutely that skipping 1942 will not cost the government one penny in revenue. Let me start the proof with a homespun illustration:

1942 Is Only a Date

My first experience with income taxes came in 1931. The rules exempted me that year but I had a friend who paid a small amount. Old form 1040-A called it a tax on his 1930 income but that was really a misnomer. My friend, like nearly everybody else, had spent all he earned in 1930 and whatever tax he paid in 1931 came right out of his 1931 earnings. He knew it was his 1931 income that was "taxed" and that 1930 was nothing but a place to start figuring.

That plan is no longer suitable. Tax rolls are larger now, people earn more, rates are higher and exemptions are lower. Incomes are higher even than they were a year ago, and for that reason a pay-as-you-go plan will yield the Treasury more revenue in 1943 than could be raised by the old system. Under a pay-as-you-go plan, taxes will be paid this year just as in previous years. We will not skip a year of paying. We will only discard 1942 as a basis of figuring.

Every year since 1914 when Americans started paying income taxes we have pretended to pay on earnings of the year before. Thus every taxpayer has stayed technically in debt to the government for a year or more of taxes. Millions of people never did pay the debt, of course. Every year a certain number have died or suffered from illness or drouth or fires. These have quit earning incomes and failed to pay tax on the previous year.

Now, to Catch Up

A good pay-as-you-go plan will save the government these paper losses and lift a technical debt from the taxpayers. This is important because after the war all taxpayers and especially farmers have a depression to face. Depressions are calamities, like fires and sickness and drouth. They mean years when (under the present plan) we would be asked to pay taxes on a by-gone year of good income and have little or nothing to pay with.

Some types of workers might escape back taxes if they had no money but a farmer can't escape. He has land that can be levied upon. It was wisdom that led the National Grange and the American Farm Bureau Federation both to go on record recently in favor of pay-as-you-go income taxes.

Holt School Notes

Upper Grades

The Seventh Grade language class dramatized a story written by Dorothy Larson during the language period on Monday. The story was "Agent Trouble" and was used to make a moving picture. Mr. Meyer filmed it. We hope the film will be processed in time for its return before school is out.

This is the last week during which the 8th grade boys will be experimenting on their radios.

State board examinations are scheduled for May 31, June 1, and June 2.

Our school entertainment night "Music Time" to be given Friday, May 21 will feature numbers from all the rooms. Come early. There will be an admission of 10c for all school children and 20c for adults.

Following is an original poem written by Marion Sorum:

Birds

Birds come in the spring
I like to hear them sing
And the birds must like to sing
For there is lot of joy they bring

Pretty nests do they make
In the trees along the lake
Some make their nests in the grass
Thru which the gentle breezes pass.

Grades 3, 4, 5

Clifford Reierson, Evelyn Wegge, Betty Ness, Ruth Larson, Dorothy Bottem, Dorothy Sagstuen, Arthur Peterson and George Fricker had 100 in spelling last Friday.

The fourth grade finished their study of Norway this week and are starting an imaginary trip to China.

In fifth grade arithmetic we are learning how to multiply with fractions.

We have one less pupil in each grade in our room since Vernon, Viola and Russel Johnson left for California.

Mrs. Fricker is teaching for Miss Gordon this week.

Clean-up Notice

You are all hereby notfied by Order of the Village Council and the State Board of Health that you must begin at once to give your premises a general clean-up. All rubbish must be removed, yards raked, privies disinfected and cleaned out or new holes dug, privies made fly-proof and repaired, anti-rat measures, instituted, and all nuisances and unsightly things removed. Paint up and clean up and make our little village as attractive as possible.

General inspection by health officers will be made the latter part of May. Help us to find things all cleaned up at that time.

Day Marked Early In Minnesota

Evidence that Memorial day was opened in Minnesota long before 1889, when it became a legal holiday in the state, is to be found in records preserved by the Minnesota Historical Society. Newspapers, programs, diaries, travelers' narratives, and similar items tell of the parades, religious services, and speeches with which Minnesotans commemorated the occasion in the decades following the Civil War.

In 1870, for example, elaborate parades were arranged both in St. Paul and Minneapolis. The striking thing about these processions was their cosmopolitan character. All the racial elements that went into the making of the North had joined in the struggle for the preservation of the Union, and it was therefore entirely natural that they should be represented in Memorial day parades. In St. Paul citizens of Irish, German French, and Skandinavian origin marched together in a procession two miles long. Following the Grand Army of the Republic in the Minneapolis parade were members of many German Turnes organizations and a local Skandinavian society.

A Memorial day parade held in St. Paul in 1887 did not greatly impress an English tourist who chanced to be there for the occasion. The traveler, whose name was Charles Beadle, reported that "there was a funny kind of procession, each member dressing and marching as he thought best." They were followed by "some carriages filled with girls dressed as soldiers. They all went to the Town Hall, before which there was a platform erected, and a mixed entertainment given: prayers, music, speeches, recitations and singing." The program nearly ended in tragedy, for "just as the most important part was coming off, the floor of the platform gave way, and about one-third of those on it fell through." Fortunately "no one was much hurt". Beadle complains that "this incident combined with a heavy shower of rain, rather spoiled the effect of the meeting."

Speeches and visits to cemeteries, where wreaths were placed on the graves of soldiers, were other features of early Memorial days in Minnesota. In 1870 Governor Marshall and Cushman K. Davis were among the speakers; Moses E. Clapp was the chief orator in 1887. All extolled the patriotism of the men who offered their lives for the Union during the Civil War.

Speakers participating in Memorial day services in 1943 will commemorate the services of the heroes of four wars — the Civil, Spanish-American and First and Second World wars. The Minnesota Historical society is now adding to its records of the earlier conflicts materials relating to the present war.

Home Front Salvage Day

Motion Picture "Letter From Bataan" To Be Showed. Byron W. Hanson, Speaker.

A Home Front Salvage Day Program will be held at Middle River June 1st and at Warren June 2nd, at 8:30 p. m. in each place. Middle River will be the central point for eastern Marshall County to include Holt, Newfolden, Gatzke and Grygla; and Warren will be the central point for the western part of the county to include Stephen, Argyle, Oslo, Alvarado and Viking.

At these two programs the motion picture "Letter From Bataan", with sound projection, will be showed. It is a stirring account of one of those men in the armed services, who is at the killed in action. This story will move even the most incorrigibly unfeeling to think more seriously of the reality and horror of war and the men whose blood is being shed for freedom.

The main speaker at the programs will be Byron V. Hanson, executive secretary for the state of Minnesota on the War Production Board. Arvid Carlson, Middle River, Marshall County Salvage chairman will also be called upon.

At Warren the business places will be closed for the afternoon, Friday, June 4th. The business men will then "zone out" out the trade territory and a group of them will go out to each farm to help gather the scrap metal into convenient heaps, to be called for by the salvage dealer who will buy the scrap.

It is being asked by the salvage leaders of the county that the same be done in every village. It will be to assist the busy farmers at this time.

Marshall County is being asked for 750 tons as its quota to be reached before July 1st. Be sure to attend the Home Front salvage day program at your home center.

CRISIS IN MANPOWER

Today's problem of manpower means as much to the farmer with one hired hand, or the merchant with a single clerk, as it does to the industrialist who employs a thousand persons. It is all a matter of proportion.

The war program has reached such a stupendous size that the proper distribution of manpower assumes as much importance as the right use of steel, oil, rubber, or any other essential material or product.

It has been such a short time since there was more manpower than industry and agriculture could absorb that we may be a bit slow in waking up to the fact that today each man and woman who can be used to help in the battle of production is needed, and needed badly.

For the benefit, then, of farmers whose crops and livestock will suffer this year if manpower is not replenished; for the benefit of the armed services which have set their sights at possibly 10 million in uniform before 1944; for the benefit of the factories which must turn out ammunition, shoes, clothing, supplies and processed foods in ever-increasing quantities for fighters, civilians and allied nations, a careful stock-taking of manpower is required.

Where Manpower Is Wasted

Our new Congress must make sure that those in charge of this task, in Washington, cast about to see where able-bodied people are being needlessly employed. And in that city of Washington these authorities are now rubbing elbows with thousands of clerks, auditors, stenographers and others who could be used elsewhere without interfering with the war effort in any measure.

Recent figures showed that there were 2,600,300 persons on the civilian payroll of the federal government. This is not only a million more than were in our armed forces in foreign lands at the time the President made his address at the opening of the present Congress, but it is three times as many as were on the government's civilian payroll during the first World War. Of course this is a bigger war, but that only furnishes an even greater reason why the government should lead in conserving manpower for our farms and factories.

The "Renegotiation" Law

A single measure, introduced in Congress last year, would require thousands of new payrollers to carry out its provisions. This was the act providing that the Army, Navy and Maritime commission should each check its war contracts so that renegotiation could be demanded in cases of excessive charges.

The purpose of this legislation—to make sure that the government was not paying too much for its materials and supplies—was not questioned. But the proposed method of rechecking all war contracts called for the hiring of such a large number of new federal employees that amendments to the bill were quickly demanded.

Although the bill has been rewritten and amended, it still places upon the Army, Navy and Maritime commission so much of the responsibility for re-examining their contracts that thousands of new auditors and accountants would be needed. This violates the principle that united war effort calls for the placing of every available man and woman in productive work, at the same time helping to keep the taxpayers' federal load as light as possible, consistent with wartime demands.

An acceptable amendment to this law—not yet adopted—would leave it to the Department of Internal Revenue to uncover instances of excess profit. By using this established checking system, the other departments would not have to hire extra people to wade through the 95 per cent or more of war contracts which are honestly and conscientiously executed.

Here is but one example of how manpower can be conserved in these days when the efforts of all must be directed toward winning the war.

Memorial Day Sunday

We cannot but halt a moment, as we cross the threshold of the beautiful month of May, in silent honor of those who gave their all that we might prosper. "Their" day comes in May. A single day out of a year in length yet more hearts, and minds, and love will surrender on Decoration Day than on any other day of the year.

The torn hearts of the mothers who lost their boys on the battlefields of Europe, will rest easier as the Almighty casts his reflection over the World on Decoration Day. The graves of those "boys" will again feel the tears of the lovnd ones left behind.

No honor is too great for those who laid down their lives in the wars of our nation since its birth. No flowers are beautiful enough to grace the graves of our "Soldiers."

It is our prayer, and the prayer of countless others in all parts of the world, that Decoration Day, this year will serve to tender the resting places of our great, and ease many heavy hearts.

Mrs. Halgor Borg and son of Minneapolis came here last week to live with Mrs. Eddy Henning and son while Mr. Henning is working on the Alcan highway. Mr. Borg is in the Armed forces.

Harry Sampson and Melvin Bottem returned to their jobs on the Alcan road Sunday.

Non-Recourse Loan Stopped

At their meeting held Monday, May 24, 1943, the Marshall County USDA War Board announced that no applications for F-2 Non-Recourse Loans on flax and potatoes would be recommended for approval after Friday, May 28, 1943. The reason for this action was because it is felt by the Board that flax and potatoes planted after the first week in June would not be considered good farm practice.

MAKERS OF HISTORY--

On Memorial Day we pay homage to heroes of the past. And we take thought of our past in carrying on their work.

On this Memorial Day lets not pay homage to only those heroes of the past but also to those heroes of the present who are now being called upon to really shape fundamental human destiny.

As in the past, it is the common folks, sometimes the humblest; mothers and fathers; the ordinary folks of this work-a-day world who are being called upon to give their all and those dear to them.

Lets pause to their memory on this

THE LETTERS OF ALL-OUT ARLENE

Dear Terry:

It is nice getting your letter, but I wish you would not gripe so much about conditions at home. How can we girls do our best in war unless we know that our husbands and sweethearts are contented and happy? If you want to keep our morale up you men must do the best you can to keep the home fires burning while we are away at war.

* * *

I know you have tried to get into uniform and were rejected for physical reasons, and I think you should take it more philosophically. After all, this is, more than ever before, a woman's war, and I am not sure it is the kind of struggle you should be in. Believe me, life in the army is tough and full of hardships, and you know very well how unaccustomed you are to such things.

* * *

You must remember, Terry, that you have always taken life comfortably. We girls have to get up at 5:30, drill hard and accept severe discipline. Some of us were talking about it only last night and there was much comment on just how much women should expect from men in modern war.

* * *

Many of the girls feel the same way I do about it. Mrs. Willoughby, one of the married women at this camp, for example, says that all she wants to know is that her husband is looking after things at the house all right. She got word last week that he was eating out in cheap restaurants a lot instead of cooking himself up some good food at home, as instructed, and it undermined her morale terribly, she says. Then there is Mrs. Druffie, another married enlistee, who was doing splendidly at camp and was in line for promotion when she suddenly went all to pieces. It developed that it was due to news from the neighbors that her husband, Geoffrey, was not taking the Pomeranian out for walks regularly.

* * *

I am more worried about you than if we were married, my dear. The ration news bothers me no end. Are you getting enough to eat? And are those places where you and I used to go for those lovely steaks and chops open now? I never eat here in camp without worrying about you, and I was tempted to wrap up a chop and mail it to you this noon.

* * *

Well, bear up the best you can, write me often and knit me a sweater or two. I know how lonely you must feel, but duty is duty. This is an all-out war and I am going all out in it. No other course is thinkable. You are my pin-up man, and it is the thought of what a nice boy you are that keeps my spirits up.

* * *

Take care of yourself, don't worry too much about what the future may hold for me, and if you really want to bake me a cake go ahead. All my love,

Arlene.

THE trouble about seeing both sides of a question is that both sides go for you for being on the other.

It may not be possible to find the perfect girl, but there's a lot of fun in the hunting.

The man who sits down to wait for Opportunity to appear should put a good cushion in the chair.

Well, we've certainly got the right material for making a new world. The old one was fashioned out of chaos.

When you have a bad neighbor, one who just doesn't get along with you despite your every effort, doesn't it rather reassure you when you find out that he quarrels with all the other neighbors, too?

AROUND THE HOUSE

If too much salt is put in the soup, a few slices of potato will remove it. A raw potato in the refrigerator will absorb unpleasant odors.

* * *

To mend small holes in window screen, put a piece of mosquito netting over the hole and coat it with varnish. When dry, apply another coat or two.

* * *

Vinegar eliminates odors. Don't put away a frying pan that smells of onions, fish or some other strong-flavored food. Put some vinegar in the pan and bring to a boil. Then wash as usual.

* * *

Buttons on a woolen or knitted coat sometimes tear away from the material, leaving an unsightly hole. To prevent this from happening, place a small button on the wrong side, beneath the larger button and sew the two on together.

* * *

Baking materials are precious these days, and burning a cake is little short of a tragedy. When putting a cake into the oven set an alarm clock for the time the cake should be finished baking. This is a big help, especially when visitors drop in, and one is apt to forget all about the cake in the oven.

Woolen garments will retain their fluffiness and will not shrink if a teaspoonful of glycerine is added to the warm water in which they are washed and rinsed.

* * *

If your family considers squash a tasteless vegetable, try serving it with a white sauce with melted cheese in it. They will change their minds.

* * *

When making berry pies, mix with the fruit measurement for one pie about two tablespoons fine quick-cooking tapioca to make a clear thick juice that should not run out during baking and that will serve neatly.

* * *

Put a sponge in the bottom of your potted plants and you won't have to water them so often.

* * *

Here is a good tip for making woolen jumpers fit properly at the waist. Knitters know how sometimes the ribbing, even although done on smaller needles, will stretch round the waist, and the jumper will tend to ride up at the back. To prevent this, sew a narrow piece of elastic, waist measurement, round the inside of the jumper, at the top of the ribbing. The elastic should be sewn loosely so that it will not show on the right side.

Recoil of Big Guns

America's 16-inch coast-defense guns, which hurl one-ton shells nearly 30 miles, have a recoil mechanism that can absorb, within five feet, a force equivalent to that of a 20-ton freight car traveling at 60 miles an hour.

Smile Awhile

Uncalled for Help

Missus (rousing husband)—I believe a burglar's trying to open the living room window.

Mister—Good! I haven't been able to move it since the painter was here.

Can't Beat 'Em

An American soldier in England was giving some illustrations of the size of his country. "You can board a train in the State of Texas at dawn," he said impressively, "and 24 hours later you'll still be in Texas."

"Yes," said one of his English listeners, with feeling, "we've got trains like that here, too."

Off on One

"Now I'll imitate something, and you guess what."

"Okay."

"All right, what am I imitating?"

"Nothing, as far as I can see."

"You're wrong. I'm giving a perfect imitation of a man going upstairs."

"But you're not even moving!"

"Of course not. I'm on an elevator."

Sent the Scent

His teacher sent a note home with Johnny asking his mother to give him a bath. The next day Johnny brought an answer:

"Dear Miss Smith. When I send Johnny to school I send him to be learnt, and not to be smelt; he ain't no rose."

Not Too Good

"Do you think you could learn to love me?"

"Possibly; but wouldn't you hate to think you were an acquired taste?"

That's Safest

"Doctor, my wife tells me that I talk in my sleep. What should I do?"

"Nothing that you shouldn't."

Added Weight

Visitor—Sonny, what's the noise upstairs?

Sonny — Ma's dragging pa's pants across the floor.

Visitor — That shouldn't make that much noise?

Sonny—I know; but pa is in 'em.

Some women walk to reduce; some husbands are reduced to walking.

To Be Sure It's Simple With the Man's Hat Off!

A woman entered the photographer's shop and addressed the proprietor thusly: "I want this photograph of my husband enlarged. Now, do you think you can remove the hat? I do not like it on him."

The photographer carefully studied the portrait for a time.

"Yes," he said at last. "I think I can manage to fake the hair all right. By the way, you'll have to tell me on which side he parts his hair. I must know that."

The woman thought for a moment, then said: "Oh, I just can't remember, but you'll be able to see that when you take his hat off."

True Enough

Some visitors were inspecting a junior class in the school and things were going rather badly. When the teacher asked if any little girl could recite something, only one small hand shot up.

"That's a good girl, Betty," said teacher encouragingly. "Now step out in front of the class. What can you say for us?"

"Nelson's Farewell to His Mother," replied Betty brightly.

"Splendid! Begin."

"Ta-ta, mum!" said Betty dramatically, waving her hand in the air.

Speak American, Lady

By Lucie Kinsolving

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Woman's Home Companion.)

All over the world, the American soldier likes a joke, even when war puts him in a field hospital. To keep him happy, the American Red Cross girls of the hospital recreation groups help a lot. I was the first of these girls to go to North Africa.

"I'd give a month's pay to talk to an American girl," confided one disconsolate boy. "This morning when I stepped up to a neat little French number and said, 'Bonne jawer, comment alesse vu', she breezed right past me! No American dame would treat me that way."

It's being unable to make themselves understood by the feminine sex over there that's one of the hardest things for our soldiers in North Africa, I found. I interpreted for an hour and a half to a French lady for an American officer. His tactics were Anglo-Saxon directness, hers were Gallic evasion. At the end of that time the gentleman had no idea whether the lady was amused or merely contemptuous.

This incident gives you only a slight idea of the varied ways that we Red Cross recreation workers try to make ourselves useful.

There was a rumor that a very great American general had said a year ago he would never "have wanted women mixed up in a war," but after he saw what Red Cross workers accomplished in England he definitely wanted them in Africa and right away.

Greeted by Soldiers.

When our Red Cross group docked in North Africa on the first sunny day we had had for two months, we were greeted by shouts of welcome from the soldiers. "Speak American, lady," they cried as they had in London where they had stopped us on the street just to hear the home twang.

As we drove up the roadway, the populace of varying races and religions who had learned Americanisms fast, held up two fingers in the Victory salutation, hoping this would bring them chocolate and "chue-gomme."

Some faces wore doubtful expressions, mystified by our women's uniforms, but when we came closer a light broke through. "Voila La Croix Rouge," they shouted enthusiastically. "Vive La Croix Rouge." Imagine what a thrill that gave us!

First Red Cross Club in Africa.

That very night we opened our first American Red Cross club in North Africa. Only a few hours before it had been a barnlike empty automobile showroom. But Al Fink, Herb Siffert and Jim Sneider, three of our enterprising field directors, had worked such wonders that as I played the piano for the soldiers to sing I heard one boy blurt out, "Gee, this sure is like home!"

This was in Oran, Algiers, not many days after our troops arrived. Since then in our Oran club hundreds of men have found "a home away from home." In addition to the piano, we have radios, games and at night entertainment by army musicians.

At first we had difficulty providing snacks for the boys, but we found we could fill in the hungry spaces with mandarins and dates.

Our next job was a tough one—to organize a Red Cross hospital for which our six months' supply of everything was lost. I felt like Christopher Robin, for I spent my time going down "to the end of the town," getting warehouses open where there were priceless Red Cross stocks of cigarettes, tooth paste, brushes and shaving cream for the wounded.

Living Problems.

Our personal problems of living are easier than we had imagined, as women in a man's army on a battle front, but they are extremely incongruous. Unbelievable luxuries are mixed with discomforts. We can have coiffures that "do things for you" but no hairpins. We have exotic tropical fruits but no pasteurized milk. Fine handmade shoes are in shop windows, but no stockings. We live in a typical French house surrounded by palms, golden cascades of mimosa, and giant tree ferns.

We have become increasingly resourceful since that hot day in September when, loaded down with musette bags, steel helmets and gas masks, a group of us Red Cross girls hitched up the gangplank of a troopship.

Our quarters were comfortable, on a very crowded ship, and we learned our first lesson then—the chivalry of the United States army.

We were faced with hundreds of homesick and seasick men. I found a tin-pan piano and started playing. By the end of the evening the crowd was booming.

Other Red Cross groups had preceded us to Britain but we were the first to go on to Africa. Since then others have arrived and many more clubs have been opened.

Now tons and tons of toothbrushes, hard candies, chewing gum, soap, razors, comic books (and how the boys do love them!), detective stories and a couple of thousand other items have begun to arrive from the Red Cross at home. These, together with cigarettes, pipes, smoking tobacco, we now give daily to our wounded men—and we're all happy.

As Axis Troops Surrendered to Allies

Covered by a Sherman tank, German prisoners prepare to move on after surrendering themselves to Allied forces in North Africa. A short time later all organized enemy resistance had ceased in all sectors, and an estimated total of 150,000 German and Italian troops had been taken prisoner, together with their commander, Col. Gen. Juergen Von Arnim. Vast quantities of guns and war material of all kinds were captured.

Wash Day on Amchitka Island

F. D. R., Churchill, Plan Final Victory

With the trumpets of the great Allied victory in Tunisia still reverberating around the world, Winston Churchill, Great Britain's prime minister, and President Franklin D. Roosevelt, met once more in Washington to further plan the "unconditional surrender" mapped out for the enemy. This was the first meeting of the two leaders since the historic conference at Casablanca. Shown at left is the President, and, at right, Winston Churchill, with his inevitable black cigar.

Quints Hold Center of Stage in Launching

Eighty thousand spectators packed the huge Butler shipyards at Superior, Wis., to witness the floating of five brand-new Allied vessels—and also the Dionne Quints' first appearance on American soil. The Quints, who acted as sponsors, are shown before a U. S. immigration officer.

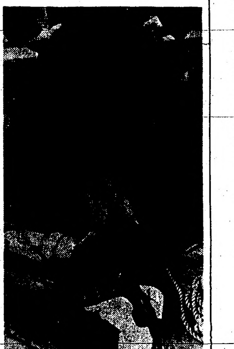
Best of Care

Primary concern of medical corpsmen aboard every navy ship is the life and health of shipmates. From the instant a man falls until he is borne ashore he gets the best of care that science can provide. This marine, wounded in a raid, is being carefully removed from a submarine hatch.

Vitamins for Victory

Bobby Zavattaro, five-year-old husky who was crowned "child health king" in New York, has taken to farming. Here he is shown working on his plot (in soil box) on the roof of the Children's Aid Society building, where some 20 children are raising vegetables for vitamins and victory. Joan Culeton, four, lends a helping hand.

It Will Be 'Cooler'

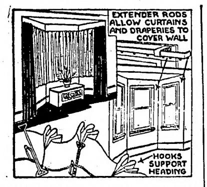


Fear of cooling off in the "cooler" fills the face of eight-year-old Eddie Conlan as he looks up into the imposing figure of the law. A temperature of 85 in New York prompted Eddie to cool off in the East river, but alas, the law put an end to that cooling thought.

T. R. Wins Honors

Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt makes his way through a slit trench, somewhere in North Africa. The general and his son were both cited for gallantry by the war department.

ON THE HOME FRONT
with RUTH WYETH SPEARS



BAY windows are much in vogue again. One reason for this is that modern methods of hanging curtains make bay windows more attractive than they used to be in the Gay Nineties when they were a feature of so many houses.

In those old houses the vertical lines of woodwork and wall showing between windows made the bay seem like a coop stuck on the outside of the house. Many home owners had the bays removed because, while they actually added space, they made rooms seem small and cluttered.

Today curtains are hung to cover both wall and woodwork around the individual windows in the bay. This brings the group of windows together as a unit and makes the bay seem a broad and spacious part of the room. The sketch at the right shows a standard fixture that allows curtains to extend beyond the window frame; but don't rush out to buy new rods. The chances are that your old rods may be extended over the wall if you wire them to hooks or staples at the upper corners of the window frames.

NOTE—If you are planning new curtains, you will want a copy of Mrs. Spears' booklet that illustrates twelve different styles of curtains with directions for making them; including a simple home-made rigging for draw curtains. Ask for BOOK 1, and enclose 15 cents with name and address to:

Crops and Stock Thrive On Most Northerly Farm

The Norilsk State farm, a Soviet agricultural enterprise, stands on the 70th parallel in the midst of a desert region, in the zone of eternal frost. There the Arctic night lasts for nearly two months. There are frequent heavy blizzards, when the thermometer drops to 60 degrees below zero centigrade.

Potatoes, cabbages, onions, carrots and sugar beets are grown successfully in the open fields of this Arctic farm. Tomatoes, cucumbers and spinach are raised in 28 hot-houses. An experimental sowing of melons has yielded encouraging results.

Livestock thrives on the farm, and is rapidly increasing in number. There are 133 cows, all born in this Arctic region. A subsidiary farm houses 200 pigs of pure Yorkshire breed.

When you see news photos of soldiers "off duty" in camp or behind the battle-lines—notice how often you'll see them smoking a cigarette. There's a good reason for that. Army officials say that cigarettes are an appreciable factor in maintaining morale—and the soldiers themselves add that a carton of cigarettes from home is always welcome. What brand? Well, sales records in Post Exchanges and Canteens show that Camels are the favorite cigarette with men in all the services. Though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to Sailors, Marines, and Coast Guardsmen wherever they are.—Adv.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

When our present synthetic program has materialized, a B.F.Goodrich official predicts the resultant rubber surplus will cause one of the most serious post-war marketing problems. What to do with the huge stocks of synthetic and natural rubber will test the ingenuity of manufacturers and sales executives.

A substitute for rubber adhesive tape is being sought. Thousands of pounds of this tape are being used to protect plastic airplane glass in transit to airplane factories.

Seventy-three per cent of the 140,000 workers of 94 war plants in 10 states go to and from work by private automobiles. Nearly three-quarters of the cars used by these workers have tires more than half worn out, many of them unfit for re-capping.

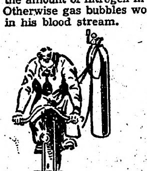
What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Prevents the "Bends"

Before our fighting pilots take to the air for stratosphere flying they must be "suped-up." To do this the pilot just before he takes off pedals a stationary motor driven bicycle to reduce the amount of nitrogen in his blood. Otherwise gas bubbles would collect in his blood stream.



The stationary bicycle is an inexpensive piece of equipment, but the vast quantities of this and other materials of war make it imperative for all of us to keep our fighting men well supplied by greater and greater purchases of War Bonds.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Pay as You Go

Before this year is half gone, unless all signs fail, the United States Government will be collecting taxes on 1943 incomes as they are earned. The President, the Treasury and leaders in both the House and the Senate favor some kind of pay-as-you-go plan for income tax collection. Specific provisions have not been worked out. The law is still in the making. But features of suggested plans are much alike and are being discussed freely.

The main idea in taking taxes out of current income is to collect revenue while the people have the money, which is sound. In the case of an employee, tax payments likely will be deducted directly from salary checks and pay envelopes, and the worker will never handle the money at all. Such a method might (but not likely) get started before March 15, when payments on 1942 income taxes will be due.

What About 1942 Taxes?
